A MODEL LAUNDRY.

Its Success Due to Two College Graduates.

Housekeepers who are accustomed to having their clothes returned from the laundry torn, buttonless and spotted with identification marks will envy the good people of Brookline, Mass., who have a laundry run by two college graduates. Laundries as done by college women and laundry work as done by the ordinary laundresses appear to be two entirely different things. The very name and outward appearance of this laundry suggest this difference. It is called the Sunshine laundry, and the building, painted a creamy yellow, with a great many windows and skylights, suggests the dignity of the fine art of making things clean. Inside the place is perfectly ventilated, and all the workers look as if they enjoyed their work.

The first step in the process of laundering is to mark the goods, and these marks are put, except in the case of sheets, collars and cuffs, not on the articles themselves, but on a piece of tape which is sewed to the article. Handkerchiefs, however, are not marked at all. Those of each person or family are put in bags and run through the steam washers, and through every stage the contents of each bag are kept together.

After the marking comes sorting and examination for stains and other injuries that need attention. Some customers pay to have all their mending done, but no garment is allowed to go to the laundry without mending when it is evident that a few stitches at this stage will save a great many afterward.

All pieces that need special care are washed by hand, but everything else is put through steam washers, for this lessens the cost, and the proprietors have found that they can get a better color this way, and they think also that the wear is less. The wringing is done by steam wringers, which leave the articles just damp enough for ironing and which evidently cannot injure them, since a piece of tissue paper passed through a machine running at high speed came out untorn.

Pieces that do not need starching pass directly from the wringers to the ironers. In the starching special care is taken to get just the proper degree of stiffness that different classes of articles require, and the collars are hung over a bar to dry instead of by the buttonholes, as is the practice of many laundresses. The collars and cuffs are ironed by machinery. They are passed between heated and padded rollers; then the crease is dampened, and they are finished by hand. All the other ironing is done by hand.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

The raveled threads from old linen will be found most satisfactory for darning tablecloths or napkins.

Cold water instantly applied is the very best thing for removing the odor of onions from the hands or utensils.

Keep a box in the pantry or a bag in the kitchen for clean rags that may be thrown away after using to wash fish.

A practical waist hanger for the woman who has little closet room consists of an upright wire frame fitted with horizontal wire bars of different lengths, the lower one extending only a couple of inches beyond the wall, while the next hook above is at least two inches beyond that, and each hook projects this distance beyond the hook just below, so that a hanger holding a waist or skirt can be accommodated on each of the five or six hooks without crushing the other garments underneath in the least. It is convenient on the inside of a closet door. It should be placed high enough to be out of the way of one's head at the top. The clothes hung on the lower hooks fit closer to the door and so are not in the way.

Pencil Writing.

If the paper on which there is black lead pencil writing is brushed over with a thin coating of white of egg or of varnish the pencil marks will be preserved from liability to defacement.

Boudoir.

The much abused word "boudoir" really means a sulkery and is derived from the French verb meaning "to sulk." The Thackeray had a room in his house upon the door of which was a sign, "My Sulkery," and whenever that door was locked he was never disturbed.

A Chinese Custom.

If a Chinese sailor rescues a drowning man the rescued person is bound by Chinese law to keep and feed him for the rest of his life.

A Wonderful Fan.

Mme. Pompadour had a wonderful fan. The lace cost about $30,000, and it took some years to make the five sections, each one containing a medallion so minute as to be almost invisible to the naked eye. It is now in existence, broken and apart, but still showing traces of its great beauty.

A Locust Pestilence.

In the year B. C. 128 800,000 persons perished by a pestilence arising from the putrefaction of great swarms of dead locusts.

HIRAM GREEN'S SETTERS.

"Just think uv it," said Hiram Green in Jones' store today,
"Good hens' aigs wuth four cents apiece
An' won't a durn hen lay!
Ef that won't make a feller mad
They's nothin' will. I swun!
I've done my best to make 'em lay—
Can't git a single one.

"They ain't no reason in the world
They shouldn't lay right now
Instid uv when they cost a cent
Apiece or less, I vow!
They're fed the same an' housed the same
An' hev the same good care,
But there they set round in the sun
All day an' wait fur fare."

Bill Jones, the grocer man, spoke up—
An' Bill was allus dry—
"You say they set around all day
An' don't do nothin', Hi?
No wonder you don't get no aigs.
You couldn't 'spect to get.
How kin a hen lay anyway
When all she does is set?"
—Joe Cone in Boston Herald.

Silly Idea.

Miss Elderly—The idea of his pretending that my hair was gray!
Miss Pepperly—Ridiculous!
Miss Elderly—Wasn't it, though?
Miss Pepperly—Yes, just as if you'd buy gray hair!

An Unreliable Mind.

"Jones is a very determined fellow."
"Is he?"
"Yep. He was determined he would not forget again to mail the letters his wife gave him, and so he kept on thinking and thinking about them so hard that when he left the house he started directly toward the nearest letter box. Well, on the way he passed a voting booth and suddenly remembered it was the last day of registration. So he hurried in and registered."
"Well?"
"And then he forgot all about mailing the letters."

A Smart Salesman.

Jeweler (to new boy)—Did you sell anything while I was out, Johnny?
"Yes, sir. I sold six plain gold rings."
"Good, my boy," said the jeweler, highly pleased. "We'll make a first class salesman of you one of these days. You got the regular price, of course?"
"Oh, yes, sir. The price was marked on the inside '18c.,' and the gentleman took all that were left, sir."—Life.

Why She Was Worried.

"But, mother, why do you object to my being pleasant to the young men? You can't hope to keep me with you always, you know. One of them will take me away from you some day."
"Take you away from me? Well, if that happens I shall not complain. It is the certainty that none of the young men who have been coming here so far would take you away that has worried both your father and me."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Rubbery Taste.

Mr. Smith ordered chicken broth at the Fatted cafe, and after tasting it he called the waiter and said, "Will you kindly tell me how you make this chicken soup?"
"Yes' take de boilin' hot watah and run de chicken fru, mistah."
"Well, Rastus, I think this chicken must have had its rubbers on."—Wisconsin Sphinx.

Conditional.

The man who had been shot by the hunter opened his eyes.
"Forgive me," said the person with the gun.
"Not yet," replied the sufferer, "but if you can prove to a jury that I look like a squirrel I'll think about it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Inspiration.

"Who inspired your beautiful love poems?"
"My wife."
"How lovely! But why do you write no more of them?"
"We've been married since."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His Idea of a Cynic.

Jack—Gayboy and the girl he is engaged to are both cynics.
Tom—What is your idea of a cynic, anyway?
Jack—A cynic is a man who has had experience or a woman who hasn't.—Chicago News.

Expressive Perseverance.

"So you never make fun of your wife's hats?"
"Never. I tried that long ago."
"What happened?"
"She kept on buying others, trying to please me."—Atlanta Constitution.

More Practical.

Pearl—He is so romantic. He said he would love me until the stars grow old.
Ruby—But that's not the question, dear. Will he love you until you grow old?—Boston Post.

Kindness has converted more sinners than zeal, eloquence or learning.—F. W. Faber.

TABLE DECORATIONS.

place cards of heart shaped pink paper with names of bride and bridegroom elect and guest, with date of wedding. Serve sliced oranges, chilled, in glass punch cups, handles tied with pink ribbons; clear soup in cups; timbales of fish with tiny potato balls; chicken en casserole with potato chips and stuffed green peppers; salad of grapefruit and apples with French dressing on lettuce leaves, with toasted crackers and cheese; dessert, strawberry ice cream in heart shaped molds tied with pink ribbon and served with heart shaped cakes; black coffee; chocolate mints.

Fertile Land.

English farm lands that have been tilled continuously for centuries still produce an average of thirty bushels of wheat to the acre every year.

Jack Tars.

Few people know the reason why sailors are so often called "Jack Tars." The name dates from the days of gossiping Samuel Pepys and is an abbreviation of the word "tarpaulin." It came into use to distinguish the real practical seaman, who knew his business, from the "swell" officer, who did not always.

The Word "Mile."

The word "mile" comes from the Latin "mille," a thousand. A thousand paces of a marching soldier made the Roman mile.

Smoke and Lightning.

On the approach of a thunderstorm French peasants often make up a very smoky fire in the belief that safety from lightning is thus assured. By some this is deemed a superstition, but the custom is based on reason, inasmuch as the smoke acts as a good conductor for carrying away the electricity.

Steam Pipes.

The pounding noise of steam pipes can be obviated by attaching to the pipes a small check valve, set to admit air, but not to release any pressure.

Foggy London.

In no German city has the loss of sunshine due to fog yet equaled that prevalent in London, where the foggy days during the three months December, January and February have increased from eighteen to thirty-one during the last half of the past century.

Seagulls.

Sixty-four herring fry have been found in the stomach of a single gull, and it is estimated that the gulls round the British coast eat at least 700,000,000 fish every day.

The Wild Apple.

Researches by a horticultural expert show that the so called "wild apple," or "wild crab," from which many of the present standard commercial varieties have sprung, were wayward descendants of trees originally imported from England and other foreign countries in the eighteenth century.

Doctor Ants.

Doctor ants do incredible cures—if they were not vouched for by Huber, Lubbock and others. They bathe and sup the sick, put them to bed and show more humanity than most folk.

Childlike and Bland.

A man in Hamburg who was arrested for stealing a bicycle pleaded that it was his birthday the next week and he had intended to sell the machine in order to buy himself a present.

A Bright Boy.

"The gentlemen who came to see daddy said I was one of the most intelligent children they ever saw," said little Jack.
"Indeed!" said the proud mother. "Did you recite 'Little Drops of Water' for them?"
"No. I refused."—London Mail.

Train and Track.

The Argentine legislature is considering the construction of underground railways for Buenos Aires.

France buys many locomotives in Germany. The latest order is for thirty for one line. For years French roads have regularly ordered locomotives in Germany.

The Mexican railway, which not long ago equipped thirty of its locomotives to burn oil, has been unable to get an adequate supply of this fuel and has had eighteen engines reconverted into coal burners.

Industrial Items.

There are more than a hundred firms manufacturing chocolate in the United States.

Southern cotton mills are now consuming 2,500,000 bales of cotton a year, or as much as all other mills in the United States are consuming of southern grown cotton.

It is claimed that the wages earned in North America are double those in Great Britain, two and a half times greater than in France and three times what they are in Germany.

London Cellar Restaurants.

Before coffee stalls were instituted the humblest places of refreshment were cellars, where the hard up, as the slang phrase went, could "dive for a dinner," with a choice of such viands as tripe, cow heel, sausages and shin of beef soup. Some of the cellar restaurants existed as recently as the early seventies of the last century in Butcher row, Temple Bar and the network of courts and alleys swept away for the site of the royal courts of justice. It was in this neighborhood and probably to a dining place of this description that Dr. Johnson resorted in his struggling days, when he was so poor that, as he relates, it was not every day that he could afford a halfpenny tip for the waiter.—London Chronicle.

Wells in India.

The question of wells in India is complicated by the coexistence in each community of two castes—the purer Hindoos and Gonds on the one hand, the weavers on the other. No weaver may draw from the well of the Hindoos lest it be defiled, nor will the Hindoo drink from the hands or the well of a weaver. Thus it becomes necessary either to dig two wells or to depute a certain number of the Hindoo element to give water to their less exalted fellow villagers.

Almost Human.

"Oh, George," tearfully exclaimed his wife, meeting him at the door, "that parrot you brought home the other day"—
"What's the matter with him?" asked Mr. Ferguson.
"I don't know. He won't tell me. When I ask him what the trouble is he just swears dreadfully."—Exchange.

Peanut Shells In Breakfast Food?

Chicago, Jan. 4.—The Chicago Federation of Labor has adopted resolutions calling upon the National Pure Food Commission to investigate if peanut shells constitute the basic element in the manufacture of breakfast foods.

"In a recent freight train wreck, it was discovered that several cars consigned to breakfast food concerns were loaded with peanut shells from the peanut butter factories in the south," said President John Fitzpatrick.

Manitoba Elections This Year.

Winnipeg, Jan. 4.—The next provincial elections will be in Manitoba. Both sides are already busy organizing, and many candidates are in the field. The general expectation is that the elections will come some time in the spring, or in the early summer. The Legislature will not meet until the middle of February.

The last elections were held March 7, 1907. The Liberals are in good shape for a contest.

Policeman's Cold Swim.

New York, Jan. 4.—James J. Scanlan, one of the several champion athletes on the New York police force, swam half way across the Hudson River yesterday and back again, his only difficulty being in dodging large cakes of ice.

A Serious Charge.

Kingston, Jan. 4.—Alexander Ayers, aged 22, is under arrest on a charge of drunkenness, but a more serious charge is to be pressed by Pearl Lapointe, who claims Ayers took her out for a drive, made improper proposals to her, and when she objected beat her. A young man driving past came to her rescue.

New Food Standards.

All her crew scrambled aboard the Ayershire, but twelve Lascars returned to get their money and were drowned. The Ayershire had 900 passengers aboard. She was badly damaged.

The West Wants Dreadnoughts.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—George H. Bradbury, M.P., has returned to Ottawa, after spending the Christmas holidays in his constituency of Selkirk.

He is deeply impressed with the strength of public feeling on the issue of naval defence. Feeling, as he found it, was overwhelmingly in favor of immediate and effective aid to Great Britain, to take the form of an offer of at least two Dreadnoughts, to be owned by Canada. Opinion also would favor the unconditional compliance with the Admiralty's request for a "fleet unit," to which Canadian delegates refused to accede.

Mr. Bradbury said this feeling was shared by a very large number of Liberals whom he met.

Made Quick Profits In Fake Scheme.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 4.—A scheme by which its promoters made $4,000 in one month without any working capital, though claiming a paid-in capital stock of $150,000 is charged in indictments returned yesterday against Joseph A. McNulty, James Richmond, alias Robert S. Braman, and Henry Vanvleet, all of Buffalo, N.Y., for operating "the civil service institute."

The men are alleged to have used the mails to defraud. "The institute," advertised for representatives, but required of them a $500 subscription to the capital stock of the company.

Confesses Too Late.

Cincinnati, Jan. 4.—A special to The Times-Star from Wheeling, Va., says that Joseph Vastello, a convict in the Moundsville penitentiary, has confessed that he and two other men killed Samuel T. Ferguson, a wealthy contractor, near Washington, Pa., on Sept. 25, 1903. One man was hanged for the crime and another is serving a sentence of twenty years. Vastello says both are innocent.

A Brave Man.

"There is a finer bravery shown in civil than in military life," said ex-Governor William Sprague of Rhode Island. "I remember one of our Providence fire chiefs.

"A green fireman resigned from the Providence service because his chief, he said, was cruel and inhuman.

"'How cruel and inhuman?' they asked him.

"'Why,' the fireman whined, 'at last week's tenement fire he ordered me to carry a section of hose right in between two walls that were just on the point of tumbling.'

"'And what did you do?'

"'I refused, of course. I told the chief it was as much as a man's life was worth to go in there and I wouldn't do it.'

"'Well, what did the chief do then?'

"'Ha, ha, ha! The fool carried the hose in himself.'"

A Royal Baby Carriage.

Princess Juliana of Holland has joined the ranks of the caravanners. A marvelous construction—should it be called a "caramobulator" or a "caraperam?"—has been devised for the little Dutch princess wherein when the weather is cold and the sun shines only in certain parts of the Het Loo she can be conveyed from the palace to the sunshine. It is, as a matter of fact, a giant covered perambulator containing a stove and seats for nurses, besides the bassinette for the royal baby, and it is, of course, drawn by a horse. If she were an English princess she would at once be nominated patroness of the Caravan club. The queen of Holland herself is said to have invented this new baby carriage for her daughter. It is not the first time she has displayed ingenuity of an inventive character.—London Lady

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, sister of the late President Cleveland, has signed the national suffrage petition.

Mrs. P. S. Peterson of Chicago has given Mount Holyoke college a building to be used as a home for retired members of the faculty.

Miss Grunama Skidmore, who has been re-elected foreign secretary of the United States Geographical society, has held that office for twenty years. She represented the society at the international congress held in London in 1897.

Miss Kate M. Gordon of New Orleans, former corresponding secretary of the National American Woman Suffrage association, has undertaken to raise a fund of $100,000 in memory of Susan B. Anthony. One-fourth of the amount has already been raised.

Mrs. Sophie Mayer of New York is the first woman lawyer to appear in the courts of Austria. Acting as attorney of a New York tailor, Mrs. Mayer went to Austria some time ago and obtained permission from the minister of justice in Vienna to appear. She won her case.

Mrs. J. B. Greenhut of New York and Denver is the first woman to be elected to the board of directors of the international Jewish Home For Consumptives. The institution has been open ten years and has its sanitarium in Colorado. After her election to the board Mrs. Greenhut was chosen third vice president.

Enough For Him.

When the physician arrived at the designated house he found that his patient was a decrepit negro, who sat up in bed and inquired:

"How much yo' charge, doctah?"

Too Harsh.

Comets.

We know positively that comets attain their immense extension in space on account of the material comprising them being excessively tenuous, thinner than the lightest slimy haze of summer, says Professor Harold Jacoby, for we know the comets are not massive; they are almost entirely without weight. And this we know with certainty, because their arrival produces no perturbations of motion among the planets of the solar system, while the inexorable laws of mechanical science tell us that a massive comet must surely disturb the usual orderly planetary orbits. A comet might, indeed, strike the earth, though such a collision is most improbable. But even if it should ever occur the visible effects would probably be no greater than those produced occasionally by meteorites, or "falling stars."

The other possible danger from the comet, the chance of suffocation from gases in the tail, is also negatived by actual observation, for it is almost certain that our earth did once pass through a comet's tail, and no one noticed it at the time. Only the subsequent calculations of astronomers brought out the fact that the cometary orbit and that of the earth really had a common point of intersection and that both bodies occupied that point at the same time.—New York American.

Doubtful Praise.

A fullback in a football team once had the misfortune to put the ball through his own goal. This regrettable error lost his side the game, and he suffered agonies of self reproach on the long journey home.

"I'm no more use than a chocolate footballer," he said to his sweetheart, who had traveled many miles to see him play. "A slip of a boy from school would have shaped better than I did."

"Now, George, I won't let you say such horrid things about yourself!" declared his loyal sweetheart. "You've no idea how popular you are. I heard a gentleman praising you up to the skies this afternoon."

"Never!" emphatically exclaimed the incredulous player.

"Oh, but it's quite true!" she said proudly. "He said you'd brought his club the best bit of luck they'd had for ages, and he heartily wished you were playing against them in every match."—Exchange.

MORROW IS ELECTED MAYOR BY A SWEEPING MAJORITY

MAYOR MORROW

William George Morrow, mayor-elect of Peterborough, is a native of the city, was educated here, pursued his successful business career here; his substantinl and social interests are here. He is therefore, as deeply interested in the upbuilding and progress of Peterborough as he is highly qualified by training, natural and acquired capacity and business ability to promote them by efficient and progressive administration. If Council and citizens co-operate we can confidently count upon a year of good government for Peterborough.

Popular Vote in Favour of Chairman of Last Year's Finance Committee Was 755---Every Division in the City Gave Him a Majority---Local-Option Measure Defeated Under the Three-fifths Clause---Enormous Vote Was Polled---Light and Power By-law Met With Favour and the People Decided to go Back to the Ward System---Ald. Duncan Leads the Aldermanic Vote.

MAYOR.

Ex-Alderman W. G. Morrow.

ALDERMEN.

Elected for a two-year term last year:

George A. Gillespie.
Harry Morgan.
H. Phelan.
Robt. Hicks.
Wm. Buller.

Elected by acclamation this year:

Jos. Batten.

The New Aldermen.

Geo. H. Duncan,
J. J. Turner, Jr.
Jos. J. Duffus,
W. H. Bradburn
Jos. R. Metheral,

BY-LAWS.

To pass local option.—Defeated under the three-fifths clause.

To return to the ward system.—Carried.

To give a thirty-year franchise to the Peterborough Light and Power Company—Carried.

To spend $19,000 for an Isolation Hospital.—Defeated.

The municipal elections of 1910 will be marked in the history of Peterborough as one of the most warmly contested ever held here. The interest in the local option fight, coupled with the Mayoralty contest resulted in an enormous vote being polled, and the struggle commenced early in the morning and was kept up without intermission until the polls closed at 7 o'clock last night. Nearly every available vote was polled, the total reaching over 3500, a remarkable proof of the interest taken.

The candidature of ex-Ald. Morrow for the Mayoralty was enthusiastically endorsed, the figures showing a plurality of 754 in his favour, every division givng hm a substantial majority. The aldermanic vote resulted in the returning of five members of the old Council, Ald. Duncan heading the poll with a remarkably big vote, while the others who come back are Ald. Turner, Bradburn, Duffus and Metheral. Ex-Alderman Jas. G. Graham succeeded in ousting Ald. McIntyre from the Board and Ex-Ald. Johnston and Bernard Lastar were also left at home by the electors.

Two new members go into the Board of Education as a result of yesterday's vote, Mr. Harry Adams and Lt.-Col. J. W. Miller. The other three members of the Board who were running were elected, i.e., Messrs. Hill, Crane and Dr. Burnham. Two members went down to defeat at the battle of the polls, Messrs. Dumble and Nelson, while Messrs. Robinson and Kingan also failed to receive a sufficient number of votes. The local opton by-law had a straight majority in its favour of 507, but was lost under the three-fifths clause by 97. The fight was a remarkably keen one, but the three-fifths clause eventually proved too difficult to overcome.

The Isolation Hospital by-law also went under by a large majority. On the other hand the citizens endorsed in an emphatic manner the by-law to give a thirty year franchise to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, giving the measure a majority of 570. The by-law proposing a return to the ward system was also carried.

Hearing the Returns.

The Examiner bulletined the returns on a sheet by means of a stereopticon lantern. The blizzard that swept down George St. made the open street anything but a pleasant spot, but in spite of the disagreeable nature of the weather a big crowd gathered in front of the Examiner office and followed the results by means of the figures on the canvas. There was a great deal of excitement but the crowd was too cold to be noisy and the returns for the most part were received silently. Mayor-Elect Morrow's big majority, however, was the cause of an exception to this rule and his election was decidedly popular.

Owing to the different systems used by the returning officers in counting the ballots, the returns came in slowly and it was very late before the complete figures were available. The crowd did not wait until the personnel of the Board of Education was established. Division No. 6, where Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine was returning officer, had the honour of being the first poll to complete its count and also the first to send in any figures.

A small coterie of aldermanic candidates assembled at the city clerk's office last night to receive the returns first to hand. Ald. Gillespie, Ald. Buller and Ald. Hicks were there and Ald. Bradburn, Ald. Duncan, Ald. Turner, ex-Mayor Bush, Mr. E. F. Mason, Mr. J. H. Larmonth and a number of prominent citizens. It is a question as to which ballot was of the most interest, but as the Mayoralty results were filed earliest it was not long until there was no doubt as to who would occupy the chair vacated by Mr. Bush. A majority from each of the first few divisions was accepted as a strong indication of what the totals would be, but it was not until the majority in favour of Mr. Morrow had reached several hundred that his election was assured, and more imaginative aldermen already saw him in the well-worn chair in which the man who wields the gavel sits.

Mr. Mason ironically remarked "snowed under" when one of Mr. Morrow's most favourable returns was received. He took an interest in all the totals, and when his successful opponent entered the office, Mr. Mason was among the first to congratulate him, and what seemed a very cordial handshake conveyed to the onlookers the idea that the contest had by no means affected the friendship between the candidates.

The aldermanic results came in slowly, owing to the heavy vote polled and there was a friendly rivalry between the candidates present as to who would lead the other. Mr. J. McNaughton appeared on the scene and in the intervals related incidents that had occurred around the Council Board when he filled one of the chairs. Mr. J. H. Larmonth, of the Peterborough Light and Power Co., wore a pleased smile when the first return gave the Power by-law a majority. Successive results swelled the majority into figures that assured victory. Some one called up the clerk's office over the phone to find out how the elections stood "all around," evidently thinking someone was going to recite for his benefit all the results then received. Some of the returning officers did not count the local option ballots. until last and sub-division No. 7 was not received until late. In the meantime the wires were hot with enquiries for the returns from that booth. The ballot boxes began to come in about eleven o'clock and the hands had stolen around to two o'clock before the last box was returned.

Beginning with splendid weather for the routine of election work the day closed with a whirlwind finish that to a slight degree marred what is generally considered to have been a municipal event of the widest interest. There were so many issues to be decided besides the individuals on the ballot who would be returned with the highest honours that the citizens were well divided as to what they were most interested in. The morning saw a great deal of routine work accomplished and as the afternoon wore on it was evident that every advantage was to be taken of the extra hours that were allowed for bringing in the votes. The encouraging warmth and brightness of the sun began to grow dim and as the first signs of dusk became apparent a strong west wind blew up bringing the first flakes of snow storm which in a remarkably short time developed into a blizzard of the western variety. About half past five it was beginning to reach its full strength and the enthusiastic workers strove against the gale and the feathery snow which was gathered up in puffs by every gust.

Shortly after six o'clock the weather man was in his worst mood and the tired factory workmen, clerks, etc., received the brunt of his displeasure. According to old time beliefs the storm might have been taken as a portent of some approaching calamity, or it might have been believed that some deity with a grouch was tenting his anger upon a people who had incurred his displeasure. Perhaps it was on account of the defeat of the Isolation Hospital bylaw or some other measure that suffered in the same manner. But in these material days it could be nothing but a snow storm with a little extra force behind the wind for the inconvenience of mortals. It was a night such as a sturdy youth delights to struggle through but which advanced age prefers to gaze into from his cosy living room. Even the street cars were temporarily in trouble in some localities as the snow piled across the tracks and it may be safely said that the weather man kept a great number of people indoors who would otherwise have found their way up town to watch the

WEDDING BELLS

KENT—HUTCHINSON.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized on Dec. 29th, 1909, when Miss Edythe E., daughter of Mr. Thos. G. Hutchinson, Hickory Grove Farm, near Port Hope, was united in marriage to Mr. G. E. Kent of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. G. Clark, of Port Hope, in the presence of the immediate friends of the bride and groom.

At the conclusion of the ceremony and congratulations a dainty luncheon was served, after which the happy couple took the 2.55 train for Detroit, and points west. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Kent will reside at Riverview Farm, Otonabee, where they will be followed by the best wishes of many friends for a happy and prosperous future.

WARD SYSTEM KILLS THE TWO YEAR TERM

As the result of the passing of the by-law for the election of Aldermen according to the ward system the two-year-term was practically annulled. Instead of the six who were elected yesterdy sitting two years, the entire twelve will present themselves to the electors in January next for re-election, and aldermen for 1911 will be appointed according to the ward system, and in succeeding years a one-year term is the limit for even the man who heads the polls.

MR. MASON'S STATEMENT

"I fought fair and I was defeated. I have nothing to regret," Mr. E. F. Mason told an Examiner reporter this afternoon in regard to the result of the Mayoralty election. "There has been no underhanding in the short campaign in which I was engaged. I would not stoop to that form of electioneering nor would I allow any of the citizens who so generously supported me to do so. I was defeated fairly and as I say there has been nothing done on my part that I have to regret. I was brought out by a class who were desirous that I should represent them in the Council, and I finally, although reluctantly, decided to stand for them. I thought when I made that decision that I was opposing George Morrow as George Morrow, but I learned that such was not the case." Not a few ratepayers had told him that they thought they should support Mr. Morrow not only for himself but also on account of the strong influence he represented. "[illegible] committee rooms I do not doubt but that I would have been elected. However, we gave Mr. Morrow a little contest and I do not [illegible] I have been hurt in any way."

GENERAL RESULTS OF THE VOTING.

From the point of view of the best interests of the city and the citizens, the electors yesterday won both commendation and incurred, if not censure, a suggestion of having in some respects neglected to take the best view of the exercise of their franchise. But we must recognise in the result the voice of the people, when it is actually the fair expression of their opinion and not an artificial one.

As to the aldermen the voting made little change, only one new member being added to the Council Board. Two new members were added to the school board, replacing two old members, one of whom has given a long, intelligent and faithful service in the educational interests of the city.

When we come to the by-laws, that which excited most interest was naturally the one that had been so long and prominently under discussion. The result of the voting was a straight majority for the local option by-law of 507, which, however, was converted by the legal conditions attached to the majority, to a minority of 97, thus defeating the by-law. The vote polled upon this by-law is to be regarded as a fair expression of instructed public opinion. The interests that favoured the by-law had carried on for a year, with a brief summer-months' intermission, a vigorous educative campaign—in the pulpit, in the press, upon the platform, and in other ways. Whatever arguments could be advanced in support of the principle behind the by-law, were it is safe to say, duly impressed upon the electorate. The vote was not only a fair, but a full expression of public opinion for a very heavy vote was recorded, a total of about 3,500. The result is that Peterborough still remains under license, and it is plainly in the interest of all concerned, the trade, as well as the city generally, that the full merits of the license system under which we must remain for at least three years longer, should be developed by good enforcement.

In regard to the Light and Power by-law, it is to the credit of the public spirit and breadth of view of the electors that it was carried by the very substantial majority of 570. This was reasonably to be expected. Through the press, and the Examiner especially, the provisions of the by-law were very fully explained, so that the people were shown, as they, in turn, showed by their votes, that the by-law did not make any unreasonable demand upon their good will. The company only asked and only gets a thirty-year franchise of the streets, and that attended with conditions that not only safeguard the interests of the citizens, but confer important privileges. The Company gets the franchise and the people get concessions of a substantial character, and an improved and extended service by reason of the improved financial facilities the adoption of the by-law permits.

But the people were not as fully instructed nor showed as good judgment in their attitude towards the by-law providing for a return to the ward system of electing aldermen, which seems, from every point of view to be a step backward.—It is difficult to see what advantage there can be to an elector to disfranchise himself to the extent of confining his power to vote for two or three aldermen out of a Council of twelve, and having the taxes he pays spent by twelve men, nine or ten of whom he has no voice in electing, and who are, so far as he is concerned, irresponsible. And it is difficult to discover what advantage a man having property in one ward can derive from being outvoted by a fellow citizen who may have property in every ward of the city.

The defeat of the Isolation Hospital by-law is capable of two explanations. It is either a rebuke to the delay and failure of the city council to do its duty or, which is more serious, a lack of appreciation of the most important interests of the people, their sanitary conditions and the efficiency of protection against the ravages of contagious diseases. However, the defeat of the by-law will make not much difference. The City Council has the power, which it should have shown a manly courage in exercising long ago, of expending $15,000 for an isolation hospital without appealing to the people for their concurrence.

THE MAYORALTY.

Mayor Morrow is to be heartily congratulated upon having conferred upon him the right to this title by a splendid majority of 755. The Examiner took the position that he was the better qualified of the two candidates for the responsible position of mayor of the City of Peterborough. The people thought similarly and in the matter of mayor they showed that they could and would, when the occasion arose, decide a matter of public concern upon its merits. Speaking with the greatest candour, we believe that all the congratulations do not fall to Mr. Morrow, the mayor-elect; the city and the people are to be congratulated upon having a presiding officer of the city council, who will devote his well-recognized qualifications to giving the city good economical and, at the same time, progressive administration. There are many ways outside the routine discharge of purely administrative functions in which a mayor can be of substantial service to the city; and we may expect from Mr. Morrow, as chief magistrate of Peterborough, that he will measure up to expectations, and that his influence and the influences he can command will be exercised to the promotion of every interest of the city, and its people, with that interest alone as the guiding motive of action. In Mr. Mason's case the result is not to be regarded as a personal defeat, for in that respect, he waged the contest on fairly even terms; the result is more to be regarded as a rebuke to the influences which were behind his candidature and the motives that inspired them. The result of the mayoralty election of yesterday demonstrates that personal merit alone is not a determining factor, but that the question of policy, business ability and general ability to serve the people profitably, is what appeals to the electors anxious to secure the best civic government and administration. That with the disturbing and exciting influences, associated with a complicated balloting, did not disturb the level-headedness of the electors is greatly to their credit. We believe they have made a good choice of mayor and that they will not regret it, but on the contrary have abundant reason for satisfaction.

A SECRET OF THE PAST

Revived for Use of Modern Man.

For twenty centuries the secret of the wonderful balms with which the gladiators and charioteers of Ancient Greece and Rome healed their wounds lay undiscovered. Zam-Buk is the modern counterpart of these balms, and owes its great success to the same root cause — it is purely vegetable. Since its discovery Zam-Buk has been welcomed in mansion and cottage.

The reasons for this triumph of science are simple and few. Taking a lesson from the Ancients, the proprietors of Zam-Buk first of all wisely decided that the ideal balm must be purely herbal and contain not the slightest trace of rancid animal fats or poisonous minerals. Thus Zam-Buk is made solely from rich and pure medicinal herbs. These juices and extracts are prepared and refined by ingenious scientific processes and then so skilfully blended that a unique, effective, and yet perfectly natural skin healer is secured.

Zam-Buk has an affinity for the human skin such as no ordinary ointment or liniment can possibly possess. Besides soothing pain and allaying irritation, it possesses high antiseptic qualities, and solves the problem of always having handy at home or at one's work an ever-ready and reliable first-aid for cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, lacerations, scratches, etc. Zam-Buk is without equal for eczema, ulcers, piles, bad leg, ringworm, scalp sores, festering sores, sprains, stiffness, poisoned wounds of all kinds, coldsores, frost bites, sore feet, diseased ankles, and all itching, irritation, and inflammation.

Zam-Buk is a daily need in every household, and is sold by all druggists and stores at fifty cents a box. Refuse harmful and dangerous substitutes sometimes "pushed" as being "just as good." They are not!

HICH-O-ME

That's the Way to Pronounce Hyomei, The Money-Back Catarrh Cure

As doubt exists in the minds of many readers of the Examiner, let us say that the above is the proper pronunciation of America's most wonderful catarrh cure. Wm. Madill is the agent for Hyomei in Peterborough and he will sell you an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and full instructions for use, for only $1.00.

And if it fails to cure acute or chronic catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, croup hay fever, or coughs and colds, he will give you your money back. The person who suffers from catarrh after such an offer as that, must like to snuffle, spit and wheeze, and be generally disgusting.

Read what Mr. Higginbotham, a respected citizen of Guelph, Ont., says of Hyomei:

"I have the best kind of reasons for giving Booth's Hyomei my hearty endorsement. I had suffered with an itching sensation in my throat, swelling of the nasal glands and glands leading to my eyes, in fact a genuine catarrh for several months. I used several remedies but received no relief until I used Booth's Hyomei. I am glad that there is on sale a remedy that relieves like this one and also glad to endorse the use and speak a good word for Booth's Hyomei."—N. Higginbotham, 63 Queen St., Guelph. Ont.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS

Peterboro' People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions are dark, contain a sediment.

Passages are frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is constant day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.

The weakened kidneys need quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache, and urinary disorders. Peterborough evidence proves this statement.

Mrs. George Hawes of 857 Water St., Peterborough, Ont., says:

"I suffered for some time with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble and although I had tried many remedies and doctors I found little or no relief. My back was weak and a dull bearing down pain had settled across the small of it and extended into my shoulders, and around my sides. I was weak and languid and the least exertion would tire me out. Dizzy spells were frequent and often I would awake with a severe headache. I tried Booth's Kidney Pills through an advertisement at Wm. Madill's Pharmacy and soon found them to benefit me. I continued their use and in a comparatively short time I was as well and strong as ever without a symptom of the painful and long standing disease."

Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., sole Canadian Agents.

UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

A large black dog, of stately mien, was walking o'er the village green, on some important errand bent; a little cur, not worth a cent, observed him passing by, and growled, and barked awhile, and yapped, and howled. The big one did not deign a look, but walked along, like prince or dook. The cur remarked, beneath its breath: "That big four-flusher's scared to death! Those great big brutes are never game; now just watch Fido climb his frame!" The big black dog went stalking on, as calm and tranquil as the dawn; he knew the cur was at his heels; he heard its yaps and snarls and squeals, and yet he never looked around, or blinked an eye, or made a sound; his meditations had a tone that many pups have never known. The cur, unmoistened lost all fear; it grabbed the big dog by the ear: the latter paused just long enough to take the small one by the scruff, and shake him gently to and fro; and then he let poor Fido go, and said, in quiet tones: "Now get!" And Fido's doubtless running yet. Suppose you see if you can spell the moral hidden in this tale.

THE LATEST NEWS OF SPORT — TOLD IN BRIEF FORM

THE CITY LEAGUE OPENS SEASON TO-MORROW NIGHT

The ice will be lightning fast for to-morrow night's City League opening games and the prospects are for two of the hardest battles in the history of the League. All four teams are confident and strange to say, the fans of the city are in a quandary as to which of the quartette is the strongest. The three teams in the city have rounded up all the available material in sight and will trot out the strongest possible lineups to-morrow night, knowing that a good start means half the battle. There will undoubtedly be a big crowd present as the hockey lovers of the city are taking an active interest in the contest this season as usual, and will be out to cheer their favourites along.

The Keene team is in great shape for their game with the Strathconas, and the villagers confidently expect a victory over the High Commissioners. They will have their best team on including Smith, McDougall and Weir and with their speed and aggressiveness figure that the big sheet of ice at Brock street will just about suit them down to the ground. The team from Otonabee is expected to stir things up this season and on their showing last week it certainly looks as if the predictions made earlier in the season will be justified.

The Strathconas will have a new line-up to present to the fans. It will include a couple of youngsters off the Collegiate Junior O. H. A. team, who will make their first appearance in City League company. The other members of the team have worn the Strathcona colours before and have had the advantage of playing together for years. It will be a great game and from here looks like an even bang up battle.

The second game of the double-header will be between the West Ends and T. A. S., both of which will be strong. Manager Deannard has filled up a big gap in his line-up by signing Goal Keeper Len Giroux, who has been turning out with the Strathconas and with three of the Lakefield champions on his line-up and a number of promising juniors he will have a team that will be in the limelight with a fast bunch and the game will be a corker.

JOHN L. KNOCKS THE ARRANGEMENT FOR FIGHT

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—Like many another man whose sympathies fondly linger in the past when he was supreme in his chosen work, John L. Sullivan refuses to see anything good in the present day fighters or their methods.

To tell the truth, old John L. has joined the knockers' clan, and the way he unburdened himself to-night anent the coming Jeffries-Johnson scrap for the world's title and the biggest pot of money that man ever fought for, showed that the former champion was far from overwhelmed with the gladsome spirit.

"No, I don't like the arrangements for this fight," said John L. "Who knows what is in the second agreement made by the fighters and their managers. Then, too, the men are going about their preparation in a strange manner. There is too much commercialism about it and the question of who is really the better man is not at stake. They are fighting only for the purse and moving picture receipts.

"It wouldn't have been that way 20 years ago. The people would have thrown brickbats at the fighters if they had attempted such a game. In those days men had to fight and do their show work afterward. The boxing game is not being conducted the way it should be, and it is only a question of time until the public refuses to stand for the present methods."

Pressed for an opinion as to the outcome of the fight, the one-time terror of the roped arena showed an inclination to hedge so that no matter which way the fight ends he will be in a position to take front rank among the "I told you sos."

Sullivan undoubtedly has a leaning toward the big black's chances. He says that Jeffries must be at his best, must upset all precedent and come back after his years of retirement if he is to have a chance against Johnson.

Concerning his ability to do this, John L. has serious doubts. 'Time alone will tell," was the diplomatic way in which he put it.

"The talk started, I understand by Tom McCarey, of Los Angeles, that the Jeffries-Johnson fight may not be on the square, is pure moonshine, pure and simple."

This was the emphatic declaration made to-night by Battling Nelson, the lightweight champon, when asked for his opinion about the coming battle for the heavyweight championship of the world.

The chief trouble, I think, is that McCarey is sore because he did not get the fight," added Bat. "He did not bid high enough; he can't even bid high enough on any of my fights"

"This talk of a fixed fight makes me weary. Just look at the record of Johnson and Jeffries. No one with a lick of sense would accuse either one of lying down. They have never done so in the past, and you can bet a thousand acres of Hegewisch land that they can't afford to do it now."

Bat refused to express an opinion as to the probable winner of the battle.

Schedule For Church Hockey League Was Drawn Up

An enthusiastic and representative meeting of the Church Hockey League was held last evening in the Y. M. C. A., when the schedule for the season was drawn up. All the games will be played in the Auditorium skating rink, the first two being on Thursday, January 20th, when Knox Church plays George Street, and All Saints' plays St. Andrew's.

The following is the schedule of games for the season:

Jan. 20.—Knox vs. St. Andrews; All Saints vs. George Street.
Feb. 3.—All Saints vs. George St.; Knox vs. St. Andrews.
Feb. 10—St. Andrews vs. All Saints, George Street vs. Knox.
Feb. 17.—Knox vs. All Saints. George St. vs. St. Andrews.
Feb. 24.—St. Andrews vs. Knox; All Saints vs. George Street.

WANTS $35,000

That's Jack Johnson's Price for a Fight With Tommy Burns.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 2.—"Nothing doing on those terms," said Jack Johnson to-night, when the offer of a fight with Tommy Burns was shown to the coloured champion at Saengerbond hall, where he was giving an exhibition. The offer was made by Hugh McIntosh, and proposed that the winner take all the receipts.

"Thirty-five thousand, win, lose or draw are the only terms on which I would meet Burns," added Johnson. "If he agrees I will fight him next November at any place."

57th Band at the Brock Street Rink to-night. Ice in excellent condition.

ANOTHER WALK FOR WESTON

New York, Jan. 2.—Edward Payson Weston announced here to-day that he will make one more transcontinental walk and that he will go from ocean to ocean this time within 100 days.

Weston will start from Los Angeles at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of February 1 and will be due in New York on May 28. His hike from New York to San Francisco early last summer took him 105 days, but on that journey he encountered a long series of storms and usually hot weather. If conditions are reasonably favourable this spring he is sure that he can cross the United States within 100 days.

Details of his route will be announced later.

BOWLING.

A meeting of the Bowling League is called for to-morrow evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Alleys, when a schedule will be drawn up.

SPORTING NOTES

The Strathconas City League team will practise to-night in final preparation for their first City League game against Keene to-morrow night. A full attendance of the players is expected.

Manager Deannard of the T.A.S. has rounded up his team in good shape by signing Len Giroux, the clever goal keeper of last year's junior O.H.A. team. He is a clever custodian of the nets and his turning out with the T.A.S. gives that team just what they were looking for. He will be of great use to the Abstainers.

That storm at 4.30 o'clock seemed to presage that someone would be snowed under and the results of the Mayoralty contest certainly justified that prediction.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company used a fac simile of a ballot showin gthe electors how to vote in favour of the by-law. At No. 5 Division, one of the Jewish voters of the city was handed one of these at the door of the booth, and when he got inside handed in the imitation ballot and started out carrying the real ballot in his pocket. The Returning Officer had to stop him and rescue the ballot from him.

The Collegiate Institute team will practise on Thursday afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock. This will be the last practice before the first game, the following line-ups are asked to be out:

Goal.
Richardson ..... Lees
Point.
Geale ..... Kelley
Cover-point.
Denison ..... Minorgan
Forwards.
Leahy ..... Crane
Harstone ..... Burritt
Stevenson ..... Conroy
Matthews ..... Halpany

The Indoor Baseball League at the armouries will commence to-night with a game between A and H companies. Great interest is being taken in the contest. The schedule is as follows:

January 4—A. and H. Companies.
Jan. 6.—B and G Companies.
Jan. 11—Bugle Band and 24th Field Battery.
Jan. 13.—C and E Companies.
Jan. 18.—D and F Companies.
Jan. 20.—Brass Band vs. Stretcher Bearers and signallers.

The following certificates have so far been registered, with the City League Secretary:

Keene—H. D. St. A. Smith, Wilfrid E. Gillott, Rolly Weir, Wm. A. McIntyre, Vincent McCarthy, Jos. J. Dickson, Roy V. McDougall, H. H. Dinsdale.

Strathconas—Herb McMillan, Leo Derocher, Frederick B. Denison, Bert Dusty, Hugh Burritt, Chas. Ray, P. A. Weatherstone, C. K. Lech.

How Sugar Melts.

If we drop a lump of sugar into a cup of tea we find it takes a considerable time to melt if allowed to remain at the bottom of the vessel, but if we hold it up in the spoon near the surface of the liquid it dissolves much more rapidly. This is owing to the sugar as it melts rendering the portion of the tea containing it heavier. The sweetened part, therefore, descends, leaving the sugar constantly in contact with unsweetened or only partially sweetened tea, in fact, a continual circulation of fluid is promoted until the whole is dissolved. When the sugar is placed or permitted to lie at the bottom of the cup it dissolves until the layer of fluid next it is thoroughly sweetened or saturated, when it practically ceases to dissolve any further, the sweetened and heavier stratum above it acting for a considerable time until the law of diffusion comes gradually into play, like an impervious covering, in keeping back the lighter, unsweetened fluid above; hence the reason also why stirring, in breaking up the saturated layer and allowing access to the unsweetened portion, is so effectual in bringing about the uniform sweetening of tea. Life is not infrequently sweetened by the same stirring up process.

The Family Pair.

The wriggly stillness of the study period was broken by a slamming door, and a thin boy in dirty, ragged clothes slouched across the room. Halfway to the teacher's desk he drawled, "Pa wants that you should let Jim go home right now." As Miss Davis looked a little doubtful, he added, "He kin come back right away."

The permission given, the two badly soiled, half starved sons of the most shiftless family in the district shuffled down the stairs. Very shortly Jim returned, wearing a pleased and important smile on his pathetic little face.

"I come as soon's I could. Pa's brother's dyin' to Poplar," he announced cheerfully. "That's why pa wanted me."

"But you weren't gone long; you didn't stay home. I can't see why you went at all," answered the bewildered Miss Davis.

"Why, pa's goin'," explained Jim.

"Yes, but what has that to do with you?" asked the teacher.

"Pa had to have his suspenders," was Jim's matter of fact reply.—Exchange.

The Power of Snails.

One day by way of experiment I harnessed two common garden snails to a toy gun carriage to see if they could pull it along, says a writer in a London magazine. Although the gun carriage was a heavy leaden one, the snails pulled it so easily that I loaded the body of the carriage with small shot. The snails, however, were more than equal to the task. Anxious to test their powers still further, I attached a toy cannon (made of lead and brass) behind the gun carriage, but the snails and their additional load moved on once again with the same apparent ease. Out of curiosity I decided to weigh the cannon, gun carriage and shot and to my great surprise found the total weight to be almost one pound. I venture to think this a very good load for two snails to manage.

The Frying Pan.

"People are always decrying the frying pan," said an experienced cook, "but the thing they refer to—cooking meat, etc., in a shallow pan with butter as fat—isn't really frying it; it is sauteing. The real frying pan is a deep kettle filled with hot clear lard or olive oil. In this the food—doughnut, croquette or whatever it may be—is immersed just long enough to make it crisp and brown on the outside and feathery and light on the inside. Food cooked in this way is entirely digestible if properly made. But so many cooks make the mistake of putting too much shortening in the mixture to be fried, and the fat inside, combining with the fat outside, prevents the formation of the crisp crust and makes the food soggy."

Meanness to a Blind Man.

A man with dark glasses over his eyes touched the conductor on the shoulder as the car neared Euclid avenue and East Fifty-fifth street.

"Pardon me," the man said, "but if you're the conductor I want to ask a favor. I'm blind, and I want you to lead me over to the curb when the car stops, if you'll be so good."

"Not that I minded the little bother of doin' that for him," remarked the conductor when he got back on his car, "but 'tain't right to let a blind man go around all alone like that at night trying to find his way around in the dark."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His Idea of Economy.

"It's all very well for you to preach economy," said his wife, "but I notice whenever I cut down expenses that you smoke better cigars and spend more money for your own pleasure than at any other time."

"Well, confound it, what do you suppose I want you to economize for, anyway?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Card of Thanks

To the Ratepayers of Peterborough.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Allow me to thank you most heartily for the generous vote accorded me yesterday at the polls. When I consider the influences arrayed against me I appreciate it all the more. I went down in a good cause. I came out on principle. Every one knows where I stood. I announced my platform very plainly, and received the highest vote ever given me in any of the five elections in which I have been a candidate. With renewed thanks,

Very respectfully,

W. J. JOHNSTON

Mr. Nelson's Card

To the Electors.

I feel it my duty to tender my thanks to those of the electors who gave me their hearty support in the election for school trustees yesterday. Doubtless lack of personal work on my own part, lost me votes in certain divisions, nevertheless I will continue to take a live interest in our educational institutions and the efficient management of our schools.

The Withered Staff of Aesculapius.

Aesculapius was always represented with a staff, a symbol of the support needed by the sick. Around it was intwined the ancient symbol of eternity, the serpent. Throughout succeeding ages physicians carried a stick, which during the middle ages was usually surmounted by a small metal box containing aromatic herbs, which the doctor sniffed as he contemplated his patient to counteract infection and the universal stench of the sickroom then prevalent. Later on the stick shrunk into a cane and during the regency had above the handle an eyeglass, a survey of the herald through which must have conferred an ineffable look of wisdom and profundity. In early Victorian days a climax of bad taste was reached in the use of carved ivory or bone skulls as cane handles, an example of the ethical atmosphere of the period. Finally the doctor's cane has followed his black coat and high hat into oblivion, and more and more must the [illegible]

To the Electors of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I take this opportunity of thanking my friends and supporters for their well directed efforts on my behalf during the municipal elections of yesterday. This renewal of your confidence in again placing me in a position to serve you on the board of aldermen is very gratifying, especially as the vote was so general from all parts of the city.

Card from Mr. Mason

To the Electors, City of Peterborough:

I desire to thank all those who favoured me with their support and those who personally exerted themselves on my behalf. Several reasons may be assigned for the result of the elections, some being the most unfair misrepresentations on the part of those who had no public object to serve.

Personally, I still retain the best of good feeling toward Mr Morrow, who, with the assistance of the new Board of Aldermen, will guide the destinies of the City during 1910.

Yours respectfully,

I hereby take the opportunity to thank all those who gave me their support and I have only to say that after the battle is over that I hope the Moral Reform Association will take advantage of the opportunity now afforded them of showing their earnestness in the cause of temperance by advocating sobriety and the limitation and curtailment of the sale of liquor and the enforcement of the license law, not as a means of revenge, but in the interests of a proper legal control of the traffic.

Yours truly,

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough:

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

Every time any one fails to acknowledge a kindness properly, he does a great deal more than prove himself a churl and hurt his benefactor's feelings.

He also runs the risk of hurting a great many other people.

I thought of that yesterday when I saw a pretty little scene with a rather distinctly unpleasant denouement.

At the table across from the one where I was dining, a woman with two little children was in the throes of getting the youngsters in their outer garments.

She was tying the baby's bonnet strings, while the older child, though hardly more than three or four years old, was trying bravely, though not very successfully, to struggle into her coat alone.

A busy little waitress who was scurrying past with a tray piled high with dishes, saw the childe's predicament, stopped, set the tray down and helped wriggle the obstinate coat on.

The little scene took place in a restaurant where the waitresses do not receive tips, so I knew that there could be no ulterior motive for the deed, and I looked instinctively towards the mother for the pleasure of seeing the radiant smile that I felt sure must acknowledge such a gracious act.

And will you believe me—although the mother simply must have seen the whole thing, she neither smiled nor spoke nor in any way made acknowledgment of the courtesy and kindliness shown towards her little daughter and herself.

Of course virtue should be its own reward, and kindly deeds should be done simply for the sake of doing them, and not at all for the thanks we get.

But as long as human nature is human, I fancy that ingratitude will always tend to curdle the milk of human kindness, and graciousness will be apt to make the cream rise on its surface.

If the next time that little waitress see a chance to be helpful to some one and passes it by, it seems to me that the blame of that kindness omitted will belong partly, at least, to the woman who did not say, "Thank you."

When a woman fails to thank a man for giving her his seat in the car, she makes him just so much less apt to repeat the chivalrous act for some one else. Other women will probably suffer for her ungraciousness.

The most gracious possible reception of any kindness shown him is a duty that every one owes to himself, of course, but even more to the world at large.

Any one who receives a kindness with genuine, hearty gratitude may thereby stimulate the flow of milk of human kindness.

Any one who receives a kindness ungraciously may thereby rob the world of many kind acts.

Tragic Story Of A Cigarette Crazed Boy Who Shot Himself

Smoked Them Continuously, His Mother Says, and Could Hardly Take Time to Eat His Meals—Mind Unbalanced by Them—Held Family at Bay Five Hours With Revolver.

VICTIM OF THE HABIT

Montreal, Jan. 4.—Cigarettes, cigarettes by the thousand—cigarettes smoked from his earliest boyhood, led to the suicide of Victor Forrest, 19 years old, of 683 St. Ambroise St., St. Henri.

Rushing into the house at 7.30 New Year's evening, evidently quite insane, he broke into a valise of his mother's and securing two revolvers kept the terrified family at bay for five hours, finally shooting himself in the head shortly after midnight Sunday morning, after a long rambling talk with his young brother Donat, whom he adjured never to place a cigarette between his lips.

The story told this morning by the grief-stricken mother and brother, who were staying with Mrs. Forrest's brother, Segeant Louis Gagne, of the St. Henri Police, 447 St. Ambroise St., was a tragic one.

Blames Cigarettes.

"It was cigarettes and cigarettes only, that drove Victor crazy," said Mrs. Forrest. "He was mad for them. Ever since he was three feet high he smoked them constantly, on the sly and openly. And at last—why, he could scarcely stop to eat. He would have a cigarette all ready, and the moment the last mouthful was swallowed at his meals, he would light it. He had smoked fully a dozen packages on New Year's Day. The room was just full of the stubs and empty packages.

"He was quite out of his head. We could do nothing. If any one started to leave the house—he would shoot himself! If we tried to go for the police—he would shoot! We didn't dare go near him to get the revolvers away. Once he went out on the back porch and fired a shot, and then came back crying that he was hurt. There was a hole burned in his shirt, but I don't know if it was from the revolver or a cigarette. I got the good Cure to come, but when he tried to get one revolver away from my boy, he lifted the other at once, and threatened everybody with it.

"I did what I could," she said, breaking down altogether. "I forced myself to go to him when he called me, in spite of the way I was trembling, and I said, 'Victor, you have no grudge against your own mother, have you?'"

"And then," said Mrs. Forrest, brokenly, "he came and kneeled at my feet, crying as if his heart would break.

"'No, mother,' he said, 'I have no grudge against you. And I will shoot myself right here at your feet to prove it.' And—he lifted the revolver—

"But I managed to stop him just in time, and to get him to go to his room. And then I went to get the police."

Warned His Brother.

"Victor called me into his room," said Donat Forrest, taking up the story. "He seemed quieter, but he held one revolver in his hand all the time. It was just after midnight.

"He started to tell me a whole lot of things, all about how the cigarettes had been the cause of his downfall, had ruined his career, and all that; and he told me earnestly never, never touch one of the accursed things.

"He was quiet for a moment, and then suddenly he shouted 'Get out of here, quick!' at the same time lifting the gun and pointing it either at me or at himself. I was too much excited to know which. I sprang out of the room and slammed the door behind me, holding onto the knob and listening.

"There was a sudden 'bang' and I heard a heavy fall. I opened the door and he was lying on the floor, with the blood spurting out of his head. I watched him for a moment, but he did not move, and then mother came in, and we took the revolver out of his hand. But it was too late. And then—the police came, and—they took him to the hospital."

Victor Forrest was an employee of J. & T. Bell, boot and shoe manufacturers, on Inspector street, being an expert leather worker. He had only returned from a long so-journ in the New England States a month ago. With the single exception of the cigarettes, he was an exemplary boy, his mother said; never going out at night and always very quiet.

"It was nothing but the cigarettes," she said.

THE G. WALTER GREEN CO. AND THEIR EMPLOYEES FRATERNIZE TOGETHER

A Lesson in Labour Ethics—Splendid Supper Given to Employees in Hooper's Palm Garden Last Night.

LABOUR FITLY RECOGNIZED

Fully forty or more of the employees of the G. Walter Green Co., Limited, consisting of foundry men, mechanics and labouring men, sat down to a splendid supper last night in Hooper's palm garden, prepared for them by the thoughtfulness of the Company. It was a fitting and appropriate season—"the season of good will toward men"—that the Company took occasion to mark their appreciation of their employees' services. As one of the speakers during the evening said: That in recent years invention and improvement had concerned themselves with machinery rather than with the human instruments operating it; but here was a case in which the practical employer was recognizing the human instruments and assuring them of his personal interest in their welfare. "Act well your part" was the theme of last night's gathering from the shops of the G. Walter Green Company. Push behind if you cannot find a place to pull in front. Work if you cannot plan. Follow if you cannot lead. Boost, but never knock, your employer.

The chairman of the evening was Mr. G. Walter Green, and a real, genuine, home-like father of chairmen he made, among his employees. The tables were loaded with the choicest dainties of the season, from the delicious bivalve to the artistic bricks of decorated ice cream, and other toothsome creations of Hooper brand.

"Our King and Country" was the first toast honoured by the company, which was followed by the singing of the national anthem, "God Save the King," in a hearty manner.

"Our Employees" was then proposed by the chairman, who spoke in a pleasing manner of the men in the company's employ, and of the pleasure it afforded him of seeing them all present, with one or two exceptions, around this festive board.

Mr. W. Hardell, on behalf of the employees, said he believed he voiced the feelings of every man of the G. Walter Green Company when he expressed his heart-felt appreciation of the kindness shown to them by this splendid supper, given in their behalf. He believed that all the men were imbued with a spirit of loyalty to their employers, and this occasion showed that their employers appreciated that feeling and that they had a real live interest in their men.

Mr. Maud, the Superintendent, regretted that he could not respond to the toast as heartily as he desired, but they all knew his thoughts, and could only thank the chairman for the kindness shown them to-night.

Mr. J. Kennedy sang a capital Scotch song, excusing himself for not doing it more justice on account of the "reek" (cigar smoke.)

"The G. Walter Green Co., Limited," was the next toast, which was proposed by Mr. Hamilton, travelling representative of the Company, in a few well chosen remarks.

Mr. G. Walter Greene, the popular President of the Company, was greeted with round after round of applause as he rose to respond to the toast. He said that it gave him no small pleasure to meet together with his workmen on this occasion, to spend a pleasant hour or two in mutual exchange of confidence. He assured them that it had always given him a great deal of pleasure to know that their men were not only efficient, but that "they were as loyal a bunch of fellows as ever got down to work in foundry or machine shop. (Applause.) As the head of the Company, he realized that no business could be a success without the loyal co-operation of the employees. He referred to the time when he first started business in Peterborough about twelve years ago with only two or three men on his pay roll, and compared it with the present condition of things. He was pleased to tell them that the Company's business for 1909 had increased eleven per cent over that of 1908, twenty-five per cent. over the year 1904; and one hundred and thirty-five per cent. over the year 1899. The wages paid out during 1909 were twenty times greater than the wages paid out the first year in business. (Applause.) He gave credit to the men for their share in these results, and repeated the strong confidence which the Company reposed in them.

Mr. Thos. Donaldson, secretary-treasurer of the Company, and the efficient accountant for the firm, also made a hearty response to the toast. He reviewed the progress of the Company since he became identified with it, and said he could verify the statements just made by their President, Mr. Green. He also testified to the loyalty of the men to their duties, and the harmony and good feeling which had always prevailed between employers and employees. The Company appreciated the services of their workmen and endeavoured to treat with them in a liberal spirit on all occasions. He predicted a still brighter future for the Company, and hoped always to retain the good will of the men in their employ. (Cheers.)

"The Ladies" was proposed by Mr. Hamilton, and coupled with it the names of Mr. T. Donaldson and Mr. Andrews. After the toast was duly honoured. Mr. Donaldson responded in a happy speech, dilating on the many excellences of the ladies. He "let the cat out of the bag" as he warmed up to the subject, and some of the foundry men hinted that Mr. D. was making matrimonial impressions somewhere, the pattern of which he hoped soon to get a cast of.

Mr. Andrews entertained the Company with some excellent performances on the mouth organ.

"The Press" was proposed by Mr. Hamilton, and responded to by the representatives of the Review and Examiner.

The chairman then called for volunteer speeches from the most of the employees until every one present had an opportunity to express themselves.

"Auld Lang Syne" was then sung and the happy company dispersed.

Son Of Russian Nobleman Rescued From A Gypsy Band

Was Kidnapped Near Warsaw, Russia, and Brought to the Canadian Northwest—Little Lad of Ten Years Was Compelled to Beg for the Band.

IN PITIFUL PLIGHT

Edmonton, Alberta, Jan. 3.—Kidnapped from his luxurious home in Warsaw in the south of Russia, by a band of roving Bulgarian gipsies, ill-treated and abused and forced to beg his way with the band across two continents to the Canadian northwest, little Felix Taseichwer, a ten-year-old son of Russian aristocracy, was recently rescued from his pitiful plight by the city police and R. B. Chadwick, superintendent of the industrial school, from the gipsies, who drifted into the city and had camped in an old house out in Norwood.

The plight of the delicate little lad was first discovered by Father Arnsuff, the Greek orthodox priest in charge of the east end parish, who learned the boy's pitiful story from the lad himself, who came to him to beg money for the band. After great difficulty and vehement protestations from the Gipsies, who threatened the boy's rescuers in true brigand fashion, the officers of the law finally succeeded in remving the lad from the band and placing him in a home in the city, where he will be properly cared for. The story of the lad's misfortune from the day he was lured from his pleasant home in Russia, to the day that, ill-treated and beaten to the last point of physical endurance, he was rescued by the Edmonton police, reads like a real old-time Gypsy story. The Gypsies that kidnapped him are typical southern brigands. The Gypsies succeeded in luring the boy away from his home and taking him away north to Moscow, where they lived in hiding for some months. Then they made a bold stroke to get the lad out of the country and succeeded.

GIPSY HAWKINS GAVE AN INSPIRING ADDRESS

A splendid audience greeted Gipsy Hawkins last night in the Park St. Baptist Church in spite of the inclement weather, and election excitement.

If Local Option did not carry Gipsy Hawkins, by his sweet, simple presentation of Gospel truth carried his message right into the hearts of his hearers.

Taking his text from Isiah 55:1, he spoke on God's universal invitation to the world at large and the individual to come and res, their sinful souls on Him. Gipsy Hawkins will sing to-night. On Saturday evening he will help the Salvation Army, as also will the pastor of the Park Street Baptist Church, Rev. W. C. Riddiford.

Sunday afternoon next at 3 o'clock Gipsy Hawkins will deliver a special address to men only in the Park St. Baptist church.

The meetings are growing in interest. A number have already decided for Christ. Come and enjoy the meetings; every night at 8 o'clock. Prayer meeting at 7.15.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, no Matter What Colour.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, iscaused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it zaps the vitality The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

ON A TRAIN ONCE

Last of Famous Family Passed Away—Only Away From Home One Night.

St. Catharines, Ont., January 3.—Captain Alex. Muir, aged over 90, died at Port Dalhousie, on Saturday. He was the last of the famous family of shipbuilders that made the name of Muir famous on the Great Lakes for half a century.

Muir brothers came from the old country over half a century ago and started the firm of A. Muir & Brothers, shipbuilders in Port Dalhousie. They built many of the best vessels of the old days. Alex. Muir had never ridden in a railway train in his life, and only spent one night away from home in all his married life. He and his wife celebrated their diamond jubilee a year ago.

ENLARGED THE CASE

Children Were Not Present—Left Over Until To-morrow.

Four children, ranging from eight to eleven years of age, who nearly all reside on Euclid Ave., East City, should have appeared in the police court this morning. Their mothers were present in their behalf and stated that it was too cold to bring the children out. His Worship enlarged the case until to-morrow, and told the parents that they need not bring the youngest of the children to court. They are summoned for annoying a resident on Euclid Ave.

"The Prince Chap"

There is a comedian in "The Prince Chap" company soon to be seen here, for whose natural brightness and cleverness Charles Emerson Cook, his manager, has unbounded admiration. His name is Bert Walters. His work is clean-cut as a cameo, his method direct and unforced, and his laughs as sure and speedy as a rapid-fire gatling. He abhors any semblance of buffoonery or horse play, his comedy being of that irresistible, rich, wholesome kind, that comes of sheer good nature, a happy disposition and a love of fun. Of a performance of "The Prince Chap" Bert Walters is one of its joyous memories.

57th Band at the Brock Street Rink to-night. Ice in excellent condition.

ANNUAL CONCERT

The children of St. John's Sunday school will give their annual concert in the Sunday schoolroom to-night at 7.30 prompt. Bal Poudre Held In Aid Of The Labrador Mission A Success

One of the most enjoyable of the many social functions that have been held this season was the fifth annual At Home in aid of the Labrador Medical Mission, in the Conservatory Music Hall last evening. It took the form of a Bal Poudre, and the presence of nearly two hundred and twenty-five persons was a delightful evidence of the interest in the great work being carried on by Dr. Grenfell.

The beautiful hall was gaily decorated and a feature that was much appreciated was the throwing open of the rooms downstairs in the Conservatory building for sitting-out rooms. The dancers in the coiffures of the poudre period, the ladies in their very pretty dresses, and the gentlemen with satin lapels on their coats, presented a very striking scene. The music was provided by Fralick's orchestra of Toronto, and at midnight supper was served, it having been supplied by the ladies, assisted by Mr. Coleman.

The reception committee was composed of the following ladies: Mesdames J. A. Aylmer, Peter Campbell, Cyril Currier, J. H. Eastwood, R. R. Hall, J. T. I. Halliday, James Hamilton, L. M. Hayes, J. R. Stratton, and W. R. Travers. The stewards were, Messrs. P. L. Allison, C. Ross Cameron, W. H. Cluxton, W. S. Davidson, F. D. Kerr, G. W. Lundy, G. R. Medland and G. K. Rackham. Mr. L. F. Cross was honorary secretary, and to him much of the success of the affair is due.

SOME NEW BLOOD IN THE COUNTY COUNCIL THIS YEAR

As the result of the municipal elections in the different townships yesterday the personnel of the county councils is considerably changed, a number of new men coming to the front, although in the majority of cases the old councillors who have gone have dropped out voluntarily. The new councillors so far are T. H. Graham, Deputy Reeve of Smith, E. A. Tanner, Reeve of Lakefield, John Young, Reeve of Ennismore, W. Porter, Reeve of Otonabee, and W. G. Howden, Reeve of North Monaghan.

Owing to telephone communications being interrupted by the storm last night, which damaged the Apsley line, it was impossible to get the returns from Burleigh and Chandos, but it is thought that the old reeves, Messrs. Tucker and Hale, would be returned. The council for this year will be as follows:

T. G. Graham, Smith.
J. H. Garbutt, Smith.
W. Porter, Otonabee.
W. B. Stevens, Otonabee.
A. Bresault, Norwood.
W. H. Comstock, Asphodel.
John Young, Ennismore.
Frank Moher, Douro.
Wm. G. Howden, North Monaghan.
E. A. Tanner, Lakefield.
C. J Darling, Dummer.
Robert Shaw, Harvey.
Jos. Knox, Havelock.
Jos. Russell, Belmont.

TAKE A COLD SERIOUSLY

The possibilities of every cold are dreadful to contemplate. Bronchitis, pneumonia, consumption, usually begin with a simple cold. Why not fight the cold from the start and ensure success by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It allays inflamation, keeps the cough free and loose and protects the bronchial tubes from danger.

MORROW ELECTED MAYOR BY A VERY LARGE MAJORITY

Examiner's bulletins of the election results. For a time it looked as if the breeze was about to tear the canvas from its position as it was puffed by the intermittent gales.

Notes of the Fray.

The long hours did not suit the officials at the polling sub-divisions. The last ballot boxes were not returned to the Returning Officer, City Clerk Armstrong until 2 o'clock this morning. "We were almost tempted to count the council returns last night to punish the aldermen for the change in the hours," said one poll clerk to the Examiner.

A funny incident occurred at Jayes' store, Aylmer street, which was polling sub-division No. 5, yesterday. One of the Chinese residents of the city walked in and gave his name as Hop Sing, and asked for a ballot. It was found that there was no such name on the list and the Celestial was advised that he probably voted at Metheral's. He, accordingly, retired, but came back a little later, and this time announced himself as Tom Chang. That name was on the poll book, but the scrutineer for the Temperance and Moral Reform League asked to have the Chinaman sworn, with the result that he gave his name this time as Charley Mark. "Tom Chang, he a friend of mine," he said with a bland smile. Needless to say, Charley did not Mark his ballot.

HOW ANY GIRL MAY BECOME POPULAR

Very easily managed, and yet how few people trouble to earn the adjective "popular" as a prefix to their name.

It has become a threadbare platitude to state that the pretty girl is usually the most unpopular. The sad cause of her lack of fascination is also too well known.

The popular person must have an excellent temper, and a placid indifference to teasing and chaff, for the average friend in certain irritable moods finds the greatest relief in tormenting somebody, and the popular person is invariably chosen for the attack. To accept good natured ridicule with a smiling face is a sure and certain road to social success and the title "awfully sporting."

The girl who can also refrain from asking questions is sought after. Frankincense and myrrh are offered at her shrine, and her circle of friends grows rapidly as her reputation for a sympathetic listener travels quickly. The fact that they—girls—all suffer from the feminine failing, curiosity. To be able to give an attentive ear to voluntary information without interrupting with numberless "whys" and "whereabouts" is an art which should be cultivated.

The girl who can respect the secrecy of a secret and not talk scandal is a jewel beyond price, but, like so many priceless things, is extremely difficult to find. A popular person is unusually the recipient of confessions and realizes the disastrous effects of the terrible feminine accomplishment of subtle suggestion.

Between girls the individual who is termed a "girly girl" is never a general favourite. Like the "womanly woman," she overplays her part. The result is that, instead of being a sensible, jolly female, she merges into a gushing, clinging creature who delights in those boring conversations commonly known as 'brush and comb' talks.

To be popular one must not pose either as an advanced woman or one of the "old-fashioned type," but cultivate a perfectly natural manner, and keep any pet crankism well in the background.

Among girls there is keen rivalry as to "best boys," and the woman who is continually charming other people's male friends away is always boycotted by her own sex. The woman who does not endeavour to inveigle the fickle heart of man from the grasp of a chum is the favourite, and is invited to form a fourth at many merry meetings. The popular person must be kindly candid, and adhere to the principle that it is better to raise a laugh at your own expense than allow an assembly to become dull and bored.

The pose of many women in these days of hyperculture is one in which they profess a dislike of children. In reality it is merely a delusion, but one which detracts very greatly from their charms.

Popular people never seem conscious of their exalted position, or take advantage of its numerous privileges. Adaptability, too, is indispensable, as married chums delight in inviting you to share their castle or cottage when they know you will appreciate and enjoy either with equal gratitude.

Always wear a smile, but don't mistake an inane grin for the angel's manner of expressing pleasure. The smile must be genuine and conveyed by the eyes as well as mouth, otherwise it becomes an automatic crack in the face. Popular people are seldom dowdy, though compelled to be shabby; for nothing is more depressing than a badly robed friend who appears to yearn for higher things than a little vanity and becoming hats.

Never act as a wet blanket on any expedition, however mad it may be, or however loudly condemned by one's common sense.

And remember, the popular person never laughs—in the wrong place.

THE LOVE AFFAIRS OF THE BUSINESS GIRL

Most love affairs worth the name begin in friendship, and that may be why so many people sneer at "platonic friendship." But what's in a name? Sympathy and understanding between a girl and a man who are not relations may be considered "platonic."

And it is certainly true that, in the vast majority of cases, it ripens into love. But is it any worse a friendship for that?

It is the business girl's friendships with her men and women friends that lend interest and happiness to life. Nowadays girls have far greater opportunities of making friends, and one of the charms of the business girl is that she can have men friends without imagining that every man who shows her consideration and admiration is going to "fall in love."

Sometimes girls are perhaps too anxious to make friends. They rush into intimacies with a man or a girl friend, and are disappointed when the friendship dies an untimely death from being overdone in the beginning.

Make friends by all means, girls, but exercise discretion at the beginning, and you are not so likely to regret it later on. There are some girls who simply cannot help making friends; both men and girls are attracted by their bright ways, their kind words, and unselfish manners.

"She is a general favourite," we say of such a girl, and perhaps wonder wistfully why she has so many loyal friends, why she never lacks a partner at a dance, or some one to go about with. "She manages to get round people," says the spiteful girl, who would give the world for her social success, the secret of her popularity.

The popular girl has always her little love affairs. She makes friends in business and at home. She converts the crustiest old bachelor who has always hated "new women" who work for their living nto a staunch champion of business girls, into an ardent suffragist if she likes. She has "a way" with her, but there is nothing mysterious about her attraction.

In the first place, the popular girl who has more lovers than her more beautiful friend is unselfish, generous with kind words and helpful deeds. She is always ready to sympathise with other people's worries, and would no more dream of snubbing a man because he is shy and uninteresting, than she would try to attract another girl's lover from sheer malice or thoughtless cruelty.

She has a knack of entering into other people's joys as well as their sorrows. She never grudges prosperity and happiness to others. She does not try to take the gilt off other people's gingerbread. The business girl who has "no time" for friendships is getting the best out of life. It is just as bad to get engrossed in one's work as to neglect work and duty for the sake of an interesting flirtation.

"There is a time and a place for everything," and the business girl who allows her love affairs to interfere with her work is very foolish. John will think all the more of you if you make your duty to your employer come before any outing, any pleasure he may offer. The girl who is faithful to her work will make all the better wife, and John is wise enough to see that.

The day is past when men admired the useless, senseless, clinging girl who could do nothing for herself, who was unable to look up a train, to come to a decision, without the help of a masculine relation.

The business girl has proved once and for all that she can be a keen, capable business woman and an interesting, attractive girl at the same time. She knows the folly of affecting mannish ways, slangy expressions. The type of girl who flourished a cigarette case before her old-fashioned maiden aunt, who imagined that a latch-key should make her emancipated in the sense of losing all her soft feminine charm, very soon realized that her attitude was not a success.

Mrs. John Breen, 254 Mark street, East City, met with a painful accident a few days ago while returning from St. Peter's Cathedral. Owing to the icy condition of Hunter street, near Stewart street, Mrs. Breen slipped and fell heavily to the sidewalk, dislocating her left shoulder. She was removed to her home and Drs. McNulty and Boucher were called and set the fracture. Mrs. Breen is now progressing favourably.

CANADA MUST ASSUME THE BURDENS OF THE EMPIRE

Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Opening of the New Liberal Club in Toronto, Says Time Will Come When Canada Will Have a Navy---Scoffs at Imminence of Danger to Britain's Naval Prestige.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—"Do not be too particular in the line of orthodoxy. Open your doors wide. Take in all the Grits when they come, and ask admission. Remember, the Liberal party is the party of liberty of conscience, and the one thing we should have at heart is the common good of our common country."

This was the shrewd advice tendered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in closing his speech at the formal and official opening of the Ontario Club, 76 Bay street, last night, when 150 or so were present at the banquet given in honor of the Prime Minister of the Dominion.

Sir Wilfrid was not in the best voice, but his sunny smile was unsubdued, and his happy sallies aroused much enthusiasm.

He spoke for 46 minutes, but confined himself to echoes and reflections of former speeches. He rallied Toronto on its incorrigible Toryism, and declared that like the King of ancient story, he inured himself to poison by taking some every day.

"I breakfast on The News, and dine on The Mail, and my health never was good." (Loud laughter.)

It was thirteen years since they took office and turned a new page in Canadian history replete with advancement. Their opponents attributed it to fraud, but he was content to receive it at the hands of Providence. The taste of an application of the words of Jesus over Jerusalem may be questioned in some quarters.

BIG INCREASE IN THE CITY'S BUILDING PERMITS LAST YEAR

Total for 1909 Was More Than One Hundred Thousand Dollars in Excess of the Former Year—April Was the Banner Month—A Comparison.

SOME OF THE BUILDINGS

January	$200.00	$2,300.00
February	50.00	1,165.00
March	1,445	5,695.00
April	28,115.00	81721.00
May	27,340.00	41,155.00
June	20,195.00	44,322.00
July	12,283.00	43,245.00
August	35,195.00	42,590.00
September	57,230.00	46,610.00
October	29,450.00	14,241.00
November	25,525.00	18,475.00
December	1,900.00	4,291.00
	$238,963.00	$343,360.00

Gain for 1909, $104,427.00.

The above figures afford the reader an opportunity of comparing the extent of the building operations carried on during the year just terminated, and during 1908. The fact that the increase in the total amount of the building permits issued during 1909 has reached the grand sum of $104,427, over the permits of 1908, is most gratifying and accounts largely for the activity that was predominant during the past year, bringing a return of prosperity in all branches of business and particularly to builders, and the members of the affiliated trades. A glance down the 1909 column shows that April was the banner month, the permits taken out almost doubling in amount those of any other month. After April the figures dropped to a normal mark, which was maintained until October.

Some of the largest permits were:
Knox Church—$22,000.00.
Public Library—$25,000.00.
Colonial Weaving Co.—$11,000.00.
Lundy Block—$10,500.
All Saints Church—$25,000.

The year is considered one of the best in the history of Peterborough, and even now builders are expecting greater prosperity during 1910. The feeling among the citizens is that a "boom" should result during the year and the idea is expressed that even if an effort has to be made to go after business the city should take steps to do so.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Fiftieth Anniversary of the Marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barnard, This City.

Yesterday, Jan. 5th, was the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barnard, 543 Bethune street, this city. The occasion was marked by a very pleasant social celebration by the family, and a few intimate friends, who joined the gathering to do honour to the respected couple. In the evening a sumptuous wedding breakfast was once more spread, when the happy and well-preserved father and mother were surrounded by their five children, not a break having occurred in the family circle during the past fifty years. Four of their grandchildren were also present, two others not being able to attend.

A number of personal friends sent their congratulations, which were read to the Company, while others sent floral tokens.

During the evening a presentation of a purse of gold was made to Mr. and Mrs. Barnard by their children. Rev. Mr. Webb, of the Murray Street Baptist church, dropped in, and, after extending his congratulations and well wishes, read appropriate portions of the Psalms, and offered a prayer of thanksgiving and benediction.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnard were married in the Township of South Monaghan, where they spent their united lives together until deciding to retire from the farm, about twelve years ago, since which time they have been residing here in the enjoyment of good health and less arduous duties.

THE IMPERIAL LIFE

An Excellent Year's Business.

Toronto, January 6, 1910.—The outstanding features which have characterized the recent annual statements of our important financial institutions are the satisfactory profits they have earned and the substantial increase in their resources, sure indications of their enjoyment of public confidence, and of the steady improvement in affairs generally throughout the Dominion. The preliminary statement for the year ending 31st December, 1909, of The Imperial Life, which has been prepared with commendable promptness, evidences a year's record of unusual attainments.

The new life insurances effected and policies revived were larger than in any previous year, and reached $6,165,567. The aggregate of all policies in force was $26,507,691. The assets, 75 per cent., of which are composed of first mortgages, debentures and Government securities, amounted to $5,303,736, an increase in the year of $749,892. The reserve for policy holders was increased by $597,494, and stood at the close of the year at $4,055,569. Notwithstanding the large increase in insurance in force, the death losses for the year were less than those of the previous year and amounted to only $125,851. The cash receipts from interest on investments amounted to $270,933, and from profit on sale of securities, etc., to $13,013, or in all $283,946, which was $51,737 greater than that received in 1908 and $157,095 more than the total death losses of the year. The surplus earned in the year was $227,294, being $17,272 greater than in 1908. The accumulated surplus over and above all liabilities and reserve for policy holders was $427,519. On account of the favourable rate received on Western mortgages, the average rate of interest earned on the Company's funds was 6.20 per cent., being an increase of .17 in the rate per cent. over that of 1908. These excellent results were accomplished at a slightly reduced expense rate.

The high standard of efficiency which marks the conduct of The Imperial's business, and which permeates its entire organization, is again reflected in the results disclosed by the year's operations.

Mr. W. G. Morrow, a director of the Company, and its able representative at Peterborough, who has associated with him Mr. G. H. Thompson, informs us that the business at this Agency during the past year was most satisfactory and that prospects point to a very greatly increased business in 1910.—Editor.

"Peterborough Means Progress."

THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1910

NO DISAPPOINTMENT.

The Brantford Expositor says:

The electors of Peterborough have decided to return to the ward system of voting, the experiment of electing representatives at large having been a disappointment. Almost every municipality which did away with the old-fashioned ward method has found it desirable to return to it.

The Expositor is not quite correct in saying that "the experiment of electing representatives at large has been a disappointment." It speaks without knowledge of the local conditions. There has been no general "disappointment" in Peterborough. The only "disappointment" has been with a certain class of candidates who found that they could manipulate a ward successfully, but found it difficlt to commend their candidature to the people at large. The best opinion in Peterborough looks with disappointment upon the decision to return to the ward system, so expensively discredited in the experience of Montreal, where Judge Cannon said the waste and "graft" were helped by the ward system as one of the chief contributory causes. It is probable that the ward system was restored by the votes of those who did not take the pains to inform themselves freely of the merits of the proposal. They did not reflect that they were disfranchising themselves by confining their votes to two or three out of a council of twelve, over whom they have no control, over whom they ballot, and that as a matter of fact they are represented by two or three aldermen, instead of having had a voice in chosing ten or twelve. Logically it would be as wise to elect a mayor by the vote of a ward. He should not, on principle, represent the votes of the whole people any more than an alderman. There is little doubt that the return to the ward system is a retrograde step, that is if we have returned to it. Of this, there is a question. If the law requires that the change shall be made by vote of the electors legally qualified to vote on the subject, what assurance have we that only the qualified electors voted on Monday for the return to the ward system?

FOREST WASTE.

The Atchison Railway Company recently ordered a milloin ties from Japan. This one simple statement shows more strikingly than could be done in any other way the extent of the reckless waste that has taken place in disposing of the timber supply with which this continent was so bountecusly endowed. More foresight is being shewn now. The company which has ordered these ties also planted 10,000 acres in California for the purpose of providing a future supply of tie timber.

The people of Canada have not been quite so reckless as their neighbours in disposing of the original forest wealth, and they have displayed more foresight not only in the matter of conserving existing forests, but in providing for new forest growth on areas which should not have been cleared. Still we have not gone so far as we should have gone in this matter, and a well thought out, far-sighted forestry policy is to-day one of the most crying needs of this country.

ADDRESS—THE ROBERTSON PAD COMPANY
28 VICTORIA AVE., WINDSOR, ONT., CANADA

A CO-PARTNERSHIP SUCCESS.

London Advertiser.

One year ago the employees of the great English shipbuilding concern, Furness, Withy & Co., accepted on trial for twelve months the co-partnership scheme inaugurated by Sir Christopher Furness, the head of the company. Under the scheme the men employed in the company's large ship yards at Barrow were allowed to become shareholders, receiving 4 per cent. certain upon their holdings, and sharing equally in profits after the ordinary shareholders had received 5 per cent.

In a letter to the employee shareholders, the directors express satisfaction with the working of the plan, as shown by the ascertained results up to Sept. 30, and the etimated results up to the end of the year. Work in the yards has been carried on under the new arrangements, the yards have been fully employed, the contracts have been executed with punctuality, and agreeable relations have been uniformly maintained. The financial results appear to have been equally gratifying. A dividend of 5 per cent. to the ordinary shareholders was declared, the employee shareholders received the promised four per cent., and an additional five per cent. was paid on all shares without distinction. The ordinary shareholders thus receive 10 per cent., and the employee shareholders 9 per cent. per annum.

But the most important feature of the agreement is that under it there can be neither strikes nor lock-outs. Before it came into operation it was no uncommon thing for the company to be from 20 to 40 weeks late in the construction of steamers owing to trade disputes. The loss in fines from this cause was very heavy, indeed, and if the arrangements with the workmen is continued the directors will run no further risk of this kind.

The workmen's executive have not yet given out a statement of their views, but there is reason to believe that they will agree to a renewal of the agreement, perhaps for a long period.

"ONTARIO SIDE-TRACKED."

Ottawa Free Press.

Under the heading "Ontario Side-Tracked," the Peterborough Review reprints the recent cabled interview with Sir Robert Perks upon the tremendous work involved in the construction of the Ottawa and Georgian Bay canal and then proceeds to say:

Ontario is being side-tracked. The union of the new west and Quebec is about to be completed by a system of bands that comprise the G. T. P. and Georgian Bay canal, while Ontario, lying to the southward of this system of bands, is paying for its own isolation agriculturally, industrially, socially, financially, politically and nationally.

The French are the masters of Canada. Ontario no longer is a predominant factor. French policy has triumphed. The union of the east and the near west has been accomplished over our heads.

The Legislature of Saskatchewan passed recently a resolution opposing imperial union. What could have been the reason of such a measure and of such a passing? Agricultural wealth has decreased by 25 per cent. in the last few years in Ontario. The Government returns show it. It is undeniable. Don't you feel it and know it? Ontario is not only being side-tracked, she is being ruined. With all our resources, our wealth, our start in life and a good administration, we are going behind. Is this the policy you have been looking for?"

How will Ontario be side-tracked? Will not the whole of the proposed canal run through Ontario?

Will it not serve Ontario all along its route?

Is Ontario confined to that section of the province which lies along the St. Lawrence or on canals or rivers lose to the St. Lawrence?

When will the people of what may be called the Toronto section of the province realize that the construction of the Georgian Bay canal would give the greatest impetus to industrial enterprise in Ontario ever known?

When will they realize that the bulk of the supplies for the 20,000 men, who Sir Robert Perks tells us would be required for ten years, must come from Toronto and the other industrial centres of central Ontario?

If the Peterborough Review were to devote a little more attention to the industrial possibilities involved in the Georgian Bay canal and a little less to the preaching of racial prejudices it would be doing better service for Canada.

Take its own city for example. Probably no other industrial centre in Ontario has gained more benefit from the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific than has Peterborough. Thousands upon thousands of dollars have been paid to Peterborough workmen for supplies for the G. T. P. and the N. T. R. If that be the case with an enterprise in progress five hundred or several thousand miles away, how much more would Peterborough benefit by the construction of a ship canal within 300 miles of its own doors?

The fact is that the Georgian Bay canal would prove the most efficacious boon to Ontario which could be imagined. Practically all its supplies and most of its material would be purchosed in this province and its commencement would ensure to the industries of Ontario prosperity for at least ten years.

A HINT TO LADIES WHEN SHOPPING

If you wanted anything badly, and when you got to the store were persuaded to take something else instead, when you came away wouldn't you feel a litle disappointed? As if somebody had "got one over you"—and not for your benefit, mind, but for their own profit!

And when you proved that the something which was represented as being "just as good" as what you asked for was not as good—was not to be compared even with the real thing, wouldn't you feel still worse?

This is just the case about Zam-Buk. Like all good things it has many imitations. When buying it just ask for Zam-Buk, and see that you get it. The name is protected by law and is clearly seen on each packet. Don't have anything else! Then you won't feel that somebody has made a few extra cents out of your lack of firmness.

UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

When a damsel has a steady who's a pretty decent man, and who shows a disposition to perform the best he can; who is shy of sinful habits, and whose bosom holds no guile, and who labours in the vineyard with a gay and cheerful smile, then she shouldn't make him promise that he'll do a seraph stunt, when they've stood up at the altar with the preacher-man in front; and she shouldn't spring a lecture when he comes around to court, for a man is only human, and his wings are pretty short. When a maiden has a lover who is surely making good, who is winning admiration, who is sawing lots of wood, then she shouldn't make him promise that he'll be an angel boy when the wedding ceremony pahers in a kiss of joy; she should murmur: "He's a daisy, and we'll take things as they come; for a man is only human, and his halo's on the bum."

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

Is it wrong to be unconventional?

That is a question which in one form or another, and usually accompanied by a concrete example, I very frequently receive from my feminine readers.

And I always give but one answer:

"That depends."

Conventions are the crystallization of the ideas of the majority as to what is right and best.

When you defy a convention you set yourself up as a better judge of what is right and best in that particular than the rest of the world.

Perhaps you are.

It has occasionally happened in the course of history that one man was right and the rest of the world wrong.

But the rest of the world does not like to be told so, and for that reason unpopularity is apt to be the reward of any one who tells it so in this way.

The other day I saw a woman sitting in a street car calmly working upon a piece of embroidery.

Now, as every one knows, it is customary to talk, read, or even study on a street car, but according to the idea of the majority it is not allowable to sew, and therefore most of the people who saw that woman sewing resented her defiance of their judgment by promptly stigmatizing her as a freak.

There was no reason on earth why she didn't have just as much right to sew as the woman at the other end of the car had to read, but I wondered if the pleasure she would get from those few moments would pay her for the discomfort of being regarded as a freak by her neighbours.

Is the pleasure or profit you get from disregarding any convention sufficient to outweigh for you the crowd's displeasure?

That is what any one ought to decide before he defies any convention. sufficient to outweigh for you the crowd's displeasure?

That is what any one ought to decide before he defies any convention.

And that is what many people fail to do.

They defy conventions and then they bewail the fact that they are frowned upon by those who approve of those conventions.

That is inconsistent.

One should always reckon to see if the game be worth the candle before he begins to play, but having once decided that it is, one should never protest when one is asked to pay.

And then, the wisdom of defying conventions depends upon a more important thing than your ability to brave the coward's displeasure.

It also depends upon whether you are entirely sure that you are right in judging the convention a worthless and outgrown thing.

Convention is the path the majority prefer to follow.

You see a short cut apparently across a pleasant field and over a safe little bridge.

But if it is so safe and pleasant a path, and a short cut into the bargain, why do so few people care to tread it?

"Is it always wrong on a journey to talk to a man to whom I have not been introduced?" girls sometimes write and ask me.

The form of introduction is the path of conventionality, and if short cuts are just as safe and pleasant, is it not strange that so few nice people take them?

There are, of course, people great enough to transcend conventions.

Great enough to make the crowd admire and even imitate their eccentricities instead of scoring them.

Great enough to cut away from all forms and decide for themselves what is right.

But these are the rare souls, and unless you are absolutely sure that you are a rare soul, I think you will find that keeping fairly close to most of society's conventions is, on the whole, the safest and pleasantest way.

Ruth Cameron

Half The Municipalities In The Province Have Gone Dry

According to Reports Received in Toronto—Statistics Gathered at the Office of the Dominion Alliance—A Brief History of the Movement.

PLACES TO HEAR FROM

"We have more than half the municipalities in Ontario now. We're on the home stretch. Now watch us go.

"If I have any message for the liquor men it is: "Pretty hard blow, but cheer up, the worst is yet to come."

There was a decided note of triumph in the voice of Rev. Ben. H. Spence, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, when he spoke the foregoing sentences.

He had just finished compiling the following table of the results of Monday's voting as known up to noon today:

Local option carried	74
Lost by three-fifths clause	55
Lost on straight majority	18
Local option repealed	2
Repeal by-laws beaten	8
Still to hear from	13

That means that the returns to date give local option 72 gains on Monday. That added to the 334 places already under local option gives a total of 406 municipalities, or more than half of Ontario's total of 806 municipalities.

Over 200 licenses are cut off as a result of Monday's voting, and that brings Ontario's number of licenses to fewer than the record low number of 1,862 in 1887, when the Scott Act was strong in the land.

Local Option Record.

The big local option fight started in 1906, but it was not till this morning that the temperance people got started on the second half of Ontario's municipalities. The three municipalities reporting victories this morning, and so putting local option on the home stretch, were West Luther, Nepean and South Dumfries. Places reporting wins last night were Brooke, Grey, Holland, Mono, Sullivan and Sunnidale.

Hibert and Keewatin last night reported that they had gone against local option, and Bedford, Chatsworth, Hilton, Kemptville, Meaford and St. Joseph reported that they had lost through the three-fifths clause.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Pleasant Evening With Encampments of I. O. O. F. Last Night.

The members of Hiawatha Encampment No. 66, and Mount Hebron Encampment, No. 56, of the I.O.O.F., jointly installed their officers last night. The installing officer was Thos. Duncan, D.D.G.P. The ceremonies were very interesting and were witnessed by a large number of the members of the encampments. At the conclusion of the work, Col. Miller gave an interesting address. As a pleasant "wind up" to the occasion a banquet was partaken of and an enjoyable evening brought to a close. Hooper was caterer and as usual provided a most delectable luncheon.

ENTERTAINED ST. LUKE'S CHOIR

The choir of St. Luke's church was pleasantly entertained last evening by the organist, Miss Charlotte English, at her home Water street. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music, at the conclusion of which dainty refreshments were served. The kind hospitality of Miss English was much appreciated by the members of the choir.

NEED BRAKEMEN ON TOP OF CARS

Railway Commission Decides Against Order Which Would Reduce Height of Bridges.

Ottawa, Ont., January 5.—The Railway Commission yesterday morning decided not to forbid the presence of brakesmen on the top of moving trains. The proposal was made for the purpose of allowing the reduction of the height of bridges and overhead crossings of railways. At present there has to be twenty-two feet six inches between the rails and the bridge, so that there will be room for brakesmen to stand on top of the cars without danger. If the height of the bridges could be reduced by keeping brakesmen off the tops of freight trains the cost of overhead crossings would be greatly reduced.

The proposal to remove brakesmen was opposed as impracticable by representatives of the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and other companies. They declared that even with air brakes on all freight trains there was need for men on the tops of cars to give signals and to supplement the air on grades.

The board decided not to interfere with present conditions.

THE MICROSCOPE.

Proves That Parasites Cause Hair Loss

Nine-tenths of the diseases of the scalp and hair are caused by parasite germs. The importance of this discovery by Professor Unna, of the Hospital, Hamburg, Germany, can not be overestimated. It explains why ordinary hair preparations, even of the most expensive character fail to cure dandruff; because they do not and they can not kill that dandruff germ. The only hair preparation in the world that positively destroys the dandruff parasites that burrow up the scalp into scales called scurf or dandruff, is Newbro's Herpicide. In addition to its destroying the dandruff germ Herpicide is also a delightful hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

BOOSTING BRANDON

Brandon, Jan. 5.—The Brandon real estate exchange at a meeting last night decided to hold a big banquet in the city hall on January 7th. All prominent citizens, manufacturers and business men are expected to take part. The affair is to be the opening of a vigorous campaign to boost the city during 1910, which promises to be the most progressive year in the city's history. The real estate exchange recently formed shows signs of being the liveliest organization the city has ever had.

LOOK OUT FOR PNEUMONIA

Your system is in a run-down condition. You catch cold. You think it will soon pass off. It doesn't. You neglect taking any special care of yourself. Bronchitis developes and then comes pneumonia and a fight for life. A fight which is too often unsuccessful. Why not take every cold seriously and cure it promptly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

WINNIPEG SHOCKED BY "THREE WEEKS"

Magistrate Dismisses Charge of Immorality on Technical Grounds.

Winnipeg, Jan. 5.—The case against a visiting opera company for production of an alleged immoral play "Three Weeks," was dismissed yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Daly. Several witnesses were examined, but their evidence was so technical that little light was thrown on the production's morality or lack of it.

In giving his decision the magistrate declared the play decidedly immoral, but while the prosecution has established this, they had not been able to prove or stipulate by the by-law that there had been lewd and lascivious conduct.

"The charge in this case," he said, "does not use the word lewd, and therefore it is useless for me to convict. Had a charge been brought under the code it would have been a different matter, but under the by-law, I have no option but to dismiss the case."

"SOBRIETY" POINTS OUT "THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY"

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The people in the exercise of their rights have legally decided against the "local option by-law" as it is popularly described. Whether or not that action is in, or contrary to, the interests of the sobriety of our citizens is a matter of opinion. I am of those who do not think that local option is the best way of dealing with what is regarded on all hands as a monstrous scourge, the intemperate use of strong drink. In stating this belief, I know that I shall be denounced as a "friend of whisky" by the more rabid, unreasonable, unreasoning and uncharitable of the advocates of local option. I am not that nor am I any less a true friend of true temperance reform than those who talk most and pray most stonding on the corners of the streets.

I do not for one minute discredit the sincerity and honesty of purpose of those who seek to destroy an evil tree by stripping off a few outside leaves. But I claim for myself and others who think with me, credit for similar sincerity and honesty of purpose.

Even those who shout most loudly, "banish the bar!" admit that the success of local option as a means of destroying the evils associated with the open bar, depends upon its enforcement. Aye, there's the rub! A license law, specifically designed and powerfully equipped with administrative machinery and officials, to control an openly conducted traffic which cannot be plied behind closed blinds, but must in prohibited hours be open to the public gaze, under the most favouring conditions, cannot be enforced. At least it is not enforced. What then can be expected under conditions whereby an essentially demoralizing and bestializing habit firmly fixed upon its unfortunate subjects, is driven to seek gratification in dives, dens, and hidden haunts beyond the eye of the law? Under the license law as it is, and I am afraid always will be, administered, the worst evil is not the open bar, but the closed bar, the Sunday bar, the after-hours bar, when the hateful traffic works in darkness. If we can't suppress the drinking evil in the "closed bar" under the license law, where its locality is known and subject to watching, what can we expect when the drink evil uncontrolled, festers its way into the hidden places of the city, beyond the view of the keenest vigilance. If the license law cannot or as it is not and, apparently will not, be enforced; if a permissive law that involves real option, will not be enforced, will a prohibitory law that by the very contrariety of the depraved human heart, courts evasion and breach, except any greater respect and arouse any greater vigilance or zeal on the part of the authorities? Will the authorities who apparently make the license law a medium of political aggrandisement, and fail, in fact, if not intention, to enforce it, sit up at nights to enforce a local option by-law? Will the authorities that loaded the statute providing for local option, with the un-British handicap of the three-fifths clause; that performed the mathematical juggle of making three equal to five, show any more solicitude in regard to local option than they do in regard to the license law in the matter of enforcement?

I beg to ernestly submit that there is "a more excellent way" than either local option or the license law to promote temperance reform and practically "banish the bar". The "Moral Reform" League is not living up to its name in striving to promote temperance reform by any means that does not touch the individual. A thief is not reformed by making it difficult to steal. Change his heart, influence his will in the direction of honesty, and there is real reform. I wish to submit that St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society of this city demonstrates the utility of a real temperance reform movement. I noticed in the Globe of a few days ago an appreciative article on the good work of this noble organization. But it does not need such an article to show what splendid work it has done and is doing. We see it for ourselves; we see scores and socres of fellow citizens well known to us as having been wrecked by strong drink, now sitting clothed and in their right minds, industrious, sober heads of families and useful and respected citizens. How has this been accomplished? By beginning at the foundation, by making the man the starting point, by appealing to his conscience and his common sense, by wakening his drugged conscience, by rousing the man in the man, by strengthening his will, by making him a man with the responsibility of a man and not a puppet enclosed in a glass case to keep him straight, by making the man his own protection. In the Total Abstinence Society we have a thousand members, which means that to a thousand citizens of Peterborough the bar is closed.

And what does this suggest but, "go thou and do likewise." There are thirteen Protestant churches so called, in Peterborough with settled pastorates. If each of these churches would do in proportion to its strength what St. Peter's has done, what a moral revolution would be made in this city so full of moral reform fervour, with so little fruit! Take it on even the three-fifths basis and that would mean a society of 600 total abstainers to each church. Multiply this by thirteen and we have a product of 7,800. Add this to the actual number of members of the St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society, and we have a total of 8,800, practically an army 9,000 strong marching under the banner of real moral reform. These figures need not be reached, cannot be reached, because we could not get that number of recruits, for 9,000 is in excess of the adult male population of the city. Thus the bar would be banished in regard to practically the whole male population of the city. Would not that close the bars? Under such conditions the bar would starve from lack of patronage. Isn't that something more worth striving for than the adoption of a visionary measure of reform that, at its best, would be only skin deep?

For the past year some of the Protestant ministers of the city have necessarily neglected their legitimate work of preaching the Gospel to enter, with intense zeal and no little intolerance, into the work of booming local option. If they and other Protestant ministers had devoted the same energy, the same earnestness with as much zeal, in organizing total abstinence societies in connection with their churches, success would have come instead of failure as in the handicapped local option campaign.

It is idle to assert that this could not be done. It is to confess that the boasted Protestantism which assumes such an air of superiority, is inferior as a moral agency, inferior in bringing moral results, to the Roman Catholic church.

It may be claimed that the open bar would be a destructive agency of total abstinence societies. Would a total abstainer be in greater danger from the open bar, where the temptation to break his vow comes in full view of the public, or under local option, where the temptation is not alone in his own slumbering appetite, but in the wretch whom we always have with us, who, in his evil ambition to degrade somebody to his own level, "pulls a man off the water wagon" by the agency of the pocket flask in some by-place or dark alley—an ever stalking temptation?

I have tried to indicate the "more excellent way," and it is for those concerned to assume the responsibility.

Yours truly,
SOBRIETY.

Address Of Interest To Poultry Raisers Given Last Night

There was only a fair-sized audience at the Council Chamber last evening on the occasion of the address delivered by Mr. George Robertson, of Ottawa, on "Breeding and Rearing Chickens." It was given in connection with the Poultry Show in the Market Hall, and was decidedly instructive to those interested.

Mr. R. H. Leary occupied the chair in the absence of the president, Mr. Geo. Paxman. He introduced Mr. Robinson in a few well-chosen remarks.

Mr. Robinson said that he would not give an address, but a talk, and he invited discussion on the different suggestions that he made. He stated that he would deal with the hatching of chickens for show purposes. There was a big difference in hatching chickens for show and for the market. If raising them for the market he advocated the use of the incubator.

It was well to leave the chickens in the nest as long as possible after they were hatched. The chickens should be fed a little rape mixed with chopped grains. They should be kept in a warm place for a few days until they got sufficient strength and then they should be put out in the coops. Mr. Robertson showed a sketch of the coop he used, which always proved satisfactory. After putting the chickens out, he first fed them bread and milk. He fed them five times a day, and very little at a time. There was always chopped grain around where they could get it. After the chickens were a week old he let them out with the hens in a field. He also left grain in many parts of the field.

But for show purposes the hen was best. The first thing was to use a box sufficiently large to allow the hen plenty of room. A shovel full of earth should be put in the bottom with a handful of straw on top. For February hatching he advised using less than thirteen eggs, but in June thirteen was all right. Insect dust should always be used on the hens. He advocated using hens of the lighter breeds, and better results would be produced.

In reference to culling he said that a man, to a very large extent, had to get accustomed to the breed. In culling black chickens one should look for one that showed purple. A black chicken should never be culled because it showed white feathers. The buff chickens were the easiest to cull for colour, as the first feathers would show pretty well what it would be.

As soon as chickens began to roost they should be taken away from the hen. They would get along better alone. Chickens in a small yard would mature faster physically, than those having a free range.

After Mr. Robertson had finished there was considerable discussion, many questions being asked and answered. The evening proved very profitable.

Weak Kidneys Make Weak Bodies.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Peterborough People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and langour and urinary ills come and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Booth's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Peterborough cures are the proof.

Mrs. R. Duncan, of 115 McDonnell street, Peterborough, Ont., says:

"Some thirteen years ago I suffered with a severe attack of La Grippe that had up until this spring left me in a weakened and miserable condition. The kidneys had been disordered through this and became so inactive that doctors had pronounced Bright's disease and termed my case incurable. My back was very weak and the pains across the kidneys were most excruciating. I was unable to sleep through the night, and the desire to urinate was so frequent and irregular. The urine was highly coloured and contained a quantity of whitish sediment. I became so discouraged through my years of suffering that I had no care for anything. Booth's Kidney Pills were advertised at Wm. Madill's Pharmacy, and I tried them. The first box convinced me of their merits. I used three boxes of Booth's Kidney Pills and have been entirely cured. I am like a new person, well and strong, and can sleep through the night and awake refreshed and ready for the day."

defence included Esquimalt and Halifax, with the declaration that it was the Government's intention to assume more and more of the burdens of empire. The time would come when they would organize a Canadian navy of their own. This was cheered. He recognized that the supremacy of Great Britain meant her safety and the peace of the world. The branch of the Conservative party in Quebec held that Canada was not bound to do anything but repel invasion, but the best way to repel it was to sink the invader before he could reach them.

He combatted the idea that there was danger to Britain from Germany, quoting the latest tonnage of the respective navies, and believing the old word that blood was thicker than water, could not think the German Emperor would quarrel with his own kin. But Canada must prepare for emergencies. This was the position taken, and he thought it would be appreciated by the people of Canada. Though prudent, they must be bold, economical, but generous.

Dr. J. A. Macdonald was eloquent and impressive in proposing the toast of the evening.

M. J. Haney, occupied the chair, and at the guest table were seated among others with Sir Wilfrid, Senator Kerr, P. C. Larkin, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Senator Jaffray, Dr. Macdonald, Senator Campbell, H. M. Mowat, K.C., W. K. George.

The menu represented Sir Wilfrid dressed as a pioneer guide. American beauty roses and evergreen garlands decorated the room.

Chairman Haney announced the occasion as the formal and official opening of the Ontario Club. There was a force of Liberals in Toronto, which, if put into action, should give equal support to Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Ottawa as the Conservatives gave the Opposition. A determination to do something to bold together a nucleus around which might gather a force to make a stronger fight at the next opportunity than in the last campaign. The Ontario Club was launched as the result. There were at present 499 resident members out of the 500 to which the club was restricted. He introduced Dr. J. A. Macdonald to give the toast of the evening.

Sir Wilfrid at noon received a deputation from the South African Veterans' Association, who asked that the time for making entries under the South African Land Bounty Act, which expires on Dec. 31, 1910, be extended for two years. The Premier promised to give the matter careful consideration. The deputation, which was introduced by H. H. Dewart, K.C., consisted of Sir Henry Pellatt, Col. W. Hamilton Merritt, Major J. C. Mason, Major Rogers, Major Barber, Capt. Warren, Capt. I. Hunter, Lieut. Kennedy and Mr. Holmes.

At 2.30 a deputation from the Ontario Society of Architects called on the Premier to urge the adoption of their plans for the new buildings at Ottawa. Sir Wilfrid was non-committal.

Sir Wilfrid, who was accompanied by Hon. Geo. Graham, Alex. Smith and E. J. Lemaire, arrived in Toronto yesterday morning. He went straight to the King Edward, where quarters had been reserved for the party by the Ontario Club, whose guest the Premier is during his stay in the city.

To-day's program includes luncheon at the home of P. C. Larkin, tea with H. M. Mowat, K.C., and dinner at Government House.

Panama Canal Bill Passes.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 6.—The Mann bill, providing for the administration of the Panama Canal zone, passed the House late yesterday by a vote of 119 to 12.

The measure abolishes the Isthmian Canal Commission and invests the legislative and judicial power on the Isthmus in the United States.

Train Marooned In Desert.

Salt Lake City, Jan. 6.—Train No. 4 on the San Pedro, Salt Lake and Los Angeles Railroad, with 150 passengers, due here from Los Angeles Jan. 1, is marooned in the desert, five miles from Caliente, Nev., the track on both sides having been torn out by the flood of last week. Plenty of provisions are on hand.

Peoria, Ills., Jan. 6.—Suffering from pellagrous mania, Mrs. Valentine Horman, a patient at the state asylum, escaped early yesterday in her night dress and died later of exposure. SILVER IN RIVER BED

Old Robbery of Sir Wilfrid's House Is Recalled by Discovery In Icy Waters of the Missing Silver—Many Articles Believed to Have Been Taken In Montreal Are Also Brought to the Surface.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Two years ago the residence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was burglarized and some valuable silverware stolen.

Every effort to trace it was unavailing, until yesterday Benoit Rouleau, the veteran city diver, brought several of the articles back to earth from the deep bed of the Ottawa River. He was compelled to leave beneath the cold waters watches, spoons and other tiny salvage, as, with the weather ten degrees below zero, and a foot or so of ice covering the river he had to wear such heavy gloves that he could not grasp so small a thing as a dinner fork.

Rouleau recovered a silver tea pot, a sugar bowl, salt cellars and other tableware. He will go down later for the rest.

Some of the loot is believed to have come from Montreal, but the Premier's initials were on several of the articles recovered.

It is thought the goods had been in some kind of a canvas bag, as the torn reins of one were noticed at the bottom, but whether the silverware was thrown in, bag and all, or dumped into the water and then the bag thrown in after, can only be guessed.

The police are looking for a jeweler who formerly resided here, and who is believed to have crossed the border.

DANGEROUS DANDRUFF

Will Make Canada a Baldheaded Nation If Not Checked.

M. Pasteur, the great French Physician of Paris, once said: "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause, there would be no baldness.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

Wm. Madill guarantees it. It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning gray.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease stickiness. It is the favourite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of fascinating hair. A large bottle costs only 50 cents at leading druggists everywhere and in Peterborough by Wm. Madill. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package.

Forty Fishermen Drowned.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 6.—Over forty fishermen, the breadwinners and sole support of practically the population of the villages of Whitehead and Dover, were either drowned or frozen to death in their boats during a blizzard which swept the Nova Scotia coast during the past thirty-six hours.

Twenty-five fishing boats, containing over one hundred men, left Dover and Whitehead before daylight Tuesday morning, and up to a late hour last night only sixteen boats, containing sixty men, have reached their home ports.

Eight boats, containing over forty men, are lost and have either foundered or been driven far out to sea, as no trace of them could be found by steamers that patrolled the fishing grounds and vicinity yesterday.

Gave Life For Child.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—The report of a terrible fatality comes from Shawinigan Falls, in the Three Rivers district.

At an early hour yesterday morning a house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Regis Plante and their young child, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tessier, with their children took fire from a kitchen stove. Mrs. Plante and her six months' old child perished.

The mother could have saved herself, but she returned to save the baby, and both went down to death.

The others in the house were horribly burned.

Mrs. Tessier and her young son Teddy are now in the Notre Dame Hospital here.

Eleven Dead From Poison.

Santa Monica, Cal., Jan. 6.—Two additional members of the Marquise family, victims of ptomaine poisoning, contracted at a New Year's dinner at the home of Mrs. D. C. Valdez, in Sawtelle, on Sunday, died yesterday.

Eleven of the twelve persons who partook of the tainted pears served by Mrs. Valdez now have died, and the one survivor is not expected to recover.

CHEERING HIS PARTY

This Is How the Liberals Describe the Opposition Leader's Statement That Germany Will Not Stand For Tariff Reform—Unionists Think It Was a Good Stroke, and Will Get Votes for the Opposition.

London, Jan. 6.—Conservatives claim that Mr. Balfour's statement that Germany is not prepared to allow Britain to adopt protection, and his reference to naval weakness are worth many votes to the party which, in fact, has been greatly heartened by the re-appearance of its leader and his speech at Henley.

The Liberals, on the other hand, deprecate a man of Mr. Balfour's position and responsibility, dealing with "such perilous stuff," for, as they allege, platform purposes.

"Infinitely more impressive to Germany than any valiant assertion is what we are going to do in the future," says one of the more responsible Liberal organs. "It is a solid fact that our landed classes and our rich men are on strike against the expenditure of the present moment."

Just as Britain is watching Germany for evidence that the money strain is beginning to tell, so Germany is similarly watching Britain and drawing encouraging inferences therefrom.

As to the rejection of the budget by the people, Liberals declare they are refusing to be stampeded by an invasion snare.

The majority believe Premier Asquith when he said that the navy was unassailably supreme.

Lord Lansdowne, addressing a great meeting at Liverpool, responded to a demand for an explanation of a scheme to reform the Lords by adopting that of the Rosebery commission as opposed to an elected chamber, because it would demand equal powers with the Commons. There, however, must be a check upon a raw Commons and a raw Cabinet in order that the will of the people may prevail. Both parties should join for reform. The Lords opposed the budget on its own account, also because they did not want the country to be switched off tariff reform and switched on to another policy he believed would be suicidal.

Lancashire, he admitted, looked with some hesitation on tariff reform, as she had enormous interests at stake, but Lancashire had nothing to lose from a system which would make foreigners pay for the use of our markets. Even supposing prices were to rise a little, they could not rise much, because nobody talked about anything except a moderate scale of duties. The country would not have such a bad bargain, as the duties would have the effect of giving much needed revenue.

There were four thousand meetings last night, the majority being Unionist. Seven Cabinet Ministers, including the Premier, the Chancellor and several of the front opposition bench, including Mr. Balfour as well as 23 peers, were amongst the orators.

"Never since the days of Simon de Montfort," said Mr. Asquith at Brighton, "have so many peers addressed the people."

The Chancellor, in London, caused great laughter by describing his budget as simply a revised and enlarged edition of Kipling's ballad, "Cooks' Sons, Dukes' Sons, Sons of the Belted Earl," with its refrain "Pay, Pay, Pay."

Sixteen London and fifty provincial constituencies will vote on Saturday, the 15th. The forecasts of the Unionists claim seven Liberal seats, even though in some cases the Liberals at the last election had a majority of 1,500.

The Marquis of Londonderry, at Belfast, declared that the Unionist would rather occupy the Opposition position till the crack of doom than hold office five minutes dependent upon the Irish vote.

Walter Long, at Belfast, said home rule meant the destruction of the prosperity and happiness of the people of Ireland. He recalled the words of Randolph Churchill, "Ulster will fight Ulster." Those were awful words, and it might be the future had for them a choice as terrible as civil war.

Vancouver B.C., Jan. 6.—One person out of 92 of the city's population died in 1909. Ten of these deaths was tuberculosis.

"Bronchitis"

is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather and may be recognized by a tightness across the chest, sharp pains and a difficulty in breathing, a secretion of thick phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color coming from the bronchial tubes when coughing, especially the first thing in the morning. Cure the first symptoms of bronchitis by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Bronchitis Cured.

Miss Martha Bourget, Little Pabos, Que., writes: "Last spring I was very poorly, had a bad cough, sick headache, could not sleep, and was tired all the time. I consulted two doctors, and both told me I had bronchitis, and advised me to give up teaching. I tried almost everything but none of the medicines gave me any relief. One of my friends advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I had scarcely taken the first bottle when I began to get better and when I had taken the fourth bottle I felt as well as ever, my cough had left me and I could sleep well."

"Dr. Wood's" is the original Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark and the price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Mrs. Russell Sage has given a second extension of time to the American Bible Society, which now requires $43,612 to equal the sum of $500,000 offered by Mrs. Sage conditional on an equal amount being raised.

Eastern Ontario Dairymen Meet.

Belleville, Jan. 6.—The 33rd annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association opened in the Carman Opera House yesterday, with President John R. Dargavel, M.P.P., in the chair. There was a large attendance.

In his address Mr. Dargavel said the normal quantity of cheese had been made this season, but less butter had been made. He spoke of his experience as member of the Ontario Milk Commission, and said the Ontario Government might enact some drastic legislation in regard to milk at its next session.

Dancers Driven Out by Fire.

Strathconas and West Ends Won Opening Games In City League

Large Crowd Saw the Season of 1910 Inaugurated Under Most Encouraging Auspices ---Two Hard Fought and Interesting Games Played.

YOUNG STARS SHINE

700 fans saw the Strathconas beat Keene and the West Ends trim the T. A. S. in the opening games of the City Hockey League at the Brock St. rink last night. The Commissioners outscored Dr. McWilliams' Keene aggregation by 10 to 6, while West Ends had the same margin on the Abstainers, winning by 7 to 3. Both games were hard fought and interesting and the hockey was surprisingly good considering the fact that the players have not yet rounded into shape and the hour's grind told upon nearly all of them, especially the T. A. S. in the last part of the second game. The opening was remarkable for the number of young players who broke into City League company last night and without exception made good.

The Strathcona-Keene fixture was some game. It was hammer and tongs up and down the ice all the way for the entire sixty minutes, and neither team let up much until the final gong. Every man worked for all that was in him and in addition to the see-saw nature of the scoring there was some really brilliant combination and some equally brilliant individual work sandwched in and the article dished up more than delighted the fans. It was hard and fast but clean, only a couple of men on each side being penalized and in these isolated cases the offences were not serious. It was a brand of hockey that will make the City League games even more popular than ever this season.

It was a pecultar game in some respects. First came a brilliant opening on the part of the Strathconas, who assumed a two goal lead early in the first half, then followed a rally on the part of Keene, resulting in a score. Back came the commissioners with two more and Keene tallied again. Once more the Strathconas broke loose and before half time rammed three past Dinsdale and Keene looked a badly beaten team when they skated off the ice at half time with the score 7-2 against them. The second half, however, was somewhat in the nature of a surprise package. Keene came back with ginger to burn and Manager Mcllerall's hair began to turn white at the roots when aided by a penalty against McMillan for tripping, the villagers rang the bell three times in a row and ewre only two behind the Commissioners. Then came a period of up and down playing, in which neither team had much advantage. This was broken when the Straths scored, but Keene followed suit and the score was 8 to 6 with little more than five minutes to play. The Commissioners, however, made sure of the game by a strong finish, which gave them two more goals and the first 1910 game ended 10 to 6.

The Strathconas' line-up rather surprised the talent. With the loss of a number of men of last year's seven the fans rather thought that the Commissioners would not be serious contenders this season. However, the securing of Derocher for goal helped a lot and the infusion of young blood into the team by the addition of Denison and Burritt, of the Collegiate Institute rounded out the seven in great shape and the red and white outfit displayed surprising form. Especially was this true last night of the forward line, which handed out a great brand of combination. Sweeping down the ice three and four in line they carried the rubber right in the nets before letting drive at Dinsdale, and it was in this team work that they were more than anything else superior to the losers. This with their good back-checking gave them the victory by a comfortable margin in spite of the fact that Derocher and Ray were in no shape to play. Until 8 o'clock it was doubtful whether either would be able to play, but they climbed out in spite of their condition.

Derocher was ill in bed at 6 o'clock, but in spite of that gave a good account of himself in the nets, turning aside a number of sure counters in his usual reliable fashion. Denison, the young point player, who made his first City League appearance last night, checked splendidly on the defensive and showed a fine burst of speed in rushing, carrying the rubber down in clever fashion. Dusty, at cover again for the third season with the Commissioners, worked hard all the way.

The forward line played an unselfish brand of hockey, no one attempting to star, to the detriment of the scoring ability of the team. Burritt the youngest player in the City League, fitted in the Strath's combination as if he had been with them for years, and easily stopped the gap that it was thought Herb Long's absence would cause. His stickhandling and shooting were features and he was in nearly every combination play, besides being deadly in his shooting. He made the biggest hit of the evening with the fans and the Commissioners made no mistake in securing the autograph of this clever youngster.

Charley Ray started out under a big handicap owing to an injury in practice the night before, but despite the fact he played a sterling game all the way. He was as fast as ever and he and Burritt tore off some beautiful combinations together, while in addition Ray's checking was decidedly useful. McMillan was always in the thick of the fray, working in well with the other forwards, while he checked back untiringly. The same is true of Weatherstone over on the other wing. He was the same old reliable, hard working player, that he has been ever since he first wore the Strathcona colours five years ago.

The showing of the Keene team more than tickled the fans. At sea to some extent upon the large ice surface, they however played an unceasinglyhard working game, in which there was no let up until the end. While they lacked the team work of the Straths individually they made a splendid showing and with a little more team work together they will all have to step down to head off that bunch. They have a team of hard workers and fast skaters and when you get that combination there is always trouble for the other fellows. They checked well and in every way showed themselves a good team.

Considering the fact that he had no practice, Dinsdale played a remarkably good game in goal, slipping out a number of sure things in good fashion. Dickson, the veteran point, has slowed up considerably compared to his old time form of which he showed only flashes last night. McDougall, who was with the intermediate Eurekas of Toronto, last year, was at cover, and he proved an awkward proposition to get away from, as he is big, fast and aggressive.

Weir, the diminutive centre, and Smith, at left wing, were the best of the forward line, although the latter was not in good condition and loafed palpably in the last half. Both are fast and clever stick handlers, and they helped a lot. Vince McCarthy, at rover, worked heroically and did a lot of useful work and McIntyre, at right wing did his share in keeping the Straths' defence busy.

The teams were as follows:

The game started off with a rush that promised a hard battle. Almost from the face off McMillan got away, passing to Burritt who handed it to Ray, but the latter's shot was blocked by Dinsdale cleverly. Smith relieved with a nice rush along the boards, but Dusty stopped him and the puck travelled back towards the Keene goal. McDougall was penalized for tripping, but nothing happened while he was off. Then Denison, after checking a Keene rush, shot down the side and passed across the rink to Burritt, who bored right in and scored in four minutes. Strathconas 1, Keene 0.

Keene came back with a determined rush but could not score, Denison relieving by a number of pretty rushes. Then McMillan got away, passed to Ray, who returned and Burritt slammed in another on McMillan's shot in four minutes. Strathconas 2, Keene 0.

It was only after fourteen minutes' hard playing that the teams scored again. The Strathconas were having

LEN DOBSON,

Captain of West Ends, Whose Team defeated T. A. S. Last Night.

a little the better of the argument, but Keene were coming right back at them and both goal keepers had some work to do during the period. It was Keene that finally scored, Weir doing the trick from a scrimmage in front of the Straths' goal. Strathconas 2, Keene 1.

It only took the Commissioners 12 seconds to get that one back. Burritt and Ray broke away from the face-off together and after some pretty passing Ray scored, after Burritt's shot was stopped. Strathconas 3, Keene 1.

Four minutes later McMillan made it 4-1 by a pretty shot from the wing.

Weir sent Keene's stock up some a minute later, by pushing one past Derocher from a scrimmage. Strathconas 4, Keene 2.

Dusty and Smith had a fistic combat at this stage which resulted in their temporary banishment from the scene of activities. The Straths were having considerably the better of the going at this stage and McMillan and Burritt flashed down together, the former scoring on a neat pass close in from the latter in three minutes. Strathconas 5, Keene 2.

Thirty minutes from the face-off Burritt and Ray united for a pretty combination run, which resulted in the latter tipping the sphere past Dinsdale. Strathconas 6 Keene 2.

Half a minute later and Burritt repeated the trick on a clever rush. Strathconas 7, Keene 2. Half time was called a minute later.

Keene opened the second half with a burst of speed that had the Strathconas backing up. They rushed from the face-off and in one Smith pushed the puck past Derocher, doing the trick on a pretty individual rush from centre.—Strathconas 7, Keene 3.

The Strathconas came back with a counter rush, and Dusty had an opening, but Dinsdale was in the way. McDougall tripped McIntyre, and was sent away and while he was off Keene came with a rush; Weir scored from a scrimmage in front of the nets in two minutes.—Strathconas 7, Keene 4.

In less than a minute Smith broke away from centre and on a pretty rush caged the puck behind Derocher, while the crowd rooted wildly. —Strathconas 7, Keene 5.

With Keene pressing and the Commissioners on the defensive, the fans rooted hard for the Villagers to come on and win, but McMillan was back on the ice at this stage, and, with the teams even the Straths began to come back at the villagers. It was a nip and tuck with both teams going fast, and both goals in danger. Dusty got two minutes, but there was no damage done when he was off. Then the Straths got going, Burritt broke away and with Ray alongside, galloped down the rink. A pass to Ray at the right moment, followed by a neat shot, put the Straths three to the good.—Strathconas 8, Keene 5.

Smith got a minute for loafing offside, but on his return sent Keene's stock up again by slamming one through from a mix-up, in 2 minutes. —Strathconas 8, Keene 6.

Burritt broke away from centre, and on the prettiest piece of two-man combination of the night, Dusty scored from close in after a number of passes had been exchanged between the two.—Strathconas 9, Keene 6.

Dusty got another penalty for tripping. Weatherstone broke away from his own goal, and, rushing nicely up the side centred to Burritt, who annexed the last goal of the game with a nice shot—Strathconas 11, Keene 6.

The summary follows:

1—Strathconas, Burritt, 4 mins.

Second Game.

The second game between T.A.S. and West Ends was a strain on the nervous system. Both teams worked as hard as a fat man trying to catch a street car half a block away and it was exciting all the way through. There was not the team work that was prominent in the first game, but there was individual hockey of the hard working, gruelling kind that brings the fans to their feet. The West Ends got under way first and rammed in two goals, one on a long shot from centre and then Jack Dennard's demons cut loose and hammered their way through to the Westerners' goal for three counters, putting them one to the good, and they were still hugging that one majority against the bosom of their green and white jerseys when they climbed off at half time.

Now one goal is not much of a handicap in some games, but when the Abstainers came back after the rubbing period and held out the Westerners for half of the last period that one goal looked as big as the new public library to the adherents of the yellow and black. Then West Ends tied the score and it was even up, with fifteen minutes to play. For the next ten minutes the play was as close and even as any game could be and then the West Ends finished on the bit, netting four goals in the last few minutes by a garrison finish that caused great excitement.

Johnny Oldham trotted out a pretty classy bunch of puck chasers, and the playing of the West Ends made a very favourable impression upon the fans. With Dobson and Seymour to steady the younger players, they have an outfit that will take a whole lot of beating this season. The players are young and fast and neat stickhandlers, and the team is well balanced, although they have not as yet developed a great deal of team work. This will come later, however, with practice, and when it does, look out for the yellow and black aeptette. Their greatest fault last night was to bunch too much on the forward line, to such an extent that they made combination, except in spots, almost impossible. There is, however, the material there for a great forward line.

Halpin, in goal, uncovered a sterling article of net guardianship, picking out many shots at close range in clever fashion and those that beat him were well in. Munro, at point, checked hard and rushed nicely, relieving many times on well timed jaunts down the ice. The same is true of Seymour, who showed great speed last night and whose rushes were always dangerous to the T. A. S. Ken Crane, of the Collegiate team, made his first City League appearance at rover for the Oldhamites and he emphatically made good his skating, stick handling and shooting, stamping him with the unqualified approval of the City League fans. Len Dobson played centre to perfection, rushing and shooting splendidly, while he was working all the way. He was handicapped by a bad cold, and his work was all the more creditable under the circumstances.

Cyril Giroux and Bill Short on the wings are a pair of fast, clever youngsters, who never know the meaning of let-up and their work was on finished character all through the piece.

The line-up that Manager Deanard introduced to the public were with a couple of exceptions no strangers to City League patrons, but they were new in T. A .S. uniforms. Three of them, the two Sabatinos and Morin were with the Lakefield champions last year. The team was good individually and worked like Trojans, but they have not been together long enough to get any system about their play, and their efforts at combination were decidedly weak. They are heavy and check vigorously and with a little practice should round into a pretty formidable aggregation. As long as they lasted they held West Ends out in surprising fashion, but they were pretty near all in when the final gong sounded.

One of the features of the T. A. S. team was the work of Len Giroux between the flags. A couple of easy ones beat him at the wiudup, but for the greater part of the game his work could not have been improved upon. He blocked shot after shot at some stages in great fashion, saving goals when the Westerners were in on top of him.

Mick Sabatino checked well at point, as did Quigley, while the latter also helped considerably by his rushing. On the forward line Tony Sabatino distinguished himself by his scoring ability, while Coughlin and McNicholl, the latter comin from the Norwood Trent Valley team, showed speed and good stick handling ability. Morin on the other wing, worked hard, but did not seem to be in shape. The teams lined up as follows:

T. A. S. (3).—L. Giroux, goal; M. Sabatino, point; Quigley, cover; Coughlin, rover; T. Sabatino, centre; Morin, right wing; McNicholl, left wing.

West Ends opened the fray with a rush and within three minutes of the face off Crane put his team in the lead on a long shot from centre. T. A.S. came back hard but Halpin pulled off a nice stop and then Giroux was called upon to show his ability. Up and down the rubber travelled for five minutes with neither side having much advantage, and then Cyril Giroux fooled his brother with a shot from close in. West Ends 2, T.A.S. 0.

Then the T.A.S. got going. Tony Sabatino rushed nicely and shot and on the rebound McNicholl slipped one past Halpin in one minute. West Ends 2, T. A. S. 1.

Dobson got a minute for slashing, and then M. Sabatino was sent away for a too vigorous use of his body.

T. A. S. were having the better of the going and in a few minutes Tony Sabatino put his team in the lead by scoring twice from mix-ups in front of the nets. T.A.S. 3, West Ends 2. The figures remained this way until half time.

The game was faster and more open in the second half and neither side had much advantage until Dobson scored from a face-off near the T.A.S. goal. With the teams even and three quarters of the game over, there was little to choose between the two, the result was in doubt until West Ends forged ahead by scoring from a scrimmage with Goalkeeper Giroux in a heap.

The Abstainers went to pieces. Crane scored again in one minute, and then Seymour lifted one from centre which Giroux never saw. Dobson ended the scoring with a pretty shot and the game ended with the West Ends on top, 7 to 3.

The summary:—

1 West Ends, Crane 3 mins.
2 West Ends, Giroux 5 mins.
3 T.A.S., McNicholl 1 min.
4 T.A.S., T. Sabatino, 3 min
5 T.A.S., T. Sabatino, 2 mins.
Half time.
6 West Ends, Dobson 12 mins.
7 West Ends, Dobson 10 mins.
8 West Ends, Crane 1 min.
9 West Ends, Seymour 1 min.
10 West Ends, Dobson.

Penalties — West Ends, Dobson, Munro, Seymour. T.A.S., Quigley, M. Sabatino, McNicholl.

Bill Rose referced both games very satisfactorily, being thoroughly impartial and very strict. He will likely officiate in all the games this season.

LINDSAY'S PROSPECTS FOR INTERMEDIATES

The members of the proposed intermediate hockey club had a work out last night at the rink. The ice was in good shape and the boys indulged in a good practice. Frank Cote was out and he pleased the fans by his work. Capt. Stoddard showed his old time form, and Blomfield and Dougan were also conspicuous by their splendid skating and stick handling. Byron Green was out, and he promises to make good on the line-up. A number of other candidates for positions on the team were in uniform, and the indications are that Lindsay can place a good team in the intermediate series.—Lindsay Post.

Had Given Up All Hope of Living.

Heart Trouble Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Andrew Savoy, Grattan's, N.B., writes:—"In the year 1905, I was taken sick and did not think I could live any length of time. My trouble was with my heart and people told me that nothing could be done for a case like mine. I consulted the very best doctors, but they could do me no good. For seven weeks I could hardly cross the floor. I had no pain, but was so weak nobody in the world can believe how I felt. I had given up all hopes of living and had given my little girl to my sister-in-law.

"One day a friend came to see me, and calling me by name, said, 'Lizzie, if I were you I would try a dose of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as they are good for heart trouble.' My husband got me a box, but for two days I was not feeling any better, but on the fourth day my husband said, 'I believe those pills are doing you good.' I was able to say, 'Yes, I feel a good deal better this morning.' He said, 'Well, I will get you another box right away.' I took two boxes and three doses out of the third one, and I was perfectly well and have not been sick since then.

"I will never be without them in my home for God knows if it had not been for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I would not have been alive now."

Price, 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MAKE THE BLOOD RICH AND RED

Miss Cynthia Hutchinson, Hancoville, B. C., writes: "My system was so completely run down that my friends as well as myself thought I could never get better. All medicines failed to help me. A trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food benefitted me and at the end of a month people scarcely knew me I had improved so much. The blood was enriched, colour improved, new flesh was added, and I got strong and well."

PRESENTED WITH A GOLD HEADED UMBRELLA

The Springville Presbyterian church held the closing exercises in connection with the Sunday School last week. A very good year's work in the Sunday School was reported. A programme was rendered and, in addition to the prizes to pupils, there was a special prize to Melville R. Whitfield, who recited the whole of the shorter catechism without a mistake and, in addition, also recited 600 Scripture verses, making 707 in all, without an error. He received a diploma as well as a gold seal from the General Assembly and a handsome Bible from the Session, the presentation being made by Messrs McIntosh and Albert Sanderson, members of the Session. Last year Master Whitfield was presented with a $5 gold piece for a similar performance.

Ontario Surveyor Whitson Returns From Porcupine District.

Toronto, Jan. 7. J. F. Whitson, assistant chief of the surveys branch of the Ontario Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, returned to Toronto yesterday after a ten days' tour of the new Porcupine gold fields.

"I have no hesitation in saying that the Porcupine district is, with the exception of Cobalt, far more promising than any other section of Ontario I have seen," said Mr. Whitson.

"Is it being taken up?"

"Why, there are 2,000 claims staked out. The whole of the Township of Whitney and the whole of the Township of Tisdale, with the exception, of course, of the lots reserved for veterans, have been staked. Two-thirds of the Township of Shaw, which lies south of Whitney, and two-thirds of the unnamed township lying to the south of Tisdale, have also been staked out.

"To show you how things are going, there are at the present time several hundreds of prospectors in the woods doing development work on claims staked within the last two months.

"There are about 50 people starting to build stores and stopping places at the northeast end of Porcupine Lake. Then you must remember that there are ten stopping-places already finished on the road in from 252. These will accommodate quite a number, so you see, it is only a question of a week or two before everybody will be provided for in the matter of accommodation. I haven't heard of anyone having to sleep out in the open.

"People are coming in to Porcupine at the rate, probably, of 50 a day. They are coming in from both directions, from mile-post 222 and from Matheson, but the bulk of them are coming in from 222."

Detective Played Jailbird.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 7.—The incarceration of a New York detective in the Albany county jail for the purpose of securing evidence against Dominick Ferrer, charged with murder in the first degree, was brought to light yesterday at the trial of Ferrer.

The detective, Michael Bernable, was arrested on his arrival on Albany on Dec. 2, in accordance with the plan arranged by the district attorney and sheriff of Albany county, arraigned before the magistrate and committed to jail until Dec. 22.

Bernable was given a berth with Ferrer and Vincent Leonardo, who are accused of having killed George E. Phelps a few months ago.

Bernable testified yesterday that Ferrer admitted to him that he was a member of a branch of a Black Hand society, known as the "the family of the dead bodies," and that Phelps was murdered under orders from the society.

VIOLENCE IS COMING IN

Labor Minister is Knocked Down by Unknown Assailant While Leaving a Meeting — Sisters of Peers Are Joining In the Campaign and Are Turning Their Attention to the School Children.

London, Jan. 7.—John Burns, President of the Local Government Board and Labor leader in the House of Commons, had a smart mix-up with an unidentified man as he was leaving a political meeting Wednesday night. The Minister was about to enter his motor car when the other sprang upon him from behind and threw him to the ground. There was a lively struggle and exchange of blows until the police pulled the assailant away.

The fight is becoming so hot that no prominent peer or Unionist campaign orator, against whom the wrath of the people seems particularly stirred will appear upon the street at night except when attended by a bodyguard.

Serious disturbances again marked many meetings last night. The Earl of Donoughmore and Lord Chylesmore, attempting to address a Conservative meeting at Coventry, found that the hall had been captured beforehand by the Radicals, who howled all the speakers down. The meeting broke up in disorder.

A similar fate overtook Lord Rothschild at Wolverton, where a crowd of rough hooligans rushed the door.

Sir William Bull, member of the House of Commons for Hammersmith, while speaking before the electors of that constituency was rudely heckled by a man in the crowd. He threatened to punch the man's head.

"Come on," shouted the man. Sir William forthwith descended, and the crowd formed a ring. A stand-up fight ensued until the police separated the combatants.

Sir William speaking of the affair, said he was none the worse for the encounter. "There has been a deal of unfair Radical rowdyism lately," he said, "this affair may clear the air, as Englishmen like a fair fight and no fouling."

Chancellor Lloyd-George, at London, last night, took the unusual course of prematurely announcing the trade returns for December, when exports had increased by 4,388,000 pounds over December, 1909, and by 1,000,000 pounds over 1907, which stood as the record year. With imports and exports together the increase was 5,000,000 pounds, and he prophesied 1910 would be another record year in trade.

Taking both exports and imports, it was better by $25,000,000. Furthermore, the increase in imports was not in manufactured goods but raw material for food.

It looked as though the coming year would be the best British trade ever experienced.

Premier Asquith, David Lloyd-George, John Burns and other members of the Government, occupied last night in denouncing A. J. Balfour's alarmist references to Germany, and refuting his accusation of the unpreparedness of the navy.

Mr. Lloyd-George, speaking at Peckham, made some strong remarks anent Mr. Balfour's Hanley speech, which he described as the last resort of a desperate man who saw his cause lost." Balfour, the Chancellor said, has now become a tail-twister, the discredited game played in America by the lowest type of politician. It was a dangerous game for the peace of Europe, discreditable to the leader of a great party and disgraceful to British politics.

Lord Desborough was unable to obtain a hearing at Camberwell, and to secure a hearing for Arnold Lupton, the Liberal candidate, at Sleaford. Captain Weigell, Unionist, had to preside. Similarly the Liberal vicar of Cottenham presided for Captain Morrison Bell, the Unionist. The Right Hon. A. Lyttleton was vigorously heckled even in exclusive Hanover Square. Many other meetings of both parties showed the heat engendered among the electors.

The Belfast Orange Grand Lodge last night issued a manifesto declaring that any candidate who opposes a properly selected Unionist candidate and calls himself a Unionist, acts the part Lundy acted in the siege of Derry, and every man who votes for such records his vote for home rule.

Swift McNeil, M.P., speaking to a representative of the C.A.P., said it was too late to rouse religious bigotry. Lord Randolph Churchill was up to his neck in the Parnell and Tory combination of 1885, but finding the Tories could not succeed in giving home rule he told Justin McCarthy: "I have done all I can for you now, and must do all I can against you."

He later declared: "Ulster will fight and Ulster will be right," but no fight is left. Rev. Fireaway Flanagan threatened to kick the crown into the Boyne if the church were disestablished, but the crown is still safe on King Edward.

The peers having done so much to advance the popular cause by their exhibitions during the last few days, it is not surprising that peers' sisters are now appearing on the scene to show how much better they can manage things.

They are turning their attention to the elementary schools, and, as will be seen from the narratives which we publish below, two of them—one in East Herts and another in Cheltenham—addressed the scholars and told them that their fathers must vote for the Tory candidates. In the East Herts schools, "Vote for Rolleston," the Tory candidate, was actually chalked up on the blackboard in order to impress the message on the minds of the children. Another morning Lady Faudel Phillips, wife of Sir George Faudel Phillips, of Seale Hall, Hertford, visited the All Saints Elementary School, East H[illegible] and induced Lady Rolleston, wife of the Tory candidate, Sir John Rolleston, to the scholars.

After some conversation Lady Faudel Phillips told the scholars to ask their fathers to vote for Sir John Rolleston and not for Mr. E. B. Barnard, M.P., the Liberal candidate. To make the thing more sure she caused the teacher to write the name on the blackboard, and "Vote for Rolleston" consequently appeared thereon.

SEEM TO BE HOLDING BACK

Coroner Anxious to Know How Dead Man Got Off the Car, But None of the Witnesses Seem Willing or Able to Enlighten Him—All Say Bradley Punched or Kicked Man While on the Ground.

St. Catharines, Ont., Jan. 7.—With the court room crowded to the doors, the inquest into the death of George Bulman, of Thorold, who met his death in Merritton on New Year's day, was continued before Coroner Jory yesterday evening.

Evidence was conflicting, but almost every witness swore to having seen Bradley, the accused, kick or punch the deceased. Although a number were standing within a few feet of Bulman, no one could tell how he slid from the car to the road.

John Boucock, of Thorold, stated that deceased fell on the platform, and that Bradley hit him with his foot, Bulman sliding out from the car and striking the ground. Prisoner then kicked Bulman twice about the head or face.

Matthew Walsh of Merritton testified to having loosened Bradley's grip on Bulman's neck while on the car. He had seen Bradley's hand within three inches of Bulman's face, but did not see the latter struck.

Byron Cain of Thorold swore he had seen Bulman standing on the lower step with his hand on the railing, but did not know how he reached the ground. Cain said Bradley struck at deceased and a second later made a move with his foot to kick him. He did not think there would be room for deceased to lie on the platform, as Walsh had stated. Nor did George Sinnett think deceased could lie on the platform, as there were 15 others standing there. George Ekins corroborated other witnesses.

This concluded the evidence, and Crown Attorney Brennan said more would be secured if desired. He was anxious to find out how Bulman had reached the ground from the car, and if anybody had shoved him off.

Foreman Hodgins was of the opinion that some of the witnesses knew more than they wished to tell, and Coroner Jory stated that those who were in the vestibule of the car would regret all their lives that they had not stopped the quarrel and saved Bulman's life. He censured Conductor Francis for not interfering. From evidence deceased came to his death from a blow administered by Bradley. The foreman, however, desired more evidence, as he considered the prisoner would hardly be receiving fair play otherwise, and the inquest was adjourned until next Monday. A large number of Bradley's friends shook hands with the accused.

Perjury Charged.

St. Catharines, Jan. 7.—Howard Lowrey has been served with notice to appear before James Aikens, J.P., at Niagara-on-the-Lake, next week on a charge of perjury.

The Lowreys of Niagara Township are strong temperance men, Frank H., uncle of accused having been elected reeve of municipality on that ticket at Monday's elections. The young man, whose name appeared on the voter's list as a farmer's son, is said by anti-local optionists to have left the municipality and taken up his residence at Niagara Falls. On election day, as the antis claim, he appeared at a polling booth for a ballot, taking the oath of residence. It is on this that the charge is made.

Thin Ice Expensive to Contractors.

Port Arthur, Jan. 7.—The mild weather has had the effect of keeping the ice on Sturgeon and Nipigon Lakes very thin, and the contractors of the G.T.P., who have been figuring on toting supplies across the ice, are much inconvenienced. As snow now covers the ice, it will need an extra amount of cold to make it thicken, and as mild weather is predicted, the contractors stand to lose considerable. Several horses have been drowned in Sturgeon Lake in endeavoring to cross.

This One Shot to Death.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Failing to comply with a demand for $5,000 contained in letters signed "the Black Hand," which he received through the mails some time ago, B. Sinone, 60 years old, an Italian merchant was shot and instantly killed by three men yesterday morning while he lay asleep in the rear of his store.

Strathcona Sends Help.

Montreal, Jan. 7.—Sir Hugh Graham received a cable yesterday afternoon from Lord Strathcona, in London, stating that he was cabling him $25,000 for the emergency hospital which has been opened in connection with the typhoid fever outbreak here, and that he was prepared to subscribe $100,000 towards the eradication of the causes, should a citizens' fund be started.

The emergency hospital has so far received forty cases, and others are being brought in hourly.

Local subscriptions so far amount to about $25,000.

Wolves in Western Ontario.

Port Arthur, Jan. 7.—John Scott came in from Keewanee, on the Canadian Northern, yesterday with ten wolf skins, collecting a bounty on each of $15. He poisoned them all. A short time before he shot three, so the bounty collected in the last month is about $200.

Trappers report a large increase in the number of coyotes in the wooded districts of Northern Ontario, coming off the plains of Manitoba and Minnesota, driven out by the increase of population there.

G. B. Shaw Helps Strikers.

New York, Jan. 7.—George Bernard Shaw, at the request of two of the leaders of the striking shirtwaist makers, has replied to the decision given by Justice Olmstead against a strike-breaker. The judge had said: "You are on strike against God and nature, whose prime law it is that man shall earn his bread in the sweat of his brow. You are on strike against God."

Mr. Shaw's reply is: "Delightful mediaeval America. Always in the intimate personal confidence of the Almighty."

Resignation of Dr. Robertson.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Rumors of friction attend the resignation of Dr. W. J. Robertson as principal of Macdonald College at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que. His service at this industrial institution has made Dr. Robertson's name a household word among agriculturists throughout Canada, but his views of administration, it is said, differed widely from those of Sir William Macdonald, founder and chief supporter of the college. Dr. Robertson will not pursue agricultural research work abroad.

MR. MOHER REEVE FOR FOURTH TIME

Official Returns From Douro and Ennismore Elections.

Examiner Special.

The result of the Douro election, given below, gives Mr. Frank Moher another victory over his old opponent, Mr. Dennis Moloney. The last election was their fourth run for the Reeve's chair in succession. Great interest is taken by both parties to elect their man. The majority for the four elections are given:

In 1907, Moher, 11 majority.
In 1908, Moloney, 33 majority.
In 1909 Moher, 28 majority.
In 1910 Moher, 64 majority.

Moher has gained 36 votes over last year's majority.

The result of Monday's election is as follows:

Reeve—F. Moher, 259 votes; D. Moloney, 195 votes.

Councillors—Wm. J. Charlton, 259; Patrick Farley, 247; Michael Moloney 236; Bart. Leahy, 217; Michael Walsh, 205; Wm. J. Bullock, 127.

The first four are elected. All the old council, with the exception of M. Walsh, are returned. Mr. Walsh had made up his mind to retire from municipal life, but being pressed by a great many ratepayers he consented to have his name remain on the ballot. If he had been in the field early, no doubt he would have been returned, as he was a first-class councillor and no doubt the figures above show up well for him, considering the circumstances. No. 2 Division will not have a representative living in the ward for 1910.

NO INDIGESTION OR STOMACH DISORDER

No Gas, Heartburn, Headache or Dyspepsia Five Minutes Later.

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juice working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of gas, or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and dizziness and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odours.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of indigestion and upset stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines and besides one single dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as the sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When diapepsin works your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all stomach misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now you can get relief in five minutes.

FELL FROM LOFT BEAM AND WAS HURT

Examiner Special.

Fraserville, Jan. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood were visiting friends at Keene last week.

Misses Myrtle and Rose Kidd, of Lakefield, are the guests of Miss Keitha Kidd, here.

Misses Delafosse and Hilliard, of Peterborough, were the guests of Miss Hammer last week.

Mr. Wm. Henry happened with a very painful accident on Monday last, while threshing at Mr. A. Woods'. He was coming down from the loft and as he was getting over the beam, his foot slipped, allowing him to fall to the barn floor below. He struck his head on a plank cutting it severely. Eye witnesses state that Mr. Henry had a very miraculous escape from being killed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Cruickshank, are visiting friends in Peterborough.

Mrs. J. S. Latimer and Mrs. W. A. Kidd and their sister, Mrs Wasson, of Warsaw, are visiting their parents, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Robison, at Norham.

The Atchison-Berry case has not yet been settled. His Honour, Judge Roger, of Cobourg, arrived in the village on Friday morning on the 8.10 G.T.R. train, and amidst an excited and enthusiastic crowd, made an inspection of the disputed pig. His Honour declined to speak on the subject, but stated that he would give his decision in two days. Mr. Berry stated that in the event of his losing the case he would appeal it, but the judge advised him of the fact that this is impossible under the circumstances, and the only thing he may do, is to have another trial, which possibly may take place yet.

Mrs. Wm. Cruickshank spent Sunday with her parents, at Osaca.

APPLE PACKERS CRITICIZED

From Farm and Dairy.

Mr. P. W. Hodgetts, head of the horticultural branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, has severely "roasted" the apple shippers of the province for their dishonesty in shipping apples. In his last letter of the season Mr. Hodgetts says, "A number of shippers who were supposed to put out an honest pack have fallen from grace, and it will mean a loss of many dollars before their reputation will be re-established. Such cussed foolhardiness seem difficult to understand from this end, and any association or independent packer deserves to suffer severely for deliberately attempting to deceive the buyer, which seems to have been done in a number of cases." "Associations are warned to select their employees with care, for the concerns are in business to stay, and to create a reputation. Careless packers are very dangerous."

SAVE THE REPUTATION

"For the salvation of this reputation do not let a barrel go out of your packing house which is in the least doubtful." says Mr. Hodgetts. "The Hood River apple growers would still be getting 83 cents a barrel with which they started, if they had followed the methods of so many of our Ontario farmers.

"The excuse tha tit is impossible to pack a decent grade of apples from auch of the fruit grown in Ontario is not accepted as a matter of fact.

"If they cannot find time to look after the orchards, either themselves or with efficient labor, then in the best interests of the association cut them off. Don't risk your reputation on poor fruit. Send it to the evaporator, where it belongs.

"To the man who cares for the trees may be expected a return far above the amounts received from the ordinary lines of agriculture, but no farmer who is sontent with the average in production of his ordinary crops need think that he can make even a decent living out of fruit growing."

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and puts the finishing touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

of life. It is a feeling common to the majority of us that we do not get quite the amount of happiness we are entitled to. Among the countless things which tend to make us more or less miserable ill health takes first place. Hannah More said that sin was generally to be attributed to biliousness. No doubt a crippled liver, with the resulting impure blood, is the cause of more mental gloom than any other single thing. And who can reckon up the fearful aggregate of pain, loss and fear arising from the many ailments and diseases which are familiar to mankind; like a vast cloud it hangs over a multitude no one can number. You can see these people everywhere. For them life can scarcely be said to have any "bright side" at all. Hence the eagerness with which they search for relief and cure. Remedies like have not attained their high position in the confidence of the people by bald assertions and boasting advertisements. They are obliged to win it by doing actually what is claimed for them. That this remedy deserves its reputation is conceded. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Nothing has such a record of success in Scrofula, Anaemia, Throat and Lung Troubles, and emaciating complaints and disorders, that tend to undermine the foundations of strength and vigour. Its use helps to glow life's brighter side. Dr. R. D. K. says: "I have much pleasure in stating that I have used it in cases of debility and have found it to be a very valuable remedy as well as pleasing to take. You can take it with the assurance of getting well. It never disappoints. Sold by all chemists. —Warne Drug Co.

THE KILLING OF DORMANT BUDS

From Farm and Dairy.

W. T. Macoun, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa

While the killing of dormant buds evidently comes about partly from a drying out in cold weather, it is evident that buds are more tender than wood and their life is destroyed at certain minimum temperatures. Not only are fruit buds destroyed when the twig is not injured, but leaf buds as well. The buds being more exposed to the air may dry out when the wood does not.

In the province of Quebec and the colder parts of Ontario the buds of the European and Japanese plums, and cherries, are nearly always injured more or less in winter. This seems to be due to the drying out of the twigs, for when these fruits are grown near bodies of open water in winter they do well.

The marked success of Mr. Aug. Dupuis, and others, in growing the European plums along the lower St. Lawrence is well known. But what are the conditions there? It is only within a comparatively short distance of the river that these fruits succeed. When we get farther back from the river the buds are killed as in other parts of the province. The reason of the successful culture of plums and cherries is evidently due to the fact that from the water there rises in winter a fog which blowing over the land keeps the air moist enough to save the buds from death.

In a previous article it was mentioned that it required dryness with cold to kill the roots of trees. When the roots were moist they were little injured, even if exposed to the same temperatures. Cherry, plum, and peach buds are not so well protected from cold, and hence are killed from dry freezing more readily than apples and pears.

There is, as yet, no very practicable way to prevent this drying out of the fruit buds. The fact that the parts of the trees which are under the snow produce fruit when the parts which are exposed do not, suggests the plan of bending over the trees so that they will be covered, which has been done successfully by some growers. Another plan which we think deserves further experiment is the low training of plums and cherries, growing them with horisontal arms, for instance, which would be under the snow. A third plan is the breeding of varieties having hardier fruit buds. This we believe should, and is being done. The Montreal seedling plums, such as the Mount Royal and Royses, are examples of varieties with hardier buds.

BENEFITS OF CROP ROTATION

From Farm and Dairy.

The value of a well planned crop rotation is not ordinarily understood. Although the subject of rotation has been worn thread-bare by agricultural writers and institute speakers, even the most casual acquaintance with farm practice on the average farm, serves to indicate the fact that crop rotation means but little to many of us. While the virgin soil contained that wealth of fertility, which enabled a farmer to raise such crops as found the most ready sale, or those plants whose needs and habits he knew best, there was not that urgent need of giving attention to the subject of rotation and to economizing fertility. But indiscriminate cropping has resulted in noxious weeds getting a firm foot-hold, in depleting the soil of certain elements, in robbing the surface soil of the necessary amount of vegetable mold, in leaving the sub-soil largely unused and in reducing the general productiveness of the land, and thereby causing it to produce in after years but a fraction of what it is capable under more rational management.

Crop rotation must be resorted to, if the production of the land is to continue to be profitable, except where the land is kept most liberally fertilized. The man, with a poor run-out soil, who is endeavoring to build it up, relies much on his crop rotation.

Many will concede that a crop rotation, especially a short one of say, three years' duration, is good for light soil. We may be certain that it is equally good for heavier soils, though they may not suffer from the lack of it to the same extent. Intelligent rotation, systematically carried on, can be made to destroy a large number of troublesome weeds and insects, and will render a maximum amount of plant food available for the particular crops that it is desired to grow. Since plants vary in their power to reach and appropriate nourishment the rotation may be arranged so that those crops having the least power of assimilating plant food, or those which demand a large amount of plant food, may be on the soil when the land is most fertile—after clover or after manure has been applied.

Clover should be given a prominent place in all rotations. The oftener it can be worked in to the rotation the better it will be for the land. The increased productiveness of many farms to-day owe their increase to the three year or to the five year rotation, into which clovers entered once or twice respectively, that has been adopted on these farms. Anything over a five year rotation should not be countenanced. A three or a four year system approaches more nearly to the ideal. Farm and Dairy welcomes discussion on this subject.

TAKE CARE OF THE STOCK

From Farm and Dairy.

More money has been made swapping ideas than swapping horses. Try it this time.

"Can you do a little better?"
Said the milk can to the cow,
"For the feed bill is so heavy
We can scarcely pay it now."

It is much more profitable to feed cows well, than to half starve eight. Be wise and only winter the best.

Winter is here. Are we ready? Have we made all the necessary provision for the comfort and welfare of our stock during the cold months of the year?

The milkman of the future who succeeds will be the one who has clean feed for his cattle, clean stables, clean employees and clean containers for his milk. No after treatment of milk can take the place of cleanliness in the operations connected with its production and handling.

It may be you have been throwing your barnyard manure out under the eaves. Don't do it another winter, you can't afford to. Build a shed to store it in. Have it so the water will not find its way to the pile. The value of good manure is beyond estimate. Save it all.

ALWAYS AILING!

How many women there are to whom these words apply exactly! They are not quite "sick in bed", but they almost wish, as they struggle through each day, that they were. Frequent headaches, loss of energy, loss of appetite, depression and attacks of biliousness and indigestion make life a dragging misery.

In nearly every case the cause of it all is chronic constipation, that trouble so often made light of, but which brings about so much suffering. As a result of it the whole system is filled with impurities and almost everything, including the special functions of womanhood, goes wrong.

Hundreds of thousands of women have had reason to thank Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills for relief from all this chain of miseries, and for restoration to health and happiness. For over fifty years, and in every part of the world, these Pills have been tested and proved a great female medicine.

Being purely vegetable, they are not harsh like salts and so many other purgatives, nor do they weaken, sicken or gripe.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are a perfect blood purifier, and a sure cure for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sallow complexion, liver and kidney troubles, piles, pimples, boils and other ailments that arise from the sluggish action of bowels, liver or kidneys. By purifying the blood and invigorating every organ in the whole body they relieve and cure female ailments and restore normal, healthy conditions.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are, in truth, a blessing to women, as Mrs. Harrison, of Richmond, Va., found. She writes:

"About six weeks ago I first used Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, and I must state that I found them a most superior medicine. My complaint was peculiar to women—langour, debility, and bilious attacks, which combined to make my days thoroughly wretched. Indeed, there were spells when I used to wonder in the morning how I could manage to get through my household duties, and was forced to struggle through the day when I should have been in bed. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have made me vigorous and well. I noticed the change from the very first dose."

Padens Were Continually Purchasing Laudanum, Says Druggist.

Port Hope, Jan. 6—The inquest into the cause of death of the illegitimate child of Florence Paden will resume again Jan. 12.

The autopsy declares the infant died from narcotic poisoning, suffocation or convulsions. Druggist John Breen swears that he sold Paden the girl a father, on Dec. 4, a day or so before the child was born, laudanum and strychnine, and showed Paden's signature, but Paden denied the purchase, the signature and any knowledge of the book. He said he got poison Nov. 27, but Breen swore he did not. Breen said either Paden, Ginsburg, the boarder, Mrs. Paden or Miss Paden all bought laudanum every day for two years, sometimes twice a day.

All denied these facts, and said once in two weeks laudanum was got for the children's earache. Both Mrs. Paden and Florence said Ginsburg never got the drug at any time, and that no adult in the house used laudanum. The infant never was given any kind of drug, they said, and all differed as to the alleged purchase of the strychnine and laudanum on the date of Nov. 27.

Miss Paden swore Ginsburg was not the parent of the infant.

Col. Ward, K.C., acted for the Paden family, and Crown Attorney Kerr of Cobourg appeared for the crown. Coroner McKinley was in charge.

Cook a Nervous Wreck.

New York, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Josephine Dudley, a sister of Mrs. Frederick W. Cook, last night declared that Dr. Cook is a nervous wreck, unable to think consecutively, and that the reason that he remains in hiding is that he could not stand the strain of further inquiry.

"We are praying," says Mrs. Dudley, "that he will soon recover so that he may come forward and defend himself. Mrs. Cook is at her husband's side. She loves him and trusts him. There has been no quarrel; there was never any trouble between them about money."

Mrs. Dudley received a message yesterday from Walter Lonsdale, Dr. Cook's secretary, dated Copenhagen and reading: "Cable Fred's address at once. All important; must see him now."

Mrs. Dudley has not answered, because she fears it may be a trap. The doctor has had a disheartening relapse, she said, and it is important that his seclusion shall not be disturbed. She will not specify whether he is in this country or abroad.

Killed on Railway Track.

Hagersville, Jan. 6.—George Mann of Hamilton, about fifty years old, was instantly killed about two o'clock yesterday afternoon on the Michigan Central tracks, about a quarter of a mile east of Hagersville.

He was a fireman, working for the Bradley Lumber Co. of Hamilton, cutting timber on Robert Reid's farm in Oneida.

He had been in Hagersville, receiving instructions as to his work, had dinner, and soon after started down the track towards the place where his men were.

The track is double, with several switches. As he stepped off one track out of the way of train No. 23, westbound, he was struck by a fast express running on the other main track, which he did not see until it was upon him.

Coroner McDonald decided an inquest unnecessary.

Escaped While Guard Slept.

Kingston, Jan. 6.—Guito Carato, an Italian serving a term in the penitentiary for theft and being taken to the Canadian Soo for deportation by Peter Devlin, immigration agent of this city, made his escape from the train at Chalk River and caught a freight going the other way.

Devlin got busy on the wires and the man was captured by Chief Butler of Pembroke.

It is said Devlin dozed off for a few moments and his charge made a bolt.

Fired While After Prisoner.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—Police circles are stirred over the dismissal of Detective Gorman, now in England under orders to bring a prisoner back. The reason given is that Gorman was requested to see Chief Campeau before leaving, and did not. It is not apparently known whether Gorman received the message. It is alleged, however, that the dismissal is part of a plot to weed out the department men who have made themselves obnoxious to the clique in power.

Quarrel Over Diagnosis.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—The group at the City Hall represented by Mayor Payette and Dr. Dagenais continue to assert that the so-called typhoid is nothing more than intestinal grip, while the doctors and the energetic men and women adhere to their first diagnosis that the malady is typhus, sure enough.

Patients are being brought into the emergency hospital quite rapidly.

Brutal Wife Desertion.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Deserted by her husband on Christmas morning, without even enough money to pay postage on a letter to her home, in Iowa, and with a sick infant of six months to care for, Mrs. Gordon Robinson, aged twenty years, found herself alone and destitute in this city, where she is an absolute stranger.

Her husband brought her here from Rockridge, Iowa, where they had lived for two years. They came here, it is given out, for information concerning some land in the west.

On Dec. 16, they registered at the Windsor, and on Dec. 25, the husband disappeared, and has not since been heard of.

Transportation as far as Chicago has been furnished Mrs. Robinson.

Brakemen Stay on Cars.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Representatives of all the big railway corporations before the Railway Commission yesterday opposed the proposition of the board to do away with brakemen on top of freight cars, thus reducing the necessity of high bridges and lessening the cost of grade separations. The present system, it was argued, is a guarantee against brakemen going to sleep. They give certain signals to the engineer, and on grades must operate the pressure retaining valve to make the air-brakes effective.

The board decided to make no change.

Can't Supply Enough Gas.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 6.—With the mercury five above zero and the supply of natural gas nearly shut off, Niagara Falls people spent a chilly time yesterday. They advise customers to take gas out of the furnaces and use coal.

Fight Pictures Get the Crowds.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 6.—Four churches united to hold a week of prayer service in Calvin Church Tuesday night. Her System.

Mr. Compton prepared to have one of his serious talks with his small, vivacious wife—one of the talks which always ended in his being completely routed.

"I want to speak to you about the household money, my dear," he began in his most calm and judicial tone, although the fact that Mrs. Compton stood behind him trying to brush his hair the way it did not go interfered with the effect of his words, he knew.

"I don't understand how it is that when I give you an unusual amount you spend it all, and yet when I don't give you so much you seem to get along all right."

Mrs. Compton left her unsatisfactory task and stood before him wide eyed.

"Why, I should think anybody could understand that," she said. "When you can't give me so much I just save out the items that come over the amount and pay them up the first week you give me a lot and put them down then. It's just the simplest kind of thing! But, then, I've always thought men didn't understand simple things as well as complicated ones."—Youth's Companion.

New York Legislation.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 6.—The State Legislature opened yesterday. G. W. Hughes in his message recommends an extension of the jurisdiction of the public service commissions to include telegraph and telephone companies; protection of streams from pollution and a substantial automobile license tax.

He also recommends that the law be amended so as to penalize the practice of oral race track betting, even though there be no recording.

Senator Hill of Buffalo introduced a proposed amendment to the constitution giving women the right to vote.

Show Is Immoral.

Daniel and the Lions.

An old negro preacher in Kentucky was dilating upon events in the Bible which had a zoological trend. He described the deluge and how all the animals, two by two, went into the ark and were saved. Then he discussed the incident of Jonah and the whale, Balaam's ass and finally the exploit of Daniel, who entered the den of ravening lions and emerged unharmed. His auditors listened with interest, and some of them seemed to have their doubts as to the authenticity of the tales.

Finally one of the younger negroes rose up and inquired. "Say, pahson, wuz dem lions jest like the kind we has now?"

"Cose not, cose not," retorted the preacher, irritated at having his discourse interrupted. "Dey was B. C., meaning befo' circuses."

The explanation was sufficient and satisfactory.—Buffalo Commercial.

Much Mixed.

Some of the passengers were waiting at a way station in Vermont for the train to Burlington, says the Saturday Evening Post.

"What kind of a train is that?" asked one of them of the busy station master.

"Oh, freight and passenger together."

"Mixed, eh?"

"Worse than that," said the station master. "It's what you might call scrambled."

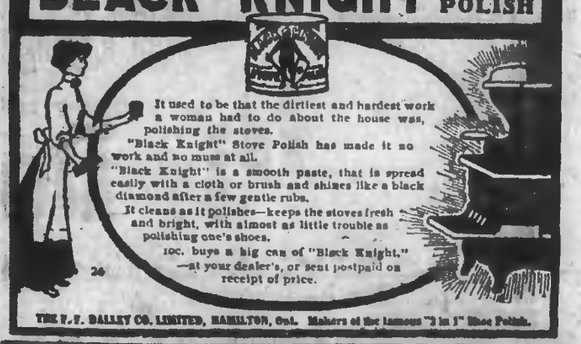
BLACK KNIGHT STOVE POLISH



It used to be that the dirtiest and hardest work a woman had to do about the house was polishing the stoves.

"Black Knight" Stove Polish has made it no work and no mess at all.

"Black Knight" is a smooth paste, that is spread easily with a cloth or brush and shines like a black diamond after a few gentle rubs.

Business Hypnotism.

You Have Heard It Said :

"I Don't Need To Advertise"

"I don't need advertising. My business was never better". This is the merchant we would like to convince of the weakness of the position he is assuming.

The advertising solicitor has seen many a man go under who for years had been hypnotised with this idea. Business was good and continued good with these men until such time as a more enterprising rival sprang like a bolt from the blue, and through a wise use of Printers' Ink and other up-to-date methods, had, in a few years, succeeded in focussing the attention of the Public on the Newcomer's Goods, to the dismay and ruin of the old firm.

A NOVEL CARD GAME.

Prophecies is Amusing and Also Will Test the Memory.

Prophecies is a memory game and very amusing. It is played with two packs of cards of any sort. One pack is laid in a heap, face down, in the middle of the table. The other pack is distributed to the players, who lay them, face upward, in rows. Each person should not have more than twelve cards, as it is practically impossible to remember more than that.

Any one can begin by giving either a prophecy or a characteristic—thus, "Who will inherit a fortune inside of a year?" or "Who will be the first in the room to wear false teeth?" at the same time turning up a card from the center pile. Whoever has the card matching this takes it and lays it face down on top of the card drawn from the pile, saying, "I will be the first to wear false teeth," or whatever the prophecy may have been.

The next in turn gives a characteristic "Who has the worst temper?" or "Who is the most unselfish?" turning up another card from the pile. This is matched in the same way, and the process continues around the circle until all the cards are matched. Then the memory test comes. Every player in turn tries to remember and repeat all the prophecies and characteristics that have fallen to his or her share, giving them aloud as rapidly as possible. Each is allowed for deliberation on any one only the time while ten is being slowly counted, or ten seconds by the watch. The one remembering the most is the winner.

To Be Seen on Ships' Bows.

Letters which may have aroused the curiosity of some of you children are to be found on the bows of vessels. On the stem you may have noticed a number of Roman figures one above the other. These start from the keel and are numbered consecutively. They are placed in this position for the benefit of the ship's master, who, by glancing at the figures on a level with the water, may know how many feet the bottom of the ship is below the water line.

Sure Death.

It is strange how a boy who would run away if he saw a snake in his path will not hesitate to take up a gun or a revolver that he finds within reach and flourish it and point it at other persons and occasionally get in the way of it himself at the moment when he thoughtlessly jars the trigger. A weapon and a snake are to be treated in the same way. If you don't know how to attack a snake keep away from it. If you don't understand firearms let them alone. Most of the fatalities that occur from careless or ignorant handling of guns or revolvers are of the didn't-know-it-was-loaded kind. No one can tell why a boy believes that every gun he picks up is unloaded. As a matter of fact, that is the dangerous kind, for he knows that a loaded gun is loaded and lets it alone, but forgets that a so called unloaded gun may perhaps be loaded, and here comes in the danger.—Chicago News.

Suffered Terrible Pains From His Kidneys.

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body, and most people are troubled with some kind of kidney complaint, but do not suspect it.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by old and young.

Mr. Dougald A. McIsaac, Broad Cove Banks, N.S., writes:—"I was troubled with my kidneys for nine months, and suffered with such terrible pains across the small of my back all the time that I could hardly get around. After taking two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken three I was completely cured."

Price 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

Trick With a Ball.

Take a ball in each hand and stretch both your hands as far as you can from the other; then inform the company that you will make both balls come into which hand they please to name. If any one doubts your ability to perform this feat you must lay one ball on the table, turn yourself around and then take it up with the hand which already contains a ball. Thus both the balls will be in one of your hands without the employment of both of them.

How does the queen take her food? In cider (inside her).

Will the boss be in after luncheon? No. That's what he went out after.

Seven Rules of Life.

Live upstairs if you wish to be in good health! "Up how many flights?" Only one flight of seven steps. I will describe them.

First Step.—Eat wheat, oats, corn, fruits, beef, mutton, plainly cooked, in moderate quantity and but two meals a day.

Second Step.—Breathe good air day and night.

Third Step.—Exercise freely in the open air.

Fourth Step.—Retire early and rise early.

Fifth Step.—Wear flannel next your skin every day of the year and so dispose your dress that your limbs may be kept warm. Bathe frequently.

Sixth Step.—Live in the sunshine. Let your bedroom be one which receives a flood of light and spend your days either out in the sunlight or in a room which is well lighted.

Seventh Step.—Cultivate a cheerful temper. Seek the society of jolly people. Absolutely refuse to worry and, above all, don't be afraid to laugh. Live above. Sickness cannot crawl up there. Disease prowls about in the basement. Rarely does it get upstairs. —Dr. F. G. Butler in Chicago Journal.

Unusual Luck.

"So you're routed that haunted house which was on your hands so long?"

"Yes; rented it to an actor."

"Did he find out its reputation?"

"That's the very thing which decided him to take the house."

"Rather surprising!"

"He said it would be such a comfort for him to get inside of a house where the ghost walked every night."—Baltimore American.

Bluffed.

Two brothers were once at Count von Moltke's house at an evening party. Both were captains of the general staff. The general came up to a group of gentlemen, one of whom was one of the brothers. After joining in the conversation he said to the latter: "Just tell me who is that tall officer near the fireplace on the other side. I forget his name."

"That's my brother, your excellency," was the answer.

A smile stealing over the general's face suggested the idea that he had not obtained the information he wished. Some time after the general went to another group of people and there joined the officer whose name he had inquired. Suddenly the others saw him turning away, with the same smile on his face.

Afterward, when they inquired from the young officer what the general had asked him, he replied:

"He asked me who that officer was over there."

"And what did you say?"

"I said that he was my brother?"

The general gave up inquiring the name of the two brothers for that evening.

Wanted It to Take.

Mrs. B. believed in infant baptism, but for some reason that rite was not performed for Tommy till he was some four or five years old. While the ceremony was in progress the mother was very much gratified with Tommy's behavior. He seemed duly impressed with the solemnity of the occasion and remained with bowed head for some time after the sprinkling had been done.

"The angel!" exclaimed the mother.

"The little dear!" said a good sister as she went up to give him a "God bless you" and a pat on the head. But just as her hand was descending with that benediction a very wrathful and unangelic countenance was turned upon her, a pugilistic little fist delivered a paralyzing blow on her biceps, and the indignant Tommy exclaimed, "You git away from here!"

Of course he was led out in disgrace and questioned by his horrified mother.

"Why, don't you know she would 'a' rubbed all the baptising water off before it would 'a' had time to soak in?" explained Tommy, who from his point of view was fully justified.—Los Angeles Times.

Buffoonery in "Hamlet."

The buffoonery once tolerated in provincial theaters is illustrated in an anecdote set forth in the memoirs of Barry Sullivan. Wright, who was the first gravedigger, prepared himself to take the house by storm by having incased his person within a dozen or more waistcoats of all sorts of shapes and patterns. When about to commence the operation of digging the grave for the fair Ophelia Wright began to unwind by taking off waistcoat after waistcoat, which caused uproarious laughter among the audience. But as fast as he relieved himself of one waistcoat Paul Bedford, the second gravedigger, incased himself in the castoff vests, which increased the salvos of laughter, for as Wright was getting thinner Paul grew fatter and fatter. Wright, seeing himself outdone, kept on the remainder of the waistcoats and went on with his part quite crestfallen.

An Awkward Selection.

The first Baron Kenyon was rather fond of telling the story of how while on circuit with Justice Rook they entered a village just in time to accompany the population to the little village church. The parish clerk, anxious to have the congregation show due appreciation of the honor conferred by the presence of the distinguished jurists, gave out two verses of one of the metrical psalms: "Speak, O ye judges of the earth, if just your sentence be, or must not innocence appeal to heaven from your decree? Your wicked hearts and judgments are alike by malice swayed, your griping hands by mighty bribes to violence betrayed."

By this time most of the adults had woke up to the application of the psalm and remained silent, allowing the children to continue the second verse.—London Tatler.

A Soft Answer.

Jewel—Arrah, Jimmy, why did I marry ye? Just tell me that, for it's meself that's had to maintain ye ever since the blessed day that I became your wife.

"Swate jewel," replied Jimmy, not relishing the charge, "and it's meself that hopes I may live to see the day when you're a widow weeping over the cold sod that covers me. Then I'll see how you'll get along without me, honey."—London Tit-Bits.

Needed Repairs.

"Does your typewriter need repairs?" asked the meandering tinker as he entered the office.

"It would seem so," replied the employer. "She has just gone across the street to consult a dentist."

More Modern.

"Tommy, you have written this sentence. 'The pen is mightier as the sword,' and it is incorrect. How should it be changed?"

"Pen ought to be changed to typewriter, ma'am."—Chicago Tribune.

He'd Had Experience.

Her (reading)—And so they were married, and that was the last of their trouble. Him (sotto voce)—Last, but not least.—Cleveland Leader.

Not That Kind.

Tim—Would you scream if I kissed you? Tessie—I suppose you better yourself that I'd be speechless with joy!—Mobile Register.

The Real Trouble.

"Woman's ignorance of cooking is the bane of married life."

"No; it's woman's ignorance of her ignorance of cooking."—Boston Transcript.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

There are few people who have never experienced a headache from one cause or another. It effects all ages and both sexes alike, but the female sex is naturally the more effected through the higher nervous development and more delicate organization of the system. Those also of a nervous temperament and sedentary occupation are subject to it.

The presence of headache nearly always tells us that there is another disease within, although we may not be aware of it, is still exercise its baneful influence and patiently awaiting an opportunity to assert itself violently.

MR. AND MRS. J. HEAL CELEBRATE THE 50th ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR WEDDING BY FAMILY REUNION

Were Married in Otonabee and Resided for Years in Percy Township—Mr. Heal Came to Canada From Isle of Wight When 17 Years Old—Retired to Peterborough Seven Years Ago.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY

A little more than fifty years ago James Heal came to Peterborough at the age of 17 years from his home within the shadow of Queen's Castle on the Isle of Wight. He had ventured to Canada, the land of promise to young manhood, to make his fortune and to build up a home, thus fulfilling the hopes and desires every normal youth entertains upon leaving his teens. Young Heal remained in Peterborough a short time and upon obtaining work with a farmer in Otonabee accepted it. In the natural course of events he met Margaret Fife, the daughter of one of the best known and prosperous farmers of the township. The old story was repeated. It was not long afterwards that they were married in the Methodist parsonage at Keene, and determining to make his way in the world the young husband rented a farm nearby and after seven years of industry and care began to see his dreams taking actual forms. They moved to Percy township, Northumberland County, where they resided until seven years ago, when they retired to Peterborough. While a farmer in Percy he was a member of the township council for 22 years and in many ways identified himself with movements that aied at progress and improved conditions.

Such is the brief outline of the history of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Heal, who celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding yesterday. Five long decades, a half a century slipped by with many changes, but to the young man of fifty years ago nothing had arisen to disappoint his hopes. There were present at their home, 179 Dublin St., yesterday, their sons, John H. and William, of Peterborough, Alex. J., of Perth, North Dakota, and daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) Bryce, Kingston, Mrs. J. L. Young, of Prince Edward, Mrs. Chas. Kemp, of Prince Edward, Mrs. Ed. Wandby, Toronto. Mrs. J. S. Ferguson, of Wilhston, N. D., was unable to be present. The relatives of Mrs. Heal in attendance were: brothers, Mr. John Fife, exReeve of Otonabee, George Fife, Otonabee, her sister, Mrs. R. McConnell, of Cavalier, N. Dakota, and her sole surviving aunt, Miss Jane Earson, of Otonabee.

As customary at affairs of that kind there was a splendid dinner and supper, the occasion being a most happy one for Mr. and Mrs. Heal and those who joined with them. They received many congratulations and wishes for the future.

Mrs. Heal was born in the house in which Mr. John Fife now resides in Otonabee.

DIED VERY SUDDENLY

Mr. George Long, Proprietor of the American Hotel, Stricken With Heart Failure—Passed Awaw Within a Short Time.

FUNERAL ON MONDAY

With distressing suddenness Mr. George Long, proprietor of the American Hotel, Hunter street, was stricken with heart failure and passed away within but a very short time. His death came most unexpectedly, and was a severe shock to the members of the family. The only intimation of approaching illness was noticed a few days ago, when Mr. Long took a weak turn, while in the East Ward with friends. It passed, however, and scarcely any attention was given the incident, as the deceased has always been of robust health and a strong, hearty man, who scarcely knew a day's sickness. Last night, about 7 o'clock, he went out to a barber shop, and, returning a little later, went up to his room. At that time he was rather ill and a little weak. Almost without warning he grew worse, and although Drs. McGrath and Leach were called in medical attendance, was unavailing, heart failure being ascribed as the cause of his death.

The late George Long was born in Goodplace, Donegal County, Ireland, 53 years ago, and on reaching his tenth year, he came to Canada with his parents, settling in Peterborough. About thirty years ago he was married to Margaret Kane, and has always been a resident of this city. For about twenty-five years Mr. Long has been connected with several lumber companies, and was well known as a foreman. He was with the Peterborough Lumber Co. for quite a while, and also with an American Company. About three years ago he took over the American House.

The surviving relatives are his mother, Mrs. Samuel Long, his wife, and the following children: Robert and Samuel of this city; Mrs. W. Pesce, of Hamilton; Mrs. A. Bartley, of the East Ward; Mrs. Harry Hopkins, Toronto, and Misses Fannie, Prudence, and Georgina, and Fred at home. His mother, who is in her 78th year, was with him at his death. The brothers of the deceased are Fred, of Park Rapids, Minn.; Alex., of Sudbury; Robert, of Minnesota, and Samuel of East City; and his sisters are Mrs. T. Hyshe, Toronto; Mrs. O'Rourke, of Fesserton; Mrs. J. White, Norwood; Mrs. Henry Lindsay, of Rochester. His death was the more distressing to his family as this is the first break, and in his mother's family only his father and one sister have passed away.

The deceased has always been a faithful member of St. Luke's church.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the American House, to St. Luke's Church, and thence to the Little Lake cemetery.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS

Sapling Caught on Sleigh Broke R. Girven's Leg Below the Knee When it Was Liberated—Woman Falls Over Chair Breaking Three Ribs.

SLIPPED ON ICY GROUND

On Friday last, Mr. Richard Girven of this village, met with a very serious acident. In company with another man he was going out to a wood lot of his on the 5th con. of Dummer for a load of wood. The two were standing on the back end of the sleigh and were driving through the bush when they came to a small sapling lying across the track which appeared to be frozen down, but as they were passing over it the bank of the front sleigh caught it and drew it forward and it came back with terrific force, striking Mr. Girven on the leg below the knee and causing a compound fracture. Two other men were working in the woods not far off, and with their assistance, Mr. Girven bound up the broken limb and returned to the village where the fracture was set by Dr. Ford. Owing to Mr. Girven's advanced years the accident is a very serious one and it will probably be considerable time before he will be able to be around again.

The same day Mrs. McMillen, sr., of Westwood, met with a very serious mishap. She was going out into the yard when she slipped on the icy ground and fell, fracturing her hip. As Mrs. McMillen is in her eighty-fifth year her recovery from the effects of the accident is likely to be slow, if indeed she ever fully recovers.

Mrs. John Burkell, Spring St., Norwood, had the misfortune to fall over a chair and break three of her ribs while going from one room to another early on Saturday morning last.—Norwood Register.

A Startling Discovery in Connection With the Law Governing Local Option Contests Has Been Made—Will be Changed at Once.

SETS BOTH SIDES THINKING

Toronto, Jan. 7.—By a peculiar defect in the overlapping of the liquor license and municipal acts, bribery, in relation to local option contests in Ontario, is legal. Whatever may be the moral aspect of the offence or its status in common law, there is nothing in the Provincial statutes to prohibit or punish the practice of influencing or bribing voters on the local option by-laws.

The somewhat startling discovery was only made recently and was at once submitted to Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Provincial secretary, with a view to securing an immediate amendment to the act covering the point in uestion. The change will probably be made at the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

How Omission Occurred.

The omission in the existing statutes seems to have occurred by the overlapping of the acts. Sub-section one of section 141 of the liquor license act, which governs local option contests, provides that they shall be conducted in a manner "provided by sections in that behalf by the municipal act." No special oaths are designated by the license act for local option balloting, nor are such provided for local option in the municipal act. Section 245 of the municipal act, dealing with bribery, prohibits it only in relation to by-laws for raising money or creating debt.

The matter will, it is thought, be specially dealt with in the amendments to the act now in course of preparation by the Provincial Government.

GAVE AN ADDRESS

Mr. E. S. Conklin, M. A., Was Honoured at Y. M. C. A.

Last evening several members of the Young Men's Christian Association gathered at a tea given in the Association Room in honour of Mr. E. S. Conklin, M.A., who is touring Canada, recruiting students for the International Young Men's Christian Association Training School, of Springfield, Mass.

In his address Mr. Conklin dealt particularly with Association methods in adapting itself to the particular needs of any locality by providing means of physical development, special business, wholesome amusements and environment, and how all these activities were used to encourage higher ideals of living and eventually lead the men to become Christians.

The speaker also referred to the vast magnitude of the Young Men's Christian Association, its many local associations, the great amount of money invested in the buildings, its varied nature, such as navy, army, railroad, Panama Canal, and other features.

Concluding, Mr. Conklin appealed to all members to support their own branch, as it was their opportunity to best help the Association fulfil its mission in winning men to the fullest Christian life.

In Toronto he obtained entry into exclusive social circles and was employed by two newspapers. He made an unsuccessful attempt to cash a cheque for several thousand at one of the big stores and is at present wanted here for two charges of forgery, also on similar charges at Chicago, Windsor and Toledo.

Former Norwood Man Passed Away Within 48 Hours of His Wife—Both Suffered With Cancer.

The Owasso, Mich., Evening Argus of Dec. 28th had the following reference to the death of a former resident of this village in the person of Mr. W. R. Drury:—

Grim death won in its fight for the life of W. R. Drury of Bennington, Mr. Drury passing away early this morning, just 48 hours after his wife, who had bravely fought against the fatal cancer for months, had expired. Mr. Drury was afflicted with the same disease.

The demise of Mr. Drury, coming as it did, bears out his prediction of several months ago, to the effect that but a few hours would separate his and his wife's death. They had been almost inseparable companions for nearly fifty years.

Arrangements have been made to hold the double funeral at 10 o'clock Friday morning, from the family home in Bennington. The bodies will be placed side by side in the vaults at Oak Hill cemetery in this city and in the spring will be interred in the same grave.

CHAIRMAN MATTHEWS.

It is with no desire to be uncomplimentary that it is suggested that Commissioner T. F. Matthews, who was yesterday afternoon appointed Chairman of the Board of Water Commissioners, has as many lives as the proverbial cat. He enters upon his ninth official life—ninth year—as chairman of the Board. It is a very striking tribute to his capacity for giving good service and to his application of that capacity to giving the good service which has led his associates, who know best what he has done and what fidelity and skill he has devoted to the discharge of his duty, to select him nine times in succession to be the presiding officer and leading spirit of their deliberations in the effective discharge of a public trust. The Examiner congratulates Mr. Matthews and the citizens, who will have for another year a continuation of the excellent work he has done in their interests the past eight years.

VALUE OF PERMANENCE.

Complaint is frequently made that money is wasted in the construction of the Transcontinental railway. Money cannot be called wasted upon a work for which value is received in the character of the work done. The aim in constructing the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is to make it a model railway in regard to curves, gradients and general solidity and permanence; to make a finished railway—to put on the work—which costs money—to make it a railway that will last and not require a perpetual outlay in betterments. This has been aimed at and accomplished in the construction already completed. Lord Northcote, who passed over it on the occasion of his recent visit to Canada, described the Transcontinental, west of Winnipeg as the best newly-constructed line in the world. We all know that the mistake made in building the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific Railways, was the comparatively temporary and incompleted character of the work done in original construction. We all know that the Grand Trunk has expended millions in shortening its lines, making them more direct, in easing gradients, and eliminating curves. The Canadian Pacific Railway has done similarly in correcting mistakes of original construction. It has recently spent two millions of dollars in improving thirty miles of the Crow's Nest Pass railway, between Lethbridge and McLeod, which could have been avoided if the line had in the beginning been built as solidly as the Transcontinental is being done. It is estimated that the C. P. R. has spent enough in improvements between Fort William and the Foot Hills of the west to amount to practically rebuilding the line. The solid and finished manner of constructing the Transcontinental Railway that is be done will avoid all the expensive measures of readjustment and improvement that railways built years ago, and in a less substantial manner, have to adopt, and which it pays them to adopt in spite of the enormous expense.

There is a lesson in this for the municipal authorities of Peterborough. The Examiner has previously given the city council of the past few years credit for the excellent, permanent work they have done in the form of sidewalks and bridges. In respect of both, especially the latter, we have work done that will last, with occasional attention, for years and years. It is true that this has cost a good deal of money, but it was money well spent, with lasting effect in two ways; it is practically a final expenditure and it was incurred to advantage. We have as a result permanent bridges that are a pleasure to use, that will stand for years without providing materials for costs for damages. The same remarks apply generally to our pavements, though in respect of these, there have arisen conditions emphasizing the neglect of former councils, who neglected to devise a system or rather to provide a permanent grade plan for the town. As a result houses have been built at guess work levels. As a further result we have had sidewalk levels far above or far below house levels. This has provoked objections and complaints from property owners, expensive charges, and in some cases rebuilding or patching of pavements and after all unsatisfactory conditions permanently established. All this might have been avoided if years ago a grade plan of the plan had been procured, which might have been done at a tenth of the expense the ratepayers have been put to by changes in levels not to speak of the outrageous lines and levels of concrete pavements that exist in various parts of the city.

This matter is seasonably referred to. At the beginning of the civic year our aldermen have an opportunity of getting their heads together and devising some settled policy in respect of our street work; of adopting some system, without which in the past there has been a very great waste of money, and unsatisfactory results. We should adopt a policy of proper street building, provide proper foundations, proper grading and proper drainage and then put on street metal of first-class character, metal that will stand traffic and result in street surfaces of durable character, and comfortable to use. Then we shall have spent money to good effect as we have done on our bridges and sidewalks. Now is the time for the city authorities to act. They must not continue in the old slipshod way. If a beginning is not made now, the same wasteful way of spending money without receiving adequate value, will continue.

A RECORD OF OBSTRUCTION.

Now that we have disposed of the municipal elections, have got the mighty issues off our mind for a time, we can give more attention to the struggle now going on in Great Britain. That country is not the only place where the rtrogressive methods of the house of Lords obtain. We have made the retrograde movement of going back to the ward system; thus following the backward track the House of Lords are wont to pursue. It may be of interest to note a little how the House of Lords has nullified the will of the people, as expressed through their representatives. It has traditionally opposed reform and advance measures, especially where Liberal Governments have been in power. Their record the past four years, the life of the present Liberal Government, has been a creditable one from their point of view. The record stands thus: In 1906, a bill to abolish plural voting was rejected. The Education Bill was destroyed by impossible amendemtns. The Lords carried an amendment excluding Scotland from the provisions of the Feeding of School Children bill, 1907; they rejected the Scottish Land Valuation bill; and the Scottish Small Holdings bill, 1908; they rejected the Licensing bill, also the London Elections bill to do away with plural voting and prevent loss of the franchise by persons moving from one part of the city to another. In 1909, they refused to pass the budget. It will be seen from this partial list that the last action of the Lords was the culmination of a series of obstructions to reforms demanded in the interests of the masses, and led naturally to the present conflict between the people and the upholders of privilege.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An exchange laments that the fun is all over and not another holiday in sight till Easter. It does seem as if the distribution of holidays between the first and last halves of the year was rather unequal. From New Year's till the 1st of July there are only two, and including the former day there are only three in the first six months, while in the last six there are including civic holiday, five, and Christmas and New Year's come so close together that we scarcely regard the latter as being in the year to which it properly belongs.

A BUDGET SPEECH.

(Prepared by London Punch for a Backwoods Baron.)

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have been asked—to explain to you—why we rejected the budget. When I was last in London—in 1893—I helped to reject—the home rule bill—of the traitor Gladstone. Ladies and gentlemen, I was proud to have done my duty then—and I am equally proud — to have done my duty to-day. There are amongst us—certain progressive spirits—upon whom—all true patriots—must act as a check. My father—opposed—as long as he could—the introduction of railways—into this country. His advice—was in the end—disregarded. When I travelled up to London—last week—I felt more than ever—that my father was right. The country, gentlemen — has been spoiled. On my way yesterday to the Zoological gardens—I was disgusted to learn that these vandals had burrowed—even under the earth. Coming back—from the British museum—last Monday—I was horrified to discover—that trams passed along the Embankment. Had I not been ill—I should have voted against that measure—as, I understand—did many of my colleagues — in the house. At Mme. Tussaud's — two days ago — I looked back—upon all that has happened—in the last fifty years. And all the misery — and unhappiness—that is to be found—in the villages and towns to-day—must (I decided)—be put down to — the curse of elementary education. Ladies and gentlemen, I say — without hesitation — that the lower classes — should have been left where they were—that in raising them you have raised a monster—worse than any that Frankenstein brought into being.

Gentlemen, we rejected the budget—because it sought to create war between the classes. England will never be at peace—unless the classes keep to their proper stations. The upper class to rule—and the lower class to obey. (Loud applause.)

ZAM-BUK QUICKLY CURES

Chaps, Cold Sores and Rough Red Skin.

Icy winds often make ladies' faces rough, red and blotchy. Apply a little Zam-Buk, and this will smoothen the skin and end the soreness. It also takes away that coarse, red, rough look and "feel," which are so unpleasant. For more serious cases of chaps and cold sores apply Zam-Buk at night liberally.

Miss Hattie Bertrand, Galesburg, says: "I am troubled every year with cracked, chapped hands and arms, and nothing ever seemed able to prevent this until I found Zam-Buk. It healed the chaps and cracks, and occasional applications keep my hands and arms perfectly smooth."

Zam-Buk is not only a healer, but it is a skin food. Frequent use of it develops that soft, velvety skin which is so pleasant to see, and which is the expression of perfect skin health. Remember Zam-Buk is unique in containing no animal fat! For a balm this is peculiar; but just there lies Zam-Buk's superiority. Made purely of herbal extracts and juices. 50c. a box. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Dont' take any substitutes.

POST CARD COLUMN

Peterborough, Jan. 6. '10.

Sir,—It may be that the schools are magnificent and thoroughly equipped, and have a capable and efficient staff of teachers, but what is being taught, are our future citizens being trained in honesty by precept and by example? Are their products of the 'Dwarf variety,' or do they learn?

"What constitutes a State
Not high-raised battlements or laboured mound;
Thick wall or moated gate;
Not cities proud, with spires and turrets crowned;
Not bays and broad-armed ports,
Where laughing at the storm rich navies ride;
Not starred and spangled courts,
Where low-browed baseness wafts perfume to pride.
No; MEN, high-minded men,
These constitute a State."

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

Am sure if others were once introduced to these "good things," a consequent boost in your subscription list would result.

Trusting much success will attend you in the publishing of these world-wide discourses, and that they win through real merit the interest and hearts of all your large family of readers, also adding our unsolicited wish to extend the bounds of your valued paper, I am,

FAIR PLAY'S VIEW.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—There is a report in circulation to the effct "That a member of the Whitney Government, has announced, that by virtue of the large majorities given by such places as Peterborough, Brantford, etc., half half the licenses will be, or shodld be, (we are not quite sure) be cut off next spring.

Now, I am not a politician, but it does appear to me that if Mr. Whitney and his Government can consistently cut off half, why in the name of all reason and British conception of right, does he not live up to the policy to which he gave birth, and cut off three-fifths instead of half.

If the three-fifths is a fair policy for the people, it must also be fair for the Government, who are the people's law makers. It appears to me Sir, that the time has come when in the white light of public opinion the Government should be willing to live up to, act out, its three-fifth policy; for if it is fair in one case it must be in all others.

Yours for the public good,

UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

In life's morn our friends are many, gay our greetings as we pass; every Willie has his Jennie, every lover kiss his lass. Friends are made each passing minute, underneath the morning sky; there MORN is nothing mournful in it, when we pause to say good-bye. AND EVE If a friend departs forever, we can spare a passing tear; then it's on to our endeavour—life is young, the skies are clear! In life's eve we wait and ponder, while the sun that we must go, gazing at the sunset yonder, at the shadows as they grow. Thinking, brooding, dreaming only of the friends who went before; for old age is sad and lonely, by the sunless river's shore. Casting weary backward glances to the paths we have crossed, where the dying sunlight dances, where the flowers are sapphyr tossed; thinking of the dear old places, where the regular days were sung; thinking of the vanished places, that we knew when life was young. Youth is ever bravely keeping forward march against the hand Age, alas, is ever weeping o'er the ashes of the past.

GOOD CLASS OF HOCKEY SEEN IN MERCANTILE LEAGUE OPENER

Quaker Oats Team Defeated Canoe Makers in a Game That Was Good in Spots, But Was Characterized by General Inclination to Wield the Gad.

FINAL SCORE WAS 3-2

While you are talking of hockey the Mercantile League was opened last night at Brock Street rink by the Quaker Oats team trimming the Canoe Makers, by the narrow margin of 3 goals to 2. It was not exactly a classy exhibition of the game, as it should be played, but it was interesting in many spots, providing barrels of fun for the faithful few who urged their more athletic shop mates to do their worst. The bout was pulled off between 10 and 11 o'clock, and was by no means the walkover the porridge septette had expected. They undoubtedly had the better team, when all is considered, but the canoe builders worried them at every stage and livened matters by flashes of good work, which, but for Callaghan's eagle eye, might have resulted in a different story. The Quakers, however, did not show their strength until they were behind on the scoring end. They let out for a few extra notches, and quickly climbed on top again. The teams lined up as follows:

Referee—Leo Derocher.

Quakers scored after the action had been five minutes under way. The skill constructors evened up on a nice bit of play. Loomis carried the puck down within striking distance and passed it to O'Dette, who beat out Callaghan with an easy one. The first half ended without further scoring.

Loomis broke the tie when Moore was on the fence by doing a tone stunt the length of the rink, after four minutes play. Bill Pratt came right back within two minutes and scored unassisted, making it two all. It was about that time the fur commenced to fly. The players bunched here and there, wherever the puck happened to be biffed to, except when some one would break away for a rush and then the sticks swung lustily to the tune of "My Wife's Gone to the Country." Rightmeyer lodged the deciding goal for the Quakers about five minutes before the gong, and for the rest of the game the fun was fast and furious.

The game was not a rough one, but there was a little too much needless slashing with all parties equally culpable. The Canoe Makers have the material for a good team. Loomis handled himself well and was fast and aggressive. O'Dette and Johnston were also effective. The other players gave a satisfactory account of themselves, and with a few practices the team should be up with the best of them. By playing their positions and attempting more combination they they should show a great improvement. For the Quakers, Pratt and Heffernan were fast and Rightmeyer at centre, was always in the game. Ira Moore and Fred Heaslip were also in the limelight, and, after playing together a little longer the team should show a great improve- the Mercantile championship for the Quaker Oats Athletic Club. Leo Derocher gave every satisfaction in hand ling the gong.

Both teams wear natty uniforms. The Quakers have a grey sweater with maroon trimmings and a large "Q" on their breasts. The Canoe Makers have dark blue sweaters with a canoe worked in red and white.

Ald. Harry Morgan, an enthusiastic supporter of the paddle turners, was one of the time keepers, and Art Herron, Ed. McDonnell and a few others formed a loyal rooters' club for the canoeists.

Bateries.—B. Co., Staunton and Guerin. G. Co.—Coughlin and Thompson. Left on bases, B. Co., 5; G. Co., 2. Home runs B. Co., Sharpe 2; G. Co., Patterson, Myland, Ringer. Time 2 hours. Umpire Lieut. W. Higgins.

O. H. A. SEASON WILL BE OPENED HERE ON MONDAY

The local O. H. A. season will open on Monday night when the first game in the junior O. H. A. will be played between the two local teams, the Collegiate Institute and the Peterborough juniors, and unless all calculations of the wise ones go astray the game will be something to remember. Don't indulge in the pipe that because the two teams are local ones that there isn't the keenest kind of rivalry between them. The youngsters are aching for the chance to get at each other, and if they don't cut out a pace that will have the fans delirious from watching them then its us for Copenhagen. To the people who have not watched the practices of either team the form shown by the players will come as somewhat of an eye opener. City League patrons had an opportunity of judging the calibre of some of the Collegiate players on Wednesday night as Burritt and Denison, who played such splendid games for the Strathconas, and Crane, who played rover to perfection for the West Ends, wear the garnet and grey of the Central Park knowledge factory. Their team mates are in the same class and the seven works together like a piece of well-oiled machinery.

On the other hand the Peterborough Cubs will uncork some speed stunts on their own account. They have been practising industriously ever since the ice came, against the intermediates, and they are now in shape to go the route. With such players as Halpin, Munro, Giroux, and Short, of the West Ends, Weir of the Keene team; Hefferman, Pratt, Mills, Hall of the Chieftains, and a half dozen other good men to pick from the Collegiate will find themselves up against a set of doughty opponents.

The series of four games between the two clubs to decide the championship of this group of the junior O. H. A. should produce some bang up hockey, and the fans cannot afford to overlook the opening engagement on Monday night. With the keen rivalry between the two teams there is bound to be excitement galore.

The game will be called at 8.15 o'clock, sharp, on Monday evening, at Brock St. rink.

JUNIOR SCHEDULE WAS ARRANGED

Collegiate and Peterborough Juniors Will Play a Double Schedule.

Owing to the withdrawal of the Lindsay team from this group of the junior O. H. A. series it was necessary to revise the schedule and this was done yesterday afternoon by representatives of the Collegiate and Peterborough teams. It was decided to play a double schedule between the two local teams, games to count, and the following schedule was agreed upon.

Monday, Jan. 10.—Collegiate Institute at home against Peterborough Juniors.

Monday, January 17.—Peterborough juniors at home against Collegiate.

Monday, Jan. 24—Peterborough Collegiate at home against Peterborough Juniors.

Monday, Jan. 31.—Peterborough juniors at home against Collegiate.

It is likely that S. W. Ross, the official referee of the City Hockey League, will handle the games.

Band at Street Railway Rink to-night.

SPORTING NOTES

The Grand Opera House hockey team wish to challenge any of the teams in the Merchants' or Manufacturers' Leagues to a game of hockey, to be played on the Auditorium Rink. Teams desiring to arrange a game may do so with Ed. Crowe, Manager, or Price Adamson, Captain.

The Knox church hockey team will practise between 6 and 7 o'clock tomorrow night at the Auditorium rink. The following players are asked to be out: Hillier, Crowe, Galley, Thompson, Elliott, Reed, Menzies, Henderson Bailey, Rodman, McGill, Laing, Richmond, Stewart and Dickson.

The Peterborough intermediate and junior O.H.A. teams will practise at Brock St. rink between 6 and 7 o'clock to-night. A full turnout is expected especially of the juniors, as the clubs go into action on Monday night against the Collegiate Institute in the first game of the junior O.H.A. series, and this will be the last practice before that game. The team to line up against the Collegiate will be picked to-night.

IN AGONY WITH PILES

Mr. G. W. Cornell, with the Shaw Milling Co., St. Catharines, Ont., writes, "For six years I was a victim of itching, protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I was about as miserable as any creature could be. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and complete cure with the second. This ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of what it did for me."

W. L. PARK TELLS WHAT HARRIMAN LINES HAVE DONE.

Address Before New York and New England Surgeons Recounts Results of Publicity and Schools for Employees —Decries Laws That Hamper Progress.

W. L. Park, of Omaha, general superintendent of the Union Pacific, in an address before the New York and New England Association of Railway Surgeons, at the Academy of Medicine, described in an interesting way the evolution of railroads in this country. His topic was "Conditions Necessary for the Safe Operation of the Railroad From a Constructive View, Individualized; example of Best Organized Railway."

He opened his address by stating that "the casualty report of any of our large railroads is akin to that of the commanding general of an army in time of war, except that on the railroad there is no cessation—a steady grinding and crunching of human flesh and bones under the juggernaut of modern car wheels. It is indeed a subject fraught with much interest and no little concern, both to the railroad and the public—one requiring careful analysis and close study to bring about a lessening of unnecessary suffering and waste of economic forces."

Mr. Park then pointed out the great outlay that is now being made to secure conditions for safe operation and to correct the hastily constructed lines of the era during which as many as 70,000 miles of rail was laid in one decade.

There followed this an outline of a [illegible] railway, stipulating [illegible] should [illegible] particulars [illegible] from the public, or railroad experts. That the example he had in mind was the Harriman system would seem to be evident in that he told of the "Publicity for Accidents," inaugurated by and in use on those lines by which accidents involving serious personal injuries, loss of life or heavy property loss are investigated by boards of inquiry, which, in addition to the railroad officials, are composed of United States army officers, state governors, mayors along the route, business men, farmers, and other prominent citizens whose integrity is undisputed. Obviously then, Mr. Park feels that the Union Pacific has adopted such methods of operation on his line as to make them feel perfectly safe in having those methods carefully scrutinized by an inquisitive and criticizing public without being accused of employing shoddy, unsafe or loose management. He further stated that "Publicity for accidents removes from the officials the taint of alleged mercenary suppression, nullifies yellow journalism and enlists the assistance of public sentiment to enforce a closer observance of rules and laws."

Another requisite of a well-organized railroad was stated to be the automatic block signals. These are employed extensively on the Harriman lines, which have the notable reputation of possessing over 35 per cent. of all the mileage automatic block signals in service on all the railroads in the United States.

In conclusion, Mr. Park said: "I wish to reiterate that the progressive achievement of American railroads is the marvel of the age. To this must be credited our commercial supremacy. The railroads are an integral part of our body politic—the arteries through which our commercial life flows. To poison and coagulate this by the imposition of unreasonable or unfair laws must always, as recently occurred, make the whole national body sick. If guaranteed their constitutional rights and exemption from emotional impulses, or political plundering, the American railroad man will, with his fine perception and great energy, make them the safest and most magnificent highways on the face of the earth."

BELLEVILLE GETS CHEAPER POWER

Has Chance to Buy Several Thousand H. P.—Price Reduced to $20 a Unit

Some information which will be of great interest to power users in this district has just come to our knowledge.

It seems that the Trenton Electric and Water Company has had under construction, for some time, a new line from Campbellford to Trenton, the same being now completed.

It is expected that by reason of this new line, the Trenton Electric and Water Company will have, by February 1st, several thousand more horse power than at present for sale in this city and district, and they will, providing a market for the same can be obtained, be in a position to reduce the average price of electric power, which at present is about $30 per horse-power for a ten-hour service, to about $20 per horse power for a service of the same length.

As an evidence of its bona fides, the Trenton Electric and Water Co. has made an offer to the City of Belleville to furnish electric power to run Belleville waterworks furnishing a 24-hour service at $20 per horse power. Blue prints and data in this connection have been submitted.

The new sub-station of the Trenton Electric Company, in the city, is about completed. It is pronounced to be one of the finest plants of the kind in the country.—Intelligencer.

JUDGE BENNETT'S COMMENTS UPON THE POULTRY SHOW

Most of the Classes Were Well Filled and the Showing Made in Every One Was a Good One.

THE BEST POINTS

The second annual show of the Peterborough Poultry Association was held on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week, and was a decided success. There were upwards of 600 birds shown, and while the management had counted on a larger entry from outside exhibitors, still when the fact is taken into consideration, that several other shows are being held during the same week, the entry was entirely satisfactory.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

I wonder if many people realize what an immense amount of fun one can get out of life by finding out what other people's lives are like.

It seems to me that like associates with like too much.

We are apt to weaken ourselves by being too constantly with our own kind, and never making the effort to hold converse with the other kinds.

The bootblack, the shop girl, the stenographer, the business man, the waitress, the college student all have different angles on life, and if all of them would try to get to each other's angles occasionally they would all be much broader minded and have much more to think about.

I don't mean by that that anyone can include in his circle of friends every kind and condition of men. What I am trying to say is simply that you can get a great deal of fun out of life, and incidentally broaden your understanding very much by trying to find out what the lives of the hundreds of people whom you serve and who serve you each day are like.

Did you ever say anything much beyond "Good morning" or "A dark polish, please," or "Looks like rain" to your bootblack while he was polishing your shoes?

Well, some time try asking him how he happened to go into business, and how long he has to work, and how well it pays, and what he wants to be when he gets through being a bootblack, and see if he doesn't give you something interesting to think about.

Did you ever talk to a telephone girl about life at a switchboard?

I did the other day and found out a lot of things that I don't believe many people know, and that I think are worth knowing.

For instance, when you ask your operator a perfectly simple question that you are sure she could answer if she wanted to, and instead of answering it she insists on saying, "I'll give you information," wouldn't it cool your wrath some to know that she does that, not because she wants to be disobliging, but because she is not allowed to say anything except a few formulas.

On all the big exchanges, this girl told me, the operators are absolutely forbidden to say anything except a few prescribed formulas, such as "What number are you calling?" "I'll give you information." "The line is busy," "Shall I call you," and two or three others.

The slightest infraction of this rule—even answering "Good morning" to a pleasant greeting, for instance—is punished by fine or suspension.

Isn't that rather interesting?

While you waited for your change, did you ever talk to the shop girl about people as they looked behind a counter?

Did you ever ask some rich man how life looks from his angle?

Did you ever get one of the waitresses at your favourite restaurant to tell you some of the funny and interesting experiences that come her way?

No, they won't think you a Paul Pry at all if you go about it rightly.

Don't YOU like to tell about your own peculiar experiences, your own view of life, your angle on the world?

Well, so will they if you ask them in the right way.

PETERBOROUGH LADY IN THE SMASH-UP NEAR AYR

Mrs. A. W. Harmer, Charlotte Street, Was in One of the Cars Which Rolled Down the Embankment---Escaped With a Bad Shaking Up---Mr. Harold Tanney Was also a Passenger.

Mrs. A. M. Harmer, Charlotte St., city, who spent the Christmas holidays in Chicago with her husband, returned home on the C.P.R. midnight last night. Mrs. Harmer was a passenger in the wreck near Ayr, yesterday morning, about fifteen miles from Galt, and was asleep in a Pullman car when the wreck occurred. Her car, with five others, left the track, and, after running some little distance, toppled ovtr on its side, the end car, a Pullman car, being the only one that did not go over after leaving the track. The cars were badly damaged, all being torn from their trucks and badly splintered. Several passengers were slightly injured, but no loss of life. The Company did all in their power for the comfort of the passengers, a "wreck" train taking them all to Ayr, and breakfast and dinner served at the hotels by the Company. Mrs. Harmer is confined to bed to-day from the shaking up Mr. Harold Tanney, formerly of Peterborough, was also a passenger, he being more fortunate and was in the Pullman car that did not topple over.

Back To Ontario After Absence Of Thirty-five Years

Toronto, Jan. 6.—When James H. Bell went West in 1873, when Winnipeg was Fort Garry and the C. P. R. had not arrived, it did not occur to him that thirty-five years would elapse before he returned to Ontario.

Mr. Bell is at the King Edward. He is back from visiting his brother, Dr. Bell, of near Lakefield, whom he had not seen since 1873.

Mr. Bell had a ranch at Moosejaw, but has been in Dawson City twelve years, and is in the Public Works Department.

"We have a fine school," he said. "Four of its graduates are attending Toronto University. We pay our teachers, so we get good ones. Our principal receives $300 a month, two male teachers, $250 a month, and the female teachers from $175 to $200. They are paid for twelve months in the year, too."

"Has the Yukon come to stay?"

"Assuredly. New finds are being made, and other minerals added to the gold."

Three Months As A Vag; $3.75 Fine For Assault

Three months in the county gaol for being a vagrant and a fine of $3.75 to be paid forthwith or fifteen days on the hill for assaulting Walter Mahaffy, was the punishment meted out to Frank Hamilton at the police court this morning. He did not think he was a vagrant but admitted that he hadn't worked for the past two months. Chief Rossel stated that only yesterday Hamilton's sister called and complained of the accused living around, doing nothing and said that he stole money from her mother.

In regard to the assault charge, Walter Mahaffy said that he had hired a horse and was driving up George St., when he met Hamilton. He invited him to have a drive. Hamilton then turned on Mahaffy and wanted him to get out, calling him filthy names and hitting him in the side. Hamilton was the worse of liquor.

LITERARY AFTERMATH OF LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN

"LOCAL OPTION" OPTIMISM.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I am one of those sorely disappointed over the outcome of the local option vote; but I am not disposed to whine over it. We have been beaten, not thoroughly, but only three-fifths; yet, for the moment, we are beaten; and, much as we regret the fact, we have the consolation that we have done our duty—have failed in a good cause—not the first time in the history of the fight of right over wrong.

I notice that those who have been prominent in the local option fight have been and still are the objects of much hard talk—are accused as fanatics, busybodies, inter-meddlers, etc. That was to be expected; that is the inevitable penalty that has to be paid in the leadership of great moral movements, especially those against a strongly entrenched wrong, that has profit, even if it be the price of blood, as its basis. The ministers of the Gospel who have been thus assailed should glory in their temporary shame, for "so persecuted the prophets which were before them." They will have the approval of their consciences, and the plaudits of all good men for their energy, perseverance, and fidelity to principle; for their sacrifices in the interest of their fellow citizens. It is at the same time a pity and a wonder that so much and so little animosity has been aroused over the issue so strenuously fought out the past few months. It is for those who have stood for the right to meet reverse bravely, cheering by the reflection that:

Truth crushed to earth will rise again,
The eternal years of God are hers;
But error, wounded, writhes in pain,
And dies amidst its worshippers.

Let us go on, joining with our regrets at apparent failure, the rejoicing over the reflection that the issue of the fight of last Monday is a greater defeat for the interests involved in the liquor traffic than for the cause, humbly represented by

Yours hopefully,
LOCAL OPTION.

Peterborough, Jan. 7th, 1910.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—In the "Review" of the 4th ult., appears in the front page a large space on "How Ministers View the Defeat of Local Option," which I think should not be alolwed to pass unnoticed. The first of these ministers who appears in it is Rev. W. E. Riddiford, but that is a mistake, as in the following issue it was explained that Rev. Mr. Webb was the man, not Mr. Riddiford, who is quoted as having said, "The responsibility for the bar for the next three years rests upon the leaders in the Christian church who made no attempt to aid in securing this forty-seven." Just let me say for the edification of Mr. Webb that those leaders he speaks of are good citizens, level headed and can't be stampeded into a measure that might do more harm than good. They think local option is effective and acted as any sensible man would, i.e., let their followers use their own brains and judge for themselves.

Next comes Rev. Mr. Pogue, who is quoted as saying, "I have nothing but contempt for Christian men who, when a great moral issue is before the people, are found fraternising with the enemies of righteousness and casting their vote for a traffic that is always and only evil."

That certainly shows a fine Christian spirit in a gentleman who professes to be a follower of the meek and lowly Nazarene. If I am not mistaken of some those weak-kneed Christians are members of St. Paul's churc hand contribute to the support of Mr. Pogue. Does he refuse their money? Certainly not.

Next on the list comes Rev. Mr. Potter with a long list of "Why the by-law did not carry" and he is quoted thusly: "While for the present we suffer the indignity in a British province of the 1496 supporters of the liquor traffic, being equal to 2004 supporters of a city without the bar, etc., etc.

Such is the law and Mr. Potter and his co-workers knew it before the campaign started and if they got worsted they are to blame themselves. Talking of British provinces, will the local optionists inform us why they allowed Yankee campaigners to stand on a public platform in a British city on a British Sunday and insult a great many British subjects? Had we British subjects not been a good natured lot some of those outside campaigners would have been run out of the city on the double quick. Now for some of Mr. Potter's reasons for the defeat of the by-law.

No. 1 and 2. "The lethargy of some of the clergy of the city." As for the ecclesiastics they are fully able to look after themselves without any outside aid.

No. 3. "The strong influence upon the minds of the ignorant and penurious by the letter from ex-Mayor Rush, whose writing was so unjust, unfair and personally ungracious when dimitting an office in which he had been supported for two years." If I am not mistaken Ex-Mayor Rush was one of those invited by a local newspaper to express an opinion on the merits or otherwise of local option and as he happens to be an honest man [illegible] his honest opinion, but because [illegible] could not see through the eyes of others he must be called "unjust, unfair." This is the quintessence of [illegible] There are 5 more reasons [illegible] by Rev. Mr. Potter, [illegible] per with [illegible] may [illegible] latter [illegible] [illegible] of the 7th chapter of St. Matthew and thoroughly digest them and if they are good Christians, they will attend strictly to preaching the Gospel, nothing more, nothing less and they will be respected accordingly.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor for the space, I am.

One of Those "Christian Men."

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Local theatre goers will be delighted to learn of the apearance here on Thursday, January 20, of Viola Allen, the famous actress with an all star company in F. Marion Crawford's beautiful play "The White Sister."

THE PRINCE CHAP.

One of the prettiest and brightest plays of the present theatrical season was Edward Peple's beautiful offering "The Prince Chap," which was splendidly presented at the Grand last night to a fair-sized audience. Clean and wholesome, without the slightest indication of vulgarity the play has a sweetness and a charm that is truly refreshing in these times of the latter day drama. The atmosphere of childhood that pervades the greater part of the action is the play's greatest attraction, and it is a pretty story realistically portrayed.

The Prince Chap is an American sculptor, striving to mould a name for himself in London for the sake of the girl he loves back home in New York. His poverty has forced him to seek foreign shores and leaves his sweetheart, but he bears the struggle bravely for her sake. Then comes the turning point in his life. An artists' model whom he has befriended forces him to promise when she is dying that he will take care of her five year old daughter. He is faithful to his trust and looks after Claudia as if she were his own. Three years later "the Princess" visits England and quarrels with the Prince because of Claudia. The sculptor refuses to send the girl away and the cruelly changed Princess leaves him broken hearted. Ten years after the Prince finds that he loves his little ward who by this time has grown into a beautiful girl The three Claudias are portrayed by little Misses Beryl and Helen Pullman and by Miss Elvia Bates. The former representing the girl at the age of five, the second at eight and the third at eighteen. The two children quickly won their way into the hearts of the audience by the cleverness of their work as well as by the charm of their personality, while Miss Bates succeeded in preserving in her portrayal of the grown-up Claudia all the sweetness that had distinguished the child. Allan Dinehart as the Prince Chap, was sincere and natural in his work and gave an ideal conception of the title roll. Clever indeed was the presentation of the part of Runjona, a butler by Bert Walter, while Evelyn Ferguson made the role of Puckers, a smut-faced London "slavey" as deliciously funny one. The rest of the cast is equally good.

The Prince Chap will play a return engagement in Peterborough and should be greeted by a crowded house.

FUTURE RESURRECTION

The special subject for to-night at Gipsy aHwkins' meetings will be "The Future Resurrection, What it is, and When it Takes Place."

A most interesting meeting was held last night in the Park Street Baptist Church."

Taking his text from 2 Corinthians, 5; 7., Gipsy Hawkins gave a most instructive exposture of the text, pointing out that to "Be Born Again," is the only way of Salvation. There are only two classes of people in Peterborough: Those in Christ, those out of Christ. If any man is in Christ, he is a new creature. Come to-night and hear a biblical discussion of this great topic. Meeting at 8 p.m.

WONDERBERRY GROWN BY A PETERBOROUGH LADY

Mrs. (Dr.) Gowan, 168 Brock St., who is an ardent devotee of floriculture, and an intelligent student of the mysteries of plant growth, development and differentiation, has left with the Examiner a few branches of the "Wonderberry," with ripe and ripening fruit growing alongside. The "Wonderberry," developed by Burbank, is a hybrid of two distinct plants of the Solanum family, one indigenous to the west coast of Africa and America respectively. The fruit of neither of these is edible, but the combination plant bears an edible fruit something like the blueberry. It is grown easily from seed, either outside or within the house. Mrs. Gowan's specimen has been bearing fruit for several weeks. It is a most interesting plant and seems worthy of general cultivation. By the way it may be remarked that it is a [illegible] family, the Solonaceae, [illegible] the potato, the tomato, and the [illegible] of the family, the Deadly [illegible] belladonna.

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—The railways reported 142 carloads of live stock at the City Yards, for Wednesday and Thursday, consisting of 1788 cattle, 3425 hogs, 1956 sheep and lambs, 133 calves and 2 horses.

Exporters.

No export steers were reported as being sold as such. Bulls sold at $4 to $4.75 per cwt.

Butchers

Geo. Rowntree bought 270 butchers' cattle for the Harris Abattoir Co. as follows: Steers and heifers, $4.60 to $5.50; cows, $3.25 to $4.60; bulls, $3.60 to $4.60.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby reports very little doing in these classes, but that a few good, 900 to 1000 lbs steers would sell at prices ranging from $3.75 to $4.25; light stockers are worth from $3 to $3.50. Mr. Murby bought two loads of butchers and stockers at $3.75 to $5 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

The demand for milkers and springers is fairly good, but prices are not nearly as high as some few weeks ago. The main reason for this is that there is little or no demand from Montreal at present. There was a moderate supply during the week, which sold from $50 to $80, but only one at the latter price. See the many sales reported below.

Veal Calves.

About 140 veal calves sold at $3 to $7 per cwt., with a very few choice new milk fed veals at $7.25 to $7.50 per cwt.

Wesley Dunn, the largest buyer of sheep and lambs, reports prices as follows: Exports ewes, $4.25 to $4.75; culls and rams, $3 to $3.50; lambs, $5.75 to $6.25. See the many sales given by the different commission firms, and in them it will be seen that a few selected lots brought a little higher quotations, but the bulk of sales were made at the above average prices.

Cutting Red Tape.

Many amusing stories are told of ways in which postoffice officials, inclined to keep too rigorously to the letter of their regulations, have been thwarted. On one occasion a man asked for 240 penny stamps and tendered payment in copper. The official declined to receive it, whereupon the man began buying and paying for one stamp at a time. Before he had got a dozen in that way the postoffice official had surrendered. It must have been the same man or a near relative who one Sunday went into a postoffice that was open for telegraph business only. He handed in a sixpenny telegram and asked to be supplied with two stamps besides. No, he could not have stamps; telegraph business only was transacted. Innocently he asked if he might have his telegram back for a moment to add something. He added four words to it and tendered the additional twopence. The form was returned to him with the stamps to affix. Crossing out the four additional words, he affixed the sixpenny stamp, pushed the telegram under the counter rail and walked out with his two stamps.—London Tatler.

Extreme Absentmindedness.

"The queerest case of absentmindedness that I have ever known of," remarked the night clerk of a certain hotel, "was that which happened at this hotel early yesterday morning. Two fellow boarders, one Jones by name and the other whose name is Brown, occupied a room on the third floor.

"Well, Brown requested me to have him wakened at 3 o'clock so as to allow him to catch the 4 o'clock train. He was awakened at the requested time, and in his hurry to dress himself he put on Jones' clothes by mistake. He did not discover his mistake until he reached the depot, and, would you believe it"—here the speaker paused—"when he found out that he was wearing some one else's clothes he immediately returned to the hotel and went right to bed."

"I don't see any absentmindedness about that," broke in one of the listeners.

"You don't? Why, he thought that I had awakened the wrong man."

Life at the Pole.

Life at the pole is a perpetual battle with nature, in which man is often worsted. "He was frozen to death" is the end of many biographies. While a man is in health they speak of him as "stronger than death," as if death were a watchful enemy always waiting for his chance. But life is on a large up there. Instead of the petty alternations of night and day they have the great seasonal succession, and, whether they are waiting for the long light of summer or the long dark of winter, they enjoy a keen delight in the prospect of a change such as we can never know in the tamer arrangements of our climate. The long dark does not keep them wholly inactive. We read of expeditions after bear and hunting on the ice by torchlight, but in the main their winter is given up to story telling, conversation and contemplation.

Bored No More.

"Yes," said the famous M. P., "I used to be pestered to death by a bore. My secretary was a good natured, obliging chap, and he could never find it in his heart to turn the bore away. Just as sure as I was in the bore was certain to be admitted.

"One day, after an hour's martyrdom at the man's hands, I determined to end that persecution. So I called my secretary and said to him mysteriously:

"'Parton, do you know what makes Smith come here so regularly?'

"'No, sir,' said Parton, 'I can't say I do.'

"'Well, Parton,' said I, 'I don't mind telling you in confidence that he's after your job.'

"From that day," concluded the M. P., "I saw no more of the bore."—London Scraps.

Seventeen Year Locusts.

The seventeen year locusts are sometimes called Pharaoh's locusts because they make a sound that resembles the repeating over and over of that historic name. The notes or songs are not what might be termed vocal, as they are produced by the rapid vibrations of two very thin films that cover a small cavity at the base of the abdomen. In some localities the sound produced is somewhat different from that heard in other sections. Along streams, especially along the Ohio river, the notes are more bass, while on the highlands and especially in the mountain regions the sounds produced are more shrill.—Omaha World-Herald.

An Advantage.

A well known Scottish clergyman got into conversation in a railway carriage with a workingman, who informed him that he had been a coupler on a railway for several years. "Oh," said the minister, "I can beat that! I have been a coupler for over twenty years." "Aye," replied the workman, "but I can uncouple, and you canna!"

A Mortal Insult.

Poetry Didn't Save Them.

A New York prisoner accused of drunkenness who pleaded his case in rhyme before a magistrate got a sentence of six months on "the island," for, as the judge remarked, his "jag" was bad enough, but his poetry was worse. Over in London a "plain drunk" put forth this:

I've been drinking wine that is drawn from the wood;
No bottle rubbish, but sparkling and good.
But it got in my head, so my friends all explain
That the wine has gone back to the wood once again.

The effusion and the celebration cost him 10 shillings.—New York Tribune.

"THE BIRTH OF CHRIST"
This is one of Pathe Frères December releases and one of their masterpieces. The story needs no detailed account as it is beyond doubt familiar to everyone—it follows the Bible Story closely and is beautifully coloured. Do not miss seeing this lovely picture.

"REPAIRING THE HOUSE"
An exceedingly funny picture filled with innocent merriment and amusement. Mr. Dupre on advise of his agent moves into a house whose repairs are not quit completed and you should see the fun he has.

"THE FORGOTTEN WATCH"
Jumping at wrong conclusions often brings the most dignified personages into ridiculous situations. You should see the funny mix-up in this picture when the Judge forgot his watch had & someone else arrested for stealing it.

"THE SECOND-STOREY MAN"
Another very funny comedy showing how a man finds himself on the second-storey of a building and his many exciting adventures afterwards.

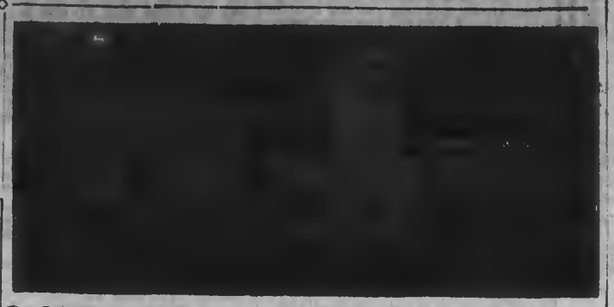
Figures That Illustrate The Growth Of Traffic On Trent Canal

Annual Report of the Lock Masters at Different Points Along the Water Way--- Increases Have Been Made



The Peterborough Hydraulic Lift Lock, the lockages over which, last year, broke all previous records.

FIGURES INTERESTING

The Superintendent of the Trent Canals, Mr. J. H. McClellan, has issuer a return, showing the number of lockages at the different stations along the Trent Canals, during the season 1909. The following figures which are given, as supplied by each Lockmaster, is an indication of the volume of traffic through the various locks.

GAMEBRIDGE
D. H. Gilchrist, Lockmaster.

The lock at Gamebridge is sometimes known as Lock oN. 5, of the Lake Simcoe, Balsam Lake Division of the Trent Canal. The lock is a short distance from the entrance of the Canal to Lake Simcoe. This is the first year that any records have been suplied showing the volume of traffic through this lock. Of course, owing to the fact that the Canal, is as yet, in an uncompleted state, there is nothing to direct much traffic over that division on which this lock is located. The detailed statement as to the volume of traffic, is as follows:—

FROM GAMEBRIDGE TO KIRKFIELD

There are four lock between this point and the Kirkfield Hydraulic Lift Lock, but a record of the lockages at Gamebridge together with the lockages at the Kirkfield Hydaulic Lift Lock, is a fair criterion of the extent of the traffic all along this division.

KIRKFIELD HYDRAULIC LIFT LOCK
Wm. Jobe, Lockmaster.

This is the third year that the Kirkfield Hydraulic Lift Lock has been operated, and notwithstanding the fact, that there is no through route from Georgian Bay, as yet, and nothing to demand very much traffic over the Lake Simcoe, Balsam Lake Division of the Canal, there were a total of 170 lockages at Kirkfield, during the past season, as the following will show:—

ROSEDALE
Albert E. Minthorne, Lockmaster.

A substantial new lock, much larger than the old wooden lock, formerly at this place, is now about completed. A splendid new concrete dam is also being constructed at Rosedale. Balsam Lake just above Rosedale Lock, constitutes the summit waters of the Trent Canal. From Balsam Lake the water of the Trent Canal flows eastward to Lake Ontario, while the artificial stretch from aBlsam Lake to Lake Simcoe carried a very light portion of the water from Balsam Lake to Georgian Bay.

Arecord of the lockages at Rosedale during the past year is as follows:—

W. T. Junkin, Lockmaster.

Considerable improvement work has been done at Feenlon Falls during the past season. A splendid new nine-foot channel from Cameron Lake to the Lock entrance, has been constructed. LINDSAY LOCK.

As is well known the Lindsay Lock is not on the main line of the Trent Canal, being on the Scugog River, and affording a means of navigation to and from Port Perry and points on Scugog Lake, on the main line of the Trent Canal. The lock at this point, however, has not been in use during the past year, owing to the fact that a new and substantial lock is being built to replace the old structure, which has served the public for so many years.

BOBCAYGEON.
John J. Walker, Lockmaster.

The lockages at Bobcaygeon during the past year totalled 997, an increase of more than 100 lockages over the previous year.

A great deal of timber in the form of rafts is locked through at Bobcaygeon. An indication of the amount of timber that passed through this lock, may be had from the fact that there were locked through at Bobcaygeon 361 rafts, each 100 feet in length. This would equal 36,100 feet, had these rafts all come through at the same time, it would havt been equal to a tow of logs seven miles in length.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle.

In a solid line the English advanced, while the Bretons ran forward as before to meet them. The swiftest of these was a certain Squire, Geoffrey Poulart, who bore a helmet which was fashioned as a cock's head, with high comb above, and long pointed beak in front pierced with the breathing holes. He thrust with his sword at Calverly, but Belford who was the next in the line raised his giant club and struck him a crushing blow from the side. He staggered, and pushing forth from the crowd, he ran round and round in circles as one whose brain is stricken, the blood dripping from the holes of his brazen beak. So for a long time he ran, the crowd laughing and cock-crowing at the sight, until at last he stumbled and fell stone-dead upon his face. But the fighters had seen nothing of his fate, for desperate and increasing was the rush of the Bretons and the steady advance of the English line.

For a time it seemed as if nothing would break it, but gap-toothed Beaumanoir was a general as well as a warrior. Whilst his weary, bleeding, hard-breathing men still flung themselves upon the front of the line, he himself with Raguenel, Tentiniac, Alain de Karanais, and Dubois rushed round the flank and attacked the English with fury from behind. There was a long and desperate melee until once more the heralds, seeing the combatants stand gasping and unable to strike a blow, rode in and called yet another interval of truce.

But in those few minutes whilst they had been assaulted upon both sides, the losses of the English party had been heavy. The Anglo-Breton D'Ardaine had fallen before Beaumanoir's sword, but not before he had cut deeply into his enemy's shoulder. Sir Thomas Walton, Richard of Ireland one of the Squires, and Hubbiter the big peasant had all fallen before the mace of the dwarf Raguenel or the swords of his companions. Some twenty men were still left standing upon either side, but all were in the last state of exhaustion, gasping, reeling, hardly capable of striking a blow.

It was strange to see them as they staggered with many a lurch and stumble toward each other once again, for they moved like drunken men, and the scales of their neck-armor and joints were as red as fishes' gills when they raised them. They left foul wet footprints behind them on the green grass as they moved forward once more to their endless contest.

Beaumanoir, faint with the drain of his blood and with a tongue of leather, paused as he advanced. "I am fainting, comrades," he cried. "I must drink."

"Drink your own blood, Beaumanoir!" cried Dubois, and the weary men all croaked together in dreadful laughter.

But now the English had learned from experience, and under the guidance of Croquart they fought no longer in a straight line, but in one so bent that at last it became a circle. As the Bretons still pushed and staggered against it they thrust it back on every side, until they had turned it into the most dangerous formation of all, a solid block of men, their faces turned outward, their weapons bristling forth to meet every attack. Thus the English stood, and no assault could move them. They could lean against each other back to back while they waited and allowed their foemen to tire themselves out. Again and again the gallant Bretons tried to make a way through. Again and again they were beaten back by a shower of blows.

Beaumanoir, his head giddy with fatigue, opened his helmet and gazed in despair at this terrible, unbreakable circle. Only too clearly he could see the inevitable result. His men were wearing themselves out. Already many of them could scarce stir hand or foot, and might be dead for any aid which they could give him in winning the fight. Soon all would be in the same plight. Then these cursed English would break their circle to swarm over his helpless men and to strike them down. Do what he might, he could see no way by which such an end might be prevented. He cast his eyes round in his agony, and there was one of his Bretons slinking away to the side of the lists. He could scarce credit his senses when he saw by the scarlet and silver that the deserter was his own well-tried squire, William of Montaubon.

"William! William!" he cried. "Surely you would not leave me?"

But the other's helmet was closed and he could hear nothing. Beaumanoir saw that he was staggering away as swiftly as he could. With a cry of bitter despair, he drew into a knot as many of his braves as could still move, and together they made a last rush upon the English spears. This time he was firmly resolved, deep in his gallant soul, that he would come no foot back, but would find his death there amongst his foemen or carve a path into the heart of their ranks. The fire in his breast spread from man to man of his followers, and amid the crashing of blows they still locked themselves against the English shields and drove hard for an opening in their ranks.

But all was vain! Beaumanoir's head reeled. His senses were leaving him. In another minute he and his men would have been stretched senseless before this terrible circle of steel, when suddenly the whole array fell in pieces before his eyes, his enemies Croquart, Knolles, Calverly, Belford, all were stretched upon the ground together, their weapons dashed from their hands and their bodies too exhausted to rise. The surviving Bretons had but strength to fall upon them dagger in hands, and to wring from them their surrender with the sharp point stabbing through their visors. Then victors and vanquished lay groaning and panting in one helpless and blood-smeared heap.

To Beaumanoir's simple mind it had seemed that at the supreme moment the Saints of Brittany had risen at their country's call. Already, as he lay gasping, his heart was pouring forth its thanks to his patron Saint Cadoc. But the spectators had seen clearly enough the earthly cause of this sudden victory, and a hurricane of applause from one side, with a storm of hooting from the other showed how different was the emotion which it raised in minds which sympathized with the victors or the vanquished.

William of Montaubon, the cunning squire, had made his way across to the spot where the steeds were tethered, and had mounted his own great roussin. At first it was thought that he was about to ride from the field, but the howl of execration from the Breton peasants changed suddenly to a yell of applause and delight as he turned the beast's head for the English circle and thrust his long prick spurs into its side. Those who faced him saw this sudden and unexpected appearance. Time was when both horse and rider must have winced away from the shower of their blows. But now they were in no state to meet such a rush. They could scarce raise their arms. Their blows were too feeble to hurt this mighty creature. In a moment it had plunged through the ranks, and seven of them were on the grass. It turned and rushed through them again, leaving five others helpless beneath its hoofs. No need to do more! Already Beaumanoir and his companions were inside the circle, the prostrate men were helpless, and Josselin had won.

That night a train of crestfallen archers, bearing many a prostrate figure, marched sadly into Ploermel Castle. Behind them rode ten men, all weary, all wounded, and all with burning hearts against William of Montaubon for the foul trick that he had served them.

But over at Josselin, yellow gorse-blossoms in their helmets, the victors were borne in on the shoulders of a shouting mob, amid the fanfare of trumpets and the beating of drums. Such was the combat of the Midway Oak, where brave men met brave men, and such honor was gained that from that day he who had fought in the Battle of the Thirty was ever given the highest place and the post of honor, nor was it easy for any man to pretend to have been there, for it has been said by that great chronicler who knew them all, that not one on either side failed to carry to his grave the marks of that stern encounter.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"My sweet ladye," wrote Nigel in a script which it would take the eyes of love to read, "there hath been a most noble meeting in the fourth sennight of Lent betwixt some of our own people and sundry most worthy persons of this country, which ended by the grace of our Lady, in so fine a joust that no man living can call to mind so fair an occasion. Much honor was gained by the Sieur de Beaumanoir and also by an Almain named Croquart, with whom I hope to have some speech when I am hale again, for he is a most excellent person and very ready to advance himself or to relieve another from a vow. For myself I had hoped, with Goddo's help, to venture that third small deed which might set me free to haste to your sweet side, but things have gone awry with me, and I early met with such scathe and was of so small comfort to my friends that my heart is heavy within me, and in sooth I feel that I have lost honor rather than gained it. Here I have lain since the Feast of the Virgin, and here I am like still to be, for I can move no limb, save only my hand; but grieve not, sweet ladye, for Saint Cuth-

Given Up To Die

No. 100 George St., Sorel, Quebec.

"I suffered from womb disease for seven years, with dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole year. At one time I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by six different doctors without any benefit.

MADAME JOSEPH LIRETTE

Then I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," but I had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged so hard for me to try them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the bloating was relieved, the sleeplessness was cured, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the fearful womb pains were made easier.

I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again."

arme hath been our friend since in so short a time I had two such ventures as the Red Ferret and the intaking of the Reaver's fortalice. It needs but one more deed, and sickerly when I am hale once more it will not be long ere I seek it out. Till then, if my eyes may not rest upon you, my heart at least is ever at thy feet."

So he wrote from his sick-room in the Castle of Ploermel late in the summer, but yet another summer had come before his crushed head had mended and his wasted limbs had gained their strength once more. With despair he heard of the breaking of the truce, and of the fight at Mauron in which Sir Robert Knolles and Sir Walter Bentley crushed the rising power of Brittany—a fight in which many of the thirty champions of Josselin met their end. Then, when with renewed strength and high hopes in his heart he went forth to search for the famous Croquart who proclaimed himself ever ready night or day to meet any man with any weapon, it was only to find that in trying the paces of his new horse the German had been cast into a ditch and had broken his neck. In the same ditch perished Nigel's last chance of soon accomplishing that deed which should free him from his vow.

There was truce once more over all Christendom, and mankind was sated with war, so that only in far-off Prussia, where the Teutonic knights waged ceaseless battle with the Lithuanian heathen, could he hope to find his heart's desire. But money and high knightly fame were needed ere a man could go upon the northern crusade, and ten years were yet to pass ere Nigel should look from the battlements of Marienberg on the waters of the Frische Haff, or should endure the torture of the hot plate when bound to the Holy Woden stone of Memel. Meanwhile, he chafed his burning soul out through the long seasons of garrison life in Brittany, broken only by one visit to the chateau of the father of Raoul, when he carried to the Lord of Grosbois the news of how his son had fallen like a gallant gentleman under the gateway of La Brohiniere.

And then, then at last, when all hope was well-nigh dead in his heart, there came one glorious July morning which brought a horseman bearing a letter to the Castle of Vannes, of which Nigel now was seneschal. It contained but few words, short and clear as the call of a war-trumpet. It was Chandos who wrote. He needed his Squire at his side, for his pennon was in the breeze once more. He was at Bordeaux. The Prince was starting at once for Bergerac, whence he would make a great raid into France. It would not end without a battle. They had sent word of their coming, and the good French King had promised to be at great pains to receive them. Let Nigel hasten at once. If the army had left, then let him follow after with all speed. Chandos had three other squires, but would very gladly see his fourth once again, for he had heard much of him since he parted, and nothing which he might not have expected to hear of his father's son. Such was the letter which made the summer sun shine brighter and the blue sky seem of a still fairer blue upon that happy morning in Vannes.

It is a weary way from Vannes to Bordeaux. Coastwise ships are hard to find, and winds blow north when all brave hearts would fain be speeding south. A full month has passed from the day when Nigel received his letter before he stood upon the quayside of the Garonne amid the stacked barrels of Gascon wine and helped to lead Pommers down the gangplanks. Not Aylward himself had a worse opinion of the sea than the great yellow horse, and he whinnied with joy as he thrust his muzzle into his master's outstretched hand, and stamped his ringing hoofs upon the good firm cobblestones. Beside him, slapping his tawny shoulder in encouragement, was the lean spare form of Black Simon who had remained ever under Nigel's pennon.

But Aylward, where was he? Alas! two years before he and the whole of Knolles' company of archers had been drafted away on the King's service to Guienne, and since he could not write the Squire knew not whether he was alive or dead. Simon, indeed, had thrice heard of him from wandering archers, each time that he was alive and well and newly married, but as the wife in one case was a fair maid, and in another a dark, while in the third she was a French widow, it was hard to know the truth.

Already the army had been gone a month, but news of it came daily to the town, and such news as all men could read, for through the landward gates there rolled one constant stream of wagons, pouring down the Libourne Road, and bearing the booty of Southern France. The town was full of foot-soldiers, for none but mounted men had been taken by the Prince. With sad faces and longing eyes they watched the passing of the train of plunder-laden carts, piled high with rich furniture, silks, velvets, tapestries, carvings, and precious metals, which had been the pride of many a lordly home in fair Auvergne or the wealthy Bourbonnais.

Let no man think that in these wars England alone was face to face with France alone. There is glory and to spare without trifling with the truth. Two Provinces in France, both rich and warlike, had become English through a royal marriage, and these, Guienne and Gascony, furnished many of the most valiant soldiers under the island flag. So poor a country as England could not afford to keep a great force overseas, and so must needs have lost the war with France through want of power to uphold the struggle. The feudal system enabled an army to be drawn rapidly together with small expense, but at the end of a few weeks it dispersed again as swiftly, and only by a well-filled money-chest could it be held together. There was no such chest in England, and the King was forever at his wits' end how to keep his men in the field.

But Guienne and Gascony were full of knights and squires who were always ready to assemble from their isolated castles for a raid into France, and these with the addition of those English cavaliers who fought for honor, and a few thousand of the formidable archers, hired for fourpence a day, made an army with which a short campaign could be carried on. Such were the materials of the Prince's force, some eight thousand strong, who were now riding in a great circle through Southern France, leaving a broad wale of blackened and ruined country behind them.

But France, even with her south-western corner in English hands, was still a very warlike power, far richer and more populous than her rival. Single Provinces were so great that they were stronger than many a kingdom. Normandy in the north, Burgundy in the east, Brittany in the west and Languedoc in the south were each capable of fitting out a great army of their own. Therefore the brave and spirited John, watching from Paris this insolent raid into his dominions, sent messengers in hot haste to all these great feudatories as well as to Lorraine, Picardy, Auvergne, Hainault, Vermandois, Champagne, and to the German mercenaries over his eastern border, bidding all of them to ride hard, with bloody spur, day and night, until they should gather to a head at Chartres.

There a great army had assembled early in September, whilst the Prince, all unconscious of its presence sacked towns and besieged castles from Bourges to Issodun, passing Romorantin, and so onward to Vierzon and to Tours. From week to week there were merry skirmishes at barriers, brisk assaults of fortresses in which much honor was won, knightly meetings with detached parties of Frenchmen and occasional spear-runnings where noble champions deigned to venture their persons. Houses, too, were to be plundered while wine and women were in plenty. Never had either knights or archers had so pleasant and profitable an excursion, so that it was with high heart and much hope of pleasant days at Bordeaux with their pockets full of money that the army turned south from the Loire and began to retrace its steps to the seaboard city.

But now its pleasant and martial promenade changed suddenly to very serious work of war. As the Prince moved south he found that all supplies had been cleared away from in front of him and that there was neither fodder for the horses nor food for the men. Two hundred wagons laden with spoil rolled at the head of the army, but the starving soldiers would soon have gladly changed it all for as many loads of bread and meat. The light troops of the French had preceded them and burned or destroyed everything that could be of use. Now also for the first time the Prince and his men became aware that a great army was moving upon the eastern side of them, streaming southward in the hope of cutting off their retreat to the sea. The sky glowed with their fires at night, and the autumn sun twinkled and gleamed from one end of the horizon to the other upon the steel caps and flashing weapons of a mighty host.

LOCAL TREATMENT FOR WOMEN'S DISORDERS

The health we enjoy depends very largely upon how the blood circulates in our bodies; in other words, if we have perfect circulation we will have perfect health.

There is a constant wearing out of the tissues in every part of the body. The blood flowing through the veins carries off this waste or dead matter, while the blood coming from the heart through the arteries brings the fresh new living tissue, the essence of the food we have digested, to replace what has been carried off. This constant wearing out and expelling of the dead matter and the replacing of it with new matter, atom by atom, goes on day and night, until in about 7 years a complete change has been effected. Thus every man and woman has an entirely different body in every particle of it from what he or she had 7 years before.

It sometimes happens, however, from a variety of causes, that the blood becomes congested in certain portions of the body. This means that the blood vessels in these parts become weakened, and the circulation in that section of the body becomes sluggish and stagnant. The consequence is that the dead matter in that part of the body is only partially carried away, and that but little of the new, vital matter is introduced there to build up and strengthen the tissues and nerves.

This condition invariably exists in all cases of female disorders. The dead matter retained in the circulation, which should have been expelled, causes irritation and inflammation of the delicate membranes, and oppresses the nerve centres. This condition is the cause of the grievous physical and mental suffering which accompanies female troubles.

To obtain relief it is evident that the first thing to be done is to get rid of the dead matter which is being held in the circulation. If this dead matter is allowed to remain there a species of blood poisoning will result and nature will endeavor to get rid of it by forming ulcers, tumors, etc.

The above explanation will also show why ORANGE LILY is so successful in curing this condition. It is a local treatment, and is applied direct to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissue, and from the very start the dead matter begins to be discharged. A feeling of immense relief, both mental and physical, accompanies it, and the improvement is constant and positive. This feature of the expelling of the dead matter is always present to a greater or less extent, and in some cases it is so marked as to be amazing.

The case described in the following letter is not exceptional:

Dr. Coonley—I am thankful to Mrs. F. E. Currah, your Canadian representative, for my health restored by your wonderful remedy. I have suffered for 17 years, but not so bad until 3 years ago. Then I had a doctor, who told me I had a tumor, and could live no more than a year. If I went through an operation I would not live through it. A year later I sent for him again, and he gave me up to die. My husband then sent for another doctor, who performed an operation, and it did me much good. I doctored with him 3 or 4 months, but became so bad again that I thought I could live no longer, and I began to long to die. One day my husband came home and threw a slip of paper to me with Mrs. Currah's address and told me a lady had advised him to write to her for a treatment that would cure me. I said it was too late, that I would die anyway. I could not lift a teacup without hurting me. Then the first doctor told me I was worse than ever. However, my husband sent for ORANGE LILY, and the third treatment brought away one tumor. Others followed, until 7 tumors had been expelled, 3 large ones and 4 small ones. I know if it had not been for ORANGE LILY I would have died, for I could not live much longer. I would have thought it cheap at one hundred dollars for a month's treatment, instead of one dollar. It is worth its weight in gold.—MRS. GEO. LEWIS, Huntsville, Ont.

The above letter is published with Mrs. Lewis' permission. All letters received are treated as being sacredly confidential, but occasionally some patient feels so grateful for being cured that she is willing to make the matter known for the benefit and encouragement of her suffering sisters.

ORANGE LILY is a positive, scientific remedy for all disorders of the female functions. As explained above these troubles are of local origin, and require local treatment. It is just as sensible to take medicine internally for female troubles as it would be to take medicine internally for a bruise, a boil or an ulcerated tooth. In all these cases some dead matter is being retained, and the cure is effected by employing local methods for expelling the dead matter. ORANGE LILY has antiseptic, soothing and healing properties, and also tones up and invigorates blood vessels and nerves. I am so anxious that every suffering woman may satisfy herself, without cost to her, that ORANGE LILY will cure her, that I hereby make the following

The Shade He Wanted.

Delacroix, the painter, was walking out one day in Paris with a friend of his when he fell into a brown study.

"What is up with you now?" said the friend.

"I can't get a certain shade of yellow," replied the artist.

"What sort of yellow?"

Just then a cab drove past.

"The very thing!" the painter gasped out. "Stop, stop!"

"I am engaged," the cabby replied without stopping.

Delacroix started in pursuit and at a steep place in the Rue des Martyrs overtook the cab. Opening the door, he said in tones of entreaty to the passenger inside:

"Do please tell your driver to stop. I want your complexion for a painting on which I am at work. There is a color merchant close at hand. I shall not detain you above five minutes, and in acknowledgment of the service you render me I will present you with a sketch of my picture."

The bargain was struck. Delacroix got his yellow, and a few months later the "fare" received a sketch of his "Assassination of the Archbishop of Liege."

Truth in Jest.

According to historical tradition, the conquest of Finland was foretold in jest that soon became earnest by its conqueror, Peter the Great, to his jester, Balakireff.

Balakireff had vexed the czar by too impudent a joke and had been summarily banished with the menacing injunction never to appear on Russian soil again. He disappeared discreetly, but one day not long after Peter, glancing out of a window, saw his unmistakable figure and quizzical countenance jogging comfortably by, perched in a country cart. Impulsively he ran down to him and demanded to know why he had disobeyed.

"I haven't disobeyed you," was the answer. "I am not on Russian soil now."

"Not on Russian soil?"

"No. This cart load of earth that I'm sitting on is Swedish soil. I dug it in Finland only the other day."

Peter laughed, but he said, "If Finland be Swedish soil now, it shall be Russian soil before long!" And he made good his words.

His Examination Concluded.

In the evidence before a parliamentary committee concerning the opposition to a railway Hodge scored a point which accentuates a certain legal fiction with reference to skilled witnesses.

A Scotch farmer was giving his testimony in favor of the bill.

"Is it true," said the wily K. C. in his most searching style, "that you, sir, said to Mr. Guild that you were willing to give your evidence on the other side if they would pay you better?"

"Aye," said the pawky farmer, "and" (after a pause) "let me jist pit the same question to ye—if ye had been offered a bigger fee, wad ye no hae been on th'ither side yersel'?"

It is needless to say that the K. C. did not cross question the witness further.—Pearson's Weekly.

Pipes Frozen by Warm Spells.

It is a curious fact that water pipes under ground will often freeze during the warm spell that follows a cold snap. The explanation made for this interesting phenomenon is that after a cold wave a large quantity of heat is taken from the ground in the work of changing the frozen moisture into water, and thus, on the principle of the ice cream freezer, the pipe is chilled, enough heat being taken from it to freeze it.

Gladdening a Humorist.

The financial burden which Mark Twain carried some years ago weighed on his mind heavily. In those moments of despondency there was one tactful friend who could make the humorist forget his troubles. This was Dan Beard, the artist who illustrated some of Twain's books.

"Dan Beard, there is no tonic that can equal the company of a cheerful man," said the humorist as he entered the artist's studio.

"Ah, but I have such a pleasant subject to work upon that I am not in need of either man or tonic for my cheerfulness," retorted the artist.

"Beg pardon; it is I that need the tonic, and that is why I am here," said Twain forlornly.

"Then allow me to prescribe a dose of your own medicine." And Mark was handed a copy of his book which Beard had been studying.

"I thank you," replied the humorist. "It took me a year to get that medicine out of my system, and I do not propose to imbibe it again."

A discussion of the book was followed by a hearty dinner, and Twain left his friend, having received the cheer that he needed.

The Alligator's Tongue.

On one occasion when traveling along the west coast of Africa with an old skipper who had known many missionaries, but "did not see the use of them," Bishop Taylor-Smith was obliged to endure a string of taunting questions, such as "What was the good of spouting at Exeter hall?" and "What did missionaries know, anyway?"

At last the bishop could stand it no longer. Turning to the skipper, he said: "I know you are an expert. Can you tell me the length of an alligator's tongue?"

"Certainly," was the reply, "but it depends on the length of the alligator."

"Very well, then; given an alligator fifteen feet long, what would be the length of its tongue?"

"Three feet," was the answer.

But the bishop, who had kept alligators and watched their ways, knew better. "It is evident that you are an authority on the west coast of Africa," he said, "but it is also evident that some people see more in ten minutes than others in twenty years. Let me tell you that an alligator has no tongue."

Declined the Job.

A writer of cheap fiction relates a trick played on him by a collaborator in the days when dime novels were longer than they are now, and the compensation made it worth while for two men to write one story between them. After his partner had finished the first chapter of their initial collaboration it was handed over with the following announcement:

"There, I've just thrown the hero over a thousand foot cliff and told the reader that nothing could prevent the lad from falling to death on the rocks below. It is up to you to save the boy."

The other writer said nothing, but sat down and wrote furiously for an hour. Then he quietly handed the manuscript back. A glance at the second chapter showed the funny man that his friend had completely ignored the events in the first part of the story, introduced a new set of characters and left the hero still hanging over the cliff, waiting to be rescued by his creator.—New York Sun.

Buying In His Note.

Colonel Bill was a pioneer legislator, merchant and banker of the vest pocket variety.

It was seldom that Colonel Bill got caught by a debtor, so unerring was his judgment of men, but his transaction with old man Blankerton was an exception to the rule. Blankerton got into Colonel Bill's ledger to the amount of $50 and finally balanced the account with a note.

When the paper was a long time overdue and there was no prospect of a settlement, to the eminent disgust of the colonel, he declared, with a strong Anglo-Saxon emphasis, that he would sell Blankerton's note for 50 cents on the dollar. The statement was not long reaching the ears of the maker of the note. He met the colonel in the village street one day and accosted him:

"Bill, heard you'd offered to sell my note for 50 cents on the dollar."

"Yes; I will."

"Will you sell it to me at that rate?"

"Yes, sir; I'll sell it to you at that rate."

"All right, Bill; make out a new note."

Colonel Bill's symptoms of apoplexy became noticeable from that moment. —Chicago Record-Herald.

The Oldest Joke.

It will be difficult to discover an older practical joke than that of the coppersmith and the maker of brazen images for the temple of Osiris, which is embodied in Egyptian inscriptions dating from the reign of Menes, founder of Memphis, who ruled over 7,000 years ago. According to ancient records, there dwelt between these two craftsmen a quiet man whose desire was for peace and who was sadly disturbed by the noisy occupations carried on by his busy neighbors. He therefore asked each of them to say for what sum they would change their dwellings. This they did. Each calculated the amount required, and he, being satisfied, paid it over to them.

"Now," he asked of the coppersmith, "where is your new dwelling?" "I have taken that of the maker of images," was the reply. "And you," queried the quiet man of the latter, "whither goest thou?" "To the house of the coppersmith!"

This is one of many tales told in all ages which are woven into myth and legend and differ only in local color.

A Revolutionary Puzzle.

These old rhymes were written in the early part of the Revolutionary war—about 1776. If read as written they are a tribute to the king and his army, but if read downward on either side of the comma they indicate an unmistakable spirit of rebellion to both king and parliament. The author is unknown:

Hark, hark the trumpet sounds, the din of war's alarms
O'er seas and solid grounds, doth call us all to arms,
Who for King George doth stand, their honors soon shall shine,
Their ruin is at hand, who with the congress join.
The acts of parliament, in them I much delight,
I hate their cursed intent, who for the congress fight.
The Tories of the day, they are my daily toast,
They soon will sneak away, who independence boast.
Who nonresistant hold, they have my hand and heart,
May they for slaves be sold, who act the Whiggish part.
On Mansfield, North and Bute, may daily blessings pour,
Confusion and dispute, on congress evermore.
To North and British lord, may honors still be done,
I wish a block and cord, to General Washington.

The First Patent on Matches.

Before 1833, when wooden matches with phosphorus were made in Vienna, people were dependent upon flint and steel to secure a light. The first patent for a phosphorus match in the United States was taken out in 1836 by A. D. Phillips of Springfield, Mass. For many years people refused to use them, but by 1845 the ill smelling and clumsy old tinder boxes were generally discarded and are preserved, like snuff-boxes, as curiosities.

Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis

Cured by "CATARRHOZONE."

A Breathe-able "Direct" Medicine.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attack the trouble at its source, disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing, balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure, medicinal essences, whereas, if a liquid or tablet remedy were used, the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

Remember this: You don't take drugs when using Catarrhozone; you simply inhale a healing vapor that cures every type of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, throat and lung soreness, and irritation.

No medicine brings such prompt relief, exerts such an invigorating influence or so thoroughly and speedily cures throat troubles as "Catarrhozone." Doctors, hospitals, sanitariums—all say that, for those who suffer from changeable weather, for those who are predisposed to catarrh, lung trouble, deafness or bronchitis, no treatment is so indispensable as "Catarrhozone."

For certain cure, for relief in an hour, use Catarrhozone, the only direct, breathable medicine. Two Months' treatment guaranteed; price $1.00; trial size 25c; at all druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

(A True Story)

"DID YOU SAY THAT I WAS AFRAID TO FIGHT, SIR?" HE ASKED.

Copyright, 1900, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.

THE table fell silent when old Titus Beemaerts arose ponderously from his seat at the head and groped for his glass. The master of the house was a man respected of all, and what he might say must command attention. For another matter, speech with him was rare and weighty and there was that in his face to show that he was under the empire of some strong emotion.

"And now," he began, "I will ask all friends and neighbors here gathered to drink a toast with me. I am plain in my words, perhaps with a tongue better suited to the barracks and the camp fire than to scented drawing rooms and assemblies. That being so, I must crave your indulgence to an old soldier of Saratoga and Yorktown. My excuse is that you who have honored me this evening have freely discussed affairs of a political nature.

"Colonel Covell some minutes since invited us to drink in silence and standing to the memory of that great soul and martyr, Alexander Hamilton. None here declined. But the sorrow and rage that swell within me when I think upon that noble body, still green in earth, demand a deeper and a fiercer expression."

As the speaker paused a moment his nephew, Guy Beemaerts, who sat at his right hand and who had been watching his face, leaned over, placed a hand upon his arm and whispered up to him a brief, imploring phrase. The aged man shook him off almost angrily, and raised his glass.

"I drink, gentlemen, to the utter confusion and deep damnation of an unspeakable scoundrel, whose name I name with hatred and abhorrence—Aaron Burr."

All of the company rose to their feet, some eagerly, some with a subtle air of defiance, some reluctantly and some with an air that showed merely a courteous deference to the wish and the person of their host. For the most part the glasses were drained. Several did no more than touch their lips to the liquor. One only refrained for an instant from following the general movement.

He was a man of good presence and handsome, spirited face, who occupied a place near the end farthest from old Titus. He had risen like the others, but now he stood with his goblet of wine advanced while those about him drank. Eyes were upon him as he waited, and in the silence he murmured in a low voice:—

"I drink, for myself, to an unhappy gentleman, who was slandered and betrayed, whose name I name with reparation due a great patriot and democrat—Aaron Burr."

The incident was over between the rising and the setting down of the glasses and he regained his seat composedly at the same time with all the diners. It was quietly done, with no ostentation, with no attempt to attract attention. Only those in his immediate vicinity had observed or heard.

Across the table from him sat a tall, spare man, soberly clad, with a pale, intent countenance that broke occasionally into a dry smile. He had marked every word and every gesture of his dissenting neighbor, and as conversation became the order of the moment about the board he turned to a portly person on his right.

"Did you benefit by the solitary exhibition just presented by Captain Thompson?" he asked.

Epitomising Thompson.

"Aye," replied the one thus addressed, with a twang of the sea in his tone. "He's a very opinionated lush, is Captain Thompson, and one who recks little of what others may say or think. Often have I had occasion to note his manner, aye, and his temper, too. Though I will say, as knowing, that there could be no better nor more honest harbor master. For twenty year, off and on, have I been sailing into the port of New York, and he is the best of all that held the post."

"Honest I have no doubt he is," returned the other with his little smile. "But his judgment and his tact might well be mended with his politics."

"Politics never yet altered a man's fibre, Mr. Coleman," was the retort, "though you would give us to believe, from your editing in the Evening Post, that a democrat is tainted with brimstone. Leave each to his own gods, if he be but wholesome and worthy."

"Still one does not worship his strange gods in the face of a host who despises and detests them," said Coleman.

At the moment that the editor faced to the front again with this speech Captain Thompson was pausing in his chat with one seated next to him. The latter part of Coleman's sentence, though not intended for his hearing, caught his ear. He looked up sharply. Coleman felt, with the instinct that consummates such matters, that Thompson had understood and was listening. He did not lift his eyes, but continued to converse on indifferent subjects with his seafaring friend, Captain Meadows.

There was fire in Thompson's glance as he watched the editor keenly. During the remainder of the evening his attitude and department were those of a man alert and challenging and he kept ever an ear and eye toward Coleman. There was nothing further to confirm the impression he had received, however, for the editor took no notice of him in any way.

As the company broke up and moved through the hall with much clamor and handshaking and muffling of great coats Captain Thompson stood at one side, just within the entry. He waited while the guests passed out into the snow swept street until Coleman came along. The harbor master accompanied him.

Outside both breasted the assault of the storm. Thompson placed himself in Coleman's way. "A very good evening to you, Mr. Coleman," he said, and waited. Coleman lifted his face from his collar for an instant and met the other's significant stare under the pallid, wavering gare of the lamp.

"Good evening," he returned quietly, and passed on. Thompson, partly mollified, went his way.

The next day the Evening Post contained a particularly savage and bitter attack upon Aaron Burr and his followers. It formed the topic of discussion later when a number of democrats were gathered in a private parlor of the City Hotel. Thompson was present and spoke with some heat.

"What justice is left us," he demanded, "when a federalist sheet is allowed such license as this? What would have been the result if Alexander Hamilton had survived and Aaron Burr had been shot? Where would they have placed their hero then? I am in favor of having it out squarely with some one of these self-sufficient partisans of a dead slanderer. The man who wrote that article, for instance."

A few moments later James Olden sidled up to him. Olden was a nervous, apprehensive little man, who was forever deploring and bewailing all forms of violence and took upon himself the rôle of mediator in all disputes.

"Oh, Captain," he began, "I trust, I sincerely trust, that you did not mean that you would fight with Mr. Coleman."

Thompson had not meant that, but he bristled. "Why not?" he asked, and recalled instantly the grievance of the night before.

"Why, in such a move you are not only laying yourself open to personal peril, but you are exposing us all, as members of the democratic party, to further humiliation."

"I don't see it," said Thompson bluntly.

Weighing the Duel.

"You spoke just now in belligerent vein of William Coleman. Suppose that you should fight and he should fall. He is firmly associated with the federalist cause. You know what harm has befallen us already through the fortune of the duel. If you should kill him it would complete the ruin of our cause in this city."

Thompson reflected, apparently dwelling upon this view of the matter. "But what if I should fall?" he asked grimly.

"You would do us no good," answered Olden. "Our only hope is to let the thing blow over. Hamilton died in July. It is now December. Already I have noted some disposition of the public to dissociate our party from the universal execration heaped upon Burr. Any such move as you are evidently prepared for would injure us."

But Thompson was obstinate. "You must be consistent, Mr. Olden," he said. "You say that if I should kill Coleman it would affect once more against the party. I am not ready to admit that that is so or that I am justified in being released from the privilege of calling any man who has insulted me personally as well as those of my friends. But if his death would have such a result surely, mine would have an opposite one."

"You mistake. It is the duel that people are chiefly excited against. Death is detested and can never obtain to favor. But beneath the hostility to him is a growing sympathy for the man to whom he appealed. You would simply supplement that feeling by fanning into fire, if the party favored him, would [illegible]"

Thompson shook his head. "You have only confirmed me in my position. I already know that if I kill Coleman I will remove one of the most dangerous of our enemies, while you have shown me that if I die myself it may still aid our party."

"Sophistry!" snorted Olden.

"Perhaps. Now I'll tell you something else. I received word to-day from Washington that a strong effort was being made to remove me from my position, on the ground that I was concerning myself too openly in political matters."

"I should think it not unlikely," returned Olden.

"And I am certain, since last night, that the influence exerted against me has its origin with Coleman," continued Thompson.

"A supposition quite in keeping with your whole attitude," observed Olden.

Watching the Captain.

Captain Thompson bowed stiffly to his friend and turned away, but when he left the gathering some time later, Olden was close behind him. A cause for uneasiness that the elder man had hidden from the harbor master was his knowledge that Coleman was at that moment entertaining a circle of guests in another parlor of the same hotel. He feared a collision between them, and since his efforts to change Thompson's state of mind had proved fruitless he determined to keep a close watch upon the fiery official.

Thompson passed down the stairs into the public room and ordered a drink before his departure. Olden keeping discreetly out of his way. The harbor master was seated by himself at a table when the door opened and Coleman appeared, accompanied by several friends, one of whom was Captain Meadows. Olden saw the sudden flush on Thompson's face and moved closer to him.

As Coleman walked to the great log fire, turning never a glance about the room, Thompson suddenly left his seat and made toward the editor. Olden jumped up and hastened to intercept him. Meadows was the first one of the other party to observe the approach of the harbor master. As Thompson walked up he found himself suddenly confronted by both Olden and Meadows.

"Will you step aside, gentlemen?" he asked haughtily. Olden caught him by the arm, while Meadows signalled wildly to friends who stood about the unconscious Coleman.

"You must come with me," said Olden, tightening his hold. Thompson resisted him. In the meanwhile Meadows had communicated the cause of the disturbance to his party and they had closed in around Coleman. Before Thompson could cry out or release himself the editor had been hustled from the room, surprised, bewildered and totally at a loss to understand the excitement.

When Thompson finally broke loose and rushed to the door he looked out into an empty, black street, where the snow lay packed in drifts. He turned then and advanced upon Olden with clinched fists.

"Now you cannot keep me from him," he declared passionately. "I had thought merely to call him to some account before you interfered, first with your words and a moment ago by force. I will have no man direct my affairs for me. If I choose to fight I will."

Olden tried to soothe him, saying that he had in view merely the interests of the party and Thompson himself. But the harbor master would not listen, picked up his hat and cloak and stormed from the room.

The meeting Olden was greatly agitated. He saw that his part in the affair, step by step, had achieved no [illegible] to irritate Thompson and to [illegible] Coleman. Yet he could see no way that his [illegible] could undo what he had only [illegible] to [illegible]

[illegible] something more dangerous. As he conceived it his duty now lay in seeking out Coleman and urging him to avoid a quarrel. He would do this the more readily from the fact that his relations with Coleman were of the friendliest in spite of their political differences. He sought out the editor on the following day.

"I am not aware of any difference between myself and Captain Thompson," said Coleman in answer to Olden's first appeal.

"Then you will be the readier to keep out of his path," cried Olden eagerly. Again the well meaning blunderer had taken the wrong tack. The editor drew himself up.

"I keep out of no man's path, sir," he said decisively.

"No, no," returned Olden, floundering deeper. "That is not what I mean. But he is hot tempered and impulsive. You might put him off or give him some soft answer so that he will not be tempted to extremes."

"In sober fact, Mr. Olden," said Coleman, with his dry smile, "you seem to have but a poor idea of my own ability to manage my affairs. Captain Thompson must proceed as seems to him best. I shall meet any move on his part in accord with my dignity and honor."

Olden's Despair.

The well meaning old man, in despair at the successive results attending his efforts, could think of nothing better to do than to hurry off to the Custom House for Thompson.

"I have just seen Coleman," he announced when he had found the harbor master. "You mistake the man, Thompson. You would do very wrong to put yourself in a hostile position toward him. He has the utmost respect and regard for you."

"Ah," said Thompson, "did he assure you of his sudden friendship himself?"

In the heat of his anxiety and intense desire to prevent the outcome he feared Olden did not pause to weigh his answer and took one more false step. "He did," he cried. Then, having said so much, he could not refrain from bettering it. "He declared that he had nothing to do with any opposition to you at Washington and that he would like nothing better than to see you win every success."

There was a glitter in Thompson's eye as he listened, but Olden read no warning. "Anything more?" asked the harbor master.

Then Olden had what he felt sure was a direct inspiration. "Only he said that while he wished you to know that he was in every way friendly, it might be as well, in order to stop any gossip, for you to keep apart as much as possible. You see, Thompson, if you are much together at gatherings there is the chance that busybodies might make trouble."

"Very wise," replied Thompson, so quietly that poor Olden was completely deceived and congratulated himself upon having smoothed over a very delicate and threatening situation.

That evening the public room of the City Hotel was more than usually crowded, the continual snow of recent days having driven men toward good cheer and a roaring fire. Thompson arrived to find most of the places about the tables taken, and in passing down the room came face to face with Coleman. The harbor master drew himself up and looked at the editor with an unpleasant twist to his mouth.

"A good evening to you, Mr. Coleman," he said slowly and with emphasis.

Coleman enjoyed his glance, and as he did so he recalled the admonitive warning he had received from Olden that morning. The incident had aroused the editor's resentment, for he believed that Olden had repeated words put into his mouth by the harbor master. The irritation he felt was just enough to impel him to a [illegible] course [illegible] most answering and went [illegible] a smiling [illegible] a table [illegible]

"Do you see that fellow Coleman?" he asked. "He is the kind of a man whom you may slap on one side of the face and find the other cheek turned to you directly."

The group fell silent. "What do you mean?" asked one.

"Why, I had some slight cause of difference with him, and when it came to his ears he crawled away with sneaking, flattering assurances of his distinguished consideration. He sought to dodge before I had said a word to him. He even suggested that he would keep out of my way. Just now he turned tail and ran, like the cur he is."

In such a company words of such a kind travelled fast. Thompson's speech was whispered from table to table and the room hummed with it. The harbor master meanwhile assumed the air and attitude of one who is more than ready to answer for himself. Coleman first received the news from Meadows, who hurried to his side.

"Our hot headed Captain has done it now," he exclaimed.

"What?" asked the editor, with a frown, for he was mightily tired of this coil about a man to whom he was entirely indifferent.

"I would not meddle," said Meadows gravely, "but this closely affects you and you must hear it soon in any case." He repeated the public slur that had been cast upon Coleman by the harbor master.

Knew What It Portended.

Coleman offered no reply, but his face was white and set as he stood up. A number of those in the room saw the move and knew what it portended. A few, his closer friends, even made to intercept him. He waved them aside sternly and advanced to where Thompson sat.

"Did you say that I was afraid to fight, sir?" he asked, in a voice that all might hear.

"I did," said Thompson, joyfully, springing to his feet.

"Then kindly assign some one to consult with Captain Meadows, sir, and I will endeavor to satisfy you on that head," said Coleman, as he turned away.

Thompson could think of no one more suitable than Olden for a second, and the little man, mournful and depressed at the sudden turn of affairs, consented. As he accompanied Captain Meadows into another room to discuss the affair he evolved a final scheme to prevent a serious outcome.

"As the challenged party, your principal has the right to state the terms," began Meadows when they were alone.

"My principal exercises that right and demands to fight in the street and within two hours—that is to say, at midnight," answered Olden firmly.

"In the street and at night!" exclaimed Meadows.

Olden bowed. "At twelve paces," he added.

There was no possible objection and the arrangements were made accordingly. Olden plucked up heart. The snowstorm was still raging and it would be strange if either opponent could inflict mortal damage under the conditions. Nor was he altogether without the hope that some prowling constable would put a welcome end to the matter.

It was snowing heavily, on a stiff, dry wind, when the two parties left the hotel and proceeded by separate and roundabout routes to University place, which had been settled upon for the meeting. The street was silent and deserted, unlighted save for a hazy lamp at a corner and piled high with drifts. They had brought lanterns with them, and the flickering wicks threw fantastic shadows before, behind and about them as they plodded along the uneven path. Meadows blew upon his hands and swore as he turned to the surgeon he had retained. "Here's the devil's own time for such work," he grumbled. "Was the like of it ever heard before? In a public street at midnight, and up to our necks in snow!"

Olden was very much excited as the preparations went forward and was of little assistance to his principal with his voluble comings and goings, remeasurings, objections and general chatter. After some difficulty it was agreed that the two surgeons should hold the lanterns, one on each side of the line of fire. The opponents then stripped to their shirts, seemingly unconscious of the sharp sting of the weather. Neither showed a trace of nervousness or of any thought other than to bring down his enemy. Only once did Thompson show a flash of his quick temper.

When they were at their marks Olden came running toward the harbor master wringing his hands.

"Oh, Captain, Captain," he cried, "this is a sad thing. That ever I should have lived to see it!"

"Have done," said Thompson sharply. "One would think it was your business to make this more difficult for me."

Olden subsided and the adversaries stood alert. The lantern bearers raised their arms and down the faintly lighted lane of snow each man could see the form of the other, vague and distant through the whirling flakes. Meadows was to give the word.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" he called.

"Ready," they answered.

"Present?"

Both lifted their weapons and took aim.

"One! Two!"——

The shots rang out, echoing dully from the blank facades of the houses. Each second ran toward his principal, but the shots had gone wild. Olden was delighted. He sought Meadows.

"Surely, sir, honor is now satisfied. I will undertake to have my principal take the initiative.

Meadows replied gruffly and came back a moment later, saying that Mr. Coleman would listen to a complete apology from the harbor master. Olden flew to Thompson with this news, feeling that he was certainly the wisest of friends. On hearing his proposal Thompson spluttered with rage.

"Apologise!" he cried. "And you dared suggest it? It was an unfortunate moment when I picked you to aid me, sir. Go and withdraw the overtures you made instantly."

Once more the surgeons took their positions, while the duellists stood at the mark. Olden was in tears and could scarcely control himself. He ran hither and thither in the snow, out of the line of fire, calling himself the most miserable of wretches that he should have a hand in the death of his friend. Thompson endured it a moment and then raised his pistol toward him.

"By God, sir," he said, in a voice strangled with wrath, "if you cannot act like a man I will put a bullet through you first." Olden sank in a drift and lowered his face in his hands. It was evident to all the watchers that the behavior of his second had almost unmanned the harbor master.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" asked Meadows once more.

"Ready."

"Present! One!"

At that instant there came a scream from Olden and he threw himself through the snow toward Thompson with outstretched hands. "A constable! A constable!" he yelled. His stumbling figure brushed against his principal, who had to shift to avoid him. There came a flash and report from Coleman's weapon and Thompson's pistol discharged harmlessly in the air as he fell sidewise into the snow.

"I have got it," he [illegible]

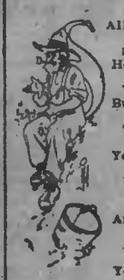
The KITCHEN CABINET

INDIVIDUALITY.



AID Farmer Jones: "There never was
So contrary a steed,
He's getting thinner daily, yet
We give him plenty feed;
But he takes little at the trough,
The saying's true, I think,
You can lead a horse to water, but
You cannot make him drink."

And when one here below, is born
A slave to doubt and fear,
You may tell him God is in the wind—
You cannot make him hear.
You can show him clouds at sunset,
You cannot make him see
The silver lining—it remains
A hidden mystery.

Build libraries of noble books,
Provide the wisest teaching,
But if the people will not heed,
Where is the good of preaching?
'Tis individuality
That counts, and so, I think,
We waste much time providing for
The horses who won't drink.

Potatoes—An Appreciation.

If Sir Walter Raleigh had done nothing else, his discovery of the potato plant should have protected him from his untimely fate.

It is interesting to note that potatoes, like corn, have adapted themselves to hostile environment, for both are sub-tropical, and were originally found in Mexico and Central America. By means of cultivation they now flourish abundantly as far north as Maine, where, indeed, some of the best varieties come from. For more than 200 years it has been a necessary article of food—so essential in Ireland, for instance, that a failure of the potato crop means a famine and fearful suffering.

The potato was, so little as a quarter of a century ago, rather a slighted part of the farm products—given to the women to dig, and the children to hoe or weed or not, as they saw fit. Now the crop is as aristocratic and important as any raised, and this year there were grown about 200,000,000 bushels of potatoes, with a value of nearly $120,000,000.

Chemists tell us that the potato contains less water than any other vegetable, and that it is especially rich in "carbohydrate energy." Children (especially if they are thin), should eat freely of potatoes, and the ways in which they may be prepared are many and varied, from the plain boiled in the jackets, to the elaborate "au gratin" or escalloped.

A PRAYER.

GOD, send less money than we want,
And less time than we need.
Send less of unknown foes to daunt,
Less unknown fears to heed.

More love to make this old world wag
Unto a merrier tune,
The less December, and, please God,
A little more of June.

A little less of "wishing for,"
And some more work to do,
And faith that, somehow, somewhere, all
The balance will swing true.

More strength that cometh with the day,
Less thought of how and when,
Then, suddenly—the darkness
Without a dream; amen.

A "First Course."

Puff paste cases filled with a mixture of creamed sweetbreads and mushrooms are delicious. Flavor with chicken stock, or with the stock in which the meat has been boiled. Garnish with a few unchopped mushrooms or tiny celery stalks. This, served with hot biscuits, is elaborate enough for the "piece de resistance" of the meal.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an 'all gone" sinking feeling; or, again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin, and visible pulsations of the arteries.

There may also be experienced a smothering sensation, gasping for breath, and feeling as though about to die.

In all such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart and restoring it to its normal beat, is, beyond all question marvellous, as our thousands of testimonials will show.

Mrs. Martha Mason, Marlbank, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart, would have severe choking spells and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all with heart or nerve trouble."

Stung Both Ways

Thompson Proved to Be the "Goat" First and Last

Thompson has a great liking for Khiva rugs, and during the five years he has been married has indulged his fondness to the extent of four fine Khivas, each of which is a treasure in itself and a source of delight in the Thompson household.

It is, however, a well-known fact that it is possible to get too much of a good thing, and Thompson had this truth brought home to him forcibly one evening, not long ago, upon arriving home breathless with expectancy at the pleasure his wife was experiencing in the possession of a new Khiva rug he had that day sent out to her.

Instead of shouts of approval and little "yips" of delight, he came upon a much nonplused little woman who inquired: "Say, Leonard, why in the world did you buy another Khiva? We've got four already. Why didn't you get some other kind of a rug?"

Thompson told her that he had bought the rug at a bargain. That Tom Seward, a friend of his, a rug-buyer, had picked it up cheap in New York and, knowing his (Thompson's) weakness for Khivas, had brought it along and had given it to him at actual cost.

"How much did it cost you, dear?" asked Mrs. Thompson resignedly, and Thompson, trying to make the best of a bad slip, told her without tremor, "Only $60, dear."

In reality he had paid $90 for the rug, which was one that would retail for about $160.

"Sixty dollars," echoed his wife. "Sixty dollars! Why, Leonard Thompson, do you mean to tell me that you paid $60 for that rug? Why, goodness me, the rug I saw down town is much handsomer than this, and do you know what they ask for it? Only $50. Only $50," she repeated, "and I would sooner have it than two like this one, and, besides, the pattern of this one is not pretty at all; it's too shallow and it looks out of place alongside the rich colors of our other Khivas. I do wish you had said something to me about it before you went and paid out $60 for a rug I wouldn't give $40 for."

Thus matters stood, and Thompson felt so bad about it that he told "the bunch" the whole story next day at lunch.

When he got home that night his wife was at the door waiting for him, and she danced him gleefully into the parlor and joyfully pointed to the place where, on the previous evening, the disappointing Khiva lay.

There was no rug there, and Thompson stammered out: "Wh-where—what did you do with it? Where has it gone?"

For answer his wife shook a bundle of bills in front of him and then snuggling up closely to him cooed: "Kiss your little wifey, Lennie dear, because she certainly is a bright little business woman."

Thompson did as he was bid and then he inquired what it was all about and she told him this:

"This afternoon, about five o'clock, a man who said he was a dealer in new and second-hand rugs, called here and wanted to know if I wanted to buy a nice new rug, or if I had any rugs I wanted to exchange or sell.

"I thought this might be a good chance to get rid of that Khiva you got from Tom Seward, so I showed it to the man.

"He looked at it rather doubtfully for a minute or two, then asked me how much I wanted for it.

"I told him $75, but he gave an amused laugh, and, with a shake of his head, said: 'I'll give you $50 for it, lady, and that's about $10 more than is is worth.' I finally got your $60 back, and here it is.

"Now, don't you think that was rather a clever piece of business for your little wife to do, all by herself?"

Thompson admitted feebly that she certainly was a clever little trader, but inwardly he groaned as he thought of the 30 good, hard-earned dollars he had lost on the transaction, and then to cap it all, his wife added: "And now Leonard, I am going down to buy that perfect love of a rug I saw for $50 and with the other $10 I'm going to buy a nice little every-day hat for myself, mayn't I?" And Thompson dazedly said she might.

Next day at luncheon Barlow said to the bunch: "Say, fellows, to-morrow's my birthday and I propose that you all help me celebrate."

Next night they met and the dinner was a great success. Barlow, as host, insisted that every man must "sing a song or tell a story."

Thompson's turn to do a stunt came, and as he was feeling happy as a result of a few warming drinks he decided that the best story he could tell would be the joke on himself about the way his wife sold the rug, and he told it.

There never was an after dinner story told in this gay old world that was received with the tumultuous applause that greeted Thompson's. He couldn't understand why it did go so well, although, of course, he realized that it was a good joke on him.

It was nearly two weeks afterward before he did understand.

Tom Seward, who was one of the guests at the dinner party, just could not keep it in any longer and he told Thompson how the gang arranged with him to take back the rug for the price paid for it, $90, and how they hustled up an Armenian of their acquaintance and sent him out to Thompson's house to buy the rug for the $60 they advanced him and how, with the $30 they were "to the good," Barlow gave his famous "birthday" dinner.

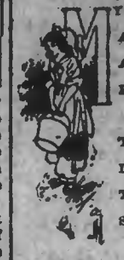
IN THE FLARE.



MY STUDY fire burns warm and bright,
And brooding there I sit to-night.
And see the pictures in the flare,
But, best of all the pictures there,
Is Molly, going milking.

The brown thrush chants an evening hymn,
In woodland chancel, arched and dim,
The sky with sunset tints aglow,
Sends good-by benisons below,
When Molly goes a-milking.

I was a boy in grogram brown,
And she a girl in gingham gown,
And when I met her at the bars,
I thought no sight beneath the stars,
So fair as Molly milking.

Perhaps I'd twist her apron-string,
(My wooing knew no bolder thing),
And there we'd bide till Charley's Wain
Came out and bade her home again,
For late was Molly, milking.

Cuisine Queries.

What is, or was, a Franklin stove? The name is now generally applied to any open stove—that is, a stove wherein outside air is applied directly to the fire. The first stove of such a description was introduced by Benjamin Franklin.

What is a fricandeau? The French name for a fancy dish of boned fowl served as an entree or side dish.

What is a dossil? A plug or spigot attached to cask or barrel.

What is empyreuma? The expression, "A taste of empyreuma" is only another way of saying that the thing, vegetable or meat, has a burnt flavor. For many people, a slight taste of the fire is, if anything, an improvement, and a "hint of empyreuma" does not mean that the dinner is burnt.

An Entertainment Suggestion.

In place of a bazar, which is rather overdone, and which has come to be rather dreaded by its victims, why not give an entertainment in the form of a masque or pageant? The costumes are always simple, as for instance, a masque of flowers and trees. These, simply arranged, can be found at any place where plays or dramatic sketches are sold. Extra money may be made by selling flowers and fruits by the girls after the show. Open-air pageants are especially attractive, but can be given in any large hall or public building. Ballads or madrigals suitable could be added at will if the text be limited.

Orange Strips.

Boil 30 minutes, bits of orange peeling, cut into fine strips. Change the water and boil again; repeat, each time changing water. Lastly, take a cup granulated sugar, one of peeling and water to cover. Boil until it strings from a fork. Serve covered with powdered sugar.

Another Queer Sweetmeat—is called Turkish Delight, and is made with common starch as its chief ingredient. The original is imported at high prices. The following recipe was given by the proprietor of a Turkish bazaar.

Boil 2½ pounds lump sugar with scant two pints of water. When clear, add one-half pound of starch, dissolved in cold water. Stir until it has become think paste. Add a cup chopped almonds and water, if too thick to stir easily. Favor with rose or any fruit extract. When cold, cut into squares and dip in powdered sugar. In tin boxes this will keep a long time.

Does Your Flour, Madam, Contain Only the Cream?

While we were busily occupied in munching our morning rolls, we idly watched our Celtic Bridget across the breakfast table skimming the cream from the milk.

"Bridget, we like a little cream in our coffee—a foolish weakness of ours, Madam.

"Say, Bridget,"—using all our tact and tenderness—"couldn't you leave the cream be just a little richer if you didn't add as much skim milk?"

"Don't hurt nobody unless," said Bridget. "This, thanks more cream."

Now, Madam, FIVE ROSES is the creamiest extract of the wheat, only the pure inside heart of the plump, transparent spring wheat berries, scientifically milled on the Manitoba prairies.

If you only knew (as we know) how really good FIVE ROSES is—all richness of bloom, natural flavor, wonderful bread-life.

Why, your grocer could never sell YOU any other flour again.

You'd have actual baking good. You'd be as enthusiastic as we are.

And some day, maybe, when you feel real neighborly, you'll tell your friends about FIVE ROSES, Mistress Housewife.

And TO-DAY is the best day of the year, you know.

"Sure," [illegible] doesn't fancy the difference. Besides, we'll bet her buns it's a little cheaper than FIVE ROSES."

For better eating, better living, happier, healthier children; easier bakings—you'll try FIVE ROSES, Mistress Housewife.

PETERBOROUGH LOCK.

Wm. Collins, Lockmaster.

The traffic through the Peterborough Lock does not at the present time indicate the volume of traffic down the Otonabee River to Rice Lake as it did some years ago, before the Peterborough Street Railway Company extended its line to a point on the Otonabee river just below the locks. As is well known, a handsome new dock has been constructed on the Otonabee River, at the foot of the Peterborough Street Railway, and a great deal of traffic commences at this point. Notwithstanding this fact, however, the total lockages through the Peterborough lock during the past year amounted to 1,198. Of this amount it is worth noting that 479 of these lockages consisted of small boats, chiefly gasoline launches.

The record of the traffic at this lock during the past year is as follows:

HASTINGS LOCK.

John Tracy, Lockmaster.

This is a lock that is not much used, owing to the fact that there is nothing to attract traffic between Hastings and Healey's Falls. It is anticipated that this lock will not be operated at all, as extensive improvements are being made at Hastings, in the line of construction work, on the division extending from Rice Lake to Lake Ontario, and a new and modern lock of much larger size will be in course of construction next year. SOCIETY WOMEN'S HAIR

A Simple Treatment That Will Make It Truly Fascinating—Wm. Madill Guarantees It.

Nowadays every up-to-date woman has radiant hair.

What a foolish creature a woman would be if she lost the opportunity to add to her attractions.

Yet in Canada to-day there are hundreds of thousands of women with harsh, faded, characterless hair who do not make any attempt to improve it.

In Paris most women have beautiful hair, and in Canada all women who use Parisian Sage have lustrous and luxuriant hair.

And any woman reader of the Examiner can have attractive and lustrous hair in a few days' time by using this great hair rejuvenator Parisian Sage.

Wm. Madill sells a large bottle for 50 cents and he guarantees it to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

Parisian Sage is an ideal hair tonic not sticky or greasy.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER SERVICES

Three meetings were held last night in connection with the week of prayer, one in Charlotte St. Methodist, one in Bethany Tabernacle and one in St. James Methodist. The meeting in Charlotte St. was well attended and the interest was deep. Rev. Mr. Trumpour preached on the subject of "Sacrifice." He said in part:

"The natural universe is built on sacrifice. The grain of wheat must die to produce the harvest. Animal life lives on vegetable life. Christ's life, to be in harmony with the universe He created, must be a life of sacrifice; so too the Christian finds his highest source of joy. All spiritual life has its basis in sacrifice. The O. T. Dispensation ordained sacrifices as the atmosphere of approach to God, acceptable if accompanied by the spiritual element of faith. So to-day by the sacrifice of Calvary the Christian looks through the clouds of sin into the love of God, provided by faith in Christ and union with Him he shares the sacrifice he pleads. Practical spheres of sacrifice as a return to God are found in Christian giving, public worship and consecration of self.

Likewise the social world should be pervaded with sacrifice. The example of the Father's unwearied love for men, the debt we owe to the generations who have gone before, call us to a life of sacrifice. Grenfell's work in Labrador was an example of this. Practical spheres could be found to-day in the support of foreign missions, and in living the Christian life" in the midst of the growing worldliness and unfaith.

Joy is the attendant fruit of sacrifice—not a reward for sacrifice—even as the joy for which Christ endured the Cross was not merely the crown which followed the sacrifice, but the joy inherent in self sacrifice.

Both prisoners broke down and wept when they learned their fate.

DIED IN BROCKVILLE

Brockville, Jan. 7.—Mrs. McLean, the youngest daughter of Senator Fulford, passed away here to-day.

WOMAN'S CONFIDENCE IN WOMAN.

Womanly women shrink, as a rule, from speaking to men other than their husbands about any trouble peculiar to their sex from which they may be suffering. Their sense of modesty and refinement prevents them from consulting a doctor in regard to such disorders, even though they may be many times more painful and distressing than disease for which a physician is regularly called. On the other hand, they are always glad to confide about these matters to an experienced, sympathetic woman. They know that her sisterly nature appreciates their sufferings, and that she has a clearer and more instinctive understanding of the causes that lie back of them than any man possibly can, on account of her personal experiences and the experiences of those with whom she has come in contact.

Mrs. F. D. Currah, of Windsor, Ont., has undoubtedly a wider acquaintance in a confidential way than any other Canadian lady. A sufferer for years from these troubles herself, though now in the best of health and a mother of several children, she is eminently well qualified to give counsel and encouragement to those who are suffering and despondent. More than 10,000 women in all parts of Canada consider her a personal friend and ascribe their recovery to Orange Lily, for which Mrs. Currah is the Canadian agent. She inspires confidence from the start by offering to send, absolutely free, enough treatment to last for ten days to every suffering woman. This causes many to investigate it, and the fact that almost all of those who test it continue its use until cured is perhaps the best proof that could be given of its virtues as an unfailing remedy for these distressing diseases.

WALTER J. FRANCIS IN THE WEST EMPLOYED BY CITY OF EDMONTON

Receives $50 a Day as Consulting Engineer to Report on the Civic Utilities of the Western City---Has Assistant Who Will Remain for Some Time in Edmonton.

Examiner Special.

Edmonton, Jan. 8.—Walter J. Francis, Montreal, the consulting engineer, who is going to make a thorough investigation and report upon the city's utilities, has arrived in Edmonton and this morning was a visitor to the city's offices. He was introduced to the commissioners by Ald. Armstrong, who has taken up the duties of chairman of the investigating committee since the retirement of R. J. Mason.

Mr. Francis is accompanied by an assistant, N. F. Ballantyne, of Ottawa. Mr. Francis states that the course he will pursue has not yet been definitely decided upon. It would be some time, however, before he would submit a report which would be sent direct to the city commissioners.

To Visit Power House.

This afternoon the engineers are to be taken around by the chairman of the committee, who has the investigation in charge. Ald. Armstrong, McKinley and ex-Ald. Manson and Fraser have also been asked to act in an advisory capacity.

It is probable that Mr. Francis will remain in Edmonton about a week mapping out his course of investigation and then leave the detail of the work to be handled by Mr. Ballantyne. Already the engineers have a large amount of data dealing with the local situation in their possession.

Paid $50 a Day.

The city is paying Mr. Francis while he is actively engaged on the investigation at the rate of $50 a day and his expenses, while his assistant is receiving $200 a month.

The engineer who is looking into the city work was one of the investigating committee on the Quebec bridge disaster and it is stated that he was asked to take charge of the reconstruction. He was also employed by the Dominion government in connection with the construction of the Peterborough canal.

Rev. Mr. Pogue Deals With "Sobriety's" Letter

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—I shall crave a little of your valuable space in which to reply to the article of Thursday evening's issue, signed "Sobriety." The purpose of this reply is not controversy but the imparting of information.

The writer undoubtedly is an advocate of temperance and is reasonable and charitable enough to admit that the men who have been labouring for local option during the past months and the large majority of our citizens who cast their vote in favor of the local option by-law on Monday, were all acting honestly and conscientiously. The tone of his letter would certainly not lead any fair-minded critic to infer that he was a friend of whiskey. He is evidently a friend of temperance and an enemy of the liquor traffic. He sees the evil of intemperance and deplores it, as do we all.

But I do not think he would have spoken as he has on the Legislative aspect of temperance reform if he had taken a little more time to meditate and if he had availed himself of the campaign of education which has been carried on in this city during the last few months. I venture to say that there are scores of men who honestly opposed the local option law two months ago who could not oppose it now. The reason of this is that a fuller discussion of the subject and a wider outlook on the many methods of attack employed by other temperance workers all over this continent has led them to see that local prohibition is a much more effective way of lessening the evils of intemperance than a license law or a wide open bar. They have come to see that, notwithstanding the "contrariety of the depraved human heart, courts evasion and breach," and the difficulty of enforcing the law, that the law can be enforced, that it has been enforced, and enforced to such an extent that the evils of drinking are reduced to a minimum as is seen for example in such a fact as falling off in revenues in U.S. in "dry" territories of $17,000,000 in 1908 and $7,000,000 in first three months of 1909 as against the corresponding months in 1908. That does not look as though the law could not be enforced or that the quantity of liquor consumed under local prohibition is not very much reduced. We have had reputable business men, editors and educators, from cities and towns all over the province, tell us on the public platform of the success of the local option law, of the possibility of enforcing it as effectively as the present license law. All this has been said over and over again from pulpit, platform and press, so that no one need be ignorant of the success attending the working of the law. The vast majority of temperance workers in the U.S. and Canada are in favor of some form of Legislature reform as applied to the liquor traffic, either State wide prohibition or local prohibition.

But when anyone says that this is the only method which such workers employ, or are in favor of employing, to destroy the evils of the liquor traffic, he is very much mistaken. Local option is an excellent way of dealing with the drink evil. It is not the only excellent way. The splendid work of the T.A.S. is another of these excellent ways. The campaign of education carried on in this city is still another excellent way. That campaign was not confined to the Legislative side of the reform by any means. It aimed at enlightening the moral nature, strengthening the conscience, enlisting the strong in an effort to save an dprotect their weaker brother; it aimed, too, at reaching men's hearts and changing their dispositions and of effecting a real temperance reform by putting men in contact with the dynamics of the religion of Jesus Christ. As for the work that is being done by the Protestant churches of our city, I can speak for the majority of these, at least, when I say, that the very membership of men in full communion in these practically, if not really, a pledge that they will become total abstainers, if they have never been so before. 'Tis true we have have not now as many total abstinence societies as formerly. But this is nothing to our discredit. We have been seeking through the faithful preaching of the gospel and the application of the eth-

Strangest Case in History of New York---Painter Was Burrowing His Way Under Ground to Rob a Bank When His Tunnel Caved In

AT WORK FOR MONTHS

New York, Jan. 7.—Ten feet under Ludlow Street, in a tunnel big enough for a small man to crawl through, the authorities, who had to sink a shaft for the purpose, to-night found the body of Isaac Finglestein, a painter, trapped in his tunnel like a rabbit in its warren. Sappers and miners had been digging 36 hours for him. A cave-in, caused, no doubt, by the rumbling of a heavy truck along the asphalt overhead, had broken down the walls of his burrow, cutting off his retreat to the cellar of the new building at 53 Ludlow street, and smothering him under many feet of heavy, damp sand.

The tunnel runs straight from the basement of the long vacant new loft building, No. 55 Ludlow street, toward the unprotected cellar wall of S. Zirnisky's jewellery store, at the south east corner of Ludlow and Grand Sts. The second building east of Mr. Zirnsky's in Grand Street is the East Side branch of the Fourteenth Street Bank. Finkelstein had perished in an attempt to reach the bank of the jewellery store, which he had plotted to rob.

At Work Three Months.

There were certain indications that Finkelstein had made a desperate attempt to claw a way out of the mass of earth. But Finkelstein did not have a chance in the world. Between him and the entrance of the tunnel the cave-in had built up a five-foot wall of earth and stone. The street was ten feet above his head. He could not have kept alive more than a few minutes at most after the tunnel gave way.

The deserter from the Russian army, who was a painter here until he got some queer notion in his head about the wealth across the street, was equipped for his job. He wore rubber boots and rough gloves and heavy clothing.

From the tunnel the diggers unearthed a shovel and a sack. Nobody knows how long Finkelstein had been mining under Ludlow street, an inch at a time. He had advanced his tunnel about 30 feet, and had put in a flimsy shoring. Three months would have been hardly time for the job.

WALTER MILLER ON THE EDMONTON CUP TEAM

Local Boy Got Out of His Difficulties in Prince Albert by the Edmonton Club Paying the Other Team's Expenses ---Miller Had Signed With Prince Albert.

Walter Miller, the Peterborough boy who has been making a name for himself in the professional hockey world, is coming east with the Edmonton Stanley Cup chasers, and will be carried as spare man. Miller learned during the past week a little insight into the complexities of hockey when business is introduced into the game. It seems that he had signed a contract with the Prince Albert team before Edmonton got after him. Then the latter invited him to go to Ottawa with them and he accepted the offer. When he was leaving Prince Albert, however, the team of that place had him brought into court on a charge of breach of contract. However, next day the Edmonton team offered to pay the expense involved in bringing Miller to Prince Albert. The latter club agreed to the offer, and he was allowed to go to Edmonton. He will likely visit his home here en route as will Fred Whitcroft, the other Peterborough boy with the Edmonton team.

Miller is a graduate of the City Hockey League, as is Doherty, who played right wing for the Galt professionals in their two Stanley Cup games this week.

GIPSY HAWKINS' ADDRESS AT PARK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

The beautiful auditorium of the Park Street Baptist Church was taxed to its fullest capacity last night by the big crowd, who came to hear Gipsy Hawkins has no fads or ture Resurrection, what it is, and when it takes place."

After a brief introduction regarding the great doctrine of the resurrection and its fundamental relationship to Christianity, Gipsy Hawkins took for his text Daniel 12:2. "And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt. Mr. Hawkins substituted the word all for many, as a better interpretation, and then proceeded on a Biblical exposition of the Resurrection, which was much enjoyed by the large audience.

Gipsy Hawkins has no facts, or fancies regarding this great doctrine. He never had a day's schooling in his life, and at 12 years of age he commenced to read the Bible for himself, and therefore the facts and convictions he holds, are his own, and he always speaks as if he believed them.

The doctrine of the Resurrection was as old as Job. Man has always believed in it. After an eloquent eulogy of the character of Daniel, he substantiated the Resurrection upon the fact of Christ's death. Christ's death would mean nothing to us apart from his resurrection. The Bible speaks of a living, of a dead, a resurrected, and a coming of Christ. Christ's heart was pierced and he must have been dead. The fact of his burial. They would not have buried a living Christ. Pilate was satisfied to let the disciples have Jesus' body, because the death sentence had been carried out.

The fact of the Pharisees and priests taking special precaution. First, they place a huge stone at the cave's mouth. Secondly, they set a watch of Roman soldiers to guard a dead man. What were they afraid of? The fact is the resurrection stands out to-day the par-excellent, indisputable historical fact of the twentieth century. Christ rose to prove two things. His deity and his Saviourship. He was the Son of God, and became Son of man to save man. There are two resurrections—the just and the unjust. (See Luke 14:14, Heb. 11-35, Rev., 20:5).

Gipsy Hawkins believes in the millenial reign of Christ on earth for a thousand years. The first resurrection will be of the just, the second of the wicked. In glowing language he described the state of this earth when Jesus came. No more war, no more saloons—which Gipsy Hawkins declared are the batteries of hell to damn souls.

Time did not permit of further discussion and Gipsy Hawkins will furnish his address next Monday evening with special reference to the future punishment of the wicked.

Several decided for Christ last night.

Services on Sunday at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., for men only, when Mr. Hawkins will give "A manly talk to manly men"; also a special evnagelistic service at night.

Everybody welcome.

MARKET WAS BIG TO-DAY

Poultry and Eggs Scarce—Plenty of Butter, Meat, Vegetables and Wood—Prices are a Little Easier This Week—Lots of Hay.

WOOD SOLD RAPIDLY

Market prices today were lower than for a month past. Eggs were down to 33 and 34 cents and butter sold at 34 cents. There was practically no poultry offered. Here and there a stray turkey was noticed averaging about $2.00 and an occasional pair of chickens at from 65 to 90 cents. Butter was very plentiful and eggs just fairly so. Out on the market there must have been more than a score of loads of wood, mostly hardwood of the best quality. The prices varied, but in almost every case were satisfactory. Beef was offered in abundance, pork was rather scarce and vegetables and apples were fairly plentiful.

Pleasant Evening by Guests of St. Martin's T. A. S.

About 35 members of the social club of St. Peter's T. A. S., made a pleasant journey to Ennismore on Thursday night and were the guests of St. Martin's T. A. S. "Forty-fives" proved a pleasant pastime and indeed was of real interest. The visitors won by 14 games over the Ennismore club. Refreshments were served and with music and speeches the evening proved most enjoyable. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick was among those who spoke, delivering a fine address of welcome. St. Martin's club will be the guests of St. Peter's in the near future.

PRISONER ESCAPES THOUGH SHACKLED

Travels Miles Through Snow on Bitter Night Clad Only in Nightshirt

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—Frank Lessard, of Flinton Frontenac County, who was arrested on a charge of assaulting his brother's wife, was handcuffed and shackled and held in a house. SECOND SERMON

Rev. Canon Davidson Will Continue His Series To-morrow Night.

The second of the series of sermons by Rev. Canon Davidson, on "Some Spheres and Services of Practical Religion" will be given to-morrow evening in St. John's church. The subject to-morrow evening will be "The Betterment of the Individual. What it is and How Attained." The sermons are interesting and of much practical value, as they deal with the things of every day life.

Four weeks' special services will be commenced in the Methodist churches of the city on Monday next and will be held on the first five days of each week. The services for the first two weeks will be as for the first two weeks will be held in the Charlotte St. and Mark St. churches. The pastors of the churches in which the meetings are not being held will preach in the other two churches during the two weeks in which the meetings are held here

PROFITABLE DISCUSSION.

It is with real pleasure that the Examiner gives space to such letters dealing with temperance reform as those written by "Sobriety" in Thursday's issue and that written by Rev. Mr. Pogue in to-day's issue. Without committing ourselves to accept ance of the arguments of either, the spirit of both is the admirable thing. Both are calm, argumentative and temperate in spirit, in striking contrast, in these regards, to many and most of the letters heretofore written by individuals. Argument is argument, but declamatory invective, is a mistake. Two good men can, aim to reach the same goal without personally colliding.

EXPLANATORY.

In to-day's issue of the Examiner will be found the detailed report of the volume of traffic on the Trent Canal, during the navigation season of 1909. A glance at the reports, which have been supplied the Examiner by the Superintendent of the Canal, Mr. J. M. McClellan, is most interesting, and taken on the whole, these reports show a marked increase in the volume of traffic on this waterway over last year, and in fact over all previous years in its history. It is important that those who take an interest in canal traffic, should bear this in mind, in view of the statement issued from Ottawa during the past month to the effect that the tonnage on the Trent Canal showed a decrease, as compared with 1908. The same statement also showed that the tonnage on all the Canals in Canada had had a substantial increse, excepting the Trent Cnal. This report, insofar as the Trent Canal is concerned, is erroneous and misleading, and requires an explanation. At the same time it must not be said that the statement sent out from the Statistical Department at Ottawa was true insofar as their records went, but it was based on incomplete returns. The fact is, that up until this year there were seven statistical stations, on the Trent Canal, via., Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Buckhorn, Burleigh Falls, Youngs' Point, Peterborough Hydraulic Lift Lock, and the Peterborough Lock, in the south end of the City. This year, however, the Statistical Department at Ottawa, cut out the statistical station at Buckhorn, Burleigh Falls and the Peterborough Hydraulic Lift Lock. It can be quite plainly seen that with no records of the traffic at these three stations, in the Statistical Department, at Ottawa, the apparent decrease in the volume of traffic, is quite accounted for. In this connection it might be pointed out that a daily boat plied between Bobcaygeon and Burleigh Falls, but with Buckhorn abolished as a recording station, the traffic went on without the Canal getting any credit, for it in the records of the Statistical Department at Ottawa. A similar state of affairs exists at Burleigh Falls and at the Peterborough Hydraulic Lift Lock, where more than 18,000 persons passed over during the past season. It is said that the Department felt that the records at Young's Point would serve to show the volume of traffic passing through the Lakefield-Peterborough section of the Canal, inasmuch as the traffic from Peterborough over the Litf Lock is, it was urged, through traffic to Stony Lake, and points further up the Canal. It was also held that the traffic at Burleigh Falls was pretty much through traffic that also pasesd through Young's Point, and would be, of course, recorded at Young's Point. It cannot very well be said that like reasons exist in respect of Buckhorn.

The views that have led the Department to abolish Buckhorn, Burleigh Falls and the Peterborough Hydraulic Litf Lock, may be good, and their action in this respect may be in the interests of the public service, but it has affected the showing of the Trent Canal, for this season, at least, and it is important that the public should know the reason of the apparent decrease. If, however, the tonnage at the present list of statistical stations, viz., Peterborough (old lock), Young's Point, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon and Gamebridge, is to be taken as a basis of reckoning from now on, there is reason to believe, that the tonnage on the Trent Canal, even insofar as the Statistical Office at Ottawa is concerned, will show a marked improvement next year, and in fact in succeeding years. It might be mentoined that apart from the records kept at the statistical stations above mentioned, each lockmaster on the Canal, keeps a complete record for the information of the Superintendent's office and it is from these records that the public is today able to appreciate the fact, that the traffic on the Canal, at almost every lock, shows a substantial increase over former years. The traffic on the Trent Canal has increased each year for many years past, and, in a few years hence, when the Canal is completed throughout, and through traffic is passing over the entire system, the importance of the enterprise in its relation to the commerce of the country and of Peterboorugh especially, can be more fully realized.

A GREAT YEAR.

The most eloquent passages of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's notable speech at the opening of the new Liberal Club, Toronto, were those dealing with the growth, prosperity, and failure of Canada. This is the natural and congenial theme in the thoughts or words of every true Canadian. Canada has made great progress in the past dozen of years, of which, perhaps, the last was the greatest. In that year there was an addition of 2,000 to the railway mileage of the Dominion. This is, at once, an indication and a means of progress. It is not brag to mention these things; it is gratitude, and should be an incentive to make the coming year greater than the past. The Globe's annual review of the commercial and financial standing and achievements of the Dominion in 1909 unfold a buoyant story of progress in every direction. During the year over 90,000 people crossed the international boundary to settle in Canada, bringing with them money and effects on the average of $1,000 each, making an addition of 90 million dollars to the wealth of the country, not counting their potential value in the future. While immigration from Great Britain and the continent showed but a small increase, the prospects for a larger number of the better class of settlers from the old world are excellent. It was a year of bountiful crops, the soil of every province yielding most liberally. In the three prairie provinces alone the total output of wheat, oats, barley and flax was 343,000,000 bushels, or 100,000,000 more than in the preceding year. The wheat crop of the west was by far the largest on record, amounting to 123,000,000 bushels, as compared with 107,000,000 bushels in 1908. The production of pigiron was the greatest in the history of Canada, the total output being about 800,000 tons. The product of 1900 was only 86,090 tons. There was considerable development of the Cobalt mines during the year, the total output being 27,748.75 tons, as aginst 25,362 tons in 1908. The year witnesed the inauguration of two new steamship services on the St. Lawrence route, and a third company will commence the coming season with a new line of passenger steamers from Glasgow to Montreal. In every branch of industry and commerce there was an unmistakable revival of activity, the year showing an enormous increase in the amount spent for building purposes, the total for nineteen cities being 53,915,579. Naturally, the country's credit continues good in the London money market. As Lord Strathcona puts it, "any applications for capital from Canada for purposes which are legitimate and based on statements absolutely reliable and capable of investigation will continue to receive what may be termed favourable consideration."

With a record like this, even as superficially indicated, there is reason for Canadians to be optimistic; reason for them to buckle on their armour with renewed confidence. In our national, in our civil, in personal activities we should cultivate a unity of spirit and aim, and work together harmoniously for the promotion of the several interests that place responsibility as citizens upon us.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Col. Chinn, representative of Mercer County, Kentucky, proposes a law making it a misdemeanour for a preacher to discuss politics in the pulpit. Without such a law it is worse than a misdemeanour — it is a mistake.

The Globe suggests that the United States submit Peary's data to the same tribunal that stripped Cook of his false laurels. If this is not agreed to, there cannot but remain a suspicion that there is a fear of having two bad Cooks on hand.

In September, 1909, 12,827 emigrants left Great Britain for Canada, 10,177 of whom were British subjects. In September, 1908, the figures were 8,029 and 7,662, respectively. The total number of immigrants leaving Great Britain for Canada in the first nine months of 1909 was 95,112. Of these 73,923 were British subjects. In the same period of 1908, the figures were 83,979 and 72,513 respectively.

The Globe has the following:

In extending any public service franchise beyond the life of a generation a Legislature takes an unwaranted liberty with the unborn. It was done in the case of the Toronto Railway. Were such assumptions frequent the people whose rights were legislated away would refuse to accept the incubus gratitiously handed down to them.

Toronto would have taken no "unwarranted liberty with the unborn" if it had granted a long-term franchise to its "incubus" street railway upon such terms as Peterborough has granted the Light and Power Company a non-exclusive franchise, accompanied benefit rather than an "incubus."

GOOD ROADS.

A correspondent writing to the Toronto World, asserts that good roads add ten dollars an acre to the value of farms in their vicinity. It is remarkable how blind farmers are in this regard to their own best interests. Good roads are worth many times their cost to the communities they serve. An investment of a hundred dollars in tax receipts representing expenditure to provide good roads is a much better investment for a farmer than a similar investment in a rubber-tired buggy. The cost of a good road to the farmers' market, town or city, will be recouped many times a year in the time saved, the decreased wear and tear of horse flesh and vehicles, and the comfort of their use. We boast of our advanced civilization and our enterprise, and we are entitled to the boast in everything except the matter of good roads. In this regard we are a hundred years behind the time. We muddle along in the same makeshift ways as were forced upon our ancestors nearly three generations ago. In city and country, we waste labour, we waste time and money in burlesque road building. We don't do enough and we don't do what little we do well enough. As a people we seem to regard road building and good roads as a conspiracy against our pocket books. We practically regard good roads as an enemy to be avoided, as a calamity to be warded off. Not only municipalities, but the provincial authorities are asleep in the matter. The municipalities need a guardian appointed, and the provincial authorities need to be wakened out of their sleep. We shall probably never have any appreciable improvement till the Province undertakes a system of constructing leading roads under a well-defined system of allocation and construction without which we cannot have the best or even good results. We should take a leaf out of the book of our neighbours across the line. The following extract from the message to the Legislature of Governor Hughes, of New York, should be an eye opener to the farmers, the municipal and, especially, provincial, authorities of Ontario:

Important progress has been made during the year in the construction and improvement of our highways. Of the 520 miles of roads under contract when the new state highway commission entered upon its work at the beginning of last year, 201 miles have been completed, and accepted, and of the remaining 319 miles 75 per cent. of the work has been done. In connection with these roads supplemental agreements were made for construction of 112 miles of bituminous macadam, of which 88 miles have been completed.

During the past year there have been expended for the improvement of country roads $2,847,261, of which the state contributed $1,783,827, and the various counties $1,063,434. Three hundred and seventy-five miles of road have been oiled with a heavy asphalt oil and covered with screenings or gravel.

The total amount available for township highway purposes during the past year, which was expended under the direction of the commission was $3,801,732, of which there was raised by highway tax on the township outside o incorporated villages and cities the sum of $2,436,199, and the state contributed $1,365,533. There was also raised for bridge purposes $747,340.

It will be seen that the state pays more than half the cost of county highways. We can even better this record. The revenue of the province of Ontario belongs to the people, though the people do not directly contribute a cent to it. It comes from indirect sources. Why not then take the advance step of the province undertaking the construction of a system of leading roads roads throughout the province. The statute labour tax on these roads might be commuted and the proceeds applied to the building of sideroads in the townships affected. The provincial revenue or a liberal part of it could be expended to so good advantage in no other way. The province should take the initiative for the country people will not. They should be benefitted in spite of themselves.

THE VALUE OF TURPENTINE

When all else fails the physician recommends his wealthy patient to take a trip to the turpentine groves as a cure for throat and lung troubles. The turpentine of commerce cannot very well be used but by adding Dr. Chase succeeded in getting up the most effective treatment for throat and lung troubles that was ever discovered. It is known as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

RICHARD ROE

Poor old seedy Richard Roe! There is naught he doesn't know of the kennel and the street and the hobo's foul retreat. There is nothing he can't tell of the ante-mortem hell. Drifting on life's stormy wave, he's a wreck, unfit to save; drifting, drifting with the flow, where the shipwrecked mortals go Richard is a trying sight; once his countenance was white, but it's rusty with the grume of an elder, ancient time; and his rags are passing foul, and he has a wolfish howl; and his story's trite and stale, as he paces in the jail; he's completely out of chink—and it's saddening to think that this effigy defiled, must have been, one day a child! It is saddening to know that above this Richard Roe, with his face by evil seamed, once a mother bent and dreamed! Prayed and dreamed—above that face—that he'd take an honoured place, in this great, wide world of men—truly, she was dreaming then! There are many Richard Roes, drifting—whither no one knows—where life's billows sweep and swing; and it seems a blessed thing that so many mothers die, ere they see the wrecks drift by!

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

This is a little talk on unnecessary enemies. Have you any of that kind? Maybe you thought that all enemies were alike.

But they aren't, by any means.

Enemies should be divided into two classes—necessary enemies, of which we have reason to be proud, and unnecessary enemies, of which we ought to be thoroughly ashamed.

I heard some one the other day reproaching a girl for saying a thoughtless thing that made an enemy for her.

"I wouldn't think much of anyone who went through life without making enemies," she retorted. "I think it would show that he hadn't much character. The greatest people, the men who have been in advance of their times have always had the most enemies."

Quite true. But not all a justification for her.

For though to be great is to have enemies, to have many enemies is not necessarily a sign of greatness.

People are often apt to confuse the incidentals of greatness with its inherent signs in this way. For instance, I have even known people who were proud of their bad handwriting because so many geniuses have been poor penmen.

Emerson says:

Is it so bad, then, to be misunderstood? Pythagoras was misunderstood, and Socrates and Jesus, and Luther, and Copernicus and Galileo, and Newton, and every pure and wise spirit that ever took flesh. To be great is to be misunderstood."

But he did not mean, as so many impatient young people are apt to think that to be misunderstood is to be great.

The man who makes an enemy because he stands for some belief, some principal, some reform, has a right to be proud of that enemy, to regard him as one of the highest honours he has won.

The man who makes an enemy by reason of his honourably attained success or his well-won position, has a right to be proud of that enemy, to regard him as one of the highest honours he has won.

The man who makes an enemy by reason of his honourably attained success or his well-won position, has a right to pity that enemy as a foolish captor, self-chained to the chariot wheels of envy.

But the man who makes an enemy because of some unkind or thoughtless word, some neglected courtesy, some spiteful act, some misunderstanding allowed to widen into a breach, should be thoroughly ashamed and thoroughly unhappy until he has managed somehow to undo his work.

"The man who hath a thousand friends
Hath not a friend to spare;
And he who hath one enemy
Shall meet him everywhere."

And if that one is a necessary enemy, then he shall have reason to be more proud every time he meets him than he is of the thousand friendships.

But if that one is an enemy made through carelessness or selfishness, odds with himself and discontented thom he shall have reason to be at has made them a thousand and one with the thousand friends until he by winning over the enemy.

FOSTER'S WEATHER FORECAST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 8 to 12, warm wave 7 to 11, cool wave, 10 to 14. The feature of this disturbance is expected to be a very considerable rise in average temperatures and a deficiency in precipitation. Next disturbance will reach Pacific Coast about 13, cross Pacific slope about 13, great central valleys 15, eastern provinces and northeastern states 17. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 16, great central valleys 18, eastern provinces and northeastern states 20.

This will be decidedly the most important disturbance of the month. Storms accompanying it will be severe, the temperatures that will have fluctuatingly and gradually risen Dec. 30th to Jan. 16, will take a leap downward and continue to fall more than the season would suggest.

An unusually warm period of temperatures will cross continent 13 to 18 and following it will come a cold wave and blizzard with snows farther south than usual. Readers of these bulletins will be saved much disagreeable weather experience by getting ready for this, the worst winter storm that will occur in January.

This disturbance will also largely increase precipitation which will be much greater last half than during first half of January. Northern states east of Rockies, will get most of the precipitation of January. The southern states, Cuba, Central America, and that part of Canada east of the Rockies will be rather dry. West of Rockies about normal rainfall and colder than usual.

Cotton, Hogs, Cattle, Grain.

Cotton is surely high enough and planters will not try to hold over. Hogs are not as scarce as grain speculators tried to make believe. Farmers must feed their soft corn to hogs and cattle, and these will increase at a rapid rate. Prices are now high and I could not advise to hold for still higher prices. Probabilities are that the big speculators will soon make a bear campaign on grain, hogs, cattle and cotton and therefore the farmer and planter should sell while the prices are good.

Something is wrong with the oats market. In face of the greatest oats crop the world ever produced the market prices of oats are abnormally high. Speculation and manipulation.

The markets are surely manipulated and a disposition is manifest that our national executive and legislative departments will make an effort to check the great speculators in their damaging manipulations of market prices. These manipulations rob both the producer and the consumer and some means should be found to put a stop to illegitimate and to encourage legitimate trade in the cereals, cotton and provisions.

THE MAN IN THE ORCHESTRA

By Cello.

One of the most delightful attractions that have been seen at the Grand this season was "The Princess Chap," on Thursday night. It breathed an atmosphere that could not but please young and old. Throughout the piece there are strains of humour that is genuine and greatly enhances the charm of the main action. It is understood that "The Prince Chap" will be brought back to the Grand in the near future, and should not be missed by those who appreciate a refreshing, wholesome play of the season's leading theatrical attractions. It is also learned that "The Royal Chef" will likely be produced here shortly. There are many who have desired to hear Ben M. Jerome's music again, and the announcement of the booking of this musical show will be greeted by them with pleasure.

Talking of his prospects, Geo. M. Cohan is credited with the following:

"I expect to bring my own tour in The Yankee Prince to an end early in February in Albany. We will then have played straight across the Continent. On or before Washington's Birthday I will sail for Europe, to be gone several months. Over there I expect to get a couple of settings for the new musical play which will bring the Four Cohans and several of the players in my present company upon Broadway for the dedication of the new George M. Cohan Theatre in September. The name of the new play has not yet been decided upon, but it will be one of the biggest productions I have ever made.

"I hope to make the George M. Cohan Theatre the home of successive Cohan productions. While I shall appear in the first of the series, I plan before long to retire from stage activities and devote my time to the writing and staging of musical plays. After a few seasons there, I think all four of us—daddy, mother, Josephine, and I—will be ready for a good long rest, which we will certainly have earned by that time.

"The company will continue with others in our places, playing one-night stands in New England and through Pennsylvania until the warm weather."

Speaking of Pauline and his hypnotic act the New York Review says:

It is an interesting display of clever showmanship. He may or may not exert some hypnotic influence over his subjects, but he is clever and that is what seems to count nowadays. To the experienced the act is not helped at the outset by the prompt willingness of some thirty men to go upon the stage as subjects. He makes an undue use of profanity in his subjects. This may be all right in the back woods, but he should edit his "horses" for the polite houses. Also he should not talk about catelepsy until he can train some of his people not to wink. As a clever piece of fakement it is most enjoyable, the most laughable thing being the frequent use of the throat spray by the hypnotist, a bit of business first introduced by De Wolf Hopper in one of the Weberfield shows. All of which reminds one of the saying that "you can't fool all the people all the time.

Digby Bell, who was seen here in the "Little Dorritt," is supporting Lillian Russell in George V. Hobart's farce "The First Night."

"The Gay Musician," with the same company that played here, is now on the Pacific Coast.

Percy Hammond, dramatic critic of the New York Tribune, has started a crusade aiming at the elimination of what he calls the "senseless curtain call." He states that it kills what would otherwise be a brilliant climax. He refers to a scene from "The Fires of Fate," as follows: "The curtain had just fallen on a hideous scene of murder and rapine atop the Abousir rock, where sneering dervishes had ensnared a party of English and American tourists, shooting some of the men and carrying the women away to a fate worse than death. While the shrieks of the victims still terrified the ears of the audience the curtain went up again, revealing a smirking line of actors stretched foolishly across the stage, just as if there was no play going on at all. The most bloodthirsty of the dervishes was bowing politely to the lady he had been throttling a moment before. In the background, to make the spectacle more ludicrous, one of the tourists was stretched in seeming death throes upon his face.

"We believe that stage managers err in permitting absurd exhibitions of this kind. Simply because an exciting episode inspires an audience to clap its hands is no indication that it desires to have the participants in that episode separate themselves from the play and to shout aloud the fact that everything is make believe. In a scene of that kind the applause is for the situation, not for the actors. Nothing is more distracting than to realize during a play that 'performers' are standing in the wings patiently waiting for a curtain call that is not meant for them at all. It is a humiliating exhibition of the vanity of some actors and the subserviency to tradition of some stage managers.

RICHARD HALL & SON

303-305 GEORGE STREET. LIMITED

GENERALLY SPEAKING

An Editor's Pipe Dream.

A Unionist paper in England is declaring that there is widespread stringency in business in Canada, and that in consequence thereof at least 100,000 Englishmen are anxious to return home. Nothing could be further from the truth. To-day Canada is basking in the full sunshine of prosperity, and anyone who is at all capable of working is able to obtain employment. There are a certain disgruntled set of men in this country, however, who are quite willing to run it down, because they cannot fit in with the requirements of Canadian citizenship. Any one who reads an English or Scotch weekly like the Overseas Daily Mail or the Edinburgh Weekly Scotsman will occasionally see evidences of the truth of this statement. These men are making their influence felt, but not exactly in the way they expected. A short time since a meeting of the headmasters of the great public schools of England was held, at which the head master of Bradfield College made the statement that Canada wanted above all things, good citizens, and it was beyond measure incumbent on those who had the upbuilding of the young in their keeping and the future welfare of the Empire at heart to endeavour to draw the interest of the best of their pupils to this country, and to frown upon all efforts to send out such riff-raff as had in the past lowered the name of Englishman in the minds of Canadians. This must be the class to which the English paper refers. It is preposterous to even imagine that there are 100,000 useless Englishmen in this country, anxious to return home.

Chronological Cycles.

In a pocket-book issued by one of the standard insurance companies as a Christmas present to its customers. The following is to be seen:

Chronological Cycles.

Dominical Letter	13
Golden Number	11
Epact	19
Solar Cycle	15
Roman Indiction	8
Julian Period	6623

One cannot but feel that such a compendium to the ordinary reader must be about as intelligible as Sanskrit, and with a view to affording a key to such as don't know, the following explanation is given:

The Dominical Letter.—The first seven letters of the alphabet are used to denote the Lord's Day in the Almanac. This year the letter is B. The practice is to put the letters backward, instead of forward, so that next year this letter will be A. An exception is made in Leap Year, when the letter is changed at the end of February, thus making use of two letters during the year.

Golden Number. — The Golden Number is used to determine the date on which Easter Sunday falls. To find the Golden Number, the figure 1 is added to the current year, and divided by 19. If nothing remains 19 is the Golden Number; if not, the remainder is the Golden Number.

Epact.—Is the excess of the solar over the lunar years; the former consisting of 365 days, and the latter of 354, or eleven days fewer. The epact of any year is the number of days from the last new moon of the old year to the first of the following January.

Solar Cycle embraces a period of 28 years, which, having elapsed, the Dominical or Sunday letters, return to their former place and proceed in the old order, according to the Julian calendar.

Roman Indiction—The term "indiction" really means "a proclamation." In chronology it represents a term of 15 years, and was originally instituted for purposes of taxation. Romans were obliged to serve in the army for that length of time, and at the end of that period an extraordinary tax was levied on the people for the purpose of paying them off.

The Julian Period—Is a chronological period of 7,890 years, and is made up by multiplying the solar, lunar and indiction cycles (28x19x15-7980) being reckoned from the year 4713 B.C., when the first years of these several cycles would coincide, so that if any year of the period be divided by 28, 19, or 15, the remainder will be the year of the corresponding cycle. The Julian period was so named, some say, in honour of Julius Scaliger, the mediaeval Italian philologist, who devised it, others because it was composed of Julian years, i.e., according to the calendar, as adjusted by Julius Caesar.

A PRAYER

Oh, dear loving Father, not my way,
but Thine,
Lead me straight in Thy paths, in
Thy ways and not mine;
Restrain me from wandering, protect me from guile,
Hold me close in Thy bosom where nought can defile,
And when I am cleansed in Thy presence so pure,
Then nought can entice me and nothing allure—
Still looking to Thee, I soon shall partake
Of Thy fulness—"in Thy likeness wake;"
Then, satisfied, knowing all ways are divine,
Thy way will be my way, and my way
be Thine.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

The Baptism and Temptation of Jesus—Matt. 3:13-17, 4:1-11.

Golden Text. In that he hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted. Heb. 2-18.

Verses 13, 14—Why did Jesus want to be baptized?

What reason is there for the opinion that John's refusal to baptize Jesus was a reasonable position to take?

Verse 15—Is baptism essential to salvation and if not, what is its purpose?

Repentance seems to have been a necessary step to John's baptism, did Jesus need to repent?

Verses 16, 17.—What evidence is there that any person but Jesus, did the opening heavens, the Holy Spirit, or heard the voice from heaven?

If a few of those present, who were spiritual, saw and heard these things, is there any evidence to show that the multitude did also?

Verse 1.—Why did the Spirit lead Jesus into the wilderness.

What reasons are there to believe that temptation was, or was not, essential for the spiritual development of Jesus?

Is temptation necessary, or a part of God's educational process for all of us? Give your reasons.

How much virtue would there be in doing right, if there were neither temptation nor opportunity to do wrong? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 2.—Why did Jesus fast and what is the general effect of fasting upon spiritual life?

If Christians follow the example of Jesus in the matter of fasting, what results would probably follow?

Give a reasoned opinion, as to whether Jesus would probably feel the pangs of hunger during the ecstasy of the fast?

What are the limits of the rule that reaction generally follows exaltation, and state whether Jesus was likely passing through this reaction when he was "an hungered"?

Verse 3.—To what part of the nature of Jesus did the Devil make his first appeal?

Give your reasons for your opinion as to whether physical temptations are so numerous, or dangerous as spiritual temptations?

Verse 4.—What would have been the moral quality of the act if Jesus had made bread out of stones?

In what sense do good men live by the word of God?

Verse 5.—Did Jesus go boldly into the city, and if not, what did take place?

What are the reasons to believe that the mental temptation would be as powerful as if it had been physically performed?

Verses 6, 7.—What does this second temptation appeal to?

Are there any exceptions to the rule that a man of God will never go contrary to God's established laws?

What is it to tempt God

Verses 8-11.—What method did the Devil adopt to give Jesus the most extensive view of his kingdom?

What is it to tempt God?

Verses 8-11.—What mehod did the Devil adopt to give Jesus the most extensive view of his kingdom?

What are "the kingdoms of the world," which the Devil controls?

How could the Devil have given Jesus what he promised?

Do Angels always minister to those who successfully oppose the Devil?

JURY SYMPATHISES WITH MISS ASQUITH

Upon the Death of the Young Man to Whom She Was Engaged.

London, Jan. 5.—An inquest was held at Winchester on the body of the Hon. Archibald Gordon, aged twenty-five, youngest son of Lord Aberdeen, who died in the local hospital as the result of injuries sustained in a motor-car collision on November 28.

The Mayor of Winchester was present and expressed the great regret of the people of the district at the lamentable accident—a description of which was given in evidence by Mr. Sanders Clarke, of Sparsholt, who was in the second colliding motor-car, and his chauffeur.

Mr. Hunt, appearing for Lord Aberdeen and the family, said that, so far as he knew, no one was to blame.

The coroner, in his observations to the jury, said that the Hareslock cross-roads, the scene of the collision, was a dangerous place.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death and recommended that the hedges at the cross-roads should be cleared and a warning-post erected. They also expressed sympathy with the family of the deceased and with Miss Asquith, to who mhe had been engaged.

FAT REDUCING IDEAS ARE PROVEN NATURE'S BEST

Fat is food turned into the wrong kind of material for the body. Instead of the blood taking up the food we eat and giving it to the body in the form of good, hard, sound flesh, nerve and bone, fat is thrown into the tissues and is packed around the organs and beneath the skin. This at last turns down all the vital forces of the system, and destroys not only manly health and comeliness, but likewise results in death. The sure way and the best way is to take a Marmola tablet after each meal. You may then eat what you will, and when you will, and the stomach and digestive organs will turn the meal into the very kind of nourishment you most need. Fat is stopped at once and the fat you have is removed in a way that nature herself suggests, at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces per day, and there are no flabby rolls of skin and deep wrinkles left to remind you of the days when you were fat. Every druggist sells these tablets, which are made after the famous Marmola Prescription. They are harmless, but thousands prove that they do reduce fat just as we say they do. If you can't buy them from your druggist or you do prefer send 75 cents, the price of a case, to The Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., and they will send same to you by return mail in a sealed and unmarked package.

GANS WILL BE BOSS OF CAMP

Will Have Complete Charge of Johnson in Training for Big Fight.

New York, Jan. 8.—Joe Gans, the "Old Master" and former lightweight champion of the world, will have entire charge of Jack Johnson's training Joe imparted this information in a letter to his former manager, Benny Selig. Of course Gans is confident that Johnson will win, but he admits that Jeffries will make a better showing than the Johnson admirers believe.

"Jack has given me full charge of his training camp," writes the old master. "I will be his principal boxing partner and I will take the reins in his corner when he gets into the ring with Jeffries on the fourth of July. It means a lot of work for me, but I am in pretty good shape, and I think that between us we will make a pile of money.

"I feel certain that the fight will take place in or near San Francisco, no matter what Rickard or any of the others say about it. Johnson has made his plans to go to San Francisco and commence his training in about three months. I will be there ahead of him—probably in February. This makes it look as though they will fight in San Francisco, doesn't it?"

"The Blue Mouse"

No vote for popularity honours was necessary to place "The Blue Mouse" on the top of the list as the most engrossing farce o fthe present age. It just happened over night, the place was the Lyric Theatre, New oYrk. Next morning all Manhattan was in good huomur and the laugh was soon spread to other cities. On account of the enormous success which fell to the lot of the New oYrk company, the original cast was not sent on tour, and the Shuberts, who control the rights to "The Blue Mouse," are favouring this city by sending here next Tuesday, Jan. 11th, to the Grand, the Lyric Theatre cast, including Mabel Barrison as Paulette Divine (the Blue Mouse), and Harry Conor as President Llewellyn, Jamesen Lee Finney, Zelda Sears and the other farceurs who aided in bringing the piece into popular favour.

Clyde Fitch is responsible for the farce, which is adaption from the German and the Messrs. Shubert have staged the production in a manner which is said to be a distinct departure from the farces that have gone before.

That the piece ran for over a year in Germany and is now being played in Austria and France, and has been seen in Demark ad Sweden, augured well for the sensational hit in America. In adapting the farce Mr. Fitch has used much judgment for he has given the American stage a unique farec without hte nauseating scent of vulgarity, which is so often to be found in similar French and German pieces. "The Blue Mouse," in its German form, is by the author of "Girls." There is really so much fun to the "Blue Mouse" that to miss it is to be regarded in the nature of a domestic calamity. It is the farce that all America will talk about.

ADDRESSED LARGE GATHERINGS AT STEWART'S HALL YESTERDAY

First of the Supplementary Meetings of the Farmers' Institute Held in Otonabee Yesterday Afternoon and Evening.

THE SPEAKERS

The first of the supplementary meetings of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute was held at Stewart's hall, Otonabee, yesterday afternoon and evening. Both gatherings were largely attended and were characterized by interesting and instructive addresses and plenty of enthusiasm on the part of the farmers. The speakers were Mr. Gardhouse, of Highfield, Ontario, Mr. H. C. Duff, of Norwood and Mr. C. C. Nixon, of the staff of the Farm and Dairy Journal.

The President, Mr. John Garbutt, occupied the chair. He spoke of the two farmers' clubs that had been organized in Smith, each with nearly twenty-five members. He thought that Stewart's settlement would be an ideal place for such a club. It was not too late yet to start one and every effort should be put forth to form such an organization. He introduced Mr Gardhouse, whose subject, he said, was "Breeding Horses for Profit." Mr. Gardhouse has had a wide experience with horses and his remarks were listened to with rapt attention..

In beginning Mr. Gardhouse stated that it was always a pleasure for him to address farmers. Some years ago he came to Canada from the old country with a ship load of horses and cattle and ever since then he had been interested in them. Horse breeding, he said, was decidedly profitable. There was nothing on the farm at the present time that brought such good returns as horses. There was a growing demand for them all over the Dominion. For the average farmer of Ontario, the heavy draught horse, he believed, was the best to breed. First, because the heavy mare was more suitable for farm work. It was the same with the heavy colt. The average farmer had not the time or experience to get the best from the light mare. Success could not be obtained in the live stock trade unless one aimed at the best. A farmer, on a one hundred acre farm, should raise three colts in about two years and he should expect to do his farm work with the brood mares. Many farmers would do better if they raised fall colts, although it was difficult to get mares with foal at that season. One of the important things in breeding was to give the mares proper care. A farmer should be careful to see that the animal not only was a good one itself but that it had some breeding behind it.

To decide whether a horse was a good one for breeding it should be judged systematically. It was necessary to secure a sire that was strong where the mare is weak. Then good results would be obtained. By means of a chart, the speaker pointed out the features that should characterize a good horse. It should be one with good broad ears, open nostrils and a clear, intelligent eye. The neck should eb well covered with muscle and well blended into the shoulders. The legs should be set well back with broad, flat knees. The manner in which the horse walked was important. It should step heavily with its feet squarely on the ground.

In answer to a question as to what it cost to raise a colt until it was two years and a half old, Mr. Gardhouse estimated the expense at about eighty-five dollars. The colt at the end of that time should be worth from $175 to $300.

In conclusion the speaker was pleased to know that so many were interested in horses.

Crop Rotation.

The next speaker was Mr. H. C. Duff, of Norwood. Mr. Duff in commencing, drew attention to the free course in stock and seed judging to to be held in Peterborough on the 24th, 25th and 26th of January. This would be similar to the two weeks' course given each winter at Guelph. He outlined the programme for the above days, pointing out that the best professors in these lines would be present and deliver addresses and give practical demonstrations. He also referred to the six weeks' course for farmers' sons to be given in the study of agriculture in the Norwood High School, beginning in February ruary.

To illustrate the meaning of crop rotation, Mr. Duff referred to a three-year rotation, consisting of a hoed crop the first year, the grain the second year, followed by the hay crop. Every farmer didn't carry a crop rotation, but the speaker believed it was necessary and especially here in the county of Peterborough. Lack of rotation, he said, was largely responsible for his great quantity of weeds on the farms. Some thought that crop rotation required more labour and he agreed with them. Crop rotation was impossible in some places where the land was too low. Too much land was a drawback to rotation of crops. There was a good deal of land in Peterborough suitable for growing alfalfa and in giving part of the farm to growing it, rotation could be carried out to advantage.

He hoped, in conclusion, that all present would do their share in advertising the free stock and seed judging course. He wanted to see it a success and he was sure that all the farmers would benefit as a result of it.

The Dairy Cow.

Mr. C. C. Nixon, of the Farm and Dairy editorial staff, was the next speaker. He said that it was up to the farmers of Peterborough County to support Mr. Duff in the short judging course, which he was instrumental in bringing about and which would be held in Peterborough this month. Mr. Nixon chose as his subject "the Dairy Cow." He first referred to the possibilities of the seed growing industry and what some men were accomplishing in this line. Returning to the subject of the dairy cow he said that he knew one man near Peterborough who realized 9,000 pounds of milk per cow from 23 cows in a year. He cited instances where immense profits had been realized yearly from dairy cows. He urged the use of pure bred sires for cattle raising and characterized the cheapest and best feed for the dairy cow as corn and silage and alfalfa. He believed that the country around Peterborough was well suited for the growing of alfalfa. He said that his father had found alfalfa very profitable and realized as much as five tons per acre. It took the place to a great extent, of bran. The dairy question, he remarked, was dealt with clearly and minutely in the Farm and Dairy weekly paper and he commended to the farmers the use of this journal.

This concluded the afternoon session.

The Evening Session.

A much larger audience, including many ladies, attended the evening meeting when in addition to very interesting addresses delivered by the same gentlemen who spoke in the afternoon, a chorus by a number of boys was given. Mr. Garbutt again occupied the chair in his usual pleasing manner, introducing the speakers and the various numbers with brief but appropriate remarks.

Modern Improvements.

Mr. H. C. Duff was the first speaker of the evening, his subject being "Modern Improvements on the Farm." In beginning he said it gave him great pleasure to be present. It was his first visit to Stewart's settlement and he was delighted to find such a beautiful farming district. He again referred to the free stock and seed judging course.

One of the greatest improvements in agriculture was the attitude of the people towards agriculture. The business men were becoming more and more affiliated with the farmers. They depended one upon another, and the sooner that these two classes work together the better the conditions would be.

There were not nearly as many men retiring from the farm as a few years ago. Improvements were evident in all branches of farming and especially in the County of Peterborough. Wire fences were replacing the old log ones and silos were becoming more numerous throughout the country. The tendency nowadays was to employ the machinery that accomplished the greatest results. The speaker referred to the fact that great stress was laid upon the proper ventilation of the school. The same care should be taken with the stables and the barns. He spoke of the improvements in the house and outlined modern equipment that would lessen the work of the wife in the home. He advocated the formation of a Women's Institute.

In conclusion he mentioned the farmers' clubs and he hoped the time was not far distant when one would be formed in every section of the county.

Poultry Breeding.

Mr. C. C. Nixon's evening address was "the feeding and breeding of poultry." He said that with eggs selling at thirty five cents, the farmer should see that poultry raising was very profitable. He urged the parents to interest the boys in this line to allow them to have the sole control of them. A farmer should breed chickens from good stock and the best results would be obtained. The hen that matured the earliest would be a good layer. Mr. Nixon enumerated the features that constituted good breeding birds. The house for them should be well ventilated. Cold houses apparently were as good as the ones in which stoves were kept. Hens should be fed plentifully with meat and grain. He urged that proper attention should be given them.

How to Interest Young People.

Mr. Gardhouse spoke of "How to interest the young people of the farm." At the outset he spoke of the good to be derived from a farmers' club. One of the first things was to get the young people to look at things in the right way. The young people of the farm should look on the brighest side of their life. Many were apt to look on the dark side. He hoped the parents would see that their children carefully considered what their vocation was to be before reaching a decision. He urged the men to get their boys interested in raising good stock. It too was important to let the boys know the business of the farm. A father should talk matters over with his boys. The young women, he believed, should also interest themselves in the stock. They should know enough about a horse to hitch him up without the assistance of their fathers. He advocated giving the boys one or two animals to look after for the purpose of showing them at the fall fairs. This stimulated interest.

In conclusion he urged making the home bright and attractive that the boys and girls might feel that their home was a pleasure place to be in. He would like every boy setting out to would like every boy setting out to have an ideal before him.

A vote of thanks moved by Mr. S. Matchett and seconded by Mr. W. B. Stewart, was tendered the delegation, after which the meeting closed with the national anthem.

MINERS ARE RUSHING IN

If New Gold Field Proves Deep Enough, It Will Be the Greatest In America, Declares Commissioner Englehart—Matheson is the Distributing Point For Winter Traffic — Town Very Busy.

Matheson, Ont., Jan. 8.—Reilly and a party of 20 prospectors came up on Thursday night's train from Haileybury, outfitted here and drove out to Porcupine yesterday morning.

Ninety-three persons took breakfast at the Hotel Matheson yesterday morning, and the rush to the gold country continues unabated.

The roads have been much improved by a recent snowfall, and a regular stage line will begin on Monday. Matheson is destined to be the distributing point for supplies, and the stores are fully equipped with all the necessaries for camp life. All freight will, for the future, be billed to Matheson only. Station agents have received instructions not to bill freight to stations where there is no agent.

A mail stage will run from Matheson at a uniform rate of $3 each way. A telephone line will be put in in a few days with a central station at Revellon Bros.

Revellon Bros., established in 1723, with over 200 stores in Canada, and stores in Russia, Japan, China, France, Italy, England, Germany and the United States, sent out men to Porcupine yesterday to erect a large outpost similar to the outposts at Abitibi and Cochrane. They carry a $20,000 stock in Matheson, and supply everything which the prospector needs.

They built the large store, now the postoffice store, before there was a street in the town, and this is now altogether too small for the immense business they are doing. Thursday the store was crowded all day.

This, and other stores in Matheson, carry the things best adapted to the country and as a general rule most of the outfitting is done from this place.

Englehart Amazed.

Toronto, Jan. 8.—"I thought I knew all the goldfields, the Lake of the Woods, and the rest of them," said Chairman Englehart, of the T. & N. O. commission, yesterday, "but I saw some specimens from Porcupine last night that were simply amazing. If it is proved at depth, it will turn out to be the greatest gold camp in America."

Mr. Englehart still favored the Matheson route to the new gold fields for winter travel, on account of its superior conditions in the matter of accommodation at the starting point. "There are hotels, stores and everything a man could want at Matheson," he remarked. For summer travel, however, he thought that mile-post 222, or, better still, mile-post 226, presented distinctive advantages on account of being nearer to the water routes. From the latter it is only a short distance to a couple of streams which flow into the Frederick House River, offering a splendid continuous canoe route by that river, Frederick House and Night Hawk Lakes and Porcupine River to the heart of the district.

Regarding the possibility of a branch of the railroad into Porcupine Lake, Mr. Englehart observed that the T. & N. O. commission had their engineers and surveyors examining all the possibilities.

Bad Blaze In North Bay.

North Bay, Jan. 8.—Fire which broke out in T. J. Owen & Co.'s barber shop early yesterday morning, destroyed several frame buildings on Oak street. An explosion of gas in G. P. Angus' tobacco store, wrecked the place, and young Robert Angus was rescued unconscious from the debris by two bank clerks, Henry and Reaume. Mr. Owen is in a state of nervous collapse.

Losses and insurance: G. P. Angus & Co., stock $3,000, insurance $500, almost a total loss; N. J. McCubbin, stock, $7,000, insurance, $5,000; a partial loss; H. Adams, stock $4,000, insurance $1,800, considerable stock saved; Frank Phili, loss $500, partly insured; A. Jackman, loss $3,000, insurance, $1,550; Benard, loss $500, insurance $500; Young, loss $600, insurance $400; Blanchett, loss $1,000, insurance $2,500; Owen & Co., loss $1,500, Campbell & McDiarmid, clothing merchants, suffered damage by removal of stock.

Robert Walker, 63, picked up on the Windsor street four days ago, suffering from exposure, is dead. His relatives are unknown.

The London Pall Mall Gazette says Premier Laurier's speech in Toronto on Wednesday breathes a precious spirit of kinship which stirs the heart.

Corporation Foreman Ungar of Brantford found a man's right hand on the street, which had evidently been severed at the wrist. The hand had only been dismembered a short time.

Roy Davis, the 12-year-old son of I. J. Davis of West Oxford, who was bitten by a tramp dog, has been taken to the Pasteur Institute in New York, as Dr. Anyot, provincial analyst, found that the dog had rabies.

Mrs. Hugh McMahon of Newdale, Man., injured in C.P.R. wreck near Missanabie on Dec. 24, and a patient in Sudbury Hospital since that time, is dead, and the body has been sent to relatives near Toronto, where she was on her way to visit.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

of life. It is a feeling common to the majority of us that we do not get quite the amount of happiness we are entitled to. Among the countless things which tend to make us more or less miserable ill health takes first place. Hannah More said that sin was generally to be attributed to biliousness. No doubt a crippled liver, with the resulting impure blood, is the cause of more mental gloom than any other single thing. And who can reckon up the fearful aggregate of pain, loss and fear arising from the many ailments and diseases which are familiar to mankind; like a vast cloud it hangs over a multitude no one can number. You can see these people everywhere. For them life can scarcely be said to have any "bright side" at all. Hence the eagerness with which they search for relief and cures. Remedies like have not attained their high position in the confidence of the people by bold assertions and boasting advertisements. They are obliged to win it by doing actually what is claimed for them. That this remedy deserves its reputation is conceded. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Nothing has such a record of success in Scrofula, Anaemia, Throat and Lung Troubles, and emaciating complaints and disorders, that tend to undermine the foundations of strength and vigour. Its use helps to show life's brighter side. Dr. R. D. K. says: "I have much pleasure in stating that I have used it in cases of debility and have found it to be a very valuable remedy as well as pleasing to take. You can take it with the assurance of getting well. It never disappoints. Sold by all chemists. —Warne Drug Co.

KILLED IN BIG CROWD

The Irish Are Fighting Among Themselves, and Several Independent Candidates Will Run—Fiscal Reform Issue Overshadows the Lords' Question — Endorsing Colonial Candidates in Great Britain.

London, Jan. 8.—The first serious disaster of the campaign, which entailed a death and injuries to many persons, occurred in the eastern section of London last night. The Irish League had called a meeting in the town hall in Cable street. A great crowd was besieging the hall, and with the arrival of the procession of the members of the Irish League, escorting the Liberal candidate, Mr. Benu, who was to address the meeting, the congestion became so great that the railing around the hall collapsed and a score of persons fell into the area, which was several feet deep. One man was killed in the fall and ten were more or less seriously injured. The meeting was abandoned.

Among the first to be re-elected to the new Parliament will be Arthur J. Balfour, for the city of London, and Joseph Chamberlain for Birmingham West, neither of whom will be opposed.

As an indication of the small field as yet cultivated by the Labor party, only 90 Labor and Socialist candidates are now before the electors, while there are 67 counties in England, Wales and Scotland where no Labor or Socialist candidate is standing.

There are many signs of dissension in the Nationalist ranks, as a result of which the number of Irish contests threatens to be much larger than usual. The official candidates are being opposed in many places by independents chosen by local conventions.

Polling will begin on Saturday week, and present indications point to a majority for the Liberals, but the Irish may hold the balance of power. Considering the long warning given of the contest, much unpreparedness exists.

Agitation for fiscal reform overshadows the constitutional question of the peers' interference with finance. The budget and land taxes are momentarily forgotten. Free traders are working the bogey of "dear bread and horse sausages," but the working classes look more at the employment problem. Meantime the masses appear favorable to the party that gave them old-age pensions and labor exchanges.

Candidates with colonial connections are receiving attention from headquarters of both sides. Winston Churchill has written Halmar Greenwood, Liberal candidate at York, urging imperial solidarity, and says: "You, as a Canadian, well known and well liked throughout Canada, have a special responsibility at this juncture."

Joseph Chamberlain recommends John Heuniker Heaton to Canterbury, because of the desirability of colonial preference.

Social reform is very generally subordinated to the paramount importance of imperial defence and commercial interdependence.

It is a kaleidoscopic contest, of which none can yet confidently predict the result, and popular excitement is growing. The City of London and certain universities have not yet been challenged by Liberal candidates. Liberals, labormen, and Unionists will have triangular duels for about fifty seats.

Non-conformist objectors to the budget threaten extensive abstentions from voting. Lord Rosebery, whose intervention during the budget debates, was so fateful, has again made a pronouncement condemning the budget as socialistic, opposing home rule, and recommending reform of the second chamber.

Large numbers, especially of the propertied classes, who have hitherto supported Liberalism, are openly pronouncing adhesion to Unionism. Churchmen also are receiving clerical advice from bishops to prevent the nearer approach of disestablishment.

Dread of home rule is losing many votes for Liberalism, and reports from the constituencies generally indicate that the Unionists are improving their position and making headway.

Colonial questions have received consideration from Lord Lansdowne, who has urged the importance of the earliest possible arrangement with Canada as to imperial preference. Lord Milner, dealing with similar points, has recommended the imposition on colonial grain of half the duty to be levied on foreign imports, though recognising that to advocate entire exemption would be more popular.

Suffragettes Forbidden Letter.

Windsor, Jan. 8.—Two young women employes of the postoffice will be called in the Police Court to-day to settle a case in which Geo. Smith, proprietor of the Walker House is charged with selling liquor to an "Indian ticket." The prosecution charges that a letter was sent to Smith forbidding him to sell liquor to William Doyle. Smith denies receiving the letter.

Personators In Ottawa Election.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Charles Kirk, one of the scrutineers in the municipal elections on Monday, has given Mayor Hopewell the names of at least three men who were personated in Rideau ward, and the mayor has promised to take action to punish the guilty persons.

The men personated were absent from the city.

ONE OFFICE VACATED

Chief Forester of the United States and Favorite of Roosevelt Had Joined the Critics of the Administration and Taft Fires Him—The Situation in Washington Is Very Tense as a Result.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Gifford Pinchot was last night removed from his office as chief forester by President Taft.

In doing this the President gave out a copy of a letter he has written to Mr. Pinchot, in which he says, in conclusion: "By your conduct you have destroyed your usefulness as a helpful subordinate of the Government, and it therefore now becomes my duty to direct the secretary of agriculture to remove you from your office."

Secretary Wilson was swift in carrying out the decision of the President. He addressed to Gifford Pinchot, forester; Overton W. Price, associated forester, and Albert G. Shaw, assistant law officer of the forestry bureau, letters substantially identical.

It developed at the Cabinet meeting that Pinchot wrote the famous letter of Thursday to Senator Dolliver, of his own volition and against the direct advice of the Secretary of Agriculture. It also appeared that Pinchot induced Senator Dolliver to have the letter read at the same time the President's message exonerating Secretary Ballinger through a report of the Attorney-General, should be presented.

Mr. Taft undoubtedly realizes fully what the dismissal of Forester Pinchot means in a political way. He has been convinced for some time that the so-called "insurgents" and other critics of his administration had enlisted the services of Mr. Pinchot and practically were defying him to separate Pinchot from his office.

The latter's letter of Thursday, few here doubt, as written with the direct purpose of putting it squarely up to the President.

Political observers in Washington declare that the situation created by yesterday's developments is the most tense of many years. What the outcome will be no one is willing to prophesy.

THE DOCTOR SAID HE COULD NOT LIVE

An Almost Fatal Illness Following An Attack of LaGrippe.

The danger from grip is seldom over when the characteristic symptoms, the fever, the headache and the depression of spirits, pass away. Grip leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin, watery blood, impaired digestion and over-sensitive nerves—a condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, rheumatism, nervous prostration and even consumption. Too much stress cannot be laid on the importance of strengthening the blood and nerves during convalescence, and for this purpose no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams Pink Pills which contain the elements necessary to enrich the blood and restore weakened nerves. Mr. James L. Whitman, Mulgrave, N.S., says: "Following a severe attack of La Grippe I was completely prostrated. The doctor who attended me said that my whole system had gone wrong. My heart was affected, my kidneys weakened, digestion impaired, and to make the trouble worse I had a hemorrhage of the bowels, and nearly bled to death. The doctor said I could not live, and told my wife to tell me that I had better settle up my worldly affairs. I did not care to live, my sufferings were so intense. I could not sleep, my ankles and feet were swollen, and my complexion very yellow. Friends came to see me for the last time, and one of these, more hopeful than the others, persuaded me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. While I had but little faith that they would help me I decided to try them. Quite soon they seemed to benefit me for my appetite improved and my heart became stronger. Continuing the use of the Pills it was not long before I was able to be out of bed, and after using fifteen boxes I am in good health for a man of my age. The doctor and those who knew of my case look upon me as a living wonder, as none of them expected me to get better.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Alleged Burglars Arrested.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Jan. 8.—Suspected of a jewelry store burglary that occurred here late Thursday night, two men, taken into custody by the baggage men and ticket clerk at the Michigan Central depot early yesterday, drew revolvers and fought a desperate battle for their liberty.

Henry C. Minor, the baggageman, was killed, Clerk Morgan Emmett was probably fatally wounded, and one of the suspects was shot in the leg.

Three men are under arrest. Their names were given as Robert McCormick of Detroit, formerly of Ypsilanti, 23 years old; "Winkie," a Detroit character, about 25 years old, whose real name could not be learned, who is shot in the leg, and Carl Billings, 20 years old, of Detroit, who is said to have accompanied the other two to Ypsilanti but parted company with them before the burglary.

The two men made no resistance when first taken into custody, but after being led quietly into the baggage room, they suddenly opened fire. Emmett's right arm was disabled by one of the first shots but he clung to his antagonist with his left arm and was dragged out on the station platform, where he was clubbed into insensibility.

Minor, who had a revolver, engaged in a duel at twenty paces with the other suspect, receiving a mortal wound in the throat.

Scotland Yard Nabs Hall.

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Frank Hall, who is under arrest at Scotland Yard on the charge of forgery, larceny and uttering bankers' checks, and awaiting his trial at the April Assizes at Guildford, is wanted by the Toronto police on two charges of forgery.

Hall came to Canada from England in April, 1906, and spent most of his time in Toronto. He returned last September.

While here he worked for one of the newspapers, and had in his possession a letter which he claimed was signed by Queen Alexandra, stating that he was at one time a tutor to her children. The letter was written on paper on which the royal arms were embossed, and he once showed it to W. C. Wilkinson, secretary of the school board, with the statement that he had also been a high school teacher in England.

The charges, for which he is wanted in Toronto are of forging two checks for $80 and $40 respectively. One bore the signature of J. W. L. Foster, 83 Carlton street, while the latter had the signature of Jas. Tvory, 682 Queen street West.

Hall has a long record in England for forgery, and once served seven years.

Glendinning of Manilla; first vice-president, J. H. Singleton of Smith's Falls; second vice-president, T. A. Thompson of Almonte. Executive committee: J. Whitton, A. Hume, J. H. Singleton, J. A. Sanderson, T. A. Thompson, E. Kidd, M.P., and J. McGregor.

The other directors are: Neil Fraser, W. H. Olmstead, Wm. Montgomery, J. J. Payne, J. B. Wilson, James Melgrath, Charles Anderson, G. A. Gillespie, W. Blakely, G. G. Publow, N. G. Murphy, J. R. Dargavel and Senator Derbyshire.

Four Years in Pen for Youth.

Chatham, Jan. 8.—Charles Coleman, aged 18, a youthful leader of a gang of burglars arrested a week ago, for perpetrating six recent burglaries in Chatham, was yesterday morning sentenced to four years in penitentiary. Two of his pals, Judson and Johnston, were remanded for a week, and another Arthur Ray allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Lemieux Nominated at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—The Liberal convention last night nominated Auguste Lemieux, K.C., a younger brother of the Postmaster-General, to contest the bye-election caused by the retirement of Sir Wilfrid Laurier from the Ottawa seat.

He secured the nomination in spite of the direct opposition of the Premier and the local Liberal organ, which yesterday afternoon came out uncompromisingly against him. Mr. Lemieux cannot therefore expect any support from the Government or the local Liberal organ, yet he is recommended by the local party officially.

The voting was: First ballot—[illegible] Forget (Laurier nominee) 167; Lemieux, 457; Dr. Chevrier, [illegible] Mayor Pappineau, Beauharnois, 1; Lemieux, 159; Forget, 88.

What Caused Fire.

Guelph, Jan. 8.—That the fire in the Norrish block on Dec. 17, which did $20,000 damage, was not the result of spontaneous combustion of the heating or lighting systems, or of any act of the owner or tenants of the premises, was the verdict of the jury at the fire inquest before Coroner Dr. McLean, brought in early yesterday morning. The fire brigade was commended for its work, but the police patrol was criticised, as the evidence showed the fire had been in progress for some hours.

The evidence showed that George Smith, employed in the store of John Davidson, where the greatest loss occurred, had stated to "Daddy" King of the fire, with whom he was the night, that there was going to be an inquest, and that he had best tell the truth, while to the witness who said he had seen two men running away, he said he had better be careful what he was saying. Smith swore, after some hesitancy, that he had not been in the building after he left at 10 o'clock, and King testified to the same effect.

King's story of how he spent the night conflicted in several points with other testimony. He slept in Hooper's livery stable, but previously had made a written statement to the police that he was at home for the night.

It is claimed that the soil of the high latitude around Quebec is in every respect resemble that found in Turkey can be cultivated.

PORTRAIT UNVEILED.

Sir Wilfrid Is Guest of National Club, Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Nationality was the inspiring note that prevailed throughout the proceedings at the splendid banquet in the National Club last night, when Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, K.C.M.G., P.C., was the honored guest. It was as a party leader that he was feasted on Tuesday, but last night it was the Prime Minister of Canada who received the enthusiastic and at times tumultuous and overwhelming plaudits of an audience representing every phase of Toronto public life.

The National Club was founded for the cultivation of national and patriotic spirit and the feeling showed how magnificently the seed had come to harvest. In addition to his reception as guest, the special honor was done Sir Wilfrid of unveiling his portrait which hangs not far from that of his old-time political opponent and friend, Sir John A. Macdonald. The unveiling was done by W. K. McNaught, M.P.P., as a past president of the club and a prominent Conservative, after a happy speech of discriminating laudation.

Sir Wilfrid was charmingly eloquent about matters on which there could be no disagreement, and his special tribute to the oratorical abilities of the late B. B. Osler and Hon. Edward Blake, whose forensic eloquence he declared, had it belonged to sons of Quebec would be treasured in every library in Lower Canada.

Revenue Shows Increase.

The details for December were:

	1908	1909
Customs	$3,823,231	$5,217,402
Excise	1,390,167	1,559,107
Postoffice	614,575	825,000
Public Works (Rys)	661,096	739,791
Miscellaneous	699,235	190,263

The details for the nine month period were

	1908	1909
Customs	$34,822,923	$44,184,349
Excise	11,706,824	11,620,057
Postoffice	5,049,575	5,475,910
Public Works (Rys)	1,213,006	7,676,189
Miscellaneous	3,506,246	4,423,623

The expenditure on capital account during December, 1909, was $13,379,270 as against $4,159,949 in October, 1908. Most of the decrease was in public works, railways and canals, which went from $13,452,059 to $12,421,411. The total expenditure on capital account so far has been $24,026,137 as against $26,316,343 in the same period last year.

The net debt stands at $329,984,079, a drop of $680,653 in the month and an increase from $291,573,767, the figure at which it stood on Dec. 31, 1908.

"Caught Cold."

Had a Distressing, Tickling Sensation In The Throat.

Mr. Albert MacPhee, Chigneeto Mines, N.S., writes: "In Oct., 1908, I caught cold by working in water, and had a very bad cough and that distressing, tickling sensation in my throat so that I could not sleep at night, and my lungs were so very sore I had to give up work. Our doctor gave me medicine but it did me no good so I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and by the time I had used two bottles I was entirely cured. I am always recommending it to my friends."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup combines the potent healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognized worth and is absolutely harmless, prompt and safe for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Sore Throat, Pain or Tightness in the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

There are many imitations of "Dr. Wood's" so be sure and get the genuine when you ask for it.

WORN, WORRIED MOTHERS.

Much of the worry which every mother of young children undergoes would be spared if the mother kept Baby's Own Tablets on hand and gave an occasional dose when the child was fretful, cross or feverish. Nearly all the ailments of childhood can be traced to the stomach, bowels or teething. For these troubles no medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets, and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that the Tablets are absolutely safe. Mrs. Ed. Suddard, Haldimand, Que., says: — "I have used Baby's Own Tablets in my home for a long time and always with the best results. I do not know how I could get along without this medicine." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

According to the Paris Matin, France will build two 26,000 ton Dreadnoughts every year for the next six years.

The telephone service in Paris is admittedly the worst in Europe. The operators are inattentive, and service is obtained only after exasperating delays.

Royalty on Horseback.

The empress of Russia is colonel of a regiment of uhlans and when in good health rides splendidly.

Queen Maud of Norway can ride across country at a regular breakneck speed, and she is said to have beaten the record of the late empress of Austria in the hunting field.

The queen of Italy, the gentle, humane Elena, who actually dislocated her arm lifting the wounded at Messina and is generally known and beloved for her charity, enjoys nothing more than a wild dash across country with her husband.

Things Theatrical.

Margaret Anglin has secured the rights to a French play, "La Rivale," of which Frederick Lonsdale, the author of "Hop o' My Thumb," will make the English adaptation.

Dear Sir,—Just a line to let you know what a great benefit I have derived from your excellent course. I may say that a person in conversation with me now would never imagine that I ever stuttered, and I owe my present condition wholly to your instructions. I sincerely believe that any person, no matter how badly afflicted, may be cured in a very short time if they will but follow your instructions, and I will certainly recommend you to any stammerer that I may come in contact with.

MR. POGUE DEALS WITH "SOBRIETY'S" LETTER

ics of Jesus to save men, regenerate them ,make them new creatures in Christ Jesus, change them at the very fountains of their being and the very springs of action, so that they will have no desire for the wine cup, and therefore, will not find it necessary to pledge themselves to total obstinence. John in his first epistle says: "Whosoever is born of God does not commit sin; and he cannot because he is born of God." The impossibility is a moral one. It is morally impossible for me to enter a bar room. It would violate every law of my renewed nature. What the grace of God has done for me it can do for others. It is this grace we are preaching in all our pulpits every Sabbath. This is true temperance work. This is the "more excellent way," of keeping men from the drink. There are hundreds of men in all our churches, Catholics as well as Protestant, who because of the grace of God in their hearts, find it impossible to touch, taste or handle the intoxicating cup, and who because of the same grace, dare not, would not put a stumbling block, or occasion to fall, in another's way" in the form of a licensed bar. It is the grace of God and the love of God that makes men not only abstain themselves and seek to pledge others to abstain, but to refuse to license a public place of temptation, which will prove an occasion of stumbling to another. The Master taught us to pray "Lead us not into temptation." Paul tell sus to avoid the very appearance of evil. It certainly is a strange inconsistency in anyone who submits his life and will to the Lordship of Jesus and who accepts the binding authority of his Word on the conscience, to deliberately vote into existence public places of temptation, and yet continue to pray the prayer "Lead us not into Temptation."

Total abstinence Societies are good. They are crutches on which weak men may lean. But it is our duty to these men ,if we love them as our Lord has commanded us, as we love ourselves not only to supply them with crutches but make smooth the pathway along which fthey travel and remove the pit-falls, lest men, crutch and all, fall into the ditch.

In the church of which I was pastor in Philadelphia, we had over a thousand men enrolled as members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew and Philip, a considerable portion of whom were men who had been redeemed from the power of the drink demon; but we did not find it necessary to compel them to take a pledge. The grace of God in the heart was abundantly able t osave and keep them from the power or rum. Now this is the very work which the Protestant churches in our cit yare doing. I very much dislike emphesising the special work of these churches; but I am compelled to do so because the tone of the letter would seem to infer that the only form of temperance work in which we are engaged is that along Legislative lines. Other writers have made a similar charge during our local option campaign, and the unthinking public, if the false impression be not corrected, will be led to think that this is true. The work of our Protestant churches aims primarily at the regeneration of the individual. Reformation is sure to follow; but no reformation is abiding that is not the outcome of a renewed heart. In all our total abstinence societies we have to deplore again and again the fall of pledged men after a few months sobriety. The man whose nature is renewed by the grace of God and who is kept by the power of God, needs no human crutch in the form of a pledge, on which to lean. I close with an expression of the most cordial feelings towards "Sobriety," and wish that we may understand one another as Catholics and Protestants, and stand shoulder to shoulder in our fight for the redemption of the race from the slavery of strong drink.

Yours truly,
ROBERT POGUE.

MAYOR'S OPENING ADDRESS

At the Inaugural Meeting of City Council This Morning — Congratulates Aldermen and Outlines a General Line of Work—Meet To-night Again.

HIS FIRST DUTIES

Mayor Morrow officially signed his name this morning for the first time, when the minutes of the last meeting of the old year were confirmed and adopted. The Mayor and Aldermen made their declarations of qualifications and office at eleven o'clock and shortly afterwards met in the Council chamber when His Worship assumed the red plush, upholstered chair on the dais that overlooks all the aldermen and called his first meeting to order by a dignified knock with his gavel and the civic year of 1910 was under way. City Clerk Armstrong announced that all the preliminary declarations had been made and Mayor Morrow addressed the Council as follows:

Gentlemen of the Council.—It affords me a great pleasure to congratulate you on your election and welcome you as members of the City Council.

As you are no doubt aware the by-law providing for the election of aldermen by the Ward system will necessitate the election of all the members again next year and the reduction of the number of aldermen to ten. There will still be the two year term and the alderman in each ward who receives the highest number of votes will hold office for two years, and thereafter one alderman will be elected annually from each ward.

Isolation Hospital.

In regard to the by-law to provide for borrowing $19,000 for the erection and equipment of an Isolation Hospital, although it was defeated by a small majority I think indicated that the electors desire a hospital for that purpose, but consider that the amount asked for was larger than should be expended upon it. It would be well for the Property committee to give the matter their immediate attention to see if the views of the electors cannot be met and an adequate building erected and equipped for a sum well within the amount the Council is authorized to expend.

Street Railway Extension.

The passing of the by-law granting a thirty year franchise to the Peterborough Light and Power Company will, I am informed, lead to the immediate extensions of the street railway system within the city limits and consequent increased accommodation for the citizens and also to the extension and improvement of the light and power system, this I am sure will be good news to the citizens generally.

The Board of Works has always a lot of important work on its hands, and I think that they should at once take up the report of Mr. Chipman in reference to providing sewer accommodation for the south-western part of the City, this is one of the most pressing questions to be dealt with. Another important matter of the consideration of the Board of Works is that of permanent roadways in the business sections of the city, where the heavy traffic is concentrated, and at which I am anxious to see a start made this year.

Electric Power.

The question of electric power is an important one for the city, and the completion of the waterworks dam will, on the information that has been furnished me, render available in the neighbourhood of one thousand horse-power, after providing for the requirements of the waterworks system. It will be about four years before the expiration of the contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company for street lighting, and it will be the duty of the Council in consultation with the Water Commissioners to consider how this power can be used to best serve the interests of the citizens. The Council should vigilantly endeavour to acquire additional power.

The request of the Canadian Pacific Railway made to the city some time ago for part of the water front for their freight business and closing of certain streets for the purpose of an entrance to the City of their new road from Victoria Harbour to Peterborough should be taken up by Council and discussed at as early a date as possible. The completion of this road will place Peterborough on the shortest and most direct route between Montreal and Winnipeg.

The continued growth of the City depends to a very large extent on the securing and locating of new manufacturing industries and it will be the duty of the Council to give serious consideration to the best means of making known the city's advantages and of achieving the desired result of securing such new industries. This I think is one of the most pressing and important duties this Council will have to deal with, and should receive the very earliest consideration.

Financial Policy.

Another matter of first importance will be the laying down of a financial policy, which will while providing for an efficient service be economical and safe, and result in improving even the present financial position of the municipality.

During the election on Monday last, I had occasion to visit the different polling booths, and heard a great deal of dissatisfaction expressed on the part of the ratepayers with the large number of issues to be voted upon. I think that in the future the Council should endeavour to see that there would not be so many questions before the ratepayers at any one time. I also think that in some of the Wards there should be more polling sub-divisions.

I feel confident that the members of the Council will work together pleasantly and harmoniously, and I trust that this year will be a record one in the growth and prosperity of the city.

A question arose in regard to the meeting to-night. Ald Turner said he understood it would be postponed and any business should be done at the morning meeting. Ald. Duffus explained that an invitation had been extended to Mayor Morrow to attend the meeting of the St. Peter's T.A.S. in the Opera House and as it was the 10th anniversary the members would like to have him present.

Ald. Duffus and Turner moved that the meeting be adjourned until another night. Ald. Duncan asked if meetings were going to be postponed all year in that way. He could not be present a week from to-night. Ald. Graham suggested that the Council meet at 7 oclock this evening and moved to that effect seconded by Ald. Batten.

On motion of Ald. Phelan and Turner it was decided to go into committee of the whole council to strike the standing committee.

Have you booked your seats yet for "THE BLUE MOUSE"? If not, you had better get busy. Box office open to-night

The new decree by His Holiness gives to the Bishops the right to settle all questions regarding the marriages of Catholics without reference to the authorities of the Vatican. TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The Conservative party is the party of protection; and, protection, according to its reasoning, is the essential of manufacturing success. Both the Conservative party and everybody else knows that even with the omnipotence of protection the greatest element in manufacturing success for any country is technical education, the training of a race of mechanical experts. The attention given to this special department of education is given as the chief secret of Germany's great success in manufacturing. Yet we find that the Conservative Government of Ontario is doing nothing and does not seem to contemplate doing anything to institute a system of provincial technical education. By the Confederation Act education is placed wholly within the jurisdiction of the provinces. The Government of Ontario seems to be waiting for the action of the Dominion Government, which cannot "butt in" in any other matter within the province of the province without incurring the greater anathema. The Whitney Government seems to rather devote its attention to expedients for over-riding the courts, and to perfecting the mathematical achievement of making five and three add up ten.

TINKERING.

The Brantford Expositor complains of the popular apathy of the electors in the municipal voting, because the elections are held in the holiday season. We didn't notice any particular apathy in Peterborough's last elections. We had an exceedingly large vote polled. Why not leave well enough alone? Why harry the mutilated municipal act any more? We are continually tearing it into shreds; one wound no sooner heals, and sometimes not even that, than we rip it up again. In Peterborough we fought and got as a great favour biennial terms for half our aldermen—a step that qualifies half the Council for efficient service by assuring them time to learn their duties, benefit new members by their experience, and so improve the usefulness of the Council. Before we have even given that system a trial, we return to the discredited ward system, which disfranchises eight tenths or ten-twelfths of the electors, permits electors in a ward to vote for only two or three of the members of a Council of ten or twelve, which will do their business. These ward electors will have no voice in electing the majority of those who will do their business and spend the money they pay in taxes. No more retrograde step could be taken in the interests of the working men, or the elector of moderate means. He is placed at the mercy of a majority whom he has no voice in choosing and over whom, so far as his vote is concerned, he has no control. Much of the tinkering with the municipal act is a positive injury or an experiment of little value compared with the unsettlement arising out of frequent changes. These changes attract the attention of the electors to the exclusion of matters that really matter. For instance, we had at the last election the expriment of keeping the polls open till seven o'clock. The only result of any importance was to confuse things and make the compilation of returns a slow and tedious process. It was claimed to be in the interest of working men. Returning officers state that very few votes were polled after five o'clock. Any elector who takes his franchise seriously can get in his vote some time between nine o'clock and five o'clock. The law allows working men an extra hour in which to poll their votes, without being subject to reduction of pay. Besides, in a city of this size workmen can as a rule get in their vote at the dinner hour, either going or coming. Besides an additional number of polling booths would not be any more expensive than the extra pay that will have to be hereafter given to election officials, who have to stay in their booths from nine to seven o'clock, taking votes, and after that a further time, till midnight, or later in summing up results that might be done under the old system at nine or ten o'clock at latest. It is difficult to say what the next new freak in tinkering the municipal act will be.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Judging by the cable despatches the impossible paradox is to be accomplished—both parties are to win the coming British elections.

The attempt to introduce the German war scare into the British election contest, gives the Hohenzollern Hahgoblin a family resemblance to the Canadian election roorbach.

The objections urged against the British budget of Lloyd-George are the same as urged against the Ontario succession duties act, which makes the wealthy pay a share of the taxes which they would otherwise escape.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Peterborough People to Neglect

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined, Backache headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Booth's Kidney Pills, which have cured people right here in Peterborough:

Mrs. M. J. Cook of 494 Aylmer St., Peterborough, Ont., says:

"I always find quick relief in Booth's Kidney Pills. They strengthen and relieve my back of a dull, heavy pain that settles in the small of it, and extends into my shoulders. For years I had suffered with these symptoms of kidney trouble, and could find no relief. I had frequent spells of dissiness and headaches. I was restless and weak and would often awake more tired than on going to bed. I never found relief for these painful and weakening symptoms of kidney trouble until I used Booth's Kidney Pills, obtained at Madill's Pharmacy. I have had little trouble since as I use Booth's Kidney Pills occasionally and they keep me in the best of health."

THE FIGHT OF ONE CHURCH AGAINST THE DRINK EVIL

History of the Work of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society in Peterborough---The Tenth Anniversary is Being Observed by the Society To-night.

The magazine section of the Toronto Globe has the following interesting reference to the work of the St. Peter's T. A. S.:

Dr. Samuel Johnson's saying, "Abstinence is as easy to me as temperance would be difficult," may suggest one explanation of the effectiveness of total abstinence in dealing with the evils of the drink habit. It may, also bear a very practical relation to the notable work accomplish-

REV. F. J. O'SULLIVAN,
Now of Port Hope, Founder of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society, Peterborough, Jan. 8. 1900.

ed by St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society of Peterborough. It may well warrant the society in holding the idea that its way is one of the better ways, as would seem to be justified by the history of its work in Peterborough for the past ten years of its existence. The local society has now a membership of 900, and has to its credit the saving of scores of men from the slavery of strong drink, the restoring of them to the ranks of respected citizenship and of industry and thrift, and, above all, to practical recognition of home and religious duty. Besides its restraining office, it has a preventive feature. It surrounds its members with the safeguard of religion, encourages mental improvement—all round development, mental, moral, and physical.

The Peterborough Society was founded on January 8, 1900, by Rev. Father F. J. Sullivan of St. Peter's Cathedral clergy staff, who, being assigned to duty in another part of the diocese, was succeeded as spiritual director in the following May by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. He entered heart and soul into the work, and continued thus till his recent promotion to a larger parish. Under his direction and the stimulus of his enthusiasm, the society outgrew the uncertain steps of its infant days and flourished greatly. It has gained the confidence, respect and sympathy of all creeds and classes of the public. It has become generally recognized as an organization not only capable of doing a noble work, but as having already performed an immeasurably valuable service, not only in the Catholic church, under whose aegis it operated, but also in the interests of the community and in the interests of moral reform.

Auxiliary to the measures employed to promote the welfare religious and moral, of its members, measures are adopted to meet social wants, and to develop their intellectual and physical powers, by providing generally countervailing attractions to the allurements of perilous places of amusement.

Commodious club rooms, open day and evening, were established in the Toronto Savings and Loan Company's buildings, George St., occupying three floors. On the first is the reception room, leading to the library and reading room, well provided with the leading daily news and class journals, and best magazines and special trades publications, many of the members being factory employees. On the second floor are found the billiard and pool rooms, a card room for adult members and a game room for juniors—over fifteen years of age. On this floor also is the assembly hall, where are given concerts, musical evenings, smokers and occasionally a quiet dance and other diversions of a social nature, many of which ladies share, so that opportunities for social development under desirable conditions are provided. On the third floor are found the gymnasium and a hall, provided with a wrestling mat. It is here that Gene Hurtubise, the champion amateur heavyweight wrestler did his indoor training, and he is a fine example among others to be mentioned of the superiority in athleticism which the practice of the basic principle of the society promotes.

In connection with the society is a strong Ladies' Literary Society, conducted entirely by ladies, at whose meetings, brightened by music, papers on literary subjects are read and discussed. The ladies also give valuable asistance in connection with the social and gastronomic gatherings that form a potent element in the attractive features of the club rooms.

The society not only helps to make its members industrious, but encourages them in habits of thrift and of saving. The banks being closed before the hour of quitting work, once a week the bonded "banker" of the society attends at the club rooms to receive deposits and give receipts. The amounts are placed to the credit of the members in a chartered bank. Among the regular and substantial depositors are any who previously to becoming members, are either idle through drink or spent their money in dissipation. Many workmens' homes that had drifted under mortgage have been redeemed and become thrifty, happy homes.

tual adviser, and in every way the enthusiastically devoted friend of the society is a firm believer in corpore sano. He extends the greatest moral and practical encouragement to athletics of all kinds. The record of the society in sports and general athletics is a credit to his interest and a proof that the practice of the principles o fthe society, in addition to clean living and clear heads, develops strength of the body and skill of muscle. In the library is a cabinet containing the numerous trophies won by individuals and teams of the society in athletic games and sports.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer took another dip downwards last night, and touched 9 degrees below zero. It has moderated somewhat to-day, but is still quite sharp. Our cold spells during the present winter appear to be of short duration.

Had Weak Kidneys For Two Years.

Doctor Failed to Help. Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Mr. Edmund Assels, New Carlisle, Que., writes—"I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. I tried a doctor, but he failed to help me. I read in the B.B.B. Almanac about Doan's Kidney Pills, and began using them, and after the first box began to feel better. I only used four boxes and they completely cured me. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure, and would advise everyone suffering from kidney disease to try them."

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body and most people are troubled with some kind of Kidney Complaint, but do not suspect it. It may have been in the system for some time. There may have been backache, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored, scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or suppressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc.

Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

When kings cash in, and and leave their thrones, and join the heap of royal bones, in some expensive tomb, their subjects nearly split your ears with doleful cries; they spatter tears, and fairly THE PASSING KINGS wade in gloom. And if you ask the reason why, they're apt to wink the other eye, while still their wails resound; "when monarchs croak," some hoary swain will buttonhole you and explain," we always snort around; it is a long established game; our great-grandfathers did the same, their sires before them, too; I can't explain the reason why, but folks, so long as kings shall die, will raise a howdy-do. I've never seen our king who's dead, nor viewed the crown upon his head, nor gloried in his smile; but, now, excuse me for a spell, for I must prance around and yell, since mourning is the style." It must be tough to be a king, to die, and have fake mourners bring their garlands to your bier; to have a lot of dirges sung, and banners from the half-mast flung—and not an honest tear. It must be tough to lie in state, all cooped up in a gilded crate, with soldiers standing by, to lie embalmed within a box while people let out grievous squawks—but not an honest sigh.

INDIGESTION GOES IN FIVE MINUTES

Heartburn, Dyspepsia, Gas and Other Stomach Misery Vanishes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach troubles or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or Indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy; though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean, and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as many people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

I want to lift up my voice to-night against a good custom that seems to be fast becoming an evil one—in other words, against the frenzy of formal gifts into which the present day seems to have plunged.

Every possible occasion nowadays is made a gift-giving time.

Our fathers—or at least our grandfathers—can remember the days when even at Christmas—the greatest of all gift-giving days—there were but three or four or a half dozen gifts in the family and most of these for the children.

To-day for a month beforehand it seems as if the whole world were working itself up for December 25. People who give and receive twenty or thirty gifts are legion, and I know not a few whose gift-giving and receiving mounts up into the forties and fifties.

Almost everyone spends more money, time and energy than he should upon his gift giving.

Christmas eve finds many of us with worn-out bodies and frazzled tempers instead of in the "peace on earth, good will towards men" frame of mind that ought to prevail on that beautiful birthday.

In a report of a committee that investigated those abominable salary loan associations which lend at exorbitant interest on the security of salaries and get many young men hopelessly into debt, I found it stated that the need of money for Christmas gifts was one of the things that most often got young men into the clutches of the loan sharks.

Birthday giving is growing more elaborate each year.

Charles Lamb spoke of the children of his day as thinking of their birthdays as occasions to be made memorable by "cake and orange." Imagine the child of to-day who would be satisfied with anything less than cake and ice cream and a half a dozen gifts on his birthday.

New Year's giving is running a close second to Christmas in some communities. Easter is rapidly becoming a gift-giving day. St. Valentine's day is the occasion of more or less gift exchanging, and last Thanksgiving a florist told me that he sent out quite a few flowers as Thanksgiving gifts.

And in addition to these gift-giving days, we are constantly finding new gift-giving occasions. To the old-time wedding gift has been added the engagement and the shower gift. If any one of our friends goes on a journey there must nowadays be a going-away gift for him. Once upon a time when a girl graduated from high school or college her father and mother gave her some little thing. Nowadays all her relatives and intimate friends also contribute.

All this isn't normal. It isn't healthy. It isn't sane.

If all these gifts were the spontaneous expression of the love of the giver, this abundance of gift-giving would be the sign of a rapidly approaching millenium.

But you know they aren't.

Some are simply slavish obedience to society's formalities. Some are simply foolish and even wicked ostentations.

If you are the most generous being living I am willing to wager that there have been occasions in the past year when you have said, "Oh, dear, I've got to give So-and-so something."

Haven't there? And is a gift given in such a spirit a true gift?

What are we going to do about it? Nothing, probably.

But I'll tell you what I wish we could do.

I wish we could all make a resolution to make it our ideal to be worked towards, to give generously when we feel a real desire to give, no matter whether there is any especial occasion or not, and to refrain from giving when we do not genuinely desire to give, no matter what the demands of the occasion may be.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE COLD SPRINGS SUNDAY SCHOOL

Was Held Last Week—Reports Indicated a Very Satisfactory Condition of Affairs for the Past Year.

A GOOD PROGRAMME

On Wednesday evening, January 5, the Cold Springs Sunday School, held their annual meeting. There was a large attendance of the members of the school. About 75 were present. The reports from the different departments of the work were very encouraging.

The Secretary-Treasurer reported the membership of the school as 106, against 73 of last year, a gain of 33, the average attendance 76—a gain of 10, and ten of the scholars have attended 50 Sundays out of the 52, and are entitled to recognition from the school. The collections amounted to $126.39, an average of $2.43 per Sunday. The receipts from other sources were $142.87, making a total of $269.26; of this amount $147.00 was paid to the Building Committee, $10.00 to the Township Association, $8.35 to the Children's Aid Society, and, after paying all running expenses there is a balance of $21.39 in the Treasurer's hands. One of the most encouraging features of the year has been the increased attendance in the Adult Bible Class, which now numbers 28 members.

The Building Committee reported $110.00 in the bank, besides completing the basement of the hall.

The officers for the ensuing year are:

Superintendent—Miss Laura Bennett.
Assist.-Supt.—Mr. Frank Kitney.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. Isaac Pammet.
Home Class Sec. — Miss Emma Welch.
Organist—Miss Alice Stenton.
Asst.-Organist—Miss Florence Kitney.
Librarians—Mr. Alex. Long, Miss Mina Waldie.
Hall Committee—Mr. Frank Kitney, Mr. I. Pammet.
Auditors—Mr. Everett Kidd, Miss Ruth Waldie.

Mr. Fred Kitney acted as chairman and Miss Mina Waldie filled the office of Secretary. The enthusiasm of the meeting augurs well for the success of the school for 1910. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

DIED ON HIS WAY HOME HERE

Mr. Christopher Crowe, Brother of Mr. Joseph Crowe, Has Passed Away.

On his way home to Peterborough after an adventurous life spent in the mining fields of Alaska and Johannesburg, South Africa, Christopher Crowe, a former resident of this city and a brother of Ex-Ald. Jos. Crowe 493 Cross St., has passed away at Virginia, Minn. The late Christopher Crowe was born in Peterborough but left here twenty-three years ago to try his luck in mining in Alaska long before the famous rush to the Klondike. He spent two years in the frozen north and then left for South Africa, settling at Johannesburg. A year ago he became ill and Dr. Brennan, former Peterborough physician, now living in South Africa, attended him. He was suffering with heart trouble and was advised to go home as the high altitude of Johannesburg was considered detrimental to his chances of recovery. He started for home by way of San Francisco, calling on his relatives in the United States and it was while visiting his brother John at Virginia, that his death occurred. He was forty-two years of age. The late Mr. Crowe is survived by five brothers, William, of Fort William, David, of Fredericton, N.B., John, of Virginia, Minn., Charles of Los Angeles, Cal., and Joseph of this city. The remains will arrive in the city on the noon G.T.R. train to-morrow and the funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. Jos. Crowe, 493 Cross, at 2.30 o'clock, to Little Lake cemetery.

THE PAINS OF THE AGED
Are usually due to the tendency of the kidneys to wear out as age advances, giving rise to the accumulation of poisons in the blood and causing backache, lumbago, aching limbs and rheumatism. Dr. Hamilton's Kidney-Liver Pills are particularly prized by aged people because they can be relied upon to invigorate the action of these organs, restore full health, and so remove the cause of pains and aches.

ACTION WAS DISMISSED

Charges Against the Havelock Light and Power Company Have Fallen Through.

It appears that in March last a number of shareholders of the Havelock Electric Light and Power Company, Limited, through Thomas Bennett and Richard Nolan, commenced an action in the High Court, for the purpose of cancelling two hundred shares of the stock of the Company on the plea that it had never been paid for, and was really what is called watered stock, also saying that they had been brought into the Company owing to misrepresentation of the conditions of the Company and its assets, etc. Apparently every means was resorted for the purpose of making good the statements which the dissatisfied shareholders put forward. The books of the Company and its officers were examined at great length, quite a while before the trial, and many witnesses for many purposes examined on motions made for the purpose of getting evidence. The claims put forward in the first instance were later added to at length, and apparently thoroughly looked into and considered; at that time the city papers published a reference to the case, setting out that the directors were charged with fraud and misrepresentation ,and this was the cause of much discussion amongst the shareholders, and many others interested in the Company's plant and franchise. The trial took place before Mr. Justice Britton over a month ago, and the taking of the evidence, and hearing the witnesses took up three days of the High Court Sitting. It will be a matter of interest and a very considerable satisfaction to many of the shareholders of the Company and all others interested in the welfare and success of this Corporation to know that the judgment of the Court entirely exonerates the Company, its officers and directors, from any manner of wrong doing, such as set up by the plaintiffs; further that the stock sought to be cancelled is declared by the Court to have been legally paid for, and to be of full force and effect. Doubtless now that this matter has been set at rest, the Directors will be in a position to take up the extension of business and further extension of the plant contemplated before these legal troubles were brought forward.

Messrs O'Connell & Gordon pressed the case for the plaintiffs, Messrs. Bennett & Nolan, while the Havelock Light and Power Co., L'td., were defended by Mr. S. T. Medd. Messrs. Holdcroft and Rose by Mr. E. G. Porter, and Mr. W. S. Davidson and Mr. Kerr, of Cobourg, and Mr. Ruddy, city, for other defendants.

Here is a test which proves positively that Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills do cure kidney disease and urinary troubles.

Capt. Wm. Smith, a British Army veteran, living in Revelstoke, B. C., had his urine tested by his physician who pronounced his case a bad form of chronic kidney disease. After being cured by he again had an examination of the urine made and his physician stated that no trace of the old trouble remained.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills are definite and certain in action and positively cure backache, kidney disease, Bright's disease (in early stages) and urinary troubles. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Rev. Mr. Skey, of St. Anne's, Toronto, at All Saints Church Preached to Large Congregations.

The anniversary of All Saints' church yesterday was marked by large congregations both morning and evening and two eloquent and inspiring sermons by Rev. L. E. Skey, rector of St. Anne's church, Toronto. Rev. Mr. Skey is a very interesting speaker and his sermon at the morning service on the subject of "Giving," was most helpful He pointed out that the majority of church going people did not give as they should to God, that is, in a spirit of real gratitude and love. Their givings, he said, did not entail any sacrifice but merely the "crumbs" as it were of their earnings. He believed in the tithes system of giving, that every man should donate one-tenth of his salary to God's work.

Rev. Mr. Skey at the outset, stated that it was his intention to speak of the foundation principles of God's work. In any kind of work it was necessary to have a good foundation. He chose his text from Malachi, which book, he said, stood in the old testament, the same as the seven epistles did in the new. The epistles pointed out weaknesses in the church and the Book of Malachi contained seven great indictments against the church, namely, unkindness, profanity, sacrilege, greed, weakness, blasphemy and robbery. It was the last one to which the reverend gentleman confined his remarks. The words of his text were taken from the eighth verse of the third chapter of Malachi, "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings." The preacher stated that what the church needed was the blessing of God. He believed in the tithes system of offerings and was of the opinion that if everyone gave one-tenth of his salary there would be a great difference in the churches. But the prophet did not reprove the people of Israel because they had not given their one-tenth. They had not given as God had asked them. He asked them to give in a spirit of love and gratitude to Him. It was not so much what they contributed but how they gave it. Christ beholding the rich and the poor widow giving in the temple had said that the widow who gave only two farthings had given more than the wealthy. The prophet told the people to come back to the worship of God, bringing all the tithes. The speaker laid special emphasis on the word all, pointing out that people did such a few things in comparison with the many left undone. God had proved His love by giving His only Son and Christ out of his love died on the cross for the sins of the world. "God asked us," the preacher remarked, "for our gifts as a reality of our love and devotion to Him." He believed the church should be enthused with the missionary spirit to receive the blessings of God. It must be unselfish in its givings. Too many gave only the "crumbs," what they didn't miss, instead of giving the best and something that cost them a real sacrifice.

Rev. Mr. Skey concluding, stated that above all, they should give themselves to God and then the gifts to Him would follow willingly.

During the offertory, the choir sang the anthem "Break forth into joy," with solo sung in excellent voice by Mr. Herbert Rush.

WILLYAM.

In answer to "Willyam's" inquiry it may be stated that the official vote was 2,006 in favour of local option, and 1,499 against it. Under the three-fifths' clause it would therefore require 343 new votes in favour of local option to carry the by-law, provided the number polled against it remains the same.

Moderate Drinker's Danger As Portrayed By Father Brady

Powerful Sermon at St. Peter's Cathedral to Assembly That Overflowed Into the Aisles, Taxing Church's Accommodation —Members of T. A. S. Occupied Body of Cathedral.

CRIME OF DRUNKENNESS

While the sermon at St. Peter's Cathedral last night preached, by Rev. Father Brady, of the Niagara Falls University, Niagara Falls, N. Y., was a source of great encouragement to the members of St. Peter's T. A. S., it was particularly a warning to the so-called moderate or temperate drinker, and an earnest request to the men of the congregation who are not members to join forces with the society not only for their own welfare but also for the edification of non-members, and as a good example to them. Father Brady's esrmon was of a special nature, he having come to Peterborough for the occasion of the 10th anniversary of the formation of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society.

As an introduction to his sermon he drew a vivid picture of the Johnstown flood, portraying in beautiful language the quiet little town one day in May, a few years ago, the peaceful populace pursuing the walks of the average day, mindful of the mountain lake, high up above them, about which they had heard vague rumours, but owing to their vagueness they had been received with a deaf and inattentive ear. The bursting of the retaining dam, and the devastation wrought thereby is a matter of history, and is still fresh in the memories of those who read the daily press. Thirty-five hundred human beings had been carried to eternity in the depths of that awful deluge, and the warning that had been shouted in the streets that afternoon by a lone horseman who had driven his steed almost to death in an effort to flash the news of the approaching flood to the unsuspecting townspeople, came too late. Father Brady recalled this almost forgotten fatality that a lesson might be taken from the misfortune of others. "For we are threatened by a flood far more destructive than that which passed over ill-fated Johnstown," he said. "It spreads its polluting waters through the width and breadth of our land, and wave upon wave has surged down through the years, leaving in its wake desolation, wrecked lives, unhappy homes and widespread misery. It undermines the foundations of Government and the forces of religion seem powerless against it. We seem not to be disturbed by its progress, because we are accustomed to its presence, and the misery and crime it is responsible for. All classes of people fall victims to intemperance. The prince and the pauper, the merchant and labourer, men and women, no section of society is immune to it." Father Brady detailed some of the results of intemperance in the liquor habit. Widespread and common though it be, it is a damning evil, a withering blight and curse to the drunkard, to his family, to the state, to the church. It is a sin and the source of sin and is an insult to the God of Heaven and of earth. He said he had to speak from the standpoint of the United States, as he was a comparative stranger in Canada. "The only difference between the two countries is that your poison is a shade better than ours. Its effects are about the same and its results can be no worse."

An Outrage to God.

Father Brady reminded the congregation that the human soul is made in the image of God's, and it is not given to the tongues of men or angels to describe the beauty of the soul adorned with sanctifying grace. He emphasized the awfulness of defacing that image by the sin of intoxication. As the stagnant pool generates foul and loathsome objects so in the drunkard are begotten many sins that offend Almighty God. Impurity, injustice, anger, hatred, murder, blasphemy, are in nearly all cases attributable to intemperance and drunkenness. Intemperance goes further and allies itself with the devil. The Catholic Church finds her intemperate member one of its greatest enemies. He is a source of scandal that is the cause of irreparable injury and Father Brady said he had never forgotten a scoffer, who urged as a conclusive argument against the divinity of the church, a Catholic who had become intoxicated. He prayed the day would soon come when the Catholic people would become temperate, and would not play into the hands of the devil, thus rendering fruitless the work of the church.

Duty to the State.

Every man owes a duty towards his country. He must have the utmost respect for and show obedience to her laws that these virtues may be fostered and liberty maintained. Father Brady followed the slimy trail of the serpent of intemperance throughout the country pointing the degradation it has caused, the slums and poor sections it is largely responsible for and its many other effects. "Banish the glass from your lips," he said, "and you remove two-thirds of the crime and danger that threaten the home and the state. In Ohio to-day there are 14,000 convicted criminals in the penitentiaries and gaols, and ninety-six out of every one hundred are there because of drink. The Governors of forty-three of the states in the United States were asked to give the percentage of those who were incarcerated through drink and its auxiliaries, and 72 per cent. of all the crimes were committed as the result of intemperance."

"What wonder is it that it is so productive of crime? It destroys the home, which is the cradle of your country.

The drunkard's home, instead of being happy and peaceful, is practically an earthly hell. Misery and want are its tenants. From its external appearance the desolation and arid neglect proclaim the character of him who dwells therein. The time was perhaps when love and brightness reigned, and the happy song of the wife and mother was heard as she busied herself at some household duty. God pity the drunkard's wife. She sits through the lonely hours of night waiting for him who had taken her, an innocent, happy girl, from her father's home. The world had never seemed as bright, the song of the birds had never sounded so joyous as on that day. Little did she think that the lips which had spoken love and tenderness to her would ever utter curses at her and her hapless children; that the strong manly arm upon which she had leaned would be raised against her to deal the cowardly blow of a drunkard. All this sin and injustice is committed that man may satisfy his cravings of a beastly appetite, and debase himself below the level of an animal. By intemperance man sacrifices the comforts and happiness of home life, blasts his prospects and endangers his immortal soul."

Father Brady said it was not for him to dwell upon the chances of the drunkard when he appears before God but St. Paul says the drunkard shall not possess the kingdom of God.

In conclusion Father Brady said he had spoken to the members of the society that they should appreciate the blessings and happiness that total abstinence had brought them. He hoped they would remain true to their resolve to never taste intoxicants. He had another purpose in addressing them in that manner. "There are men in the parish who do not belong to this society. I hope my words may influence them to join forces with you in combatting this terrible evil which is sweeping over the land. Let them not urge that they are teetotallers or that they are temperate. Granting that they are strong and are living right their example and influence counts for much. There are none of us so humble that has no influence for good or evil." Father Brady also spoke to the young men who were non-members. "This is an age of licence," e said, "All seem to chafe under restraint. Young men cherish that so-called liberty, that they hesitate to make a sacrifice for their own or their neighbour's good. Perhaps the young man says he doesnt' believe in taking a pledge, that he prefers to exercise his free will. He is not in danger of becoming a slave to drink. He wants to be a man, to act as a man, to take a drink in a social way and leave it alone. He doesn't purpose to sacrifice himself for his brother. After slaying his brother, Cain asked if he was his brother's keeper."

In the United States there are between three and four million confirmed drunkards. Of these 150,000 find their way to drunkards' deaths. Yet the vacancies are not thinned. The vacancies in that haggard, staggering column are filled each year from the moderate drinkers of the year before. They are drafted largely from the list of young men and not one of them had an idea of becoming a drunkard, To-day they are in that column and next year 150,000 more will be recruited to fill the gaps made by the hand of Death.

"Have you any assurance from God that you will be free from the habit," Father Brady asked. "Do you need it less than Father Mathew needed it?" He mentioned other men who had taken the pledge and who had been a great example for good to their brothers. The habit is like the Niagara River. The pleasure parties on the quiet water above the falls, out of range of its unbroken roar float gaily along, unmindful until they are warned from the shore that they are approaching the danger mark. Their efforts then are almost entirely unavailing. The undertow has them in its grasp and they are dragged over the precipice. Moderate drinking acts similarly. The man never realizes his danger until the habit has gripped him and in the majority of cases he fails to shake himself free from it. Father Brady said that the sacrifice of this liberty would bring material benefits as a sacrifice would be pleasing to God himself.

THE BETTERMENT OF THE INDIVIDUAL

Rev. Canon Davidson Continued His Series of Special Sermons Last Night.

Continuing his general subject: "Some Spheres and Services of Practical Religion," Canon Davidson took as his theme in St. John's last night "The Betterment of the Individual." Religion, he said, like our worship, was up-going and unselfish, mainly directed towards God. But, just as in the Lord's Prayer the main petitions for God's glory were followed by those for man's needs, so religion existed secondarily for human betterment. This was clearly manifested in the attitude of Jesus Christ, who stood in the world the Divine centre of Benediction for the betterment and uplift of mankind in the widest and fullest sense of these words. His mission was not only to save from ruin but to train and develop the higher powers of man.

Since his Ascension the Saviour has continued this work of betterment in His Body the Church, which is a hospital for sick souls, a training-school for developing Disciples and a Benevolent Society, wherein all were privileged to work with Him for the betterment of mankind and thereby to rise to loftier heights themselves. If the church in a community fell short of this splendid ideal the members were responsible for the failure. But, with many imperfections, much was being done. In the Church a glorious mission was offered to aimless lives, and the way opened to wide usefulness and to heights of noble goodness and splendid service. Moreover, the despondent were enheartened by the Gospel of power, the sick received courage and skilful ministration, and thereby bodily betterment, and the sorrowful received comfort, while, to the sinful was given pardon and peace and newness of life.

All these and many more factors of Christian betterment came to those individuals who practically accepted the call of Jesus, and yielded themselves to be worked on and moulded in His Training School, the Church—and, unlike the world, the Christian received this betterment, not in isolation or in competition with others, but in co-operation and fellowship with them, and this fellowship was a necessary means of improvement, as indicated in the Lord's prayer. Men advanced, as often they fell, together, helping one another. The subject next Sunday evening will be "Religion in the sphere of the home—The Duties of Married Life."

Ald. Turner Speaks On A Commissioner

Advocates the Appointment of a Man to Look After Booming the City—His Experience With an American Firm.

AT COUNCIL MEETING

At the first meeting of the Council this morning there was a pronounced feeling in favour of the city adopting a modern system of advertising its advantages to manufacturers, labourers, mechanics, and in fact in every way possible to set forth Peterborough's facilities. Ald. Turner presented a line of thought that was appreciated by the aldermen and showed that he had a keen insight into the possibilities of an Industrial Commissioner. He spoke in reference to a matter introduced by Ald. Duffus in regard to the formation of a publicity committee. Ald. Turner stated that a man engaged expressly for the purpose of booming Peterborough could by careful work and investigation prepare a list of articles that are manufactured either solely in the United States or which are produced in small houses in Canada. He could then go to the managers of one of the most important of firms in these localities and impress him with the advantages of erecting a Canadian branch and induce him to come to Canada. Ald. Turner mentioned a number of articles that are of this Peterborough. He visited it on his kind and mentioned particularly a factory that may locate a branch in way to the west having crossed the border for that particular purpose. Ald. Turner presented the facts to the manager, showed him the opportunities of building up a Canadian trade and told him that some manufacturer was bound to enter Canada and the field would surely go to the first firm. Ald. Turner stated that he had just received a letter from the manufacturer stating that a meeting would be held on Jan. 10th, and a decision would be made. The company [illegible] representatives visit Canada during the summer and knowing this [illegible] manner made the visit to emphasize Peterborough's advantages.

He referred to this incident in reply to Ald. Morgan and showed himself to be an advocate of engaging a man to advertise the city rather than spend money on cards and advertising matter. The question is one that will be discussed in a short time as the Mayor has stated that he intends to hold a special meeting to consider the matter, particularly since many prominent men have expressed themselves in favour of the appointment of such an official.

Mr. Michael O'Brien, son of Mr. M. J. O'Brien, Gilmour street, left this morning for Toronto, where he begins a course of study at St. Michael's College. On Saturday night a number of his friends tendered him a farewell supper at Jacobi's restaurant, and many hearty wishes for his future success were extended to him. Mr. O'Brien has been a student of the Collegiate Institute, and was popular with the younger set. As a member of the champion T. A. S. baseball club he was well known for his skill in playing the position of first base and was generally admitted the Hal Chase of the City League. He won the Senior Championship at the Collegiate Institute field day of sports, carrying off the cup that was emblematic of that honour. His friends expect to hear from him actively participating in the sports at the college and also making his way in the academic world.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nervine, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

MRS. ALVIN H. LOCKS,
Seabrook, N. H.

The after effects of LaGrippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine should be taken for some time to thoroughly restore nerve strength.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by all druggists. If the first bottle does not benefit, your druggist will return your money.

JUNIOR TEAMS STRONG FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME

The O. H. A. season will open with a flourish to-night when the two great little junior teams, the Peterborough Colts and the Collegiate juniors will battle it out in the first game of this group of the junior O. H. A. season. The ice is lightning fast and the slippery going will thoroughly suit both teams, as they rely on their speed and stick-handling to carry them through. It will be a battle royal, and as one fan said Saturday "Flip a coin." That is the only way to decide which is the better team." However, to-night's game should go a long way towards settling the question, as both teams are at their strongest, and there will be no excuses to offer in case of defeat. Combination and team work will undoubtedly be on the side of the students, and this will help them for the Cubs, while as fast and a little heavier than the School, have not been together long enough to develop a great deal of team work, although they have shown in practice that they can play combination effectively when they get working right.

Bill Rose, the official referee of the City League, will handle the game, which is a guarantee that the play will be clean and fast. With Rose handling the bell, the players know that rough tactics do not go, and they govern themselves accordingly. Both teams expect to win, and the game cannot be overlooked by the fans.

The Collegiate team was selected on Friday afternoon, at a practice at which all the candidates for the team were present. The greatest difficulty was experienced in choosing a goal keeper. Angus Richardson, of Rugby fame, was finally selected over Lees, goal keeper of the Chieftains, who has been doing well in practice. Halpany has a sore knee and is not available to-night, and the team will be as follows:

Goal—Richardson.
Point—Geale.
Cover—Denison.
Rover—Crane.
Centre—Burritt.
Right Wing—Conroy.

The executive of the Peterborough team met at the Examiner office on Saturday night and decided upon the following line-up:

Goal—Halpin.
Point—Munro.
Cover—Heffernan.
Rover—Giroux.
Centre—Hall.
Right Wing—Short.
Left Wing—Pratt.

Will Short was unanimously chosen Captain at the Executive meeting, and he will have full charge of the team, when they are on the ice.

THE LAKEFIELD DANCE

It has been arranged that all conveyances to take the Peterborough guests to the Lakefield Dance on Wednesday evening, Jan. 12th, will leave the Post Office at seven o'clock sharp. Those interested will please note that the busses will only call at this place. 2d7

DOPE ON THE JUNIORS

Some Information About the Youngsters Who Will Take Part in To-night's Game.

In view of the opening game of the O.H.A. season to-night some dope on the youngsters who will battle for the honours in this district will not be out of place.

The Collegiate Team.

Angus Richardson goal—is a new comer in the realm of hockey, at least as a goal keeper, but has every mark of making good. He was persuaded to try for the position on the school team a few practices ago and did so well between the flags that he has been given the position.

Norman Geale, point, is a new man in his position. He played with the Collegiate last year but was on the forward line, playing centre. This year he was tried out at point and at once demonstrated his ability to play the position.

Fred Dennison, cover point and captain, played point with the Collegiate last year and also played on the George St. team, runners up in the junior City League. This year in addition to playing junior O.H.A., he is playing a splendid game at point for the Strathconas City League team.

Ken Crane, rover, was one of the members of Jack Thirnbeck's great little team, the Chieftains, and played with them and with the Collegiate last year. This year he is with the West End City League team.

Hugh Burritt, centre, is the fifteen year old youngster, who made such a hit with the Strathconas in their game last week. This is his first year with the Collegiate. Like most of the other junior teams, he played with the Chieftains, figuring at right wing.

Fred Conroy, right wing, played a similar position on last year's Collegiate team and is a sturdy and aggressive player.

Harold Matthews, left wing, was also with the Collegiate last year, playing several good games.

The Peterborough Juniors.

Connie Halpin, goal, is a member of the West End City League and played last year as well. This is his first O.H.A. game.

Harry Munro, is a graduate of the Chieftains and like Halpin is a member of the West Ends. To-night marks his O.H.A debut.

Frank Heffernan, cover-point, played last year with the T.A.S. juniors, and the Quakers, Mercantile League champions. He has never played junior O.H.A. before.

Cyril Giroux, rover, played centre for last year's Peterborough juniors and for the T. A. S. City League team.

Will Short, right wing and captain, comes from Keene and played with the Peterborough juniors last season. Like Giroux he is this year a member of the West Ends.

Will Pratt, left wing, played with the George St. team and the Quakers last season, and is with the latter team again this year. This is his first O. H. A. hockey.

Arthur Hall, centre, occupied a similar position with the Chieftains. He is playing O.H.A. hockey for the first time to-night.

None of the Collegiate players have ever played in an O. H. A. game before.

Lifebuoy Soap is delightfully refreshing for bath or toilet. For washing underclothing it is unequalled. Cleanses and purifies.

SPORTING NOTES

The O.H.A. has arisen to remark that the player who makes a reputation for dirty playing will please take a long rest. And as usual the big hockey body is dead right. There's a difference between playing hard hockey and trying to whittle the hockey out of the opposing team. To teach players with the wrong kind of ambition this simple truth, it is only necessary to set one or two on the bench for the season. It will be a little hard on the one or two, but they'll have the satisfaction of knowing they're suffering for the general good of the game.—Toronto Telegram.

BANTIES WIN THEIR GAME

The Tame Banties showed their class on Saturday night at Brock St. rink, when they took into camp the Auburn Mercantile League team by a score of 5 goals to 0. At the breathing interval it was 2-0 in favour of the off shoots of the Strathconas who are thinking of challenging the regular City League team. Saturdays' game was hard fought and interesting, although the Birds were always in front and going strong. The teams were as follows:

Referee—Carter.

CORBETT THOUGHT HE HE HAD A GOOD PUNCH

The story of Jim Corbett's 'punch' is interesting, in view of the fact that Gentleman Jim is to coach Jeffries for his fight with Johnson. The story is told by Harry Tuthill, weller for the Detroit Tigers, who got the yarn from Corbett himself. It deals with his first fight with Jeff, which he stood the Californian off for 22 rounds and a bit more.

"As you know and as I've always been free to admit," Tuthill says Corbett said: "I've almost always managed to have one good punch for each of my battles. I never claimed to be a real slugger, but I've always managed to do the damage with that punch when I got ready to let it go.

"In my fight with Jeff I held that punch for several rounds, until I had made Jim miss with a left. I stepped back as he let it fly and it whistled past my face. Then I stepped in and let go the punch that I'd saved up.

"Jeff was wide open, just at the right distance from me, and the whole side of his jaw was turned to my fist. I swung what I have always believed to be the heaviest blow I ever hit in my life. Then I stepped back to watch him drop.

"Jeff straightened up instead, and faced around again. I guess he saw the astonishment that my face must have showed. He raised his guard and took a step toward me. Then he looked me squarely in the eye and—believe me—he grinned just a bit and did this."

"As Corbett got to this part of the story he looked at me and deliberately closed his left eye, let it quiver a minute, and then masked again with his fighting face.

"Corbett admitted that, if some friend had opened a trap door right underneath him, he'd have been willing to sacrifice his share of the purse to drop into it. He had worked Jeff exactly as he hoped, he had let go the punch and he'd been carrying it for the emergency, he's seen it land right where the doctor ordered, and then he's seen Jeff tip him a roguish wink and start forcing again."

BABIES AND CHILDREN

Should be fairly plump. They ought to put on fat as fast as they use it up; for fat is fuel, and the burning of it makes power and force. Thin children—even along to the age of eighteen or twenty—are in danger from consumption, and from other wasting complaints. The children who starve, and the young men and women who are consumed—why, the very idea of it is frightful. For such as they there is always what is called a "mighty famine" in the land. Food, though it may be, taken plentifully, does not nourish them. It makes no fat; it gives no strength. To prevent this, to cure this, to save the young ones at the mother's knees, and the bright boys and girls who are just looking at the world with hopeful and ambitious eyes, is the purpose of

FERROL TASTELESS

Its success is decided and settled. Thousands owe to it life and health. It is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. In building up pale, puny, emaciated children, particularly those troubled with Anaemia, Scrofula, Rickets, and bone and blood diseases, nothing equals it; its tonic qualities are of the highest order. Parents whose children are sick cannot resort to it a day too soon. A Medical Institution says: "We have used your preparation in treating children for Coughs, Colds and Inflammation; its application has never failed us in any case, even the most aggravated bordering on pneumonia. The children like it, they love the taste of it, and it builds up their bodies; many little children owe their lives to it." The more it is used the less will be the ravages of disease among the people from infancy to old age. Sold by all chemists everywhere.—Warne Drug Co.

Fined For Growing Grass.

New York, Jan. 10.—For failing to cut the weeds, brush and grass along the company's right of way in Smithtown, L.I., a supreme court jury in Suffolk County Saturday rendered a verdict of $52,200 against the Long Island Railroad.

The suit was the first brought under the forest, fish and game laws of 1900, requiring railroad companies to clear their right of way at least twice a year.

The railroad company will appeal.

Grey Nuns' Long Trip.

Winnipeg, Jan. 10.—Six devoted sisters of Grey Nuns, from Montreal, left Friday night for Isle La Crosse Mission in northern wilds.

To reach their destination the sisters will travel over snow-clad plain, through heavy bush and over ice-covered rivers, and, after a few nights, being beyond the pale of settlement, must sleep in the open.

More Millions for Charity.

London, Jan. 10.—The late Sir Alfred Lewis Jones, head of the shipowning firm of Elder, Dempster & Co., leaves the bulk of his estate of nearly $3,500,000 in trust for charitable objects and for educational researches into the causes of disease on the west coast of Africa. Sir Alfred died on Dec. 13.

Despondent Man's Crime.

Winters, Tex., Jan. 10.—Frank Kembler, yesterday, with a hatchet, killed his wife and two young children and seriously injured a young woman living in the family. He then committed suicide with a razor. Despondency due to ill-health led to the tragedy.

A Ship Ashore.

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 10.—The Hamburg-American steamer Prinz Joachim which sailed early yesterday for Colon, ran aground in the eastern passage. The steamer is lying broadside, but is not considered to be in any danger as the weather is calm. The German steamer Bertha has gone to her assistance.

KEENE CONFIDENT OF A WIN OVER WEST ENDS WEDNESDAY

Village Supporters Claim That Their Team Did Not Do Themselves Justice Last Week, But That There Will be a Different Story to Tell Wednesday---West Ends are Not Over-Confident.

The City League games on Wednesday night will bring together the West Ends and Keene in the first game and the T. A. S. and Strathconas in the second, and the combination should bring about some of the best hockey of the season. There is considerable speculation among the fans as to the results and there is great diversity of opinion as to just what will happen when the teams get together. Keene is rather fancied in some quarters in the first game on account of the fact that they have already defeated the West Enders twice this season, once in Keene and the other time at the Auditorium Rink. However, it must be remembered that Manager Oldham's team was not nearly up to full strength on either of these occasions, and that there is quite liable to be a different story to tell on Wednesday night, when the West Ends will send out their hardest team. It will be a battle royal that much is certain, with neither team lacking supporters, and from this distance the bout looks worth travelling much farther than Brock Street rink to see. The Keene fans say that their team will make a much better showing than they did last week They point out that they were considerably at sea on the big ice surface and that furthermore they were troubled with a little attack of stage fright, thus rendering them in bad shape to do their best. "Why, said a Keene man, who was in town today, "we were way off in the first half and you saw what happened when we found ourselves in the second. We outscored the Strathconas in the last period, but we started too late." There may be a great deal in that argument, too, and the West Ends, while reasonably sure of victory, are not any too confident, and will not take any chances.

It is just as hard to get a line on the second game, which brings together the T. A. S. and Strathconas. The Abstainers made a grand fight last week against the West Ends, who are fancied by most of the City League fans, as a faster and stronger team than the Strathconas, and then added to their laurels by going down to Keene on Friday night and beating the Villagers by 5 goals to 4 on their own ice. It kept the Strathconas going all the time to nose out Keene last week, and with the Abstainers holding West Ends down and beating Keene at home there seems to be a snag in front of the Commissioners on Wednesday night. A victory for the T. A. S. would not surprise a considerable section of the fans, especially, as the Strathconas are rather reticent in discussing their chances. "We will have our strongest team on and will do our best," was all that one of the Club's officers would say to-day when asked for an opinion. The Strathconas learned the danger of over-confidence in a distressing manner when they met Lakefield last year so that this season, with a different line-up they are not too hopeful of the result.

Both games on Wednesday night should be fast and exciting, as there seems little to choose between the four sevens on the form they showed last week. It begins to look as if the predictions made earlier in the season would be verified, and that it will be a hard-fought, unrelenting struggle for the pennant, with the result in doubt until the last game is played. With a double schedule in force every team has a chance to win out, and it will be hockey from the drop of the hat. With the interest shown in the opening games and the two grand games of hockey that we played, a games of hockey that were played, a at this week's double-header.

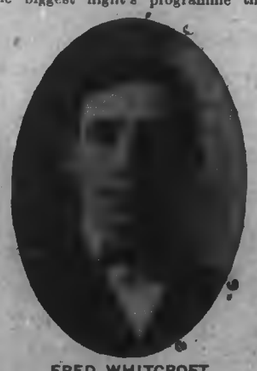
The programme:
West Ends vs. Keene, 8 o'clock.
Strathconas vs. T. A. S. at 9 o'clock.
Referee—S. W. Rose.

EDMONTON STANLEY CUP TEAM HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Great Bill of Fare for the City Hockey League Patrons---A Chance to Get a Line on the Challengers as Well as See Two Big City League Games for One Price of Admission.

City League patrons this week will receive an unusual treat in addition to the regular bill-of-fare, as the Edmonton Stanley Cup team will have an hour's practice at Brock St. Rink on Wednesday during the City League games. President Graham of the City League, received a telegram from Fred Whitcroft this morning, asking him to arrange a practice for the cup team, and this is being done to-day, so that in addition to the two scheduled games the fans will have a chance to get a line on the Edmonton team, who play Ottawa for the Cup, at the same time. This will be the biggest night's programme that the City League has ever offered and there will no doubt be a record-breaking crowd present.

WALTER MILLER,
Former Peterborough Boy, Who Will be Here With the Edmonton Stanley Cup Team at the City League Games on Wednesday Night.



FRED WHITCROFT,
The Ex-Peterborough Star, Who Will be With the Edmonton Team on Wednesday Night.

The people of Peterborough are naually interested in the Westerners, inasmuch as three of the team come from this district—Fred Whitcroft and Walter Miller, of Peterborough, and Jack (Hay) Miller, from Keene. In addition Jack Winchester, the goal keeper, is well known here, having played here with Belleville and Lindsay. It will be a great opportunity to judge the calibre of the Edmonton team and the fans of Peterborough will not let it slip by. Whitcroft, Miller and company will get a great reception when they skate out on the ice at Brock street rink on Wednesday, as in addition to the regular big City League crowd there will likely be many people attracted by the presence of the Edmonton team. It looks like a big night Wednesday night.

INTERMEDIATES TO PRACTISE

Will Work-out To-night Before the Junior O. H. A. Game.

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club was held in the Examiner office on Saturday night at which a list of the players eligible to practise with the intermediate Club was decided upon. Only the men whose names are mentioned below are expected out at Peterborough practice henceforth.

Derocher, Glover, McDougall, Dusty, Seymour, Dobson, Campbell, Ray, Weatherstone, McMillan, Rose.

The above players are asked to be out at 7 o'clock to-night for a practice before the junior game.

It is likely that the first intermediate game in this district will be played on Friday night. Secretary Glover will make arrangements with the Lindsay team at once.

The executive decided to purchase new sweaters for the team. The familiar old blue and white colours will be adhered to.

SPORTING NOTES

The Peterborough Collegiate junior O.H.A. team have registered the following players: Harold S. Matthews, Wm. F. Gibson, Harold H. Lees, Fred B. Dennison, Norman Geale, Hugh Burritt, Angus Richardson, K. H. Crane, Fred Conroy, P E. Kelley, Frank Halpany, G. E. Minorgan.

The following line-up has been suggested for the Lindsay intermediate team:

Goal—Gamble.
Point—Green.
Cover-point—Blomfield.
Centre—Taylor.
Rover—Stoddard.
R. Wing—F. Cotey.
L. Wing—L. Cotey.

The T. A. S. hockey team, accompanied by a few rooters, drove to Keene Friday night and sprung a big surprise on the City League team of that village by defeating them in a fast, clean game, by the score of 5-4. The little rink was well packed with hockey enthusiasts, who showed their appreciation of the article served up, especially when their own favourites were having the long end of it. For the locals, Giroux, in goal, was one of the conspicuous figures. He handled numerous shots in the same old way, and cleared his goal nicely on all occasions. Frank Heffernan, who played his first game in the "big league" last night, made a decided hit with the railbirds by his fast and useful work. The combination work of the Abstainers was noticeably better, and this was to a large degree the cause of victory. At the conclusion of the game the T. A. S. boys were entertained to an oyster supper at the expense of the Keene Club. The teams were as follows:

T. A. S.		Keene
Giroux	Goal.	Bowie
Sabatino	Point.	Dickson
Quigley	Cover-point.	McDougall
Coughlin	Forward.	McCarthy
Heffernan		Weir
McNicholl		McIntyre
Morin		Wedlock

KEENE ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Keene, Jan. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls, Madoc, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Plunkett.

Mr. Howard Humphries, Montrose Colorado, is the guest of his father, Mr. Robert Humphries Lang.

Mr. James Runnings, Owen Sound, is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Mark Plunkett.

There is every evidence that Keene is going to have an even better hockey team this year than for several years. In fact, with the best of their veterans still on the ice and a few men who are the equal of the older players, it is doubtful if the village ever had a better team.

Mrs. William Plunkett, Havelock, is visiting friends in Otonabee.

The Keene Hockey Club held their annual dance in the town hall on New Year's eve. There was a good attendance and a large number of young people from Peterborough were present. An excellent evening's enjoyment was spent by all who attended. The finances of the club were considerably enriched by the affair, which was just as successful financially as otherwise.

There was rather less excitement this year over the elections for councillors than usual, although a fairly large vote was polled. The re-arrangement of wards, whereby those in the vicinity of Lang vote there instead of at Keene, Villiers, or Grady's, made it much more convenient for the voters in that vicinity. Also a number of voters east of Keene who formerly went to Villiers, although it was much farther away now vote at Keene.

Monday evening the members of Mr. Andrew Shearer's Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school, called upon Mr. Shearer and presented him with a beautiful Morris' chair and footstool. Miss Susie Weir read the following address:

Dear Teacher,—It becomes our pleasant duty as members of your class assembled here to-night to remind you that your untiring interests in our behalf are not forgotten. We might say for years we have known you as a citizen, a friend and a teacher, and in all these varied walks you have honestly striven to do your duty.

Recollecting the many pleasant and profitable hours spent with you in your class we present you this chair as a slight tangible expression of our esteem and regard. We trust it may adorn your home and ever remind you of our good will and that our relation as teacher and class may long continue and that this joyful Christmas tide may bring to your household and yourself God's richest blessings.

Signed on behalf of the class.

Mrs. P. Drummond.

Mrs. Skinner.

The annual meeting of the Otonabee Agricultural Society will be held in the Council chamber, Keene, on Friday, Jan. 21st, at one o'clock p.m. for the purpose of receiving and disposing of the report of the board of directors, for the election of officers for the ensuing year for the revision of the by-laws and for any other business.

The funeral of the late Mrs. William Davidson, whose death occurred Saturday, Jan. 1st was held from the late residence of the deceased on Tuesday and interment took place in Keene cemetery. The funeral was largely attended. Rev. D. D. McDonald, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Keene, conducted the funeral service. Besides her husband the deceased leaves three children, two boys of eight and ten and an infant a couple of weeks old.

Peterborough Lock Company To Double Its Capacity And Output

The Board of Directors of the Peterborough Lock Co. decided some weeks ago to adopt a more vigorous policy and have decided to make additions to the buildings, and add new machinery to enable the Company to double its output. To this end work has been commenced to re-arrange the plant, extend the building, add new and improved machinery, so that the plant will be made more up-to-date, and that the quality and quantity of the goods manufactured will be excelled by none. Mr. C. W. Caley, formerly superintendent of the Russel-Erwin Co., New Britain, Conn., one of the largest companies in the United States, has been engaged as works manager and assumed his position about a month ago. Mr. Jas. Montgomery has the contract for the extensions to the buildings and the new addition to the plating room will be completed this week. Machinery has been ordered and during the next two or three months improved machinery will be installed and new additions completed to the extent of between $30,000 and $40,000. This further development will also necessitate the employment of a considerable number of additional employees. The business done by the Peterborough Lock Co. during the past year was the largest in the history of the company, and the directors expect and hope that during the coming year the business of the company will justify the expectations of the Board of Directors.

The Examiner joins with the other citizens of Peterborough in hoping that the business will grow to such an extent that the improved premises will shortly have to be further extended, so as to necessitate the Company's building an entirely new plant in another portion of the city.

Hearing Appeal On Judgment In Recent Liquor Case

The appeal of the judgment of Magistrate Dumble, who fined George N. Graham two hundred dollars for selling liquor on Sunday, November 21st, is being heard by His Honour Judge Huycke to-day. O'Connell and Gordon are appearing for the appellant, and Mr. A. P. Poussette, K.C., for the respondent. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood is present on behalf of the Attorney-General. The conviction was made in the police court on December thirtieth.

Mr. Poussette suggested that His Honour read over the deposition and then give his judgment.

Mr. O'Connell objected to this course, pointing out that the Magistrate only took down the substance of the evidence and often some important cross-examination was omitted.

Mr. Poussette said that if it was the intention of the counsel for the appellant to call witnesses to impeach the character of the respondent's witnesses, he said that it was his intention to call witnesses to prove their reliability.

His Honour said that he did not intend to hear a large number of witnesses. He would only hear those, who, he thought, would throw any light on the case. If the appellant called witnesses to give character evidence there, Mr. Poussette could call witnesses in rebuttal.

Mr. E. Lawrence was not heard in the police court, but was first called to-day. Witness said that after Geo. Graham was fined, Chief Roszel called him into the office and told him that he was in the Oriental on Nov. 21st, and that if he didn't plead guilty he would bring witnesses to prove it. He said that Chief Roszel further said that if he pleaded guilty he would have the case in private court. He was fined on the tenth of December. Witness said that he was at the Oriental every Sunday night. He thought he was there on November 21st. He couldn't swear that he was. Mr. Poussette proceeded to ask witness if he saw Graham there on any Sunday night. Mr. O'Connell objected, stating the respondent's counsel must first fix the date. To his Honour, Lawrence said that he was not sure what night he was there. He then left the box.

P. C. Meharry was next called. He retold the evidence given in the police court, and also before his Honour Judge Huycke, at the County Court sessions, as to having seen Graham serve out drinks from the bar on Sunday night, November 21st.

P. C. Newhall was the next witness, and gave his story of the proceedings of the night of November 21, while watching the Oriental Hotel.

The court then adjourned at half-past one until a quarter to three.

Chairmen Of Committees Of The Council

Were Elected by Open Ballot This Morning— Ald. Bradburn Has Finance Committee and Ald. Duncan the Property—Ald. Morgan Has Committee.

ALD. HICKS APPOINTED

Board of Works—Ald. Hicks.

Fire, Water and Light Committee—Ald Morgan.

Manufacturers' Committee — Ald. Gillespie.

Finance Committee—Ald. Bradburn.

Property Committee—Ald. Duncan.

Legal and Reception Committee.—Ald. Duffus.

Special Power Committee — Ald. Turner.

At the inaugural meeting of the City Council this morning the chairmanship of the standing committtes was disposed of, as shown in the above list. The work was done in committee of the whole, after the inaugural meeting of the Council had been concluded and the elections were made by open ballot. Mayor Morrow presided and all the aldermen were present.

Board of Works.

Moved by Ald. Morgan and Turner that Ald. Hicks be Chairman of the Board.

Moved in amendment by Ald. Buller and Duffus, that Ald. Phelan be appointed.

The motion carried by 7 to 5.

Water and Light Committee.

Moved by Ald. Phelan and Gillespie that Ald. Buller be appointed.

Moved in amendment by Ald. Metheral and Batten that Ald. Morgan be appointed.

The amendment carried.

Ald. Gillespie was the unanimous choice for the position of Chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, on motion of Ald. Bradburn and Turner.

Ald. Bradburn was likewise unanimously selected chairman of the Finance Committee, on motion of Ald. Gillespie and Metheral.

Ald. Duncan was, on motion of Ald. Morgan and Graham, unanimously chosen for the chairmanship of the Property Committee.

Legal Committee.

Moved by Ald. Gillespie and Graham that Ald. Turner be chairman of the Legal and Reception Committee.

Moved in amendment by Ald. Turner and Morgan, that Ald. Duffus be appointed.

Ald. Turner withdrew from the position and left Ald. Duffus an unanimous choice.

Ald. Turner was the only nomination for the chairmanship of the Special Power Committee, and was elected on motion of Ald. Morgan and Buller.

Grant to Mayor.

Ald. Bradburn and Ald. Turner moved that the usual grant of $500 be made to the Mayor.—Carried.

Ald. Duffus suggested that an advertizing committee be appointed to carry out to a greater extent the work done by the Legal Committee last year. Ald. Duffus thought the time had come for a committee to look after that work entirely. Ald. Turner agreed with Ald. Duffus, and dwelt upon the appointment of an Industrial Commissioner, reference to which is found in another column.

Moved by Ald. Gillespie and Buller that the grant to the Poultry Association this year be $75 instead of $50 last year.

Mayor's Thoughtfulness.

Mayor Morrow stated that he had intended to call an early meeting to consider the question of appointing an Industrial Commissioner, and otherwise "booming" the city. He understood that the Board of Trade had made enquiries and intended to wait upon the Council. He recalled the fact that to-morrow is the last day upon which to insert clauses in the city's private bill that will be presented before a committee of the Legislature. He suggested that the clause could be inserted at once by the City Solicitor, giving the Council authority to appoint an Industrial Commissioner. They then have the privilege, if the bill is passed, and can appoint the commissioner if the Aldermen see fit, or unless they solve the question in some other manner. It was moved by Ald. Bradburn and Gillespie that the Mayor's suggestion be carried out.

The meeting adjourned but the chairmen of the committees remained to select the members for each.

HEIRESS HAS BEEN FOUND

Daughter of Wealthy Broker, Who Ran Away With a Married Man of 43, Is Discovered In a Rooming-house In Chicago — Had Travelled Thousands of Miles to Elude Police—Out of Money.

Chicago Jan. 11.—Living as father and daughter, Roberta Buist de Janon, a Philadelphia heiress, aged only 16, and Frederick Cohen, a former waiter of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, who eloped Dec. 20 from Philadelphia, were arrested late yesterday.

They were discovered by detectives in a rooming-house at 68 West Superior street, on the north side of the city. When the policemen entered the house Miss De Janon was playing with a pet dog which she took with her when she disappeared with Cohen, who is 43 years old and married. Cohen was reading in an adjoining room.

Cohen at first protested against arrest. He soon admitted his identity, however, and Miss De Janon, sobbing bitterly, pleaded with the police to restore her to her parents.

Cohen revealed to the officers the story of his flight with the girl from Philadelphia, a flight extending thousands of miles.

From Philadelphia they went to New York, then to Montreal and on to St. John, N.B., where they boarded a steamer for England, leaving it at Halifax, and going to Boston and then on to Chicago.

They gave up their trip to England at Halifax, because the boat officers would not permit the presence of Miss De Janon's pet dog on the vessel. At least, that was Cohen's explanation, but the police believe he planned to elude detectives.

Cohen and Miss De Janon reached Chicago on Thursday and rented a room in a boarding-house, introducing the girl as his daughter Alice. He said he was Robert King, a barber from Montreal, in search of work.

The girl, after she had admitted her identity, said that she and Cohen had reached Chicago with only $1.60, and that she gave Cohen a bracelet and a necklace, which he pawned to get money to live on. Their arrest followed a report to the police by the landlady, who had seen pictures of the eloping pair in the newspapers.

Cohen said he would waive extradition. He vehemently denied that any harm had come to Miss De Janon. In Miss De Janon's possession the police found several letters, some addressed to her parents, and one written to her by Cohen, dated Dec. 14. In this the waiter begged the girl to think twice before eloping with him. This letter follows:

"My Dear Roberta: After thinking the matter over thoroughly, I came to the conclusion, that, having nothing but your welfare and future happiness in mind to show you really, the first time since I have known you, how honest my love for you, by advising you not to take the step which you will later regret, and which will disgrace you and make you unhappy in the future.

"You know that I love you as I never loved a woman before—furthermore, you know in your own heart that towards you I am strictly on the level, and I am willing to sacrifice my future happiness only in order to do the right and square thing by you.

"Think matters over and weigh everything conservatively, and you will find that my motives toward you are as pure and honorable as only a man can be towards the girl he really and devotedly loves. To take you away from here just to gratify a whim, regardless of the disastrous consequences to yourself, would show me up only as a coward and not worthy of having the love of such an angel as yourself.

"Think this over. I know you will respect and trust me that much more for what I am sacrificing. By going away now with you—in my position—would ruin your whole future—our future. I would rather die like a dog than harm you, or be the cause of any harm or shadow to fall on you. If you can see my noble motives in the right light you will appreciate me that much more and can only respect me, even if you can never learn to love me. I will talk this matter over fully with you yet, and will try to convince you that the only reason I won't consent to take you away is because I am a man of principle and honor, and because I really love you.

The letter, unsigned, was written on stationery of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, and was mailed to Miss De Janon at her grandfather's in Philadelphia.

Now that the rush of the Holidays is over, we can serve you better than ever.
Call in and see us about a sitting.

Arrested for Carlos' Murder.

Lisbon, via Badajos, Spain, Jan. 11. Sentries Sunday night fired upon a group of suspected persons who were prowling around the Necessidades Palace. The garrison in the palace was reinforced yesterday.

According to The Imparcial, forty republicans recently were arrested, some of them suspected of being implicated in the murder of King Carlos and Crown Prince Luiz in February, 1908. The paper also declares that many other arrests will be made shortly.

U. S. Inter-Commerce Court.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 11.—President Taft's proposed bill for an interstate commerce court was made public yesterday.

This court is to be composed of five circuit judges, who shall serve by assignment of the chief justice for a term of five years, but no two judges' terms will expire at the same time, and thus under all circumstances four of the judges will have had several years' experience with these technical questions.

Bad Business Methods.

London, Jan. 11.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—F. C. T. O'Hara of Ottawa writes The Times, giving an instance of a British electrical firm who refused to supply a Canadian firm enjoying a high reputation, with samples to the value of 28 shillings, until the money was sent, as it was contrary to their usual practice. This, says Mr. O'Hara, is the most glaring and stupid of many cases of utter indifference of British exporters to Canada ever brought to his notice.

For a Chamber of Commerce.

Kingston, Jan. 11.—At the inaugural meeting of the City Council, Ald. Craig gave notice of motion that, at the next meeting he would move to have tavern licenses reduced from 28 to 25. A committee was appointed to consider the advisability and advantages of organizing a chamber of commerce.

Mrs. Margaret Jones, widow of John Jones, is dead, aged 95. She was a resident here all her life.

Explosion Kills Three.

Liverpool Docks for C.N.R.

ARE USING WAR SCARE

Globe Representative In London Resents In Behalf of Canadians the Taint Thrown at Hamar Greenwood When He Was Called a Foreigner — Several Unionists Elected Without Opposition.

London, Jan. 11.—The Mail is making a great effort to make the country believe that defence is the dominant issue. This aspect of the political situation has so impressed one person in Richmond that on a high flagstaff he has hoisted a German helmet. Below is a German ensign. Then, decorated with crepe comes the Union Jack. "If this is what you want, vote Liberal," is the inscription. There are many protests at this indignity to the flag.

Stewart Lyon writes the press condemning the cry of "foreigner" used towards Hamar Greenwood in York. Concluding a dignified letter, Mr. Lyon says: 'There are two insults the colonial kinsman will not tolerate; one that their loyalty must be bought; the other that they are foreigners."

Electioneering in London is becoming still more turbulent. The Conservative candidate at Fulham had to watch a number of free fights before he could begin. Similar scenes were witnessed at a big Conservative meeting at St. Pancras division, where the hall was besieged by thousands. Even McNamara, in Camberwell, had a rowdy audience, though his opponents were distinctly in the minority. A suffragette endeavored to address the crowd, but, failing to make herself heard, she resorted to fistic arguments, much to its amusement.

Winston Churchill held a successful meeting at Birmingham, urging the Radicals in Chamberlain's stronghold to strike a blow for political freedom.

The Chancellor, continuing his western tour at Falmouth, said: "By all means treat with the colonies, but why them alone? The tradesman did not put a notice outside his shop, 'I'm going to trade only with relations.' If they began to introduce blood considerations in business, that blood would end in bad blood. If a Canadian wanted to buy goods, he did not say 'let us go to old mother's shop.'" Voice—"Yes, he does."

"No everything Canada could get cheaper from the States, she bought there. She did not pay more because things came from Britain, she would be a fool if she did. (Cheers.)

"Protection was like putting your arm into a cog wheel. Once in, it was drawn further and further. That is why there is distress in Germany."

The resources of the state were to be applied by the Liberals to the lifting of the poor out of the mire, and the needy from the dunghill.

Lloyd-George added that he made a gigantic provision in the budget for naval estimates in 1910.

Nineteen Conservatives are unopposed, including seven university representatives and seven Irish Unionists. Three-cornered fights number 62, the majority caused by the intention of the unofficial labor-socialist candidates.

Fatal Toboggan Ride.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—The first tobogganing fatality of the season occurred last evening on the park slide on the mountain, resulting in the death of Mrs. A. J. Corner and the serious injury of her daughter, Mrs. George Barrat.

Some boys, ascending the slide, allowed their toboggan to drop back into the slide where is was struck by one descending, on which were the two ladies and the younger woman's husband. The impact threw the descending toboggan from the slide, Mrs. Corner's skull being fractured. Mrs. Barrat was internally injured.

Young Rounder's Tragic Finish.

New York, Jan. 11.—Nathaniel F. Moore, who died suddenly of heart trouble following dissipation in Chicago Sunday, was one of New York's best known spenders and bon vivants. In the winter of 1907 he gave a $20,000 dinner at Rector's to a select few. Gold and diamond sleeve buttons were given to the guests. At a dinner given on his 21st birthday Moore gave away pearl necklaces.

Moore went west and began to hustle freight at $40 a month for the Rock Island to learn the railroad business.

Montreal Pastor Leaves for West.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—Rev. E. D. Reid Sunday evening announced to the Taylor Church that he had accepted the position of superintendent of Presbyterian missions for Alberta and would leave in a month. When he joined the Taylor Church there were 270 members and a deficit. Now there are 1,300 members and no debt, while $20,000 has been spent in improvements on the church.

Dearer Coal at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Jan. 11.—Coal dealers announce the probability of a shortage in the local supply during the winter, and have raised the price seventy cents per ton. Unexpected demand from the west has caused the shortage, though local consumption is much less than usual owing to the mild winter.

Indian Surrenders.

Cornwall, Jan. 11.—Alex. Thompson, an Indian, who on Dec. 27 stabbed his two brothers-in-law, Peter and Solomon Square, and who has been in hiding near Hogansburg, N.Y., has surrendered.

The suit of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Co. against the American Sugar Refining Co. to recover $30,000,000 damages, has ended by the court ordering a cash payment of $750,000 and the return of a note for $1,250,000.

The little Island of Manhatton, which the Dutch traders took over from the Indians for $25 in beads and trinkets, shows to-day a real estate valuation of $4,430,853,061, according to the tax assessment books.

At Dayton, Ohio, Dominick Allio, prominent among the Italian colony, was shot dead in a quarrel, and Tomaso Villella, the other participant, stabbed through and through, was found a little while later behind the house.

WHAT GOD WINKED AT

PASTOR RUSSELL PREACHES ON THE "DAY OF IGNORANCE."

Text: "The Times of This Ignorance God Winked at; But Now He Has Commanded All Men Everywhere to Repent; Because He Hath Appointed a Day In the Which He Will Judge the World by That Man Whom He Hath Ordained" (Acts xvii, 30).

Toronto, Canada, Jan. 9.—Pastor C. T. Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle, New York, preached twice here yesterday to large and very attentive audiences. We report one of his discourses from the text: "The times of this ignorance God winked at; but now He has commanded all men everywhere to repent; because He hath appointed a day in the which He will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained" Acts xvii, 30, 31). He said:

The word "winked" in our text is used in a figurative sense to signify that God took no notice of, paid no attention to, that long period of time from the flood to the First Advent of our Redeemer. During those twenty-five hundred years the world of mankind lay in ignorance and weakness and vice, but, as our text declares, God took no notice of it as a whole. He gave his attention entirely to the little nation of Israel, the descendants of Abraham, with whom he made a special Law Covenant. Israel entered upon a great schooling period; first in a condition of peonage in Egypt; and later, under the command of Moses, passing from Egypt to Canaan, with a wandering of forty years in the wilderness; still later under judges, and then under kings, etc. God did not wink at sin amongst the Israelites, whom he adopted as his "peculiar people" under the Law Covenant mediated by Moses. We read that every disobedience received a "just recompense of reward" (Hebrews ii, 2). Stripes, punishments, captivities, under Divine supervision and predicted through the prophets, was the portion of the chosen people of the Lord. Obedience on their part brought blessing and disobedience and idolatry brought chastisements—God winked at nothing as respects his chosen people.

At first glance this is perplexing. Not understanding the Divine Plan we would be inclined to expect that the favored nation would be excused more than others—that it would be the people whose imperfections would be winked at. But not so; Israel was chosen for a purpose. And in order to prepare them for their mission and to fit them to fill it, the Lord chastened and scourged them for their sins, and thus educated and assisted them more than others out of degradation. As a result, when our Lord came into the world to be man's Redeemer, Israel, under the chastising, scourging, instructing experiences of many centuries, was by far the most advanced nation in the world along religious lines.

Thus it was that when the Redeemer presented himself, some, "a remnant," were "Israelites indeed" and ready to receive him—five hundred during his earthly ministry and several thousand more at the following Pentecostal season. It is but reasonable to suppose that no other nation in the world would have furnished any such numbers ready of heart for Messiah, and consecrated fully to him. Note, for instance, that St. Paul's preaching to the Athenians on Mars Hill apparently touched not a single heart nor head.

The Almighty informs us that Justice is the very foundation of all of his dealings. He cannot be less than just, although through Christ he has provided to be more than just—that is, loving and merciful. There must have been a justice in this winking mentioned by the apostle. What was it?

The apostle explains that owing to a death sentence that was upon the world in general, and no provision having yet been made for a redemption from that death penalty and a resurrection deliverance, it would have been illogical for God to give laws to the world of mankind commanding repentance, etc. Why? Because they were already condemned to death, the extreme penalty of the Divine Law. No more could be done to them than destroy them, however badly they lived. And nothing that they could do would make them deserving of eternal life. So long as that death sentence rested upon them and no prospect was offered even of release from it, God let them alone, and justly enough "winked" at their imperfection and did not lay it specially to their charge.

With the Jew it was different. God instructed that nation through the Law and the prophets and the chastenings for their wrong doings, and thus prepared in them a "little flock" of "Israelites indeed" ready for spiritual things. Additionally he wished to use them and their experiences as types or lessons for Spiritual Israel yet future. These types, under the guidance of the holy Spirit through the New Testament, have constituted very helpful lessons to the Church of this Gospel Age—Spiritual Israel—"For the Law Covenant was a shadow of good things coming after it."

But before having this dealing with Israel, God made a Covenant with them, promising them life-eternal if they would obey. They gladly accepted the proposition and strove to live righteously, strove to keep the Law. They did not gain eternal life under the Law, because they could not keep it; not that the Law was defective, but that they, like all other members of Adam's fallen race, were imperfect. God knew of their weakness and allowed them to be disappointed in the outcome of their Covenant, but nevertheless he made it a great blessing to them—a means of instruction, which, as we have seen, ultimately prepared several thousand to be of so ripe a condition of heart as to be ready for the Saviour and become his disciples. The Jew then had this advantage over the Gentile up to that time. He had God's promises.

He knew the Law of God. He was profited by striving to do the impossible thing of keeping it perfectly. Had God not chosen the nation of Israel to bring them under the schooling processes of the Law Covenant (Galatians iii, 24) he would have "winked" at their ignorance, etc., as he did with the transgressions of other nations up to that time.

What is the secret of this change on God's part—from winking at the sins and imperfections of the world to commanding them to repent? If it was just to wink at their sins for thousands of years, why did not God continue to wink at them? The Apostle answers the question, telling us that this change in God's dealing which sent forth the message that the world should repent was based upon the fact that his eternal purposes had by that time reached the stage of development which justified such a message. The Son of God had left the glory of the Father which he had before the world was; he had humbled himself to become a man. As the man Christ Jesus he had been obedient to the Heavenly Father's wish and had laid down his life sacrificially — that it might first benefit consecrated believers during this Gospel Age; secondly that it might bless the world of mankind during the Millennial Age.

For a time these good tidings were confined to the Jewish nation, but three and a half years after the crucifixion the limit of Israel's favor respecting the message came to an end, and then the good tidings of great joy was permitted to go to all the Gentiles on the same terms that the Jews had enjoyed.

The Gospel or "good news" consists of the information that God in his mercy has provided that the death sentence upon Adam and his race shall not be perpetual; that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust; that the provision for this has already been made in and through the death of the Redeemer. Is it inquired what advantage would there be in a resurrection of the dead if therewith all were to be placed back just where they are at present? The answer is that there would be no advantage in such a resurrection. If the Jew could not keep the Law, and if the very best-intentioned of the Gentiles have found themselves to be imperfect and their efforts to stand approved before God in the present life to be failures, what good could result from merely awakening them from the sleep of death? Would it not be wiser and better everyway to let them perish like the brute beast?

We answer that God's Word reveals a very grand outcome to his Plan of Salvation. The word resurrection, as Scripturally used, signifies much more than to be merely reawakened. It signifies awakening and more—uplifting out of all sin and death conditions, up, up, up to perfection—to all that was lost by Father Adam and redeemed in the Calvary sacrifice.

This, then, is the meaning of the Apostle's argument. By providing the Lord Jesus Christ as the Redeemer of the Church and the world God has made possible a fresh trial or judgment for Adam and his race. Adam's first judgment or trial day was in Eden. There he lost everything by his disobedience and brought upon himself and all of his race Divine sentence to death. Christ has appeared that he might redeem Adam and his race, for the very purpose of giving them individually another full, fair trial of judgment for life everlasting or death everlasting.

That general judgment day mentioned by St. Paul in our text is neither a damnation day nor a twenty-four hour day. It is the thousand-year day of Christ—the period of his mediatorial reign, in the which Satan will be bound, all evil influences be removed, and the light of the knowledge of the glory of God be made to fill the whole earth. St. Peter reminds us, "Beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day with the Lord is as a thousand years" (II. Peter iii, 8). This is the key to the expressions, "The day of Christ," "The day of judgment," etc. The Millennial day will be a day of judgment or trial in the sense that all mankind, the living and the dead, will then be brought to full knowledge of God and to ful opportunity to regain by resurrection processes a complete uplift from all weaknesses, imperfections, etc., which have resulted from our share in Adam's sin and our own weakness and ignorance. Sins to the extent that they were willful will to the same extent be punishable and receive a "just recompense of reward" (Hebrews ii, 2). Every good endeavor will be rewarded and every shortcoming will be punished.

From this standpoint we see the force of the Apostle's argument, that it is the Divine intention to grant to every member of Adam's race another trial, another judgment, to determine afresh and individually the worthiness or unworthiness of each to have eternal life. But why should this fact make any difference to the world in the present life? Why did not God wait until the Millennial Age and give them all a surprise? Why did he send them the message of his love and a revelation of this knowledge of his future dealings? Did he not know what the past eighteen centuries has proven, namely, that few of mankind would have the "hearing ear," and that fewer still, after hearing, would so love righteousness and so hate iniquity, as to sacrifice the interests of the present life by espousing the Gospel message, repenting of sin, and seeking to live a saintly life, in opposition to all unrighteousness.

Yes, we answer, it is written, "Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world" (Acts xv, 18). God surely knew that the message of his grace would generally fall upon ears that were dull of hearing. That we might know this he caused it to be written in the prophecies in advance, that few would have the hearing ear for his message of love and mercy. Why, then, did he send the message? We answer that there were two reasons for his so doing.

(1) He intended that a witness should be given so that those comprehending would have an incentive to a reformation of life. He wished all to know that their responsibility in life would be proportionate to their knowledge of this fact of redemption (this principle is stated in the Scriptures by our Lord. He declares that he who knew not and was disobedient would be punished with fewer stripes and a lighter punishment for his transgressions, while those who knew better and sinned with deliberation would be punished with many stripes—in that Millennial day.

(2) Another reason for the promulgation of this good tidings of the Millennial Day of the Lord's Judgment is that God wishes to use this message as a primary lesson to do a primary work of instruction for a special class of "elect" characters, whom he is seeking in the present time before the inauguration of the Mediatorial Kingdom. He calls these his "jewels," the "Bride of Christ," his "members." This class is specially called out of the world now, in advance of the Millennium, that they may eventually be God's Royal Priesthood, or priestly kings, in association with their Redeemer. These, according to the Scriptures, are to be associate judges of the world with Christ. St Paul asks, 'Know ye not that the saints shall judge the world?" (I Corinthians vi, 2.) We do know it, thank God! And we know that they will be thoroughly competent for that work. Their experiences in the present life, in battling against the world and the flesh and the devil and coming off conquerors through the assistance of the great High Priest, will make them competent judges of the world; competent priests to assist and to bless the world; competent under-priests to govern the world from the Spirit plane.

To this special class I particularly address myself. I am glad to warn all men everywhere to repent, and glad also to give them the good reason why they should repent—to tell them of God's appointed time, the Millennial Epoch, in which all shall have a full opportunity of gaining eternal life through Christ. I am glad to assure them that every endeavor for righteousness put forth now will bring large returns of character development and better position then. I warn them that every willful transgression, all wilful ignorance, will react upon them to their disadvantage and make for shame and lasting contempt on their part, under the glorious sunlight of that Millennial day. It will search out and expose to all humanity their weaknesses, their sins, to the extent that these have been accepted or approved or have not been repented.

But as I said before, I trust that amongst the ten million readers reached by my sermons every week there are some who are of the saintly class, "called, chosen and faithful"—some of this jewel class, whose judgment or trial is in progress now. I trust that these are striving with might and main to make their calling and election sure through faith in the Redeemer's sacrifice and obedience to his Law of the Spirit of life—the Law of Love. Now is our judgment day, our day of testing or trial. We will not stand or fall as congregations and denominations or lodges or societies. Our testing is an individual one and nothing short of loyalty of heart to the Lord, to his Truth and to the brethren, will make us as the Lord's jewels, "heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ our Lord; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together" (Romans viii, 17). Such have my special sympathy, my special endeavors, my special love and my special prayers. And the prayers of all such I solicit on my part that I may continue faithful to the end of the journey and with you all hear the Master's precious words, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joys of thy Lord" (Matthew xxv, 21).

"Little Emma."

For nearly twenty years Miss Emma Lees has been employed in a casual capacity to deliver telegrams in the Waterhead district of Oldham. Any who imagine that Miss Lees cannot do her work as smartly and with such celerity as the trim postoffice messengers in uniform are very much mistaken. She is daily to be seen about the streets, and although now sixty-eight years of age, she is still very robust. "Little Emma," as she is locally termed, is very proud of her position and duties, and the people of Waterhead have always a kind word and a nod for her as she hurries by on her errands. Locally, Miss Lees is considered to be the only woman working in this capacity.

Dickens and His Titles.

Charles Dickens had great difficulty in choosing titles for his various publications. The following is a list of fourteen suggestions given by the author to his adviser, Foster, for the title of one book, out of which, need hardly be added, No. 6 was chosen: 1. According to Crocker. 2. Prove It. 3. Stubborn Things. 4. Mr. Grandgrind's Facts. 5. The Grindstone. 6. Hard Times. 7. Two and Two Are Four. 8. Something Tangible. 9. Our Hard Headed Friend. 10. Rust and Dust. 11. Simple Arithmetic. 12. A Matter of Calculation. 13. A Mere Matter of Figures. 14. The Grandgrind Philosophy.

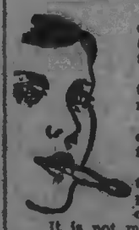
A Positive Cure for Deafness



A large proportion of all cases of impaired hearing and deafness is due to disease of the middle ear and Eustachian tubes, caused either by acute inflammation or chronic catarrh.

Nearly all these cases can be cured, or the progress of the disease arrested, by inflation of the ears through the nose and Eustachian tubes with medicated air.

A very safe and efficient means of accomplishing this end can be had by the use of Catarrhozone, a positive cure for catarrh in the most chronic form.

It is sure death to the microbic life which maintains the inflamed condition, and also through its healing properties restores the diseased organs to a healthy, normal condition.

It is not mere theory. The result of actual experience proves that ninety-nine cases in one hundred can be cured, and stay cured, of impaired hearing by the use of Catarrhozone.

Catarrhozone Cures

Catarrhozone is a new scientific remedy for all diseases of the nasal and respiratory passages caused by microbic life, and if you are affected with catarrh, asthma, or bronchitis, it is well deserving of your attention.

It never fails to cure any of these affections, because it is sure to reach the seat of the disease. That is why Catarrhozone is so far in advance of treatment by snuffs, washes, douches, etc., which are absolutely useless, because they cannot reach the root of the trouble.

You simply breathe the medicated air, it does the rest—nothing could be simpler. Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

TROUBLE EXPECTED

Russian Investigators Fear Japanese-German Alliance.

PREDICTS WAR IN 1912

M. Glesmer, In Report to the Russian Government, Declares That When Japan's Present Treaties Lapse In 1911 She Will Have Made a Dangerous Compact With Germany That Is Likely to Raise Fuss.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 10.—The most influential circles in Russia are again regarding the outlook in the Orient with the gravest concern. They are profoundly disturbed by the long confidential report prepared by M. Glesmer, a member of the industrial delegation in the council of the empire, who made a tour of investigation in Japan and Russia's eastern frontier territories.

M. Glesmer went to the Orient some time before Finance Minister Kakaftzeff for the purpose of acquiring independent information in case the Government should launch a policy involving the interests of the Russian business world. A report which he wrote for a small number of friends in the council of the empire and the Douma represented the situation as so dangerous that Premier Stolypin asked him to postpone its circulation until Foreign Minister Isvolsky could issue a reasoned note on the satisfactory state of the Russo-Japanese diplomatic relations, which was launched a fortnight ago.

The report of M. Glesmer, which comes from one of the most eminent and most successful business men of Russia, maintains the view that Japan is again bent on taking the aggressive. He says her economic position is perfectly sound. There will be no Japan loan in the coming year. She is reaping three harvests yearly. She has an annual food supply enough for 80,000,000 population, although she has only 55,000,000.

She is preparing a military transport organization of 200,000 rickshaws and coolies, which will be much more efficient than horse transports. The spirit of the people is still resolute.

M. Glesmer was present at a fire in Japan, where 20,000 houses were razed, yet he found that not one of the sufferers became a beggar or sought public help. He is convinced that the Japanese will use all their strength to drive Russia back from the Korean frontier. The Anglo-Japanese alliance will be of no avail to stop this.

Japanese statesmen are already turning their minds to an alliance with Germany. Their two young navies could co-operate on opposite sides of the world, the German fleet holding the English in European waters. The attitude taken by the United States, writes M. Glesmer will be a decisive factor. He believes that the American Government will adopt a passive role.

Given China's present position and the neutrality of America, an alliance between Japan and Germany would have such significance that it would change not only the political map of the orient, but also of Europe. Russia's position, he maintains, is very unfavorable, even critical. In order to maintain effective connection with her European base she must begin immediately to double track the Trans-Siberian Railroad, which will cost 176,000,000 rubles.

She must build a line through Russian territory to Chabarovsk, Blagoveshchensk and Nicolaievsk, which will require an additional 300,000 rubles. Russia, further, must build docks and fortresses on her Pacific coast and maintain there a garrison of 300,000 men. Japan's only present weakness is the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods and Japanese shipping. If the boycott is persisted in, M. Clesmer admits that Japan will be seriously crippled.

All of Japan's new works that have a strategical purpose will be ready in 1911, when several of her international and commercial treaties will lapse. It is urgent that Russia should have China on her side by 1912. M. Clesmer found from intercourse with the Japanese that the results of the last war with Russia were so inadequate that a new war would be very popular. The Japanese see no sense in awaiting further political conjunctures or the regeneration of China.

She is most likely to attack in 1912. It is important and relevant to the contents of M. Clesmer's confidential report that it is in The St. Petersburger Zeitung which has regular relations with the German embassy here, and not in the national Russian newspapers, it is first made public.

Could Not Sleep.

DOCTOR SAID HEART AND NERVES WERE RESPONSIBLE.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed.

Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted and causes nightmare, bad dreams, starting in the sleep, twitching of the muscles, restlessness, etc.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a specific for all people troubled in this way. They have a soothing and calming effect on the nerve system.

Mrs. Calvin Stark, Rosmore, Ont., writes:—"About two years ago I began to be troubled with a smothering sensation at night when I would lie down. I got so bad I could not sleep in the dark, and would have to sit up and rub my limbs, they would become so numb. My doctor said my heart and nerves were responsible. I saw Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised and got a box to try them. I took three boxes and can now lie down and sleep without the light burning and can rest well. I can recommend them highly to all nervous and run down women."

BREAKS DOWN IN COURT

Man Who Allowed Friends to Beat Him Into Insensibility to Steal $14,000 From Company Goes to Kingston This Week — May Be Used as Witness Against Flynn Who is Still in the U. S.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 10.—Before such a crowd as the dingy little Police Court here seldom sees, William Dobson, former cashier of the Canadian Express Co., who pleaded guilty with Purl Whistler to theft of $14,000 from the company, to which he confessed under heavy pressure on New Year's Eve, was sentenced by Police Magistrate Fraser to serve four years in Kingston, and Whistler was given a sentence of a year less.

Both men broke down under the blow, which, in view of their confessions and partial restitution, was more than they expected. Whistler was the more moved of the two, and seemed on the verge of collapse. "My poor mother, my poor mother," he sobbed as he was led from the court-room. Dobson, who allowed himself to be beaten into insensibility by his fellow conspirators to lend color to the stirring tale of robery, bore up better, although he was visibly moved.

The sentence of these two men lends a new color to the attitude of the Canadian authorities towards Chas. J. Flynn, who both say was the moving factor and master mind of the robbery.

Flynn, who lives at Niagara Falls, N.Y., was discharged in court at Lockport, N.Y., a few days ago because the Canadian police refused to let Dobson and Whistler cross the line to give evidence against Flynn, fearing difficulty in getting them back across the line. This difficulty is done away now that they are under sentence and as Flynn has failed to make restitution of his share of the profits, as he is said to have promised, hemay be re-arrested and the two sent across to give evidence at his trial.

Dobson and Whistler were sent to the Welland jail at 1.19, and from there will be taken to Kingston next week.

Scare Grows In Galt.

Galt, Jan. 10.—The dog scare is intensifying. Not a dog is to be seen on or about Main street to-day. Several valuable dogs were destroyed after being bitten by a mad cur.

The new dog-catcher is bringing in stray canines every day, and if it keeps up the dog population of Galt will be decimated.

Friday evening, on C.P.R. hill, a brown collie dog jumped into a sleigh and bit the driver. Constables and the dog-catcher are out on a hunt for the mad animal. The situation is about as serious as the smallpox scare was seven years ago.

Snead Is Missing.

St. Catharines, Jan. 10.—Fletcher W. Snead, the husband of Ossy Snead, the Jersey "bathtub" victim, who was discovered in this city some weeks ago, cannot be found.

Snead continued at work at the new Murray Hotel till the usual hour Friday night. Since that time no one has seen him. He did not report for work Saturday. His bedroom gave the appearance of not having been used the night before.

The New Jersey authorities have several times declared they do not want him, and had no intention of taking steps toward extradition.

Porte Kicks Again.

Constantinople, Jan. 10.—The Porte has addressed a note to the powers, protesting against an alleged new violation of the sovereign rights of the Sultan through the Cretan executive committee taking the oath of allegiance to King George, and the adoption of a resolution by the Cretan Assembly to introduce the Hellenic code of laws.

Subscribe to Defend Women.

London, Jan. 10.—Public interest in the murder trial of Mrs. Wesley Scott is so keen around Thorndale that when a subscription list was circulated among farmers, nearly enough money was volunteered to pay the expenses of the second trial, which starts on Monday before Chief Justice Meredith.

No Sunday Picture Theatres.

London, Jan. 10.—The London county council has decided that cinematograph shows shall not be opened on Sundays or Good Friday. An amendment by Rev. Stewart Headlam that, as the regulation would debar Jews from attending, the shows should be opened on six days of each week, was rejected.

Woman Dead From Poisoning.

Fairbury, Neb., Jan. 10.—Mrs. B. F. Kroeger is dead and nine members of the families of B. C. Kroeger and C. G. Drake, farmers near here, are ill from trichinae poisoning. More than a week ago the two families ate a quantity of raw pork sausage.

Killed In Runaway Accident.

Kingston, Jan. 10.—Thomas Featherstone, aged 70, Brandon, Man., visiting here, was fatally injured by a horse in a runaway throwing him upon a pavement and crushing in his skull.

Fire at Amherstburg.

Amherstburg, Ont., Jan. 10.—The Anglo-American Hotel, bowling alley and a house, all belonging to Jeremiah Mailloux, were burned to the ground early yesterday morning.

Explosion Kills Eight.

Dallas, Ore., Jan. 10.—The accidental explosion of dynamite on the line of the Oregon Trunk Railway, late Saturday killed eight laborers and injured several others.

Snow Shovelers Strike for Children.

Jamesville, Wis., Jan. 10.—Two hundred and twenty snow shovelers on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad struck Saturday for more pay and also ten cents a day at meal times.

WIDE VARIATIONS

Forecasts of British Election Results Widely Diverse.

THE PEERS HAVE FINISHED

The Lords Withdraw From Field a Week Before Polling, According to Ancient Custom—Duke of Devonshire Defends Hereditary Principle—Gets the Foreigner Four Ways, Says Lloyd-George.

London, Jan. 10.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The open nature of current opinion as to the result of the election is indicated by the forecasts in The Sunday Observer. The Unionists forecasts therein range from a majority of 90 for the Unionists to a majority of 16 for the Government. The Liberal forecasts range from a Government majority of 200 to an adverse majority of 8. All the prophesies are anonymous.

The peers concluded their campaign Saturday night, having delivered 250 speeches. The Duke of Norfolk had a lively reception at Brixton, a London district. He enquired if it was tariff reform or a strong navy or the Lords that the meeting objected to, and received the reply "The Lords." He answered that a great improvement might be introduced into the chamber.

The Duke of Devonshire, at Skipton West, Yorkshire, defended the hereditary principle.

Lords Stanhope and Mayo had noisy meetings at Southend and Hammersmith (two London districts) respectively.

The fiery Chancellor of the Exchequer visited Plymouth and claimed to be the greatest taxer of foreigners, who, he declared, paid the rates and taxes of Britain.

"We sold £317,000,000 worth to foreigners, not without making a profit, while, our shipping yielded £100,000,000 yearly, mostly paid by the foreigner. He got his taxes from this profit, so who paid?" Cries of "The foreigner."

Respecting the export of capital, Lloyd-George said: "We get at the foreigner in four ways; First, he pays good commission for its advance; second, it went in obtaining the goods for which it was exchanged; third, we get something for carrying the goods; fourth, we charged interest on things we got for ourselves. Thus we laid the world under tribute. There was no way of taxing the foreigner like free trade."

Austen Chamberlain addressed a great meeting at Birmingham and read a message from his father, who said, "Where Birmingham leads, all England will follow."

Winston Churchill, speaking at Leven, Fifeshire, on behalf of the Premier, made a strong anti-Lords' speech, maintaining they were played out and obsolete.

Sir Edward Grey, at Northampton, declared for a second chamber, unhereditary, representative and nonpartisan.

The seats polling on Saturday comprise 41 Liberals, 6 Labor, and 17 Unionists.

Colonial interest in the election campaign is shown by the publication by The Morning Post of a cable from over 300 Canadians supporting the candidature of Richard Jebb in East Marylebone.

Mr. Jebb's beliefs made him not acceptable to the Conservative Association, and it decided to refuse to endorse him and put into the field J. Boyton as the official party candidate. Jebb refused to leave the field and a three-cornered fight threatened to give victory to the Liberals.

The Toronto friends of Mr. Jebb cabled as follows:

"Please convey to Mr. Balfour our conviction that Richard Jebb's services to the empire and his invaluable first-hand knowledge make his presence in the Imperial Parliament most desirable."

Hon. G. W. Ross, Col. Denison, Hon. W. J. Hanna and many others signed the document, but it would seem the help has come too late, as the conciliation committee decided Friday night in favor of the claims of Mr. Boyton.

The Canadian Associated Press learns that Balfour feels more than usually hopeful of good results. His increased hopefulness is caused through the enthusiastic receptions he met with during several meetings last week. The Unionists hope to win a number of seats in Scotland, among which are South Aberdeen, Tradeston and Camlachie. In the last two are three-cornered contests.

The Liberals are equally confident and not only look forward to winning seats in Glasgow district, but also in the east of Scotland.

"Newspaper Advertising The Acme of Publicity"

"Advertising in Newspapers is the Acme of Publicity.

"The Newspaper reaches every home. It is the welcome guest EVENING OR MORNING and is sought and perused thoroughly by each member of the family who is old enough to read. The frequency with which columns of a Newspaper are scanned naturally impresses on the mind---almost indelibly---the matter contained therein which appears often as does the average advertisement.

"The character and general reputation of the publication is of vital importance. The character of the Newspaper, the estimation in which it is held, and the class among whom it circulates should be the points of inquiry, and should have the proper effect in reaching the decision as to which papers are to be used." FIGHT AT MINES.

Strikers Attack the Workers at Dominion Collieries.

Sydney, Jan. 10.—There was disorder at Dominion mine No. 6 Saturday morning, the company having decided a few days ago to reopen that colliery.

Men who returned to work have been daily molested and Saturday morning strike pickets, emboldened by the lack of adequate police protection, began to make things lively. The chief of police was on hand with a posse.

During the night electric light wires were cut by the strikers and Saturday morning as the police assembled at the colliery they were attacked by a strong force of pickets. Stones and other missiles were flying pretty freely, but the police met the assault firmly.

Five Englishmen and five Italians were arrested. The men were variously armed. The weapons seized included a shot gun, revolvers, razors, iron-bound clubs, pick handles, etc. One of the Italians carried a handkerchief in which he had tied a heavy stone to be used as a slung-shot. The man who had the gun had six shells in his pocket. Six guns were found among the crowd.

A prominent U. M. W leader stated Friday night that the strike would likely be officially called off within a month. Advantage will be taken of the change in the presidency of the company to bring the struggle to an end.

Mrs. Sarah Norton Dead.

Troy, N.Y., Jan. 10.—Mrs. Sarah F. Norton, one of the first exponents of women suffrage in America and widely known as one of the brilliant women of the country thirty or forty years ago, is dead.

She lost a small fortune through the panic of 1893 in New York, by the failure of an investment company and she lived on a small pension which came from her husband's services in the Union army.

She was an associate of Susan B. Anthony and a friend of Horace B. Greely and Henry Ward Beecher. Mrs. Norton was widely known as a lecturer. A note which she left pinned to the wall of her room said: "This is the end—friendlessness, dissolution and death. Let no one play the game of philanthropy who could desire peace and a peaceful end."

Mrs. Norton was 70 years of age, and was born in Ithaca, N.Y.

Practical Politics.

New York, Jan. 10.—Wm. E. Clark, who is suing Louis Stuyvesant Chandler for $20,000 alleged to be due him for engineering a boom for Chandler for the Democratic convention for President, testified Saturday that he got interviews praising Chandler from John Austin Fox, a life-long friend of Richard Croker; Big Tim Sullivan, John Wesley Haines, Chas. F. Murphy, and others, which he spread broadcast over the country. In corroboration he showed bills of clipping agencies.

When the Democratic state convention failed to endorse Chandler, Clark testified, he converted the defeat into a political asset by making it appear that Thos. F. Ryan and the Standard Oil interests had opposed Chandler.

Early Morning Orangeville Fire.

Orangeville, Jan. 10.— About three o'clock yesterday morning citizens were awakened by the loud ringing of the fire alarm. The office of the Dufferin Light & Power Co. was in flames. The office was a small frame building, built against the main power plant. The loss is somewhat serious, as the books were all burned, along with all accounts, just ready for distribution. Quite a supply of light fixtures were destroyed. A live wire from the main plant is blamed for the blaze.

Michigan Beet Sugar Crop.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 10.—The year just closed will establish a new record for the best sugar industry in the United States. It is too early to forecast the exact amount of the year's campaign, but the indications are that it will approximate 500,000 tons. The value of the sugar and the beet crop for feeding purposes is about $47,000,000.

There are 16 factories in operation in Michigan.

Fewer Idlers.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 10.—A decrease in idleness among organised wage-earners of the state is reported by the State Labor Department in its quarterly bulletin, made public yesterday, covering the months of July, August and September of 1908.

The Dazzling Searchlight.

On a dark night no warship would be safe from torpedo attack but for the searchlight. The full moon lights up a torpedo boat so that it can be fired at when nearly a mile away. To produce the same illumination with the most powerful artificial light an electric arc of 100,000 candle power placed three-quarters of a mile high would be needed if the aid of mirrors were not available. But with this light and an ingenious arrangement of mirrors it is possible to surpass the moon. Searchlights are now made which throw light a distance of sixty-three miles, but objects can be seen only a few miles from the source of the light. The effect on the enemy is most demoralizing. When the bright beam is suddenly thrown on the eye the pupil contracts violently; when the beam is removed the eye can see nothing. If this be repeated a few times it takes all the nerve out of a man, so that only the best trained and most courageous can continue the attack.—London Answers.

A Disappointing Witness.

Deacon Stephen Potter, one of the pioneers of Utica, N. Y., was a man of great eccentricity, but high moral character. "The deacon will speak the truth and shame the devil," was often said of him.

On one occasion a friend was engaged in a lawsuit in regard to some land a few miles from Utica. He held the land at a high price. During the trial he called Deacon Potter as a witness to prove how valuable the land was. The deacon was sworn and asked if he knew the land.

"Yes," he replied, "I know every foot of it."

"What do you think it worth, Mr. Potter?" was the next question.

The old man paused a moment and then said slowly, "If I had as many dollars—as my yoke of oxen—could draw—on a sled—on glaze ice—I vow—I would not give—a dollar an acre for it!"—Youth's Companion.

Flag Proportions.

In the United States flag the width of a stripe is invariably half the length in inches of the flag's longest measurement. For example, in a flag ten feet long the stripes should be five inches wide. Accordingly the flag would have a width of five feet five inches, or thirteen times five inches. The field should be of navy blue bunting measuring seven stripes deep and extending two-fifths across the length of the flag. There should be forty-six stars on the field, arranged in six rows, beginning with eight, the two middle rows having eight and the last row eight and the other rows seven. The size of the star at its widest measurement should be such that one-half of its own width will separate it from the next star. Flags may be made in all sizes, but the above proportions should be preserved.—Philadelphia Press.

Cat Exchange in Paris.

Paris has a cat exchange, a "bourse aux chats." This establishment is situated in a big chamber at the rear of a wineshop. Here are legions of cats of all sizes and colors, which are to be seen jumping and heard "miauling." It is said that the customers are by no means tender hearted old ladies, but for the most part furriers, glovemakers and cooks. A good sleek "matou" realizes from 2½ cents to 20 cents. The skin has a number of usages, and the flesh, according to the story, finds its way into the stewpans of certain restaurants possessing more enterprise than scruple.—Chicago Journal.

Catherine de' Medici.

Catherine de' Medici of France was a tall, dignified woman of striking personal appearance. Her manner was often cold and repulsive, her language haughty. She was never popular or well liked. Her features were regular, and the chief merit of her countenance was a full black eye that seemed to fascinate those on whom she looked.

New York's First Theater.

It was a quarter of a century before the signing of the American Declaration of Independence that the first theater was opened in New York.

Falling Leaves.

The falling of a leaf is caused by the formation of a thin layer of vegetable tissue at the point where the leaf stem joins the branch of the tree. After a leaf ceases to make starch and sugar for the tree this tissue begins to grow and actually cuts the leaf off. After a leaf has fallen the scar left in the end of each twig becomes entirely healed over.

The Chinese Plow.

A Chinese plow is a light affair, made of a crooked stick, with a steel point fastened to it, and is pulled by a water buffalo.

The Feminine Face.

A perfect feminine face should measure exactly five times the width of an eye across the cheek bones. The eye should be exactly two-thirds the width of the mouth and the length of the ear exactly twice that of the eye. The space between the eyes should be exactly the length of one eye.

Bank President's Error.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 10.—President U. C. Walker of the South Cleveland Banking Co., which made an assignment Thursday, following the appointment of a receiver for the Werner Co. of Akron, admitted yesterday that more than $500,000 was lent by the bank to the Werner Co. after Walker knew that the publishing house was on the verge of failure. Of the bank's total deposits of over $2,000,000, mostly the savings of small tradespeople and workingmen, $1,100,000 has been lent to the Werner Co., of which Walker was a director. About half this amount is secured.

The Werner Publishing Co. has for years been fighting the Typographical Union, by maintaining an open shop.

Quick Cure of Morphine Habit.

London, Jan. 10.—A London physician vouches for a cure of the morphine habit of ten years' duration by the infusion of dried leaves of a plant named combretum sundaicium, which is grown in the Malay Peninsula. He contends that a wineglassful of this taken every half hour daily for four weeks cured his patient.

The powers of this herb were discovered accidentally. Some Chinese coolies who were working in the forests of the Malay Peninsula ran short of tea. In its place they used combretum sundaicum. After two weeks it was discovered that the herb destroyed the taste for opium among certain of the party who were addicted to its use.

'Frisco Is For Fun of Coast.

San Francisco, Jan. 10.—P. B. McCarthy assumed the office of mayor Saturday. In his address he charged the late administration with hypocrisy and graft, and accused mayor, as well as supervisors, of winking at overcharges.

He declared that San Francisco was a pleasure resort for the entire coast and he proposed that visitors should enjoy themselves in any reputable way without hindrance.

He scored the police department and gave the names and addresses of about thirty clubs where gambling was carried on.

He said the Chinese should not be molested in their quarters.

Huge Dam on the Mississippi.

Keokuk, Iowa, Jan. 10.—It was announced yesterday that a syndicate of New York and Boston capitalists have undertaken to finance the erection of the second largest dam in the world to span the Mississippi River at this point. The estimated cost is $15,000,000. It is to be 37 feet high and 5,000 feet long and will be built seven feet deep into the solid rock of the river bottom.

The power plant to be erected on the Iowa side of the river will generate 200,000 horse-power and the dam will create a lake extending for 30 miles up the Mississippi.

Legislature Opens Jan. 25.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—It is officially announced that the Legislature of Ontario has been called to meet on Tuesday, January 25. The session will be inaugurated with the customary ceremonial, when his honor the Lieutenant-Governor will formally deliver the speech from the throne amid the annual scene of social brilliance and eclat. Thereafter the Parliamentarians will, figuratively speaking, doff their coats and get down to legislative work.

A Wine-Making Trust?

Rochester, N.Y., Jan. 10.—An effort is being made by financiers in New York City, according to reports received from the grape regions of western New York, to consolidate all of the champagne and wine-making establishments in the United States.

J. Pierpont Morgan, it is said, is at the head of the proposed combination.

Hurricane Damage in Canary Islands.

Las Palmas, Canary Island, Jan. 10.—A violent gale Friday devastated the entire island of Grand Canaria, destroying many houses and ruining banana and other crops. The damage is estimated at many million pesetas.

Grand Canaria lies in the centre of the group of the Canary Islands. It has an area of 650 square miles.

Girl's Snowball Kills Boy.

Newark, N.J., Jan. 10.—John McCann, 10 years old, is dead at his home as the result of a blow from a snowball thrown at him on New Year's Day by a small girl playmate. The lad was struck on the back of the neck and spinal meningitis suddenly set in.

Shackleton to Go South.

Berlin, Jan. 10.—Lieut. Ernest H. Shackleton announces that he has decided upon another Antarctic expedition. Shackleton has succeeded in getting nearer the South Pole than any other explorer.

Mangled by Circular Saw.

Welland, Jan. 7.—Ellerson Lambert was killed yesterday afternoon at his saw mill at Lowbanks, by being mangled by a circular saw. He leaves a wife and one child.

Doctor Ants.

Doctor ants do incredible cures—If they were not vouched for by Huber, Lubbock and others. They bathe and sun the sick, put them to bed and show more humanity than most folk.

Bank of Venice.

The Bank of Venice, the first establishment of the kind in Europe, was founded in 1171. It continued in existence without interruption until the overthrow of the republic in 1797 by the revolutionary army of France.

Red Grouse.

The female red grouse is said to vary its dress according to surroundings. It is a fact worth remembering that the red grouse occurs in no other part of the world but the British isles.

Substitute For Soap.

There are a few people to whose skins soap seems an irritant. They should use bran. The sons of one of the old kings of Holland were forbidden the use of soap. They were to use bran and a slice of lemon, the latter to remove ink stains. Napoleon never used soap, but kept his hands beautifully white by the use of bran.

Long Lives.

In Russia men have been known to live for 160 years, while cases have been chronicled of Arabs living through two whole centuries.

The Chinese Cavalry.

Each member of the Chinese cavalry receives the equivalent of about $4 a month, and out of this he is required to furnish fodder for his horse. In case of the death or disability of the animal he must supply a new one at his own expense. The Chinese cavalier is therefore very careful of his horse.

Gibraltar.

The rock of Gibraltar rises 1,439 feet from the sea.

Without a Ring.

A wedding without a ring seems incongruous, but in Cadiz, Spain, no ring is used. After the ceremony the bridegroom moves the flower in his bride's hair from left to right, for in various parts of Spain to wear a rose above your right ear is to proclaim yourself a wife. Thus the rose takes the place of the ring.

The Wild Duck.

No one has been able to give a satisfactory reason for the formation adopted by the wild duck or mallard in flight. The birds arrange themselves in two converging lines, like a huge V, the leader occupying the point.

A Gate Covered With Shoes.

The principal gateway of Allahabad is thickly studded with horseshoes of every size and make. There are hundreds of them nailed all over the great gates, doubtless the offering of many a wayfarer who has long since finished his earthly pilgrimage. The sacred gates of Somnath, in the fort of Agra, are similarly adorned.

Halibut.

In the beginning of the last century halibut emigrated to deeper and deeper water until they are now caught in depths of 150 to 350 fathoms in deep sea valleys.

Arab Music.

Arab music has been described as the singing of a prima donna who has ruptured her voice in trying to sing a duet with herself. Each note starts from somewhere between a sharp and a flat, but does not stop even there and splits up into four or more portions, of which no person can be expected to catch more than one at a time.

Recent Inventions.

In a new egg beater, the invention of a Connecticut man, the wire dasher is revolved by pulling alternately the ends of a string wound around a drum attached to the top of the dasher.

One of the newest automobile tires, a Pennsylvanian's invention, consists of a number of rubber blocks to be mounted in a steel channel and reversible, so that a new surface can replace a worn one.

A patent has been granted a Louisiana man on a plane in which the blade is replaced by a piece of sandpaper which may be adjusted or removed and replaced by a fresh piece by two knobs that screw into the base.

Had a Bad Cough For a Number of Years.

Was Afraid of Consumption.

Mrs. A. E. Brown, Ottawa, Ont., writes "I have had a very bad cough every winter for a number of years which I was afraid would turn into consumption. I tried a great many remedies but only received temporary relief until I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after taking two bottles my cough was cured. I am never without a bottle of Norway Pine Syrup."

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that when a person catches cold it must be attended to immediately or serious results may follow.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the foundation of all throat and lung complaints, relieving or curing all Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Asthma, Sore Throat, etc., and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

So great has been the success of this wonderful remedy it is only natural that numerous persons have tried to imitate it.

Don't be imposed upon but insist on getting "Dr. Wood's."

RULE NOT ENFORCED.

Jury at Bulman Inquest Lay Part of Blame on Conductor.

St. Catharines, Jan. 11.—The coroner's jury last night returned a verdict that George Bulman met death on New Year's afternoon by being struck and kicked on the head by William Bradley. The jury required 95 minutes to arrive at a verdict.

Two women, Mrs. Betty Jane Ethridge and Mrs. Emma A. Wills, gave important evidence. They had been standing near the corner of Disher and Merritt streets when the trolley, with the two men, stopped opposite lock 9. Both women swore they saw Bulman with outstretched hands, fall from the rear step of the trolley. Bradley then ran around from the rear of the car and kicked the deceased behind the left ear. None of the crowd of men offered any assistance to the injured man.

Mrs. Ethridge swore that when men pulled Bradley away he was very angry and endeavored to release himself, saying: "Let me get back at that ——"

Mrs. Sarah A. Wilson, wife of Reeve Wilson of Merritton, saw Bradley strike at some one while he was standing in rear of the trolley.

Mrs. Thomas Hastings, Reeve Wilson, John Dundas, Arthur W. McIntosh, Richard Common also declared they had seen but little of the fracas.

The jury, in their verdict, said they were of the opinion that "had the rules of the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Co., as regards disorderly conduct on the part of its passengers, been enforced, this regrettable happening might not have taken place."

Woman Lived as a Man.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—When William Dubois was sent down for vagrancy, he gave his age as 66, and unmarried. When he was led toward the bath he exhibited such objections that a second guard had to be called, and then appealed to the guards:

"My name is not William."

"Don't care ——."

"But it is Adeline."

The guards dropped the prisoner's arms and stared. Then they sent for the governor. He came, the matron was called, the prisoner was sent to the female jail. She had been working on a barge at the age of thirty, and found male attire more convenient. She adopted it, and now at the age of sixty-five she still wears it. She has been a street laborer for the past few years.

Hopes to Reduce Tax Rate.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—A reduction of the taxation rate, which is now eighteen mills and putting Sparks street wires underground, were advocated by Mayor Hopewell in his inaugural address yesterday morning.

He intimated that the readjustment of the relations between the city and the Government might enable the accomplishment of these two things.

One of the largest deficits on general account the city has ever had is shown in the annual financial statements issued by City Treasurer Ellis. The deficit amounts to $98,838. Total revenue on general account was $462,396, as against an expenditure of $560,631. For 1909 there was a small surplus.

Happy Guelph.

Guelph, Jan. 11.—At the final meeting of the 1909 council yesterday the city was found to have a surplus of nearly $1,000 on a 14 1-2 mill tax rate, although the city's share of the new winter fair building cost $35,000, or $5,000 above estimate, and this $35,000 was appropriated in preparation for the skating rink.

The municipal expenses of millrate ... to $1.50.

ACADEMY IS BURNED

Disastrous Blaze Which Destroys the St. Jean Baptiste Academy Results in Injuries Mere or Less Serious to Several Children—Fire Escape Was Choked With Ice and Many Had to Jump.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—A bad fire broke out at St. Jean Baptiste Academy for girls on the outskirts of Hull yesterday morning. It is a three-storey building and 250 children were in it when the fire broke out at 9.30. All rushed for the doors. The arrival of excited parents and others added to the confusion.

Some children could not get out at the doors and about twenty jumped from the top and second storey windows and were caught in blankets.

Several girls between 12 and 14 years of age were hurt, but it is thought all will recover.

The building, worth $40,000, was practically destroyed by the three-hours' fire.

There was only one fire escape and the children rushed to that. It was found choked with ice and snow and a panic ensued.

Marie Noel, aged 9, broken wrist and back dislocated; may die.

Miss Thievelerge, wrist probably fractured and injured internally.

Miss Turcotte, face cut by broken glass.

Edna Laurin, aged 11, broken limb.

Jean Ste. Charbonneau, broken wrist.

Alice Hanaux, aged 10, daughter of J. Hanaux, caretaker of school, internal injuries.

Eliza Leblanc, slight injuries.

Miss Lefebvre, slight injuries.

Two firemen hurt.

"At one time there was a pile of a dozen children or more, all unconscious, right under a window," said O. Deschenes, one of the rescuers, in describing the scene.

"It was the hardest sight I ever witnessed in my life. Little children were falling all around. When they fell on their backs, you could hear all the wind knocked out of their little bodies.

"Many of them lay there apparently lifeless. If they were not pulled out of the way other youngsters would jump on their unconscious forms."

Sturgeon Falls Fire Swept.

Sturgeon Falls, Jan. 11.—Fire which broke out in the Windsor Hotel, a four-storey building, Sunday night, did $75,000 damage, with small insurance. The baggage of the guests and part of the furniture and fixtures were saved from the hotel. The fire spread to the Cockburn block, a frame building adjoining, licking up the Cockburn Mercantile Co.'s store, the postoffice, and the town clerk's office, doing serious damage to the building and dry goods' store of H. Lefcovitz, also the Imperial Block across the street and the Kirkup Hotel.

The hotel loss is $25,000, half insured; Cockburn Block, $8,000; insurance half; J. D. Cockburn's store, loss $8,000, insurance $5,000.

There was considerable open looting of salvage.

Fire at Little Current.

Little Current, Jan. 11.—Yesterday morning at 4 o'clock, fire broke out in the Potter Building, occupied by Jos. Ellington, tailor, and E. Stephenson, jeweler. It quickly spread to the Mansion House, and on the other to B. H. Turner's store, telephone and telegraph office, P. C. Conlin's tailor shop and Kingsboro's hardware store. All are completely wiped out. Loss is over $50,000, mostly covered by insurance.

Preachers Unite In Attack on Stage.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 11.—Twelve leading preachers of all denominations on Sunday united in accusing the stage of placing nakedness and nudity as the chief drawing cards, of being the source of all forms of degeneracy.

Rev. H. Lichliter, a Methodist pastor, however, defended the stage as a modern institution, and denounced the "muckrackers, who seek notoriety, the preachers who have united in the wholesale condemnation of everything relating to the stage."

Failed to Convict.

Brockville, Jan. 11.—The crown has failed in its prosecution of John Whitford and Mrs. Rose Male for participation in the series of cottage robberies on the river front. Considerable loot was found in the possession of Whitford and the woman, but they claimed to have found it hidden in the trunk of a hollow tree.

Fire Chief Hall, in his report for 1909, states the fire losses at slightly over $7,000. Chief of Police Burke gives the number of arrests under 400.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur Ill.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—It is doubtful if the naval bill will be brought down on Wednesday, as Hon. Mr. Brodeur is confined to his bed. He had been ill last week, but ventured out on Saturday to meet a deputation. On Sunday the Minister had a slight hemorrhage and fainted twice, and is now in a weakened condition.

Refuses City's Aid.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—The finance committee of the Typhoid Emergency Hospital has refused its share of the city grant of $15,000 towards fighting typhoid. The city decided that it would pay one dollar a day per patient, although even the old-established hospitals find the care of patients run over $3.50 a day.

The committee holds that it was the work of the city in the first place, and they should have paid the whole cost. The funds of the hospital now amount to over $60,000.

Utica, N.Y., Jan. 11.—Early yesterday morning the farmhouse of Mrs. Joseph Burnham, in this county, was burned. The family escaped in their night clothes, but Mrs. Burnham's daughter, Eliza, returned to secure some covering for an invalid aunt, and was burned to death. The invalid is not expected to live, and the others are suffering severely from exposure.

An Elopement From Cornwall.

Cornwall, Jan. 11.—Camillio Grandette, an Italian, and a woman named Tyo decamped on Sunday, the woman leaving her husband and her Italian lover his wife and four young children. The woman drew $140 from the postoffice savings bank. It is understood they went to Toronto.

Lame Back, Bladder Misery and All Other Kidney Disorders Vanish.

Usually sufferers from backache, bladder trouble or out-of-order kidneys feel relieved after several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

Heroic Cure for Cancer.

New York, Jan. 11.—Dr. James Ewing, head pathologist of Cornell Medical College, and president of the American Society for Cancer Research, stated yesterday that experiments upon animals convinced him that science was on the eve of discovering a cure for cancer in the human body.

In speaking of the laboratory study of cancer at the Cornell Medical College, Dr. Ewing said:

"Many tests were made upon dogs, with the result that animals which had been suffering with malignant cancer were positively cured. The method pursued was to bleed a dog afflicted with the disease until it was nearly lifeless, then connect its veins with a healthy animal, and fill them with new blood. Some of the animals treated have been watched for over a year after the operation, but none showed any recrudescence of the disease.

"I see no particular reason why a man suffering from cancer should not be benefitted by the re-establishment of a new blood supply, as in a dog."

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firm—United States Markets Steady to Lower.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—London cables quote live cattle higher at 12c to 14c, dressed weight, Liverpool at 12c to 13¾c; refrigerator beef, at 9¼c to 9½c per pound.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 42 carloads, consisting of 889 cattle, 26 hogs, 409 sheep and lambs, with 12 calves.

Butchers.

We did not hear of any picked lots of prime cattle being sold as such, but several buyers stated that they were worth from $5.75 to $6; loads of good sold at $5.50 to $5.75; medium, $5 to $5.25; common, $4.50 to $4.90; cows, $3 to $4.60; canners, $1.50 to $2.

Milkers and Springers.

McDonald & Halligan topped the market for milch cows at $51 each. Prices ranged from $35 to $51 each.

Veal Calves.

The market for veal calves was strong at $3 to $7.25 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn, who was the heaviest buyer of sheep and lambs, reports the following: Sheep, ewes, $4.50 to $4.90; culls and rams, $3 to $3.50; lambs, $6.50 to $7. But selected lots, it will be seen, sold at higher prices. See sales given below, which shows that trade was good for sheep and lambs, with prices firmer.

Hogs.

Prices for hogs were again quoted higher. One buyer for a leading packing house informed The World that $8.40, f.o.b., cars.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, receipts for last week were 1675 cattle, 1,160 sheep and lambs, 2250 hogs and 250 calves. Supply this morning included 1000 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 1,000 hogs, and 125 calves.

For cattle, prices since last Monday show an advance of ¼c to ½c per lb, attributed to continued small supplies running below actual requirements of local consumption. There were no cattle on the market that could be classed as choice stock, or 6½c per pound would no doubt have been easily realized. There was a good enquiry from Quebec buyers, and they bought all the stock available. A fairly active trade was done with sales of best steers at 6c to 6¼c, and lower grades down to 3½c to 4c. Cattle for packers purposes held firm at 3½c to 4c, and supplies were none too plentiful.

Another important feature continues to be strong upward tendency for hogs, with a further advance of 25c to 40c per cwt. since this day last week, and every indication of a higher level before long. Prices to-day for selected lots ranged from $8.25 to $8.40 per cwt., weighed off cars, the highest on record, due to scarcity of supplies thruout the country. Demand was good for all offerings, but packers state that the present high prices will no doubt tend to curtail the consumption to some extent. A year ago to-day selected hogs were selling at $7.25 to $7.35.

For sheep and lambs prices were firmly maintained under a good demand and limited supplies. Lambs sold at 6½c to 7c, and sheep, at 4½c to 4½c per lb. In calves, with good demand sales were made at 4c to 6c per lb.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

In Trouble In Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11.—The detention home ended a sight-seeing trip of two young girls, said to be from Hamilton, Ont., who, during their stay here, were the guests of a man who bought $10,000 worth of "joy rides" and champagne in a month. The girls are Stella and Ruth Smith, aged 17 and 15. They were arrested Sunday night with two men who are now in the city prison, facing statutory charges. The girls told the police they came here under the protection of a friend of their father, and that this friend had inherited a small fortune. The fortune lasted just 30 days. Then the friend disappeared, leaving the girls penniless and at the mercy of the men arrested with them.

Good Lumbering In the East.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—Owing to a lack of good sledding, lumber operations in Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have been seriously retarded in the last six or eight weeks, and had it not been for the snow falls of the last few days, eastern Canada would in all probability have been confronted with a lumber famine next spring. A. H. Campbell, managing director of the Campbell Marine Lumber Co., stated yesterday that such a possible famine was now averted. The lumbering conditions in Quebec are now favorable, he stated.

Killed by Son's Death.

Brockville, Jan. 10.—It turns out that a fatality in the Winnipeg C.P.R. yards, whereby Charles Cavanagh, a switchman, was killed by a collision of the engines, resulted in a double tragedy. Upon receipt of the news, his aged father, John Cavanagh, dropped dead from heart failure. His mother also is seriously ill. The family are former residents of Brockville, removing from here to Winnipeg a few years ago. Charles Cavanagh was at one time on the Grand Trunk.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. PETER'S TOTAL ABSTINENCE SOCIETY WAS MOST SUCCESSFULLY CELEBRATED

An Eventful Occasion in the History of the T. A. S. Held at the Opera House Last Evening—Presentation of Purse of Gold to Rev Dr. O'Brien.

EXCELLENT ADDRESSES

Last night was the Scripture fulfilled in our sight. We are told on devine authority that "to him that truth shall be given" and worldly wisdom assures us proverbially that "nothing succeeds like success." Last night a great demonstration in the Opera House to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the institution of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society was of a piece with phenomenal success that has accompanied its cause for the past decade. The Opera House was literally packed by an audience in evident sympathy with the occasion and the interests it was intended to promote and emphasize. Upon the platform were seated the bishop of the diocese and the resident and visiting clergy of the parish, presiding officers of the society and a large array of the foremost citizens, who in the brief happy speeches made by them testified to the benefit derived in a material sense by them as large employers of labour for an organization, which promotes sobriety and equips men for giving the most valuable service. The moral element also received attention and tribute was paid to the work of the society in the way of personal regeneration and the improvement of home conditions. A feature of the evening was the universal recognition of the work of Rev. Dr. O'Brien, for ten years the spiritual adviser of the society. Nearly every speaker referred to this aspect of the work in addition to the formal recognition implied in a complimentary address accompanied by a purse of gold, which, however ferment the emotions of gratitude it aroused in Dr. O'Briens' heart must be as dross compared with the joy and thankfulness he must feel at the success that has been vouchsafed to the society for whose interests and the interests it represents he has wrought so faithfully, and the continued success the splendid spirit of the occasion forecast. The impromptu oratory was interspersed with the number of an excellent musical programme and the occasion of the founding of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society, was in every respect an unqualified success.

Extending across the drop curtain was a banner bearing the following inscription: "Palmam qui meruit ferat," St. Peter's T.A.S., organized Jan. 8th, 1900, 75 members, Jan. 8th, 1910 1,000

Those seated on the platform were Rev. Father McColl, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, Ald. Joseph Duffus, President of the T.A.S., His Worship Mayor Morrow, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, His Honour Judge Huycke, Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., Ex-Mayor Rush Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Rev. Father John O'Brien, of North Bay, Messrs, W. H. Denham, J. H. McClellan, Jas. Kendry, T. F. Matthews, D. O'Connell and Rev. Father McGuire, of Downeyville and Meehan, of Belleville and the twenty presidents that have had office since organization.

Chairman's Address.

Rev. Father McColl in his opening remarks said that they had gathered to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the founding of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society. He considered the occasion a very important one. St. Peter's T.A.S. was the largest So[illegible] in this city. Other c[illegible] population had no [illegible]. A statement was received from Mr. Peter Campbell, of the Bank of Toronto, showing an overdraft of $29,773.19 on Dec. 31st.

A writ received from O'Connell & Gordon in suit of George W. Hatton vs. City of Peterborough for $500 for damages to vehicle on Concession st.

Regarding the effect of the change to the ward system of election on the two year tenure of office, Ald. Turner believed that the six men elected a week ago would sit for two years each and one new alderman would be elected from each ward resulting in the council's complement in 1911, being eleven men. The six would then retire and only five would be elected, making the total of 10 aldermen, two from each ward, with five holding office two years and the other five but for one year. Mayor Morrow said that there was not overlapping as suggested by Ald. Turner. Two men have to be elected from each ward next January, five for two years and the other five but for 12 months.

Were Re-Appointed.

Dr. Burnham and Dr. McNulty were the retiring members of the Board of Health. Dr. Burnham was re-appointed on motion of Ald. Bradburn and Gillespie. For the other vacancy Ald. Graham and Metheral moved that Mr. Fred Bartlett be appointed and Ald. Buller and Turner nominated Dr. McNulty. The latter amendment was carried, and the Board of Health has no new faces for 1910.

Ald. Duncan enquired into what had been done in regard to the Hall or Nicholls building on Simcoe St. Ald. Bradburn, chairman of the Property Committee, last year, explained the situation, and on motion of Ald. Buller and Phelan, the Property Committee was asked to take up the disposal of the property and to report back to the Council.

Council then adjourned until next Monday night.

"The Royel Chef" Is To Visit Peterborough Saturday

"The Royal Chef" comes to the Grand Opera House next Saturday, Jan. 15, matinee and evening. It a musical comedy of much reputation and is constructed on comic opera lines, some of the music ranging from grand to the popular music hall style. Every number excellent and it is said to be brightly sung, while a great many laughs, out of the following are promised. The piece has been newly and brightly mounted for the coming season's tour and nearly all the principals who have worked conscientiously to assist the "Chef" to the prominence it possesses, through its lengthy runs in both New York and Chicago, will be in the company, while a few new personalities are brought forward to receive favour. Among them is Miss Ethel Balch who it is said has a fresh, pure voice and sings as if for the love of singing. She possesses a demure ingratiating manner that is declared charm and according to all reports has the acting style and a cultivated pronunciation as well. It is asserted by the management that Miss Balch is destined to become one of the favourites of the day. Besides good music all through the play, there is a story and a rational kind of prettiness in the pictorial display. Ben M. Jerome wrote the former and many of the numbers are richly hued and characteristic and possess an excellent swing. Geo. Stoddard and Chas. S. Taylor evolved the tale and lyrics. Of course Walter A Bohm is the jocose factor in the proceedings, his magnetism, facial play, dialect and vocalization fit him for the character of "Heinrich Lemphauser," the "Chef," as though to the manner born and the dramatic critics of other cities, are a unit in declaring his, a characterization par excellence. A comedy and well trained chorus and the piece de resistance of the 'Chef,' the famous original broilers, sixteen little singing and dancing beauties will be much in evidence. Taken all in all the writer, who has seen the play several times, casts his ballot with the majority in declaring the "Royal Chef" one of the best all around stage representations seen in many a day and one that will doubtless receive unusual attention from the playgoers of Peterborough during its engagement here.

Annual Meeting Of The 57th Regiment Band

The annual meeting of the 57th Regimental Band was held last night in the band hal lat the new armouries when the officers for the ensuing year were elected. The reports of the various officers showed conclusively that the year just closed was one of the most successful in the Band's history. Four paid soloists are now in the employ of the band and it is the intention of the management to add a set of chimes and tympanies to its equipment which is already pronounced by competent judges to be [illegible] if not superior to that of [illegible] city bands in the Dominion. The band's splendid new quarters in the armouries will also prove an incentive to increased effort towards efficiency on the part of the members. The new hall is said to be the finest in Canada and is being fitted up as a social club room. A billiard table, games of all kinds and the latest magazines and periodicals are being provided for the members.

The following officers were elected:

ANNUAL MEETING

Rev. Dr. Marsh Will Address the Astronomical Society To-night.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society will be held to-night in the chemical room of the Collegiate Institute. It is expected that there will be a large attendance present.

In addition to the election of officers Rev. Dr. Marsh will give a lecture on Stellar Evolution. He will endeavour to make the subject clear of technicalities. Thirty-five views of Jupiter taken by Prof. Lowell, of Lowell Observatory will be shown. In addition there will be four views of Halley's comet, taken at the Yerkes' Observatory.

LET THERE BE PEACE

The Examiner has received two letters upon matters arising out of the Local Option campaign. As this is for the present, a defunct issue, it seems undesirable to continue a controversy that can only arouse a bitterness that was, from a newspaper point of view, pretty well allayed by the comparatively dignified amenities exchanged by "Sobriety" and Rev. Mr. Pogue.

TO SPEAK ON INDIA

Miss Herdman Will Give an Address at Knox Church To-morrow Night.

The people of Knox church will have an unusual treat to-morrow evening at the mid-week service, when Miss Herdman, who has recently returned from India, will give an account of missionary work in that interesting land. It is expected that there will be a large attendance as the people of Knox Church will no doubt avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Miss Herdman.

CONVICTION SET ASIDE

George N. Graham Won Appeal on Magistrate Dumble's Judgment Wherein He Was Fined $200 for Illegal Liquor Selling.

JUDGE'S REMARKS

His Honour Judge Huycke gave judgment in favour of the appellant, Mr. G. N. Graham, setting aside the conviction made by Police Magistrate Dumble, who fined Graham $200 for the illegal sale of liquor.

The court resumed yesterday at 3.30 o'clock and it was 6.30 before judgment was given.

Ernie Lawrence was recalled. He did not remember ever seeing Maunder in the Oriental. Mr. Poussette asked him if he was there on the 21st. He did not think he was.

Two young men called said that they were at the Oriental in November. They remembered the Ottawa-Toronto rugby match. It was on a Saturday. The following Sunday night they were at the Oriental. They were in the Oriental in November but did not remember any particular night.

Jos. Stewart, license inspector, called for the defence, said that he never saw any illegal selling of liquor at the Oriental. To Mr. Poussette he said that he had received complaints about the Oriental. He had acted upon them, but had never found anything wrong.

In answer to a question from His Honour he said that whilst the police officers had watched this hotel for several nights he was never notified by them. If he had been he would certainly have acted.

John J. Maunder, Victor Fowler, Stenson, P. Carroll, Chris. Graham and L. O'Connor gave similar evidence as was given in the previous case.

Mr. G. N. Graham, called, made a complete denial of the policemen's statements.

P. C. Adams was called but His Honour ruled that he should not be heard in reference to whether Graham and Maunder went for a walk on Sunday night, and he stepped down.

Mr. Poussette argued that the conviction should be confirmed. He believed that in the two police officers' story there should be placed the greatest credit. He asked His Honour to dismiss from his mind anything that occurred in the previous cases, particularly the character evidence.

Mr. O'Connell in his remarks to His Honour reviewed the evidence in detail, laying particular stress on the fact that there was no corroboration of the policemen's story, and that policemen's evidence was always looked upon with considerable incredibility.

In justice to Chief Roszel, His Honour allowed him to go into the box and explain a statement made by Ernie Lawrence. He said that Lawrence met him in his office, and after the information charging him with having obtained liquor in the Oriental after hours had been read to him, Lawrence asked him how much was the fine. Chief Roszel told him from $3 to $10. Lawrence told him that he wouldn't tell a lie for $10 and admitted having received the liquor. They went to the Magistrate's office, and he pleaded guilty, paying a fine of $2.

His Honour in giving his judgment said that he had the Magistrate's decision on one side and that of the jury in the perjury case on the other. He was in a quandary. It was his intention however, to set both aside and deal with the evidence given before him. He was glad no character testimony was given. No good purpose was gained by an attack on witnesses. The onus of proof was on the complainants. While he was sympathetic with the police, at the same time their evidence must be taken as that of any other men. It transpired, he said, that these officers were watching this hotel for four nights in succession, hours at a time, utterly regardless that the other hotels were unwatched and that the streets were unpatrolled. From a citizen's standpoint His Honour thought that this was unfair. The inspector whose duty it was to see that the license law was enforced, should have been notified. The evidence of the police had been given intelligently. There were some discrepancies but these were not serious. However, he did not like P. C. Newhall saying the appellant had watchers. He believed, and it had been proven, that the cash register had not been worked. The onus of proof was on the respondent, and he was not satisfied with it. He, therefore, set the conviction aside.

HONOURED BY EMPLOYEES OF THE C. P. R. STATION

Mr. W. S. Campbell, Who is Leaving the Services of the Company After a Twelve Year Term, Was the Recipient of a Presentation.

APPRECIATIVE ADDRESS

A delightful event took place last evening at the C. P. R. station, when Mr. W. S. Campbell who has severed his connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway to take a position with the Canadian General Electric Company was honoured by the employees of the C.P.R., by being presented with a very handsome Morris' chair, while there was a lady's companion for Mrs. Campbell. The presentation was made by Mr. W. S. Dodd, while an appreciative address was read by Mr. W. R. Douglas.

Mr. Campbell first became attached to the employ of the C.P.R. on Oct. 10, 1898 and has been with the company continuously up to the first of this year. He was absent from Peterborough for one year as contracting freight agent at Hamilton but returned here in 1904 to take charge of the Peterborough freight office. He has always been most popular with the employees at the local station and his departure is regretted.

The address was read as follows:

We, the undersigned staff of the Freight Department of the C.P.R. at Peterborough cannot allow you to take your departure from our midst without expressing to you our thorough appreciation of the uniform courtesy and kindness we have experienced at your hands. In you the C.P.R. loses a most painstaking and efficient servant and a most considerate and kind hearted co-worker. In offering to you the accompanying small token of our esteem we beg you to accept them as a slight memento only of our pleasant associations in the C.P.R. Company's service at Peterborough for the past twelve years.

We also tender you and Mrs. Campbell our hearty good wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

Your sincere friends—
W. S. Dodd, I. E. Ivey, J. McDonald, W. R. Douglas, L. Fitzgerald, J. H. Carey, E. C. Howard, W. Flowers, J. W. Buyers, F. A. Thomas, E. Bowes, J. Milne, B. Scott, A. P. Jamieson, A. J. Edwards, N King, A. Barbeau, Geo. Spicer, A. Butcher, W. Buller, D. J. McDonald, T. Brown..

KIDNAPPING CASE

Considerable Excitement in Hamilton Over Police Court Affair.

Special to The Examiner.

Hamilton, Jan. 11.—An alleged kidnapping case which caused considerable excitement in the west end of the city Sunday afternoon, was aired in the police court this morning. Magistrate Jelfs characterizes as outrageous the methods employed by Mrs. Vaughan, of Michigan, formerly of this city, her mother, Mrs. Martha Wilson and an unknown man, to obtain possession of the five-year-old son of Mrs. Vaughan. The child's grandmother, Mrs. Wilson, was fined $20 for assault upon Mrs. Brock, his guardian, but the boy will remain with his mother.

OUTLAW IS SHOT

Notorious Cattle Thief Was Killed by a Mounted Policeman.

Special to The Examiner.

Moose Jaw, Jan. 11.—The most notorious outlaw and cattle thief of the west, a man known as "Dutch," was shot and killed by a Mounted Policeman at Muddy River, 60 miles south of here. "Dutch" killed the Policeman's horse before going down himself. He has been wanted by the authorities on both sides of the boundary for the last eight years, and has kept dodging back and forward continuously.

STELLAR EVOLUTION; OR HOW THE STARS COME TO BE

To-night Rev. Dr. Marsh, Springville, will deliver a lecture in the chemical room of the Collegiate Institute, on the subject, "Stellar Evolution; or How the Stars came to be." The lecture, which will be illustrated by lantern pictures, is the outcome of a good deal of study and will be of deep interest to those interested in astronomical matters learnedly and lucidly dealt with.

THE HEART A GREAT WORKER

What a wonder is the heart! Day and night it works away pumping tons of blood through the body and never tires or wears out so long as it is supplied with rich, red blood, such as is formed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. While sending supplies of nutrition to other parts of the body the heart renews and rebuilds its own wasted cells and so retains health and strength.

THREW CUSPIDOR AT PROPRIETOR'S HEAD

Nicholas Marochia became angry in a certain hotel and according to an account of the air grasped a heavy earthenware cuspidor and threw it with all his might at the head of the proprietor. Fortunately Marcochia was somewhat careless in his delivery and the cuspidor went a little wide, thereby saving that head from a bruise or a pain. In police court this morning he paid $6.50 for his rashness, when he appeared on a charge of being disorderly.

JEWELRY STORE TRANSFORMATION

Mr. Stanley C. Warne to Equip and Occupy the Entire Premises of the Warne Drug Co.

A growing young establishment in Peterborough that is well known to the purchasing public is that of Mr. Stanley C. Warne, jeweller. The new year finds the question of increased store premises forced upon both himself and the Warne Drug Co. As has already been noted, the drug store will be moved into the double store adjoining Richard Hall & Son, early next week. It has now been decided that as soon as the drug store moves out, Mr. Stanley Warne will inevitably proceed to fit it up for his own use, and convert the two stores into one handsome and spacious jewellery store, with facilities for conducting a modern business, second to none in the Province. In fact, no expense is to be spared to remodel the two stores into one elegant jewellery establishment of a character that will add distinction to Peterborough's splendid array of George street stores. The new show cases, wall racks, and silent salesmen will be of the most up-to-date patterns, and the remodelled premises will not fall short of being up to the Hall-mark of twentieth century enterprise and art.

HOW CROUP IS DREADED

If there is any warning use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and prevent the terrible struggle of the little one for breath. If you know anything of it till the struggle comes, cause the child to vomit and then use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine frequently in small doses to prevent repeated attacks. This great medicine is wonderfully effective in curing croup and bronchitis.

A RAILWAY REBUKE.

The outstanding position of eminence achieved by the Canadian Pacific Railway is a matter of pride to Canadians, a proof of Canadian enterprise and initiative, and of the traffic realities of its immense natural and national resources. It is a type of what can be done as well as of what is needed in the way of transportation facilities. Even with all its greatness of growth, its expansion, its increasing ramifications, it is yet as inadequate to meet the traffic demands of the country as it was ahead of them at the time of the completion of the first elements of its now great system. The Montreal Gazette, in a recent issue, prints some most interesting details of the equipment and agencies comprising what is somewhat vaguely and familiarly called the "C. P. R."

The Gazette says:

"Mileage increased to 10,048." With this simple phrase in announcing its earnings for the closing week of 1909, the Canadian Pacific made the fact known that it has grown to be by far the greatest railway on the American continent, and, with its steamship lines, the most far-reaching transportation company in the world. While the mileage of the big Canadian system is given as 10,048 this means its mileage in Canada, as the C. P. R. proper. When to this is added the mileage it owns and controls in the United States the mileage is increased to 15,000. Add to this ten thousand miles of ocean route on the Atlantic and Pacific and the mileage of the C. P. R. for regular service is 25,000 miles, or almost sufficient to girdle the earth at its widest line. Apart entirely from its owned or controlled lines, the Canadian Pacific has more mileage than any railway in the United States, its nearest neighbour being the Sante Fe, with 9,889 miles. Taking the whole system the Canadian Pacific has 15,000 miles of railway owned or controlled, the New York Central, 12,524, the Sante Fe, 10,235, the Great Northern, 7,905, and the Chicago & Northwestern, 9,687. The Canadian Pacific, therefore, in addition to being the only through line from ocean to ocean, is by several thousand miles bigger than any railway on the northern hemisphere.

When the Grand Trunk Pacific is completed it will probably be the nearest competitor to the C. P. R. At present the old Grand Trunk operates 5,343 miles, but when the G. T. P., with its branches, is completed it will comprise a total of 13,883 miles, or more than any railway in the United States can to-day boast of and the largest in the matter of Canadian mileage of any railway in the Dominion.

By that time the Canadian Pacific will also probably have added a good deal to its mileage. At the close of 1908 the C. P. R. had 9,844 miles in Canada, while at the close of 1909 it had 10,048, an increase during the year of 204 miles built. But during the same year it acquired the Wisconsin Central, and made that road a division of the Soo line, an addition of 1,550 miles, making the Soo a subsidiary C. P. R. line of 3,890 instead of 2,340 miles, so that the real increase of C. P. R. mileage for the year was some 1,760 miles.

Besides this the company has a steamboat route of 6,271 miles on the Pacific, between Vancouver and Hong Kong, and 2,773 on the Atlantic between Montreal and Liverpool, as well as considerable mileage on the Great Lakes and the British Columbia coast, making a sea mileage of well over 10,000 miles. This is a record which cannot be equalled by any transportation company in the world.

The foregoing figures are a magnificent rebuke to the tin-pot Canadian patriots, whom, like the poor, we always, and shall, probably always, have with us. These scoff at the idea of advance and with a record, staring them out of countenance, like that achieved by the Canadian Pacific Railway, whose growth and success are the measure of the attendant growth of Canada, have the temerity to assert that a second transcontinental railway is a superfluity—not needed in the interests of national development. A true-hearted warm-blooded Canadian, if he has faith as a grain of mustard, having in view the splendid precedent established by the Canadian Pacific Railway, does not for one moment doubt that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will in due time parallel and duplicate the record of the Canadian Pacific. It has an equally great territory to serve, and will assist in a development of similar importance. Nor will he doubt that the Canadian Northern, the third transcontinental railway, will grow into similar proportions of usefulness. We have the territory, we have the resources, and we must have the machinery to manufacture national magnitude. The tin-pot Canadian patriots, who would exploit Canadian resources without adequate transportation facilities would try to cultivate a thousand-acre farm with a garden trowel..

BANQUET REFORM.

Montreal Star.

A correspondent points out, very clearly, how public banquets have become an unmitigated nuisance and a frightful nightmare to many of the guests. He evidently knows what he is writing about. His complaints which are well founded, are that almost invariably public functions of this kind do not commence on scheduled time, and instead of dinner being served at 7.30 or 8 o'clock, there is an hour or more of tedious delay; that instead of there being a few bright, carefully-prepared speeches, with several unencored songs, the list of orators usually includes a score or more, some of whom are painful to listen to; and that everybody who gets up to respond to a toast is a "Jolly Good Fellow" and is greeted with time-worn songs intimating that he is a convivial individual, and drawing attention to the fact that he is a daisy, etc., etc., etc., with the result that the affair is prolonged until the early hours.

There is much of truth in all this. Banquets have become somewhat of a nuisance, because of the idea that every one present who wants to (or doesn't want to) talk should be given a chance, and that when he rises to speak, he should be told that he is a jolly good fellow.

There is no reason in the world, why public banquets should not commence at the advertised hour, and the participants be ready for home at midnight. There is less reason why one who is compelled by his position or by force of circumstances to be present should be bored to death in listening to prolix speakers, dwelling at unconscienceable length in not particularly interesting speeches.

Nor should the encore fiend who insists on the recall of the musicians and reciters be left unsquelched. A round of applause would be a happier greeting than that everlasting "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow"; and the inane "He's a Daisy" should be prohibited—even if he is one.

In some places in the United States the practice prevails o fthe toasts running concurrently with the courses, so that when the coffee is served, it's time for "Auld Lang Syne." The courses are served at intervals of about twenty minutes or less—by prearrangement with the kitchen—and prolix speakers, unless under special circumstances, are forced to cut their eloquence short.

We do not know how our post-dinner "orators" would take to this innovation. Anything, however, would be preferable to the present style of banquetting which makes what should be a pleasant, enjoyable evening something to be dreaded and shunned.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin, brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by Jury & McDermid; also Payne's Drug store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

BODY COVERED WITH ECZEMA

YET ZAM-BUK CURED HIM.

Mr. A M. Brooks, of Wellington St., Steelton, says:

"Ten months ago I contracted eczema, which at first appeared on my neck, later spreading to my chest and body. The doctor thought this was caused by the irritation of my shirt collar and the poison and steam from the pulp, as I was then employed at the Pulp Mill. I began doctoring, but instead of the disease being checked it showed signs of becoming worse; and my neck, chest, and my whole body was soon in a frightful condition. The skin actually peeled off, leaving the flesh raw.

"I suffered cruelly from the terrible itching and soreness, and was completely confined to the house. Not seeing or feeling any improvement, I next resorted to the ordinary salves and ointments recommended for skin diseases, but although I gave each preparation a fair trial, none seemed powerful enough to bring about a cure until I began using Zam-Buk.

"From the first application of Zam-Buk I had some relief, and as I persevered with its use daily the soreness was by degrees drawn out and the intense itching and aching completely vanished. Scabs or scales formed over the raw flesh, but Zam-Buk soon cleared away all these, and although the cure was naturally gradual, it was complete."

If you suffer from any skin disease don't make the above mistake, and try all sorts of things before Zam-Buk. Get Zam-Buk first! Eczema, ulcers, abscesses, poisoned wounds, cuts, cold sores, scalp sores, face eruptions, chaps, red, rough patches—all are healed and cured by Zam-Buk. Best balm for babies' rashes. All druggists and stores at 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

OUR MINERAL WEALTH.

Few Have Any Idea of the Growth In Recent Years.

The remark is often made that some day Canada will rival the United States as a mineral producer, but the fact is that it is already doing so. Although the subterranean wealth of the Dominion has probably been little more than merely tapped, the development of its mines has been so rapid that few people outside those immediately concerned have any idea of the extent of its mineral industries.

Amongst the greatest are the works of the Dominion Coal and Iron Co., near Sydney, C.B. There a population approaching 20,000 is dependent upon the raising of an output of coal exceeding four million tons annually, much of which is exported to Canadian and United States ports, whilst some has even been sent to Europe. A large portion of the output is, however, used to smelt iron ore which is brought to the furnaces from the shores of Newfoundland, on the opposite side of Cabot Straits. Not only so, but the resulting pig-iron, in very large quantities, is employed on the spot to produce finished steel rails, which are sent to the ends of the earth. These Sydney works are, indeed, amongst the largest of their kind in the world. Nor are they without rivals even in Canada; in the same vicinity there is another plant producing 100,000 tons of coal and 6,000 tons of steel monthly.

Elsewhere throughout the country immense iron deposits have recently been opened up, especially in Northern Ontario, where the Helen Mine, unknown a decade ago, has already an output exceeding one million tons yearly. In the same locality is the remarkable deposit of Moose Mountain, already one of the greatest mines of its kind in existence, although, only two or three years ago, the country about it was the resort of great herds of moose with whom the men who are engaged in locating the iron had sundry advantages; one being "treed" by a particularly savage bull for twenty-four hours.

Canada now produces a very large proportion of the world's supply of nickel, chiefly from mines in the neighborhood of Sudbury, Ont. The metal is found in an ore which contains also a considerable proportion of copper, and it was copper that was being searched for when the prospectors chanced upon the other metal. That was less than twenty years ago, but in those days there was little demand for nickel, and a deal of valuable material was thrown aside as unsaleable. The case was entirely altered when its value as a steel alloy was discovered in the closing years of last century, and now 1,000 tons daily of the mixed nickel and copper ore is being smelted at Sudbury, where over 10,000 tons of pure nickel are produced yearly in addition to an immense quantity of copper. In most of the mines the ore has been followed down to considerable depths, but there is one spot where it is wrought opencast as a quarry from which a tremendous amount of wealth has already been taken.

One of the most interesting mineral products of the Dominion is asbestos, of which almost three-fourths of the world's output comes from mines in the neighborhood of Thetford, Que. It is strange stuff which has to be extracted from its matrix with peculiar care by specially-designed machinery, but the longest and strongest fibre is worth anything up to 15c. per lb., and until some other deposits are located in Canada or elsewhere Thetford practically controls the world's market for it.

Lead is a metal in which Canada is exceptionally rich. At present the chief lead mines are near Moyle, Alberta, which produce something like 20,000 tons yearly. Canada's total production of the heavy metal is already considerably in excess of that of Great Britain and Ireland, and is sufficient to place her second amongst lead-producing countries within the British Empire, and sixth amongst those throughout the world.

There is, however, more money in the silver which is often associated with lead then in lead alone, and Canada has recently been proved to be exceptionally rich in silver, especially in the Cobalt district. To what extent its production will remunerate the workers, if the output goes on increasing in the ratio which it has attained during the last year or two is, however, rather doubtful.

Of mineral products which the Dominion, so far, lacks, tin is one and petroleum, comparatively speaking, is another. The former has been located here and there, but not in quantities sufficient to make it of importance. That there is abundance of oil is well known, but that, for one reason or another, it has not been developed to any considerable extent is shown by the circumstances that, during the last year for which figures are available, the Dominion's output of it was only 77,000 tons, against 16,000,000 tons in the United States, and 8,000,000 tons in Russia. This, however, only serves to indicate the chances which Canada offers to the prospector after minerals, for which not a tithe of its extent has been thoroughly explored.

Drew Smallest Check.

A. Mousseau, a Windsor grocer, thinks he holds the championship for drawing the smallest check handled in legitimate business transaction.

He had been burning natural gas just a short time before his meter was read, and was presented with a bill for 21-2 cents, for which amount he drew a check in payment.

For fear the bank clerks might mistake the amount for $2.50, he took precaution to call up the bank and give warning, saying he would stand for his account being debited three cents, but no more.

Brothers Die In the Same Way.

Mr. John W. Pritchard, a well-known citizen of London, died suddenly in his chair in the smoking-room at 11 o'clock the other day. The strange feature of the case was that his brother three years ago died in the same chair, in the same room, and at the same hour, and both causes heart disease.

The Cap Fitted.

A paper in a good-sized town in Ontario recently published this item: "The business man of this town who is in the habit of hugging his typewriter had better quit or we will publish his name." Next day thirty-seven business men called at the office, paid up their subscriptions and left behind them thirty-seven columns of advertising and told the editor not to pay any attention to foolish stories.

NASAL CATARRH

Wm. Madill Sells the Great Remedy That Cured B. W. Squires.

Here is a very simple yet wholly sincere statement of a Norwood, Ont., man who was cured by using Hyomei—the no cure no pay remedy for catarrh, asthma, hay fever, croup, coughs and colds.

"I feel that I can conscientiously recommend Hyomei for the reason that I had suffered for years with catarrh and nothing ever gave me the same relief as Hyomei. There was a constant huskiness in my throat, pains across my eyes were almost conatant and at times there was much difficulty in breathing. The glands were swollen, causing a soreness and stiffness in my neck. I cannot speak too highly of Hyomei and there is nothing that will give quicker relief for catarrh."—B. W. Squires, Norwood, Ont.

Thousands of just such letters are in existence, and thousands more would be but for the desire to avoid publicity.

If you have catarrh, bestir yourself, and drive it out of your system. Kill the germs. You can do that easily if you use Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me).

It is a dry antiseptic and very pleasant air, that when inhaled, quickly relieves all forms of catarrhal inflammation, stops snuffles, hawking and blowing. The price for a complete outfit, including inhaler, is only $1.00 at Wm. Madill's.

MI-O-NA Cures Dyspepsia.

UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

HARD LUCK

Things never seem to come my wty, and so I'm sick and sorry. I asked a friend of mine, to-day, to sing me "Annie Laurie"; for I was tired, and sick at heart, and feeling lone and looney, and so he pried his face apart, and sang me "Annie Rooney." 'Twas always thus since childhood's hour, I always miss connections, for me the cream is always sour, and mouldy the confections; when I would gaily guy my frau, her temper has a cross edge; the butter never knew a cow, there's whiskers on the sausage. Last night I couldn't sleep a wink, for thoughts of ghost and bogey; I said I'll rise and get a drink, and smoke a cabbage stogie." I tramped across the silent shack to find the measley slipper, and stepped upan a carpet tack—I wore no shoe or slipper; and when I fell o'er seven chairs, and nearly spoiled my smeller, and thundered down a flight of stairs, and landed in the cellar. The neighbours heard the frightful noise and came cavorting over, a hundred idiots and boys, including Old Dog Rover. "Well, are you hurt?" the sillies cried; it made my anger smoulder; "I do too slowly." I replied, "please hit me with a boulder."

THE LATEST NEWS OF SPORT — TOLD IN BRIEF FORM

Collegiate Win First Beat The Colts 5 To 3

First Junior Game in This District Showed That There is Little to Choose Between the Two Fast Local Teams Students Had More Team Work and Gained a Margin in the First Half--Colts Had Better of the Showing in the Second Period.

Only two goals separated the Collegiate Institute and the Peterborough Juniors in the first junior O. H. A. game of the season at Brock St. Rink last night and the two count lead was held by the Collegians, who skated off the ice winners by 5 goals to 3, after about as interesting a game of hockey as two well-matched teams of youngsters ever put up. At the halfway house the Central Park Education Brigade were 2 to 0 to the good, and they just managed to hold that lead until the finish, scoring goal for goal with the Colts in the second half.

The score indicates a close game, and it was, for outside of better team work on the part of the students, there was literally nothing to choose between the two teams. The Collegiate advance guard broke away together and worked in on the nets with a system that was lacking in the Cubs' attack, but in no other particular had they anything on the Pete Juniors. The two teams are made up of fast hard-working kids, who never let up for a second and who expend every ounce that is in them to win out. However, the Colts' efforts in the scoring line, in the first half, were decidedly ineffectual, solely because the man carrying the puck was allowed to charge down upon the Collegiate defence absolutely unprotected, and unassisted, and the result was that he was skated into the corner or forced to shoot from outside. There was no one there for a pass or to hammer in on a rebound, and consequently the Cubs' side of the score board was unmarked at the breathing station.

On the other hand the Students worked down with flashes of combination that enabled them to get in close for their shots and this is where they gained their margin. Not that they were tearing off a regular series of combined runs. They could not do this because for the most part the Petes line were back on them like a flash, smothering up the attack and aided by great defence work on the part of Heffernan, Munro and Halpin were turning back their swift advances in great style. However, the Students did work their way away from their checks and get going and when they did their team work won for them a passage to the goal and a chance to shoot.

In the second half the Colts profited by their experience in the first period, and they, too, b egan a passing game that soon changed the complexion of affairs. With the grey shirts getting away together and passing the Students found that the going was not nearly so easy as in the first half and from then on to the end of the piece it was about as close as the atmosphere on a sultry June day.

It was a series of end to end rushes with both goals in danger, and the result in doubt until the finish. The teams alternated in scoring, each getting three counters. As fast as the Cubs scored the Collegians would come back at them with another counter, and the Petes could not quite get up.

It was not faultless hockey by any means, especially in the first half, but it was always hard and interesting. Early in the struggle the players on both sides were too anxious, and bunched too much, but they held their positions better in the second period, and the hockey was consequently more open and interesting. It was not any too clean at the opening. There was nothing vicious in the tactics used, but the players started out to slash and trip. Referee Bill Rose was, however, always master of the situation, and kept weeding out the disturbers until the players realized that they had to play clean, and, after that there was no trouble. Burritt, at centre, for the Collegians, was the star of the winners. The midget centre man was always steaming down in mid-ice, straight for the net's mouth, and his skating and stick-handling were only secondary to the deadly accuracy of his shooting. He scored four of the Collegiate team's goals, and was always in the thick of the fray. Matthews, at left wing, earned his place on the team by his unceasingly consistent and hard work. He was checking the Peterborough captain and despite that handicap made a fine showing, which should result in his being awarded the left wing situation permanently. Crane was watched too closely to be as effective as usual. Dennison was the best of the defence men.

For the Juniors the features were the grand goal-keeping of Halpin, the checking and rushing and all-round good work of Heffernan, at cover point and the stick handling and checking back of Captain Bill Short, especially in the second half. Heffernan looks like the find of the season on his playing last night.

A fairly large crowd, the majority of which were Collegiate students, saw the game. There were three other games scheduled between the two teams and they should be productive of some fine hockey.

The teams were as follows:

The play was fast and furious from the start with both teams going at full speed. The Cubs rushed but Dennison took care of the jaunt and the rubber travelled back to the Petes' goal where Halpin was called upon to take care of a hot shot which he did in great style. Heffernan relieved with a rush but was checked at centre and the Students broke away three in a line. They swept around the Collegiate defence and Burritt taking a neat pass from Crane, bored right in on the nets and slipped one past Halpin neatly. Time 3 mins.

Heffernan was on the fence for a time for tripping Dennison. Soon after Conroy drew a penalty for tripping and Hall followed shortly after for the same offence. The game at this stage was fast and hard, but not too clean, while the players bunched too much to play the best hockey. The Petes were going down on the Collegiate defence one at a time and could not get through on the solo stunt, while on the other hand the flashes of combination play that on-Kennerites came back at them with ly the stubborn back checking of the Colts and the good goal keeping of Halpin kept from resulting in tallies. Heffernan and Munro on the Colts' defence were wading into the Collegiate in good style and it was nip and tuck with the Students pressing, but the Cubs holding them off well. Burritt got clean through, but Short followed him back like a flash and spoiled his shot. Conroy was penalized for slashing and then Munro took a one-handed slash at a Collegiate play and went the way of the other transgressors. After they were back Dennison and Hall were sent away for mixing it up and Heffernan went next, followed by Crane, leaving the teams five aside and both outfits working under a full head of speed. Finally after fifteen minutes hard playing Burritt slammed one past Halpin on a pass from the corner by Matthews. Score Collegiate 2, Colts 0.

The figures remained at this level until half time. Just before the gong sounded the door of the penalty box swung up and Giroux and Geale tripped over it, both being badly shaken up.

The quality of hockey was noticeably better in the second half. The Cubs started out a man short, Giroux having been penalized just as the bell sounded. The Cubs had shifted, their line-up, sending Pratt to rover and Giroux to left wing and the change worked better. They were coming up together better and had if anything a little better of the going. They came along with many dangerous rushes until finally Short and Hall broke away from centre and on a nice piece of combination Short took a pass from Hall at close range and dinted the curtains.. Score Collegiate 2, Colts 1.

The Colts were coming strong on this stage and Hall broke away and was boring in on an unprotected goal when Burritt tripped him and was sent away. Playing six men to seven the Petes pressed but could not score again until Burritt climbed back. Then the Students rushed nicely and Matthews shoved one through in a scrimmage. Score Collegiate 3, Petes 1.

The play was remarkably even at this stage. Crane was penalized for tripping and while he was off Hall and Short rushed nicely, the latter scoring from close in. Score Collegiate 3, Colts 2.

Only a goal behind and pressing hard the Colts looked good, but the Collegians rallied and forced them back. It was up and down hockey with neither side having much on the other until finally after seven minutes' going Burritt secured the puck on centre and slipping through the Petes' defence on a nice individual rush, beat Halpin at close range.

Score Collegiate 4, Petes 2.

Nothing daunted however. The Colts came back and once more stormed the Collegiate citadel. Giroux missed the post by an inch and then Short found the nets on a neat shot and once more the young Petes were but one goal down. Score Collegiate 4, Colts 3.

It looked like a tie score a moment when Short and Hall got clean through the Collegiate defence. Short handed it to Hall in front of the nets and although the Cubs' centre went right in and took lots of time his shot hit the post. It was a golden opportunity lost, for the Collegiates rushed and an offside near the Colts' goal gave Burritt a chance to score again from the face-off and the Cubs were beaten, as time was called before they had any opportunity to get back what they had lost.

The summary follows:

1 Collegiate, Burritt 3 mins.
2 Collegiate, Burritt 15 mins.

Half time.

3 Peterborough, Short 6.30 mins.
4 Collegiate, Matthews 4 mins.
5 Peterborough, Short, 4.30 minutes.
6 Collegiate, Burritt 7 mins.
7 Peterborough, Short 3 mins.
8 Collegiate Burritt2 mins.

Penalties—First half, Collegiate, Conroy 2, Dennison, Crane.

Peterborough—Pratt, Giroux, Munro, Hall 2, Heffernan.

Second half—Collegiate, Burritt, Crane.

Peterborough, Munro.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Baby-Saving organizations have been springing up everywhere like the cockleshells in Mary Contrary's garden. Isn't it about time now that second childhood received some consideration."

I saw that query in a magazine the other day and heartily approved of it, only—before second childhood gets its share I want to put in a word for another class—the least considered folk of all, I think—the middle-aged people.

Childhood and youth are always in the limelight because of their happiness and their romantic quality. And old age gets more or less into the limelight by reason of its infirmities, if in no other way, but the middle-aged folk—the people who are neither romantically old nor romantically young—they seem to be perpetually cast for the parts of scene shifters or at best of chorus and supers.

And I think it's a shame and a stinging reproach on the younger generation, to whose selfishness the eternal colourlessness of their elders' lives is usually due.

A woman came to see me the other day with some manuscript that she wanted me to look over.

She has written more or less in a small way for years, and I know that her literary attempts represent to her romance-loving heart the one element of personal romance in a life mostly devoted to her children, of whom she has two grown up daughters.

"And what do Alice and Edna think of the article?" I asked as I handed the manuscript back to her.

A look of terror came into her eyes and her hands actually trembled as she reached for the papers.

"Oh, please, don't say anything about it to them," she pleaded. "They don't know anything about it. They don't approve of my writing. They think it is all nonsense anyone as old as I trying to write. You won't say anything to them, will you?"

Of course I reassured her, but I should have very much liked to have said something about it to them.

And the something would have been a vigorous expression of my opinion of their lack of sympathy with their mother's attempt to have a little life apart from theirs.

One day when I was at a suffrage meeting a woman told me of a neighbour who would like to come, but doesn't dare to, because her daughter disapproves so of the meetings."

A young girl also said that her mother disapproved, but how little difference that made was evidenced by the fact that she was there.

The way the younger generation insists upon dominating the lives of the older people is positively wicked.

They expect perpetual sympathy and interest to be shown in all their projects and pleasures, but it apparently never occurs to them to repay in kind.

Because your father and mother are fifty or fifty-five or sixty does not mean that they have passed the age when they would enjoy being in the limelight of your interest occasionally instead of perpetually furnishing the limelight for you.

Did that ever occur to you, my young friends?

Ruth Cameron

TWO GOLDEN WEDDINGS

That Form Rather Striking Incidents, Such as are of Rare Occurrence.

There seems to be a rather remarkable connection between the two "golden" wedding anniversaries noted by the Examiner last week. The fiftieth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. C. Barnard, 540 Bethune St., was celebrated last Wednesday, January 5th, and that of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Head, 179 Dublin St., was celebrated on Thursday, January 6th. It has been learned that both couples were married at the same parsonage (Methodist) and with only one day between the respective events. It is also pointed out, that, after fifty long years, both couples have lived to find themselves celebrating their "golden" weddings in the same city and within only a few blocks of each other. As has already been stated Mr. and Mrs. Barnard reside on Bethune St., and Mr. and Mrs. Head on Dublin St

Funeral of Late George Long Held Yesterday—Rev. Dr. Langfeldt's Remarks.

The funeral of the late George Long took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It was largely attended, many sorrowing friends turning out to pay their last token of respect to the memory of the deceased. In the morning a private service was held at the house for the family. The cortege proceeded to St. Luke's church. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, assisted by Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., lay reader.

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, in addressing the mourners, based his remarks on the text, "Be ye therefore ready, for in such an hour as ye know not, the son of man cometh." After mentioning the coming of Christ in humility at His birth, then His coming in the history of nations, he spoke of His coming to the individuals by sending the summons to death. He urged all to be ready. This life, he said, being given as a preparation time for the life to come.

The deceased, the rector remarked, little thought that a week ago last Sunday, as he sat in his pew in church, that he would last Sunday be on the bier. No one knew the nearness of death. The late Mr. Long was a faithful attendant at church and was most generous in its support. He was seldom absent at its services and brought up his family to be devoted members of their church. He was a loving father and an affectionate husband. Three characteristics of the deceased were his charity, generosity, and kindness. He professed Christ by his regular attendance in God's House, and his life was worthy of emulation. He extended sympathy to the bereaved family and commended them to a loving God.

As the corpse was leaving the church the nunc dimitis was sung. The pall-bearers were Messrs. R. J. Munro, C. R. Nixon, Jas. Tighe, J. Stewart, John McDonald and John Mervin. Many beautiful floral tributes were received.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. PETER'S T.A.S. MOST FITTINGLY CELEBRATED LAST NIGHT

months. However, he could speak as one who had never taken a drink of liquor in his life.

In the beginning of the year 1900, he stated that the clergy of Peterborough felt it incumbent on them to do something in the cause of temperance. Through the guidance of Rev. Father Sullivan the Society was organized, with a membership of seventy-five. It struggled along, overcoming many hardships. In May of the same year, Father Sullivan found it necessary on account of illness to resign the office of chaplain. Dr. O'Brien was appointed to his place, and the speaker remarked, his name would be written in the pages of history through the good he had done in uplifting men. The organization had reached past the one thousand mark and was known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Ald. Duffus was of the opinion that intemperance was one of the greatest vices and nothing better could be done than to save men from it. The T. A. S. was a power in the community and a credit to those who founded it and worked so unceasingly for it. He hoped it would continue to grow and that at the twentieth anniversary the two thousand mark would be reached.

A telegram of regret at his inability to be present was read from Rev. Father Sullivan, of Port Hope, the founder of the society. He sent the members and especially those of the old guard his most hearty congratulations.

Presentation to Dr. O'Brien.

On behalf of the society an address was read by Mr. Jos. Maher, and the presentation was made by Mr. Jas. Picard to Rev. Dr. O'Brien. The address was as follows:

Reverend M. J. O'Brien, D.D., Pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Peterborough, Ont.—

On this auspicious occasion we desire to give some expression—though in a feeble way perhaps—of our esteem for you, and of our recognition of your labours amongst us, since you were raised to the priesthood and particularly since you were appointed Chaplain of our society.

Born and bred amongst us, the work you have accomplished and the esteem you have won, forbid us to regard you as an exemplification of the adage, that a prophet shall be without honour in his country; in you the [illegible] is happily refuted. As a child and [illegible] promise of a holy life, and of a future which should be given up to the service of God, and, to the welfare of your fellow-man, and although yet young in the priesthood, the expectations of your early admirers have been more than realized, and the promise of your younger years are being abundantly fulfilled. By your ordination you have accepted the responsibility of devoting yourself to the care of those souls whose spiritual welfare you might be charged with from time to time. But you do not confine yourself to the letter of any duty nor to the literal discharge of any obligation. While the things that are spiritual have your first attention and deepest consideration, you have not been unmindful of our material interests, nor of those things which contribute to our intellectual and social well-being.

Ten years ago this consideration was first contemplated by your worthy and zealous predecessor, Rev. Fr. O'Sullivan. Under his fostering influence and inspiring instruction it soon took shape and grew in earnestness and numbers until he was called to another field of labour. Taking up the duties in connection with the society, which by his removal he was necessarily compelled to relinquish, you have not only worked to increase the membership, but you have left nothing undone to make the society attractive and to render it, socially and intellectually worthy of the great work it is seeking to accomplish. Even in the athletic department, where young men are encouraged to engage in the fore vigorous kinds of outdoor amusements, the influence of your presence is felt in the direction of cultivating better and more manly types of character, and destroying the petty jealousies and heart burnings that are often the outcome of the rivalries of field games.

But your zeal in our interests and in the cause of the good work to which you have so earnestly devoted yourself, does not end here. In season and out of season you have preached the virtues of temperance; privately you have by exhortation and kindly entreaty secured the ear and the heart of those who were deaf and cold to the instructions from the pulpit; no hour of day or night, no place, no condition of things was considered by you unsuitable or unreasonable for the work you had in hand, and the ten hundred names that have been added to our list of members during the past years give abundant testimony as to how effectively and successfully you have laboured.

We congratulate you most heartily on the success that has crowned your zeal in the cause of Total Abstinence. You have been the instrument in the hands of Providence of increasing the virtue of many lives, the peace of many homes, the happiness of many firesides. You have by your good works promoted that thrift and industry and prosperity which can come only to a sober people.

In proof of our appreciation and gratitude for the great and good work you have done for us, we wish you to accept this slight token of our regard. We further congratulate you upon your promotion to so important a parish as that of the Sacred Heart. We rejoice to know that His Lordship the Bishop has recognized the great good you have done.

We are pleased that though no longer our Chaplain you are still a near neighbour, and we are living in anticipation of many a welcome visit from you.

In conclusion we pray that God may spare you for many years to come, and to work in the cause of Total Abstinence, which you have so ably and successfully advocated in the past.

Signed on behalf of St. Peters' Total Abstinence Society.

An Eloquent Reply.

The presentation was greeted with the loudest applause and in replying Dr. O'Brien assured the members of the Societf of his unbounded pleasure at being present. He said that when told that he would be made a presentation he said he asked of what nature it would be in order that he might make a reply, the only answer he received, was that it would be a house and lot. He remarked that he felt like Moses of old. Moses did not find the Israelites. He was chosen to lead them. The speaker had not founded St. Peter's T.A.S. It had been his pleasure, and his privilege for nine years and a half to be its director. Moses did not enter the Promised Land and Dr. O'Brien, too, had been removed from the society before the one thousand mark was reached. One man, he said, had planted the seed, another had watered it and the third one had seen it increase. Speaking of the Society's work, he said that after the first two years, the ladies' branch was formed, it being thought that their influence would be a great factor towards its success. the Society of his unbounded pleasure C.T.W.A. convention at Dubuque, Iowa for having the largest membership and it still had the distinction of being the largest in America. He also referred to the organization of the boys' branch. It had been ten years of work and pleasure to the speaker. In any organization of this kind, while there were many drawbacks, a man found consolation and happiness in the fact that men were being made better.

The Society discussed nothing but temperance matters, leaving out all foreign topics such as politics. The men had their own views. He hoped that with the encouragement they would go forth with renewed effort to accomplish greater things. The reverend doctor said that he loved Peterborough, its Catholic people and its non-Catholic people, and he assured the people that wherever good could be done he gave his best efforts and endeavours.

Mr. D .Holland, one of the past presidents, then presented a detailed report on the work of the order during the ten years.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, M.P., who the chairman of the evening remarked, was a warm friend of the Society, was the next speaker. It was a great privilege, he said, to join with the members in the celebration of the tenth anniversary of an organization carrying on a magnificent work. It had been founded by Rev. Fr. Sullivan, and its good work had been continued by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. In St. Paul's Cathedral the speaker said, there was an inscription which read, "If you want to see my monument look about you." It referred to Sir Christopher Wren, the architect of the great building. He believed that if Dr. O'Brien was to look about him he would find his monument in the happy faces before him representing largely the thousand members of the society. All the members had done their share in the great work and the clergy, too, had accomplished much. When one contrasted the present conditions in Peterborough with a population of 18,000 to those of forty years ago with one-fifth of the population ,one realized the great influence such an organization had exercised in the past ten years. He would not say whether the measures of the Society were either coercive or persuasive; but they were measures for good as could be seen when one considered that one-seventh of the male population of the city belonged to such an institution. A great moral influence emanating from the Society had swept over Peterborough and Mr. Stratton hoped that not only the members would be doubled but that the benefits too would multiply, and the good expected would be accomplished. More injury resulted from intemperance, the speaker believed, than any other source. He would like to see every man identified with a temperance organization. No employer wanted intemperate men. The comforts and happiness in many homes were the result of the spiritual influence that came from St. Peter's Cathedral, down through the various channels of the church, to the society, and through the society to the community at large.

Father John O'Brien.

Rev. Father John O'Brien, of North Bay and formerly of the staff of St. Peters' Cathedral, was next called upon. His remarks were bright and witty and he referred to the many happy days spent with his namesake, Dr. O'Brien. He had gone through school with him, but he believed Dr. O'Brien left him behind when he took up the work of the T. A. S. It was a great pleasure for him to be present and he had come a long way to participate in the anniversary. He was sure His Lordship the Bishop, Rev. Father McColl and Rev. Dr. O'Brien were deserving of the greatest credit for the good they had accomplished in the cause of temperance.

Mayor Morrow.

Mayor Morrow in his initial appearance before the public since his appointment to office, assured the Society of the great pleasure it gave him to participate in the celebration of the tenth anniversary. The society, he said, had gone forward in leaps and bounds. Its success was largely due to the untiring efforts of Rev. Dr O'Brien and he took occasion to congratulate this gentleman on his appointment to the rectorship of the Sacred Heart church. He spoke in eulogistic terms of President Duffus, one of his colleagues on the Council and a man, he said, of great ability and integrity.

His Honour Judge Huycke.

His Honour deemed it a great honour and pleasure to be present. It was a pleasure derived from many sources. The founder, Rev. Father Sullivan, was an old and very dear friend of the speaker, and he was pleased to meet his new friends, Dr. O'Brien and Rev. Father McColl. He wished the Society further success in the work of uplifting humanity. He remarked that anything for the betterment of man was sure of his appreciation and assistance. The success of this organization had been marvellous. It consisted of stronger better men and brighter, happier faces. It was true that he was a non-Catholic, but they should help each other in the upbuilding of a greater city. There were citizens in the home because of the society and he hoped, in conclusion, they would be true to their principles.

Other Speakers.

Mr. Jas. Begley spoke on behalf of the members. While the officers had done much in furthering the work of the order, there were members who had worked zealously for its good. They were men who had to work hard with themselves to combat their weaknesses. The local society he claimed was the best and he expressed the sentiments of the members when he said that he would rather be a humble member of the T. A. S. than to hold the highest office in any society in this city. The object was a noble one, the uplifting of humanity. He thanked the civic and manufacturing men represented for their many kindnesses and favours shown the order. He also spoke of the good work the ladies had done. They had been a tower of strength to the society.

Mr. T. F. Matthews said that it gave him great pleasure to be present and enjoy with the members the inspiration of such a gathering. As a manufacturer he said that he thought he would be amiss in his duty if he did not speak in commendable words of the good objects of the society. The better men and the ones who were successful were temperance men.

Mr. Jas. Kendry in speaking as the oldest employer of the city, said that now more than ever, sober men were wanted. No employer would have intemperate men. He hoped that the gentlemen would realise more and more the benefits of the society and he would always be pleased to help along its good work. He hoped it would increase and he believed that if there were more societies like it there would be more happy homes in Peterborough.

Mr. W. H. Denham, the next speaker, said that he had had great experience with men and in Peterborough he had noticed more than anywhere else a better moral condition. There was an influence behind this and he believed it was the Total Abstinence Society. It was their object to uplift the fallen and he hoped they would continue to do so.

Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal, was pleased to be present. Being a large employer of labour he said that he always wanted a temperate man. The happy faces before him were evidences in a great many instances of the good work of the Society. He hoped every man would aim at getting a new member during the next year and the two thousand mark would be reached.

Mr. D. O'Connell, in his remarks, said that while he did not claim the distinction of being a member of the T. A. S. he assured Dr. O'Brien that he would become one before long. The success of an organization was always due to some man and one could see the splendid results of Dr. O'Brien's work in the magnificent growth of the organization. The monuments to his work could be found in the faces of the grateful happy people of the audience. With great force of character and unrelenting energy, the reverend doctor had preached temperance until 1,039 men had been enrolled in its cause.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor added a few remarks, stating that the Society should feel a debt of gratitude at the wonderful work accomplished. He spoke of the sincerity of the members and he expressed his thanks to the public men who had come forward and expressed their appreciation of the work done. The members should be proud to belong to such a society and should respect their dignity.

Other speakers who spoke in congratulatory terms were Rev. Fathers McGuire, of Downeyville, and Father Meehan, of Belleville, and ex-Mayor Rush.

During the evening an excellent musical programme was given. The Opera House orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Devey, gave an excellent performance of a suite of Irish airs; Mr. Osborne "violin" solos encored, and vocal solos were sung by Mr. W. H. McIlroy and Mr. Walter Davidson and Miss Lavina Hallihan, with such effect that they were all enthusiastically encored. It is only just to Miss Hallihan to refer specially to her work. She sang Arditi's celebrated Valse song. It was an ambitious selection, but the excellent and artistic manner in which she sang it, justified her confidence in her vocal powers. The difficulties, sentimental as well as artistic and technical it presents, were happily overcome. A voice of great sweetness and genuine musical quality was used with charming ease, unaffectedness and effectiveness. Given opportunities of musical culture to develop rare natural qualities of voice and musical temperament, Miss Hallihan would meet great success on the concert stage.

ANNUAL MEETING OF PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD LAST NIGHT

The annual meeting of the Public Library Board was held last night with a good attendance of members and Dr. Burnham presiding. As a result of the approaching opening of the new library the interest in the old library has waned somewhat and the membership has fallen off slightly. There was no reference made to the new library excepting the effect of its erection on the old institution. Dr. Burnham read the report of the Board of Directors as follows:

Your Board of Management, according to the By-law to that effect beg to report the proceedings of the Public Library for the year 1909. The year was a remarkably quiet one so far as the library is concerned, as the anticipated change to a free library had the effect of causing many of the older members to drop their subscriptions for the time being, while not enough new ones joined to make up for the loss. Your Board, however, have spared no pains to cater to the literary tastes of the members and have kept the reading rooms well supplied with the most interesting periodicals of the day.

During the year 1909 there were over 207 volumes of the latest and most popular books in all departments of literature placed on the shelves. They were classified as follows: History 18 vols, Biography 11 vols., Voyages and Travels 7 vols., Science and Art 3 vols., General Literature 55, Poetry and Drama 3 vols., Religious Works 5 vols., Fiction 71, Miscellaneous 18 vols., Works of Reference 16.

The following list contains the names of some o fthe new books: Conquest of the Great Northwest by Laut, Science and Immortality, by Lodge; George Canning and His Friends, by Bagot; The Russo-Jap War, by British Officers; Catholic Encyclopedia, vols. 5 and 6; Canadian types of the Old Regime, by Colby; England and the English, by Price. Collier; Ballads of Cheechaco, by Service; Romantic Settlement of Lord Selkirk's Colonists, by Dr. G. Bruce; Actions and Re-actions by Kipling; and others too numerous to mention.

Ten volumes valued at $19.65 were presented to the library:

No. of Daily papers in Reading Room	7
No. of Weekly papers in Reading Room	10
No. of Magazines and Periodicals	63

This list gives the number of vols. issued during the year:

The Wealth of the World Has Been Made From Oil

The Man Who Invests $10.00 To-day in this Proposition is in the Pathway of One Thousand Per Cent. Within a Year.

Do you know that if you were fortunate enough to own shares in the Home Oil Company, The San Francisco Petroleum Company, The Pacific Coast Oil Company or in fact any of the big American Oil Co's, you would find that the stock which you purchased several years ago at below par value, would be worth to-day in many instances, from $100 to $1,000, above par value of the shares. While in each instance you would receive enormous annual dividends, since the oil industry has proven to be a most profitable enterprise.

A great and most eminent geologist of the day tells us that the Canadian Oil Industry is in its infancy and the history of the Pennsylvania Oil Fields will be repeated in the great oil belt of Southern Alberta.

Dr. Dawson and Dr. Selwyn, two eminent geologists, after careful study and research, tell us that great subterranean pools of petroleum underlie and completely saturate what is known as the Pincher Crek Oil District, the central portion of Southern Alberta. It was Dr. Dawson who predicted the wealth of the Kootenays and foresaw years ago the present day oil activities of Alberta.

Walter Renton Ingalls, a distinguished American Mining Engineer says: "The great discovery of oil in the Alberta Oil Fields will revolutionize the industries of Canada. The Alberta Oil is of such a quality that it can be refined for 40 cents or 50 cents per barrel cheaper than any oil known, owing to the small quantity of sulphur it contains. It is far superior to any oil found in other parts of Canada or the United States.

The Chicago-Alberta Oilfields Co. Ltd., an all Canadian Corporation, operated under a charter issued by the Provincial Government at Edmonton, Alberta, have control of nine square miles (5760 acres) of the finest Petroleum lands in all this country. Its property is literally saturated with Oil—Oil of the finest quality.

John W. Warren, the eminent expert of the Standard Oil Company, after a recent visit to the property issued the following report:—

TESTIMONY OF JOHN W. WARREN.

(Expert Analyst, Inventor and Proprietor of Warren's Waterless Process for Refining Gasoline.)

Mr. David Black, Pincher Creek, Alberta, Canada. Elgin, Ill., July 21, 1909.

Dear Sir:

In reply to yours of recent date, I will say that I went to the oil fields of Alberta, Canada, and saw oil oozing out of the rocks and grounds, and floating away on small creeks. I went to the last "seepage," and saw the oil running down the rocks for at least 300 feet. I saw a great many oil springs. I gathered some of the oil in a bottle and brought it home; some I caught flowing from a well 750 feet deep. I took my small still, hydrometer, and other things necessary to make a test with me—I found it.

40 degrees Baume 6 88-100 lbs. weight per
.8235 specific gravity. gallon, wine measure.

It contains 20 to 25 per cent. gasoline. I distilled and refined some gasoline and did it without sulphuric acid or lead. It was very fine, in fact the finest I ever saw. I made some axle grease out of the Alberta oil just as it came from the well near Pincher Creek. We greased a buggy, two wheels on one side with this axle grease, and the other two wheels with pure castor oil. The axle grease ran twice as long as the castor oil, and without gum. Further, I have treated oils from New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Texas, Kansas, California and Eastern Canada. I consider Alberta Oil to be the best of all in gasoline and lubricating oil. It contains less sulphur than any oil I have treated. Any man can see that there is a great demand in Canada for Alberta oil, for five-sixths of the oil used there comes from the United States. You ask my opinion. I think the oil fields of Alberta are as good as ever the Pennsylvania were.

I remain yours,

JOHN W. WARREN.

It goes without saying that Mr. Warren must think most highly of the property of the Company else he could not so irretrievably endorse the holdings of this Company.

The Superintendent of the works discovered quite recently a seam of the finest bituminous coal; this seam is ten feet in depth and runs the full length of the property.

This find greatly enhances the value of the property and materially strengthens and advances the value of every share of stock in the Company, and although it is not the intention of the Corporation to immediately develop the coal, but rather to carry out to completion the drilling operations—it is only a matter of a few weeks until the drills will be at work; therefore we will be able to offer for the next 15 days a block of 50,000 shares of stock at 30c per share, when the price will be advanced to 35c or 40c and once the drills are at work the stock will naturally advance rapidly. Within a very short time the drills will be down to the oil-level and in all probability selling at par, and those who are fortunate to buy to-day at 30c will be able to double their money in a very short time—Don't you see that if you were to buy 200 shares to-day at 30c per share you could sell 100 shares in a few weeks when the price is 60c, and you have 100 shares free of all cost to yourself.

Remember, that not a share will be delivered on or after the 22nd inst., at 30c. The terms are 10c per share cash, balance 6 2-3c per share, per month. If all cash be paid at the time of purchase a certificate will be issued immediately. No block less than 100 shares will be sold.

The Company is a limited liability corporation. The shares are non-assessable. Once the present price is paid in full for each share, no further liability or obligation is attached to the holder of the said certificate. Address all your communications to

He Needed the Clerk.

When Tim Campbell was in the Fiftieth congress he stole a clerk from Congressman Scott. Scott was a new member and was made chairman of a committee which gave him a clerkship. He knew nothing about the clerk. Campbell did. Through some means or another he had the clerkship transferred to his own committee. Six months later Scott learned of the trick. Meeting Campbell, he said:

"That was a nice piece of petty larceny."

"Tut, tut, Mr. Scott," said Campbell; "my committee needed a clerk worse than yours." Then, with twinkling eyes, he continued, "You are a millionaire and can afford to hire half a dozen clerks, while I must go to the government for clerical assistance."

The ready reply amused Scott. The two men were always the best of friends thereafter.

Anxious Traveling.

A traveler in Russia noticed that the train he entered was all decorated with flags and banners, and at every station it passed stood a company of soldiers and a band playing the national anthem. The traveler asked a brakeman the reason of all this ceremony. The brakeman, lowering his voice, replied:

"I don't mind telling you, sir—but in the strictest confidence, be it understood—that a carriage in this train has been engaged for his majesty. But his majesty, as a matter of fact, won't set off till this evening. Thus the plot hatched against him may take effect on this train, you see, and our gracious sovereign will be saved."

The brakeman touched his cap and passed on, and the traveler, suddenly grown pale and nervous, stared from the window anxiously.

LITTLE CHANGE IN LINE-UPS FOR TO-MORROW'S GAMES

Fans are Agog Over the West End-Keene Game and There is Much Speculation Over the Result---Issue of T.A.S.-Strathcona Game is a Matter of Uncertainty.

There will be little or no changes in the line-up of the different City League teams for to-morrow night's double header at Brock Street rink. The teams that were chosen for last week's games were only picked after a great deal of deliberation, and the hard practices that have taken place since last Wednesday's games, have failed to show any reason for many changes. This will give the fans a chance to figure out the probable results as with no new men to muddle things it is easy to get a line on the dope.

The question that seems to be bothering fandom this week is whether Keene will defeat the West Ends, or not. Keene say they will. Manager Oldham's cohorts on the other hand, say that the villagers will be trimmed decisively. The great mass of hockey supporters take neither one view or the other. One old City League player, who follows the game closely, although he has ceased to take an active part in the warfare, expressed it very well last night when he said: "It looks to me like the game of the season. West Ends look to have the class, but they will have to get working together better than last week or they will find the hard-working Keene team an awkward proposition. If West Ends should win, but I would not like to say right now that they are going to." That is just the position the rest of the fans take and with the uncertainty that is existing the game should be one of the tit-bits of the City League season. The two teams will come together in the first game.

The two oldest teams in the City League, the T. A. S. and the Strathconas, are the opposing factions in the second game, and it has every appearance of being a real game. The hard working T. A. S. team will have it on the Strathconas in checking and bubbling over with confidence over their successful raid on Keene will go out to-morrow night with the express purpose of annexing the scalps of the Commissioners. That used to be some task, in fact only one team has done it in four seasons, but the Abstainers say that the Straths team this year is not the dangerous outfit it used to be and that they will start the Commissioners down the ladder to-morrow night by trimming Manager Matheral's heaven to the King's taste. A win for the Cold water men would be popular with the fans and the Abstainers will not look for rooters. The Straths will have the same line-up as last week.

LIBERAL OUTLOOK

Improvement Is Shown In the Position of Unionists Because of Home Rule Opposition, But Reform of the Tariff Is Bitterly Fought—War Scare Is Becoming a Dangerous Weapon in Britain.

London, Jan. 12.—Polling in the general election contests will begin next Saturday, and Parliament reassembles on Feb. 15. The Unionist prospects have slightly improved, owing to the rally against home rule. Tariff reformer is opposed by determined interrupters everywhere in the towns, and the avowed intention of many of its supporters to impose graduated duties on colonial produce is disliked as tending to create colonial embarrassments. The anti-German scaremongers are making little impression. While Sir Edward Grey remains at the Foreign Office the country is not alarmed at the anticipation of international complications.

The budget and the land taxes are popular with the masses in all parts, and the constitutional improprieties committed by the peers in interfering with finance is strongly emphasized again as the polling days approach.

Close observation in the constituencies throughout the country shows the time and occasion of the contest to have been badly chosen by the Unionists, whose cause has suffered from its identification with aristocratic superfluity of wealth, landlordism and indifference to popular requirements.

Joseph Chamberlain's extraordinarily numerous letters fall flat, and the liberal preponderance of debating power, assisted by fears of dear food, is scoring heavily, despite several significant secessions from the members of Liberalism.

The probability is unchanged of an adequate, if reduced, majority, for the Liberals.

This present national stock-taking is arousing attention in the direction of colonial openings—and in so far as foreign naval preparations involve heavier burdens they are producing what may prove to be dangerous resentment against the nations charged with the object of challenging Britain's maritime predominance. The Unionist party leaders have worked this very hard during the last few days, but the condemnation of the more sober elements on their own side has nullified its efficacy as a party weapon.

A. J. Balfour, addressing a crowded meeting at Glasgow, remarked upon the omissions in Premier Asquith's election address. He complained that the Premier had dealt briefly with the demerits of the second chamber. Regarding most of these, all were desirous of seeing the House of Lords rendered more effective as a second chamber, but no one desired to see the constitution without a second chamber.

To say that the second chamber was not to have the right of veto against the will of the people, but a veto against the House of Commons was their whole purpose. He asked the electors to help the Unionist party to reform what was more better than revolution.

Arguing against an entirely elected second chamber, Balfour said there was no reason for not making the best use of the hereditary principle we could, and he emphasized the value of the principle in the case of the sovereign, pointing out that the only bond which unites the democracies of empire is the King, elevated above party, who belonged not to Britain more than to Canada or Australia or South Africa.

What, he asked, did Canada, Australia or the great Indian Empire care for Asquith or Balfour? The idea that either could be the centre whereto the Empire looks was ludicrous. He urged them, therefore, not to underride hereditary principle, so long as it could be turned to some public and imperial account. Did they think the Lords would have been performing their duty as the second chamber if they had let go the opportunity of giving the people a chance of rejecting such novel budget proposals, and at the same time prevented them having what Asquith had regarded as a last chance of adopting tariff reform?

The increasing confidence at Unionist headquarters and the enthusiasm throughout the country betoken a tremendous vote at the coming elections.

While the struggle is maintained with undiminished vigor, it becomes increasingly difficult to find anything striking or novel in the speeches.

Premier Asquith at Ipswich addressed a large gathering last night.

Mr. Asquith dealt with tariff reform. He asserted that the advance of Germany and the United States was attributable to other causes than tariffs, that the United States had an internal free trade and Germany had become a formidable rival by reason of her education and organization.

Among the minor incidents of the campaign, David Lloyd-George, Chancelor of the Exchequer, has drawn a handsome apology from Lord Rothschild for wrongfully attributing to the Chancellor the declaration that there was likelihood of Great Britain having to expatriate the Jews.

TO PRESENT NAVAL BILL

...een Excitement Prevails Among Members Assembled For the Reopening of the House on Account of the Naval Measure—Specialist Hastens to the Bedside of the Minister of Marine.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—The sudden illness of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine, who is in a serious condition in his home on Daly avenue, has changed the plans concerning the introduction of the naval bill, over which there is great interest.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will now introduce the bill when Parliament reassembles this afternoon, in the place of Mr. Brodeur, and there is every possibility of an extended debate on the first reading.

There is nothing in the rules of the House to prevent debate on the first reading of a Government bill, and it has been allowed, in extraordinary cases like the autonomy bill of 1905 ...

HON. L. P. BRODEUR.

when Liberal supporters, Hugh Guthrie, for instance, voiced their feelings.

There is no gainsaying the fact that the introduction of the naval bill is awaited with keen interest here. The corridors of the House to-day are thronged with members, and the Premier will, in all probability, have a full audience when he rises to introduce the legislation.

There is one thing sure, and that is if the Prime Minister does not content himself with a mere explanation of the measure, but indulges in a flag-waving episode, there will be trouble from the Opposition side, and any attempt to stay the debate is liable, in the present strained tension of party feeling, to result in unusual scenes.

A late enquiry at the residence of Hon. L. P. Brodeur last night elicited the information that he is suffering from hemorrhage of the bowels. He was, however, resting easily. A specialist has been summoned from Montreal.

TARIFF WAR AND CANADA

Americain Secretary of State Knox Is Conferring With a View to Reaching an Understanding.— Half a Billion of Trade Is In the Scale Pan In Dispute—The Row Is Over Live Stock Tariff.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Nearly half a billion dollars' worth of trade is the stake in the game of diplomacy now in progress between the United States and Germany, and the issue will be known within a month.

On Feb. 7 the reciprocity arrangement made under the terms of the Dingley Act with Germany will expire, and simultaneously the general tariff rates of that country will apply to all imports from America, unless in the interim Secretary of State Knox and the German ambassador shall be able to reach an understanding.

At this moment the indications are that this understanding is beyond attainment and that it will be only under the stress of a bitter and costly struggle that the two nations can compose their differences and restore their trade to normal conditions.

America will not be the only sufferer from this rupture, for on April 7 next the maximum tariff rates carried by the Payne-Aldrich Act will be automatically applied to the vast German import trade, which in 1908 aggregated more than one hundred and sixty million dollars, and every article of German production coming to the United States must pay 25 per cent. increased duty.

Negotiations have been in progress for months to avoid this issue, but an obstacle has been reached in the demand of the State Department for relaxation of the German prohibition against American cattle. The German Government takes the position that these restrictions, founded on veterinary and sanitary reasons, embodied in laws of general application, cannot be regarded as discriminatory against the United States, and that it would be as reasonable to expect America to repeal the pure food laws as to require Germany to disregard the provisions of the Animal Importation Act.

America shipped to Germany in 1908, $300,000,000 worth of products. Many of these will have to pay increased rates after February. In 1908, $29,000,000 of American wheat entered Germany, and this must pay a penalty of two marks for each hundred kilograms this year, which would probably result in the transfer of all this trade to Canada, Agentinia and Russia.

Corn was shipped to Germany to the value of $5,000,000 in 1908, and the increased duty that will be exacted on this staple will be three marks per 100 kilograms, practically a prohibitive rate. Ninety million dollars' worth of cotton formed part of the exports to Germany in the same year, and while this is now on the German free list, it might still be subjected to a heavy duty if the Germany Government should have recourse to its "fighting tariff."

Half a million dollars' worth of American apples and four times that amount of dried fruits will have to pay an excess of between four and ten marks duty, failing an amicable arrangement between the two Governments, and $6,000,000 worth of sawed lumber will pay double duty.

Cattle-Thief Is Shot.

Moose Jaw, Jan. 12.—"Dutch," the most notorious outlaw and cattle-thief of the west, who has been wanted by the authorities on both sides of the boundary for the past eight years, was shot and killed by a mounted policeman at Muddy River, 90 miles south of here. "Dutch" killed the mounted policeman's horse, but was shot in turn. He was a daring cattle-rustler of later days, and, by operating back and forth across the line, managed to escape arrest.

WEASEL NOT ALL BAD

HE CAN BE TURNED TO ACCOUNT BY THE FARMER.

Sanguinary Little Scoundrel Who Infests the Farmyards Has a Fondness for Fowl, But With Care His Hunting Propensities Can Be Utilized—He Is a Dauntless Fighter and a Ruthless Enemy.

In my youth I was led to believe that the white weasel was the greatest curse that could appear around a farmer's home, says Mark Robinson in Saturday Night. I have seen farmers' wives and daughters turn pale at the mention of one appearing around their home. What would become of chickens, ducklings?—no turkeys for Thanksgiving this year since that pest is around. The old gun was cleaned up and loaded; old traps were borrowed. The services of some of the bright young farmers from neighboring farms was always available (after their day's work) to help to destroy the vermin, especially if there were any bright-eyed lassies around, who by the way, always managed to see the scamp sometime during the day either at the stone pile in the orchard or down the lane a short distance. However, while the young continue to have their ideas, their opinions of late years as regards the weasel are changing fast. The farmer still knows him as a bloodthirsty scamp, but now builds animal-proof poultry houses and encourages the weasel to take up his abode on the farm. So long as there is a mouse or rat or sparrow to be captured, he will seldom touch poultry, and hundreds of farmers to-day profit in many ways by leaving them unmolested.

Years ago a gentleman called my attention to the fact that when a weasel settled around a place, especially during the breeding season, and was abused and molested on every appearance, that was the time that the fowl was sure to suffer. The weasel, being unable to secure food for its young in the way nature intended, attacked the fowl.

During the summer months, the weasel turns a light brown color, then changes its coat at the approach of winter to a snowy white. The fur is valuable, unstained pelts commanding a good price. The mother weasel usually selects a hollow log, root of tree, or stone pile in which to make a home. The den is lined with soft grass, moss, feathers, etc. The young appear usually about the end of May or early part of June, and number from two to five at a birth. A number of writers maintain that the male weasel destroys the young like the male mink, otter, marten, etc. On this point I am not quite satisfied, and relate the following experience.

When quite a boy I was busy helping a neighbor to clean up a small field of swale. In tearing an old log to pieces, we came upon a nest of young weasels. These we destroyed at once. While we were killing them, they uttered piercing cries, which brought the mother weasel to the spot at once. She seized her young in anguish one after the other. Finding them all dead, she uttered some very peculiar cries. About this time a male weasel appeared, and at the sight of the destroyed young together they rushed at the destroyers, only to meet a similar fate. On other occasions I have found them in pairs, so I will leave this question to others to answer.

I have found the weasel to be very bloodthirsty, killing evidently for the pleasure of killing. Mr. James Irwin, of Vigo, Ont., once called my attention to a large weasel in pursuit of a red squirrel near his home. The chase was across a portion of bush where considerable timber had been cut and large trees were scarce. Up the trees went the squirrel, followed closely. Jumping from one small tree to another, then up a large tree, the squirrel leaped from the upper branches to the ground. The weasel springing after it, alighted almost at the same time, but appeared to have stunned itself slightly. This gave the squirrel a few short moments' start, which were put to good use. However, the weasel ran back and forward until it got scent of the squirrel's track, and with what appeared to be redoubled effort, soon found him. Up a tree they went, and around and around they flew, until with a final effort Mr. Weasel seized his prey and together they fell to the ground. In a moment all was over. He dragged the squirrel's body into a hole under a log, and in a few moments was running around apparently in search of another victim.

Prevent and Relieve Headache

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to refer to Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills as the best remedy we have yet had in our house for the prevention and cure of headache. "Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are the best I ever tried for the relief of headache. I have used them for nearly four years and they never fail to give me relief. I have tried many other remedies, but have never found any better."

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

The best feature of this remarkable remedy is the fact that it does not derange the stomach or leave any disagreeable after-effects.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

The weasel is very destructive to ruffed grouse and rabbits. On many occasions have I seen a deep furrow where something had been dragged through the soft snow. On following up the trail, I would be sure to find a rabbit or a grouse hidden in some corner, a victim of the weasel. I was once informed that the weasel, upon seeing a grouse rise into a tree, will at once make for the tree, and stealing up quietly until within striking distance, will then spring upon the bird, seizing it by the neck and throwing it to the ground. I must confess I doubted very much if this was so, until last summer. A pair of robins had built a nest in an evergreen tree near the window of our shelter-house. I derived much pleasure from observing them mornings and evenings. While watching the mother bird bring food to the young one morning, I also saw a weasel rushing along with a field mouse in its mouth. He saw the bird, paused a moment, then disappeared. In a minute he was back. Rushing to the tree, he was up to the nest in a twinkling. Seizing the mother bird, he threw himself to the ground, taking her with him. Then carrying her out of sight, he returned, and in a moment had thrown all the young to the ground dead. A large number of grackles and the cock bird fluttered around and made a great commotion while the weasel carried the bodies of the dead birds away.

College Sentiment.

Dr. Blank, about twenty years a professor in a certain college, was on the eve of a trip to Europe, to be absent two years. In pathetic and rather harrowing tones he made his farewell address to his class:

"Yes, I am about to part with you. This is more than distressing to me. Would that there was a window in my breast, my dear boys, that you might see the innermost recesses of my heart."

A stripling in the rear, seized with a happy thought, shouted:

"Professor, would a pane in the stomach do?"—Lippincott's.

What She Imagined.

"Don't imagine," he said after she had refused him, "that I am going away to blow my brains out or drink myself to death."

"No," she replied. "I have no idea that you will do anything of that kind. You are going away to do some wonderful thing which will bring you wealth and fame and make me regret all the rest of my life that I didn't believe you when you intimated that you were one of the greatest little men that had ever come over the asphalt."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE GUARD WAS ANGRY.

But the Pretty Girl Didn't Need His Protection.

Passengers on a subway car bound from Brooklyn to New York on Sunday afternoon had an experience that first caused frowns and then a laugh.

The car was crowded, but all the women had seats. On the platform was a middle aged man, apparently respectable. On a side seat was a girl in old rose, with cheeks to match.

The man on the platform caught her eye for a moment and threw a frantic kiss. The girl first smiled, then blushed furiously.

He threw another, and she turned away a crimsoned face.

"That will about do for you," said the big, rawboned guard. "Go home to your wife."

This didn't seem to worry the apparently respectable man, and, catching a glint from the girl's eyes, he threw another kiss. She turned her face to study carefully a pretty hat across the car.

At the Manhattan end of the bridge the girl rose to leave the car. The man who was trying to flirt with her also faced the sliding door. By that time all eyes were on the pair, the guard was mad all through, and a couple of passengers edged dangerously close.

The girl in old rose took the arm of the apparently respectable man and said in a silvery voice that all could hear:

"Oh, papa, how could you?"

Then everybody laughed at a joking father and a lovely daughter.—New York Press.

CONQUERED HER RIVAL.

Pretty and Pathetic Story of Jenny Lind and Grisi.

Jenny Lind and Grisi were both rivals for popular favor in London. Both were invited to sing the same night at a court concert before the queen. Jenny Lind, being the younger, sang first and was so disturbed by the fierce, scornful look of Grisi that she was at the point of failure when suddenly an inspiration came to her.

The accompanist was striking the final chords. She asked him to rise and took the vacant seat. Her fingers wandered over the keys in a loving prelude, and then she sang a little prayer which she had loved as a child. She hadn't sung it for years. As she sang she was no longer in the presence of royalty, but singing to loving friends in her fatherland.

Softly at first the plaintive notes floated on the air, swelling louder and richer every moment. The singer seemed to throw her whole soul into that weird, thrilling, plaintive "prayer." Gradually the song died away and ended in a sob. There was a silence—the silence of admiring wonder.

The audience sat spellbound. Jenny Lind lifted her sweet eyes to look into the scornful face that had so disconcerted her. There was no fierce expression now. Instead a teardrop glistened on the long, black lashes, and after a moment, with the impulsiveness of a child of the tropics, Grisi crossed to Jenny Lind's side, placed her arm about her and kissed her, uttering regardless of the audience.

Madam, Stop Buying Your Flour on a Guess

Which do YOU buy, Mistress Housewife? —
Flour on a GUESS?
Or
Flour on a GUARANTEE?
When you hand over the Hard-Earned—suppose you guessed wrong?

If you can purchase flour that is guaranteed positively, surely you will not buy a "guess" brand which leaves you no recourse in the event of dissatisfaction or loss of good material.

As a thrifty kitchen manager, Madam, YOU will buy FIVE ROSES flour every time—the only "money-back" flour where you take no chance—every sack is warranted.

We know what FIVE ROSES will do for you, Madam. 'Twill save you time, trouble, disappointment—ay, and MONEY, too.

We know what it has done and is doing for thousands of happy housewives, not only in Canada, but in England, Scotland, even in South Africa.

A household help for 21 years.

* * * *

Every bag, every sack or barrel is your absolute guarantee, a tradeable as a signed statement, that the flour is RIGHT, the packing right, the baking right, the results right.

When we say FIVE ROSES is right, we mean it is all right. Not one pound, or two pounds at the top of the sack, but the whole sack, the entire barrel from the first cupful to the very last grain at the bottom.

Even if it takes you six months to reach the bottom, the guaranty still holds—the strongest guaranty ever given by any miller anywhere.

FIVE ROSES, Madam, will "make good" every time. Try it for bread, cakes, biscuits, puddings, pies, puffs—anything you like.

Try it with that difficult little recipe which has floored every other flour you know.

Use it down to half the sack. Then if you don't want the flour after that, your grocer will take it back and refund the full price charging you nothing for the flour used.

Surely, that's fair enough, isn't it?

* * * *

Do you know, Madam, why the LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, a responsible and honorable concern backed by 21 years of "square" dealing, can give this binding pledge, which no other miller in Canada cares to give?

Because FIVE ROSES doesn't need a guarantee.

Decide NOW, Madam, whether you will continue buying on a GUESS—
Or
Will get FIVE ROSES which guarantees YOUR success every time.

PRINTING OFFICE JOKES.

The Compositors Have Wide Field For Hoaxes on Each Other.

In every printing office the compositors indulge in little jokes by setting up items and advertisements which are not charged for on the union scale, and which, of course (unless by some untoward accident), never appear in the newspaper. One night, or rather one morning, about three o'clock, two compositors were proceeding homeward on Queen street east, Toronto, when they came upon an old coat. Its owner had apparently been in that state of mind in which outer garments seem a superfluous burden, and he had calmly taken it off and dropped it on the sidewalk. The printers picked it up and found in it the time card of some man evidently engaged in mechanical pursuits. St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church was hard by, so they hung the coat on the church fence and proceeded homeward. They happened to mention the incident in the office, and a night or two later the assistant foreman called one of them over and showed him a condensed advertisement set up on the galley. It described the coat and the time card, and asked for the return of the garment, stating that there had been $500 in the inside pocket, and that the one returning it would be liberally rewarded. The two "comps." spent the rest of the night in cursing their oversight in having failed to examine the inside pockets. They even made an examination of the churchyard on the way home on an off-chance that the coat might be still there. The advertisement, of course, did not appear in the paper next morning, and then they twigged the joke.

A favorite hoax in large composing rooms, when some particular personage was showing signs of "cheatiness," used to be to set up a fake advertisement from the management for a successor, and by some means attract the individual's attention thereto. It usually had the effect of making him extremely anxious for an hour or two. Occasionally a joke of this kind would slip into the columns of the paper in the hurry of getting out a form, and then there would be trouble downstairs. For this reason the foreman of a well organized composing room looks with a deprecating eye on jokes with the type.

The Vagaries of Slang.

Not long since an eminent Canadian Senator advised the students of Toronto University to avoid slang as they would a serpent. Not all of us take so severe a view. There are some rare growths of slang that are really a short cut to clear and accurate expression. It is notorious, however, that the slang habit, aided by the writers of the sporting columns of the newspapers, has obtained a rank luxuriance which would make the conversation of the average young man of to-day almost unintelligible to any Rip Van Winkle who went to sleep in the eighties and came to life this week. So great a hold has it taken on the people of this continent, that they unconsciously express themselves in slang at the most serious moments. At one of the big conventions held in Toronto this autumn, this habit gave a farcical turn to a very pathetic episode.

A telegram was delivered to an American delegate, and two of his friends saw that when he opened it, his face changed. He held the telegram in his hand and, as though in a daze, and then the tears commenced to trickle down his cheeks. They hastened to him with the words, "What's the matter, old man?"

He held out the telegram and said in a broken voice: "Say, what do you know about that? My mother's dead. Ain't it awful, Mabel."

Rats In Zoo.

Park Commissioner Wilson has placed two active young ferrets on duty at Riverdale Park Zoo, Toronto, for the purpose of hunting out and exterminating the rats which have been playing havoc there of late.

Two valued ducks were killed by these rodents the other day. They have reached such large numbers that the Zoo attendants have taken special means to bring about their annihilation. Thirty-seven were flooded out in the hose house and killed in one day.

The Zoo rats are of an enormous size, being as large as an ordinary cat. The commissioner states that majority of them came up from Don River.

HEAVY COLDS

During the census year in United States there were nearly seventy-seven thousand deaths due to pneumonia, and although consumption leads this by 32,000, pneumonia is responsible for more deaths than diphtheria, scarlet fever, smallpox, and cancer combined. The trouble is that people are too careless about colds—let them run on—grow bigger every day—finally old pneumonia steps in.

The very best thing to keep handy in every household is Nerviline, which you can depend on for curing colds. It affords certain relief and a quick cure. It has more potency, greater penetrating and healing power than any other liniment.

Nerviline Not Only Prevents, It Quickly Cures

When a cold is starting, give the chest and throat a vigorous hand rubbing with Nerviline, gargle the throat with Nerviline, and take a good stiff dose in hot water, you'll be surprised how fast the cold will disappear. Of course the chest should be protected by a Nerviline Porous Plaster, which will absorb all congestion and inflammation. You won't need to fear pneumonia, Grippe, Bronchitis, or cold of any kind if you keep Nerviline handy.

They Help Your Stomach Out

And Save You a World of Wretchedness

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It has been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, up to suicide.

The trouble in most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The stomach needs help.

"Little Digesters" meet the need exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will ensure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.

WANTS CANADA'S TRADE.

Agent of German Merchants Discusses Trade Prospects.

Mr. J. Blakeslee, the English adviser to the German Canadian Economic Association, who started out from Montreal several months ago to make a tour of Canada in the interests of trade between Canada and Germany, has now returned east considerably encouraged by the results of his mission. An extremely unfortunate incident happened at the outset. Dr. Neisse, of Berlin, who was the commissioner of the association to Canada, and who accompanied him, being taken ill with typhoid in Winnipeg, where he died. Mr. Blakeslee took the body to New York for shipment to Germany and then continued the tour alone.

The association which Mr. Blakeslee represents has no official connection with the Government of Germany, it being wholly made up of business men who are interested in trade with Canada.

"It is naturally our expectation," said Mr. Blakeslee, in the course of an interview, "that the work which we are doing will at some time have an influence on the Government, and that steps which will facilitate trade will be taken by the respective Governments. At present the tariff between Canada and Germany is strongly against trade. There is a surtax of 30 per cent. on German goods entering Canada, and in Germany the highest tariff is imposed on Canadian products. Not many years ago, half a million barrels of Canadian apples were taken by Germany. This amount might have been increased by this time to a million barrels. Last year there were imported into Germany from Canada only eight barrels.

"Then again Germany needs a considerable quantity of the hard wheat of Canada. She buys annually 90,000,000 bushels of wheat, and of this only about a quarter of a million comes from Canada. There is no reason why Canada should not supply Germany with more foodstuffs, and it is our hope that in future there will be such changes in the tariff as will allow of the development of this and other branches of trade.

"I am well satisfied with the results of my work in this direction. Everywhere in Canada I have been well received. One thing I have noticed is that the German immigrant is welcomed, and that those who have settled in the country have done well. A large immigration of Germans would do much to increase the good feeling between the two countries."

The Spooks Were Busy.

"Dry as dust" is the epithet the average citizen would use in describing all the workings of the legal profession, and on this hypothesis the headquarters of the legal department of the Ontario Government would probably come under the imputation of ultra desiccation.

This time, however, the official head of this home of the fiat and abode of drought is the medium through which has come as wierd a tale as illumined the pages of the "Arabian Nights" and caused shivers of interest to run down the spine of the youthful reader.

Hon. J. J. Foy received a letter from a mining man in the far north asking for assistance and narrating the following story:

The writer tells of having a dream wherein he had a vivid vision of his best friend, who seemed to be about to murder him.

Awaking with a start, he went to the window, and there, he says, stood his friend, with a shotgun in his hand.

The man seemed in a dazed condition, and when taken into the house and brought to himself, asserted that he had been hypnotised to do the deed.

Then the correspondent continues: "Here is where the real criminal work comes in. There is a gang of hypnotists, or men who use mental telepathy—mental investigators—but in reality rascals, thieves and murderers."

He proceeds to state that there are three women in the band, and that they have been operating some time, inciting by hypnotic and telepathic means to murder, robbery and other deeds of violence.

He suggests that in the interest of the protection of life and property the department should take steps to have the gang broken up, and asks that his friend be used as a witness for the crown.

Verily, the spirits generated in Cobalt "blind pigs" are not the only spooks loose in the silverland of the north.

Not to Blame.

But the British Government is surely not to blame for withholding its opinion. If it had been invited by the Dominion Government to express an opinion before the Dominion Government took action, that opinion would no doubt have been given. But should the Imperial authorities be expected to declare that the Canadian Parliament has blundered?—Winnipeg Tribune.

CANADIAN FICTION.

Novelists Have Largely Increased In Recent Years.

Sixteen years ago, in his scholarly monograph on Canadian literature, Sir John Bourinot wrote that up to that time Canadian writers "had made no mark in fiction or romance." That the statement was true then is no excuse for the parrot-like repetition of it year after year.

We have been told that Canada was not old enough to have an historical background upon which to build literature; that her national identity had not been firmly enough established; that the work of our writers was too near to us to be properly estimated. Truly, we have suffered from an excess of youth! On the other hand, in their zeal to establish a body of Canadian literature, some are ready to claim as Canadian everything that has been written by anyone who was born in Canada, or has lived in Canada, or has blown over it in a balloon—regardless of the theme or setting of the stories.

While it is quite out of reason to stamp as Canadian literature the novels of Grant Allen, most of the romances of Robert Barr, Gilbert Parker's "Weavers," or any other novel not having a Canadian setting and Canadian atmosphere, it is just as unreasonable to rave over the perfection of Jane Austen and Thomas Hardy while we ignore the skilful portrayal of Canadian rural life in "Anne of Avonlea," "The Man From Glengarry," "Sowing Seeds in Danny," and similar novels. Why fall down and worship the beasts of the Kipling "Jungle Books" and pass over the skilful imaginative interpretation of animal life given in the stories of Seton-Thompson and Roberts?

The truth is that the past fifteen years have been particularly prolific in the department of Canadian fiction. Despite contrary theories, it has been proved that there is a history of Canada that will lend itself to reproduction in the historical romance; the French regime, the conquest, the extension of the fur trade, the Indian races — these and other phases of Canadian history have been touched upon sufficiently to show a vast mine of literary material. The historical fiction of Roberts, Parker, Mrs. Harrison and Miss Laut (her earlier books) is quite possibly as historically accurate as is Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe," of the days of the Saxon and the Norman, or Bulwer Lytton's "Last Days of Pompeii," of the times of ancient Roman Empire; and there is every reason why the former should interest us as much as, if not more than, the latter.

Though there is abundant material for Canadian historical romance, the vein has been but slightly worked. Of late our younger writers seem to be giving attention to what might be called the local or settlement novel, the portrayal of the life of communities in certain sections of the country. "Ralph Connor" has pictured the foothills of the Rockies; Mrs. McClung, the Manitoba village and its surroundings; Marian Keith, the rural settlement of Scottish blood; R. Henry Mainer, the Irish side; Archie McKishnie, the lakeside country village; R. E. Knowles, the Scottish church congregation; Miss Montgomery, the Island farming community. The trend of our fiction at the present time seems to be in this direction. The ability to produce this class of work rests chiefly upon imaginative power, careful observation, and power of expression; while to write historical fiction successfully requires long, hard, and searching study as a preparation for reconstructive writing. There is an open field here for someone with a talent for hard work.

Of novels based chiefly on character development, there are but few; perhaps the most notable is Parker's "Right of Way." The pure problem-novel is scarcely known. Until recently books of adventure, written for younger readers, were almost all the work of J. M. Oxley, but this branch of literature is now being better cared for; nothing particularly striking is being done, however, as the books of this class show but a slight framework of historical incident as a foundation and the development is not strong. The nature stories of Roberts and Seton-Thompson rank very high, while W. A. Fraser is very effective in similar work, and has also a type of story in which he is the leading literary artist—the life of the racing stable and the turf.

Looking back over fifteen years in the history of Canadian fiction, we see a marked development along many furrows in the fields of imaginative literature. In quantity and in quality it probably equals the production of any other infant nation in the 'teens of its literary career.

Boils and Pimples.

Whenever your complexion is unnatural, your skin in an unhealthy condition, your face covered with blotches and pimples, when boils and festering sores abound then your blood is bad. You can best cleanse it with that purely vegetable compound, Burdock Blood Bitters, which safely and promptly renovates the blood and invigorates the entire system.

Boils Cured.

Mr. C. A. Munson, Bowell, Alta., writes: "I recommend Burdock Blood Bitters as being the best blood purifier there is. About three years ago I was greatly troubled with boils and our druggist advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking two bottles I have not had a boil or even a pimple."

Pimples Cured.

Mr. J. Morehouse, Zealand Station, N.B., writes: "My face and neck were covered with pimples, and I tried all kinds of remedies, but they did me no good. I went to many doctors, but they could not cure me. I then tried Burdock Blood Bitters and I must say it is a wonderful remedy for the cure of pimples."

FROM FARM TO FABLE AND BACK AGAIN

Some of Mr. Ade's Well Fed Herfords

Hitherto Unpublished Portrait of Mr. Ade

THE Story of Mr. George Ade's Splendid Isolation in the Buff Railroad Station and Red Water Tank Section of the Literary Belt of Indiana

BY FRED C. KELLY.

(Copyright, 1910, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

WHEN Mr. George Ade abandoned fables for farming he adroitly located his country estate so that he could not easily become the victim of the pest who "just drops in."

The Ade farm is in the very heart of the buff railroad station and red water tank section of Indiana. It is so situated that if anybody starts from any given point east of a line drawn due north and south of Kokomo it is necessary to go to Chicago before one can get to Brook, which is the name of the Ade establishment. The alternative is to change at Logansport. So completely has Mr. Ade isolated himself in his native Newton country.

Also Mr. Ade himself does not refer to his big estate as "my country place," but just as the Farm. Note carefully the capital F. That's the way he puts it when he has occasion to mention it in a letter. Since he quit writing fables the farm is the only noun he capitalizes except at the beginning of a sentence, and of course names of persons, cities, rivers, &c.—see Harvey's English grammar.

Hazelden Farm—that's the name of it—consists of 480 acres that lie two miles from Brook, Ind., the nearest railway station, four miles from the town of Ade, named after George—and which he says has room to grow to a town the size of Chicago—and thirteen miles from Kentland, where George Ade was born on February 9, 1866. There George's father, Mr. John Ade, eighty-two years old, still lives, after forty years spent in the banking business, from which his son pried him away about two years ago.

Mr. George Ade has travelled far, around the world two or three times, and, like Mr. James J. Hill has taken note of the increasing number of persons in the great wide world to be fed, and of the comparatively little land, sizing up the world as a whole, that is really productive. He figured out that farm land was certain to advance in value. In 1897 he bought one hundred acres. Now his land holdings in the county that he left a few years ago amount to about eighteen hundred acres, Hazelden and two other farms. Most of the land is now worth $150 an acre. From which one may gather that the playwright may be pretty comfortable, even if he owned nothing else and all royalties were to cease. But the royalties keep pouring in. One little fifteen minute playlet, now on the road in vaudeville, alone nets the author $50 a week.

The Ade Family.

Over at Kentland lives Brother Bill Ade, a prosperous farmer himself, and a married man with a family. He has acted as buying agent and chief adviser to George in all his purchases of farm land. He also is a man of considerable importance in the community. Not long ago there was a home talent production at Kentland of "The County Chairman," by Mr. George Ade, and Mr. William H. Ade, who has several times been county chairman in Newton county, played the title rôle. It would be a futile task to try to convince any resident of Kentland, Ind., that Mr. Macklyn Arbuckle ever filled that part as satisfactorily as Bill Ade did.

It was not until a few years ago that the playwright decided to live on one of his farm possessions. He was finding much necessity for a quiet place to write. He had been trying to work in a room in Chicago where he was constantly besieged by insurance men, book agents, salesmen of Honduras Rubber Company stock and friends, all of whom would sit on the edge of his desk and talk. His intention was to build a little place costing not more than $2,500. But the architect kept making little suggestions and the plans grew until the house that was actually built is a country mansion of the old English design—a place that would be pretentious except for its elaborate simplicity.

The farm is eighty miles from Chicago. Trains make the run in about three hours. It would be an even shorter trip than that, but, as Mr. Ade says, "the stations are about eighty feet apart and the trains stops at them all."

At Monsanto—oh, it's no misprint; that's the name of the place—the diner is added to the train. The diner consists of a remarkably fat boy who carries a large basket of sandwiches and "home made pies" and who goes through the train saying "Lun-chuh" in a quiet tone of finality like the clasping shut of a catch on a Saratoga trunk.

"You see, they make him eat all he can't sell," remarks Mr. Ade by way of explaining the corpulence of the itinerant "diner."

Now we're at Brook. Three hours are supposed to have elapsed.

Grouped up stage on the platform about the buff station are villagers, teamsters, peasants, innocent bystanders and others. Several greet Neighbor Ade cordially. He smiles and waves his hand. He stops to inquire of Jim Somebody if that cow of his got all right again, and then hurries out to the highway, where awaits a big seven passenger automobile that five or six of his plays earned for him one evening while he slept.

Thence we proceed two miles to Hazelden Farm. The name Hazelden, by the way, was not suggested by the presence of hazel trees or hazel bushes, or whatever it is that hazel nuts grow on, although there's a lot of them there, but it is a family name, the maiden name of Mr. Ade's grandmother.

The Electrician's Scheme.

Speaking of names reminds George of a story. "These men that put up the electric signs in front of theatres get paid by the letter," he says. "They all hate me, of course. There isn't much graft for them in a 6⅞ name like Ade. They would like Hazelden better. But what I started to tell you was this:—The last time I was in New York one of these electric sign men came up to me and, 'George,' says he, 'I've got a great scheme and I want you to help me out on it. I want to have some manager arrange with Madame Alla Nazimova to play "The Fool Hath Said in His Heart There Is no God." Think of a sign with her full name and the title of the play. Why, I'd make a small fortune.'"

A wonderful grove of mighty oaks stands in front of Mr. Ade's house.

"By the way, Mr. Ade," inquires the observant visitor, "how's it come that you"——

"I know what you're going to ask," breaks in Mr. Ade. "You're going to ask how it comes that I ever escaped calling this place 'The Oaks.' I suppose if I'd been John T. McCutcheon this would now be The Oaks instead of Hazelden. Years ago McCutcheon and I had a little bull bedroom in Chicago, containing a thinly varnished oak bedroom set, a snarly radiator and a few chromos on the wall taken from Sunday newspapers. He decided that the place ought to have a name, the same as the homes of artists you read about in the magazines. So he named our home The Oaks."

At the front door of the Ade home are two smiling, pleasant faced collies, that can trace their lineage back to Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan's kennels. They come romping up and wipe their feet on our overcoat lapels in friendly fashion, by way of imparting the sense of hospitality that pervades Hazelden. One of them is named Artie, after "one of our children that didn't live," as Mr. Ade refers to the play by that title, and the other is called Ort, the name of a friend.

We find a quiet elegance about the grounds at Hazelden that makes one think of a page out of "Country Life in America." Inside subdued elegance and good taste reign. The house fairly out-Shackletons Robert and Elizabeth Shackleton. When Mr. Ade furnished his place most of his shopping was supervised by a woman acquaintance in Chicago who makes a business of selecting household equipment for those who are willing to pay for discriminating taste. She also directed the arrangement of furnishings in the house. But even at that, one wonders how every detail of the household arrangement can retain its lacquer of simple refinement and conspicuous absence of dilettantism, when inhabited by a bachelor of Mr. Ade's manly, masculine type. Everything seems to indicate the deft, cultivated touch of a woman—not a housekeeper, but a woman who imparts something of herself to a home because it is hers.

About this time one is moved to exclaim, "Geeminently, George! Funny you never got married!"

He just smiles. It is a noteworthy fact that there is a conspicuous absence of women's photographs about the house. About the only ones are autographed portraits of women who have taken leading parts in Mr. Ade's plays, Dorothy Tennant, Elsie Janis and a few others, but these are not found on his dressing table or on his desk. They are on the wall and, apparently, there is no more romance attached to them than to the pictures of Mr. Macklyn Arbuckle and Mr. Willis P. Sweetnam. Yet Mr. Ade is no woman hater; moreover, he is a great lover of children. Here and there are pictures of little ones belonging to his friends, and he points them out and brags about what fine children they are.

Tales of Marriage Told.

"You ought to have a bunch of youngsters playing around a big house like this, George," remarked a visitor not long ago.

"Be a great place for them, wouldn't it?" replies George seriously.

Every little while some press agent marries Mr. Ade to one of his leading women, but with the exception that some city editor is good natured enough to run the story, including the reference to the show and when it is to open, nothing ever comes of it.

At present about the only possibility of a romance in Mr. Ade's life concerns a certain unknown woman admirer. Whenever a magazine article appears about Mr. Ade or by him, the article is artistically pasted on sheets of costly, Roycrofty paper and handsomely bound with a leather cover on which is embossed Mr. Ade's name. Then the volume is addressed to Mr. Ade in a woman's handwriting. Some day, perhaps, he will meet this unknown admirer and then—but why anticipate? Meanwhile he simply smiles.

The air of culture about Hazelden is the more noticeable because the house contains thousands of dollars' worth of curios brought from afar, with which it would have been easy to work a bizarre, museum-like effect—which is exactly what did not happen. Mr. Ade in his travels to the Orient and around the world has gathered together works of art that tell of his own refined, cultivated taste. Nearly every article of bric-à-brac has some sort of a "story."

All seem to fit into the general harmony of the home. There are ponderous Burmese plaques, Oriental screens and tapestries, Chinese and Hindu images, Benares brass, bronze Buddhas, Japanese carvings, costly inlaid tables from Japan and China, beautifully carved ivory elephants, strange vases from Borneo, pictures, Pompeiian relics, more plaques and rare pieces of china. Over there is a collection of canes, and enclosed here in a mahogany and plate glass case is a collection of odd rings from many lands. Then there are about a million kodak views that make up collections of scenes from the odd corners of the world.

Two spacious brick fireplaces add to the restful luxury of the place. When the house was being built a neighbor dropped around one morning to watch the operations and noted the brick fireplaces and mantels.

"Goin' to have both of 'em built of brick, George?" he asked.

The author nodded.

The caller looked thoughtful for some moments and then opined, "Well, they'll be all right, but if I was yo I'd have put a leetle more money into 'em and had bird's-eye maple." Thus do tastes differ in the literary belt.

Of course there is a satisfying library. The proprietor of Hazelden is not a collector, however, trying to see how many books he can get together. It is more of a practical, working library, containing sets of books that every literary man wants to read—Dickens, Thackeray, Balzac, de Maupassant, Stevenson, Kipling, Poe, the Arabian Nights and a lot more.

All Mr. Ade's books are in handsome bindings with the exception of a collection of a dozen or more volumes of ancient fables, which appear to have been picked up at secondhand book stores. Their presence is, of course, not difficult of explanation.

Many volumes of modern plays are there and numerous modern novels, many of which contain inscriptions on the fly leaves to Mr. Ade from the authors. If the works of either of the Brownings are there they are not out in plain view. For which circumstance it may be pardonable to pause at this juncture for a subdued murmur of delight. Here and there is a book by George Ade. The author never opens them. He, like most authors, is weary of his own writings by the time they land between covers. But they are there, a part of the setting.

Round the House.

The walls of Mr. Ade's bedroom are covered with pictures of the Ade brain children, scenes from his plays and photographs of actors that played the leading characters, in and out of costume. "From the impersonator to the originator" is a familiar phrase penned on these photographs. Or, if he likes variety, Mr. Ade can look out the window across his vast expanse of farm, with his flower gardens in the foreground and a rose covered arbor of sassafras logs, the whole comprising a scene that is a tribute to the skill of the landscape gardener.

Adjoining the dining room on the first floor is Mr. Ade's workroom, or office, or whatever one may desire to call it. Happily, he himself does not refer to it as his den. It is here that he writes his plays, preparing them in pen and ink for the most part, occasionally dictating a page or two, and later making revisions in the copy after it has been typewritten. When he needs inspiration all he has to do is to glance over at a neatly typewritten label on one drawer of a big mahogany filing case. The label says:—

"BOX OFFICE STATEMENTS."

Hazelden Farm is under the direct supervision of Mr. Joseph Ade, another brother, who, by the way, is also a bachelor; it seems to run in the family. Joe Ade is just as proud of the farm as George is. He points to the big crib, which at the time of this visit is filled to the eaves with corn and oats, awaiting the day when Brother Bill thinks the market is right. Then it will be sold.

"There's 6,500 bushels of corn in there," says Joe. "George'll get at least fifty cents a bushel for it." And his eyes twinkle with pride. Oh, George Ade's farming proposition is no mere hobby. It isn't necessary for him to keep on writing plays to keep up the farm. The soil is that richly productive variety, blacker than a Chicago horizon.

Brother Joe also takes one to see the big Clydesdale horses that are raised at Hazelden, the sheep and hogs and the solemn faced Hereford cattle; also a herd of mules—herd or flock or drove or whatever it is that you call a party of mules—about thirty of them. George Ade is a great admirer of mules.

"When a mule decides not to do a thing," he says, "it doesn't do it. No amount of persuasion or personal abuse will change a mule's plans once it has mapped out the course it thinks it ought to pursue. My opinion is that a mule is a much maligned animal."

Hospitality is the rule at Hazelden, and it is easy hospitality that makes the guest feel free to go and come according to his own desires. If he wants to put on old clothes and take a long walk up the road he does so. That is precisely what Mr. George Marion, who staged many of the Ade plays, would do when he was spending a few days at the farm last summer. He would walk briskly up the road for a mile and back again to make the two miles that he thinks a man should walk before eating breakfast. Farmers would offer to give him a lift, but he'd tell them he preferred to walk. Which gave rise to the suspicion that Mr. Ade's guest was crazy. A man who works in the Indiana fields for a living cannot always appreciate the point of view of the man who deliberately walks when he could ride. One morning Mr. Marion saw Mr. Ade's chauffeur starting toward Brook in a machine after the morning mail. Mr. Marion climbed into the car, rode to the village and then dogtrotted the distance back to the farm, after which he sat down to breakfast and ate eight heartily. That afternoon a native from Brook came out to see Mr. Ade.

"George," said this man, "I don't s'pose it's any of my business, but I feel that I ought to tell you about something that happened this morning. You know that fellow that's visiting you? Well, your man—the chauf—the fellow that runs the automobile, hauled him into town and he come away and left him. The other fellow ran and tried to catch up, but you know yourself a man on foot hasn't any chance to overtake one o' the automobiles."

On another occasion Mr. James Whitcomb Riley was a guest at the farm. Ade had cautioned all his employes to be on the lookout to see that Mr. Riley got everything he wanted.

The morning after Mr. Riley's arrival the host, who had just awakened, saw his big automobile shoot down the driveway and off toward Brook with nobody in it but the chauffeur, who seemed to be in a great hurry. "Heavens!" thought Mr. Ade, in dismay. "What's happened now? Somebody's got hurt and they've rushed off for a doctor sure. Ah, how uncertain are the things of this life."

He inserted himself into his clothes as rapidly as possible, but before he had finished dressing the big car came chuff-chuffing back still at high speed. Mr. Ade rushed downstairs. "What in the world has happened?" he asked, excitedly.

The chauffeur grinned as he took a small package from his pocket. Then the story came out.

Mr. Riley had got up early to stroll about the farm and breathe the crisp morning air. He had come upon Mr. Ade's chauffeur in his walk.

"I suppose," remarked Mr. Riley, "the only real way to get the full enjoyment out of farm life is to put on one's oldest clothes and have plenty of Star tobacco on hand."

The chauffeur took the remark to be a wish. The package that he had brought back from Brook, his record breaking dash was fifty cents' worth of Star tobacco, with which he sought to delight the soul of the poet.

Guests at Hazelden, however, are not left entirely to their own resources. Mr. Ade suggests things to do if time seems to drag. There is boating on the Iroquois, which flows through the farm; swimming in the big concrete tank Mr. Ade has had built, bowling golf on the lawn—Mr. Ade's own invention—playground baseball, and amusements not regularly catalogued that the Ade mind thinks up. Last summer Mr. William T. Hodge, leading man in Mr. Booth Tarkington's "The Man from Home," was among the guests. Mr. Ade arranged with him to put on a Rube makeup and go about the farm acting strangely, to the great consternation of other visitors.

In a few minutes women guests came rushing in to tell Mr. Ade that a queer looking man had been walking about the place and that he had tried to steal a pail of something from the back of the kitchen.

"I'll go speak to him," said Mr. Ade. He walked over and seemed to be talking severely to the stranger who kept pointing at something up in a tree.

"He's a little demented, that's all," explained Mr. Ade when he came back to his guests, "but he's harmless enough. He'll go away soon, I think."

"What did he keep pointing at the trees for?" somebody asked.

"Oh, he thought he saw a pink squirrel."

Every Friday during warm weather there is a baseball game at Hazelden—playground ball—in an impromptu league Mr. Ade has organized between Brook, Kentland, Goodland and other nearby towns. The attendance usually runs to five hundred.

While here on the subject of games and pastimes is as good a place as any to pay one tribute to Mr. Ade without which no article concerning him would be complete.

The tribute is as follows:—Mr. Ade does not play bridge whist.

On his trip abroad last year persons would approach him on shipboard and ask him to sit in a game at bridge, and when he told them that he had not learned the game they looked at him as if he'd said that he had never learned to read. But he stuck out.

About the only card game Mr. Ade cares much about is double solitaire.

Those Eleven Guns.

Probably the biggest lawn party ever held at Hazelden was when Mr. William H. Taft and some two thousand other persons went there in the fall of 1908 for the opening of the republican campaign.

Mention of that event makes Mr. Ade think of a story illustrative of something or other. When arrangements had been made for Mr. Taft's visit to the farm the playwright conceived the idea of planting a number of bombs in readiness and exploding them at the proper time to notify the crowd that the Presidential nominee was approaching. The dramatic, theatric effect rather appealed to him. He went to a place in Chicago and priced bombs. The dealer said they came in lots of a dozen.

"All right," said Mr. Ade; "that's more than we need, but I'll take a dozen."

When he got the things home he touched one off to make sure they worked all right.

The day of the big meeting, when he learned that Mr. Taft was approaching down the road a quarter of a mile, the host had the remaining eleven bombs set off.

In a few minutes an old soldier came hobbling up to the author.

"Mr. Ade," he began, "I want to congratulate you on one thing. I never saw anything like your attention to small details. There isn't one man in a thousand that knows, or that would stop to think if he did know, that eleven guns is the proper salute for the Secretary of War."

"Oh, pshaw!" said Mr. Ade, modestly; "I supposed everybody knew that."

At present there is just one thing that at times makes Mr. Ade's life not worth living. It is that reporters still persist occasionally in publishing supposed interviews with him all done in slang, as the Chimmie Fadden had just come to town—"just blew into your town this morning, and, say, this hotel is a swell joint," and all that.

"I never used slang," says the author of "Fables in Slang," in a hurt tone, "except when I was obliged to as a means of making a living."

Also, Mr. Ade has a secret—he hopes to write the Great American Novel.

"Newspaper Advertising The Acme of Publicity"

"Advertising in Newspapers is the Acme of Publicity.

"The Newspaper reaches every home. It is the welcome guest EVENING OR MORNING and is sought and perused thoroughly by each member of the family who is old enough to read. The frequency with which columns of a Newspaper are scanned naturally impresses on the mind---almost indelibly---the matter contained therein which appears often as does the average advertisement.

"The character and general reputation of the publication is of vital importance. The character of the Newspaper, the estimation in which it is held, and the class among whom it circulates should be the points of inquiry, and should have the proper effect in reaching the decision as to which papers are to be used." Strike Breakers Smuggled In.

Springhill, N.S., Jan. 12.—Not even a cry of "scab" greeted the second carload of men from Montreal upon their arrival in Springhill yesterday. With such secrecy had the company made their arrangements, that before the people in town were aware of the fact, another consignment of strike-breakers were housed on the company's property, behind a rapidly growing fence which will soon encircle the property.

These men will go underground today and get the mine ready for the further parties of coal cutters, which the company assert will soon arrive.

Explosion Burns Three Men.

Forest, Ont., Jan. 12.—By an explosion of gas in the small pump-house on the G.T.R. property, two London men, N. Hogan and W. Smith, and Samuel Brush of Forest, were burned about the face and hands. The men were working at the steam pump which supplies water from a deep well for the locomotive supply. This pump is located in a pit about 20 feet below the surface, over which a small building is erected. Smith lit a match and there was a terrific explosion.

Steamer Helpless In Atlantic.

Sydney, N.S., Jan. 12.—The Black Diamond steamer Cacouna has sailed in search of the French liner Hirando, which is disabled 20 miles off Louisburg, according to news received by wireless. Nothing has been heard of either steamer up to a late hour last night.

A storm Monday night and yesterday morning was felt most severely along the Cape Breton coast.

Anglican Changes.

Kingston, Jan. 12.—Rev. J. Hilliard Smith, Sharbot Lake Mission, is appointed to Leeds, vacant through removal to Wingham of Rev. E. H. Croly. Rev. T. Featon is appointed to Wellington Mission, vice Rev. C. H. De Pencier, removed to Oshawa.

Oil Doesn't Replace Coal.

New York, Jan. 12.—Oil-burning locomotives are more or less of a failure, especially in cold weather, according to the New York Central which, after a season's trial, has elected in favor of coal as the most economical fuel.

Port Arthur's Latest Project.

Port Arthur, Jan. 12.—The city will apply to the Legislature for a charter to construct a transfer railway from the south to the north border of the city, to connect all warehouses and manufacturies with the existing trunk lines.

BODY FOR SCHOOL FIGHT.

France Lays Ground For Big Election Row In May.

Paris, Jan. 12.—Parliament reconvened yesterday for the final session preceding the general elections in May. Besides the completion of the budget and the school question, the principal work of the Chamber will be the perfecting of the finance law and the workmen's pension bill. The tariff bill is still in the Senate and its final passage before adjournment is doubtful.

The Government has decided upon measures to meet the war proclaimed by the episcopate against the public schools and Minister of Education Doumergue will announce the following decision:

First a modification of the bill recently introduced to enable the Government to clothe the public authorities with full power to meet the situation at every point.

Second, the submission of a bill introducing a state control in Catholic or so-called private schools.

Third, the substitution of the state as the defendant for teachers in suits brought against them by Catholic parents' associations.

Girl Takes All the Blame.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Roberta De Jonan, the Philadelphia heiress, who was arrested here Monday with Fred Cohen, a hotel waiter, with whom she eloped on Dec. 29, said yesterday that if court proceedings were begun against Cohen, that she would be his chief defender. She was emphatic in her declarations that the elopement was all her fault and that Cohen was in no way to blame.

"I will promise never to have anything more to do with Mr. Cohen," said Miss De Janon. "I will try to give him some money if my grandfather will allow it. Mr. Cohen told me that he had given his wife $200 before we started on our trip. I would like to see his family well provided for.

"This is not the first time I have run away from home. When I was 12 years old and living with my mother at Clayton, N.Y., I ran away to go to my father, who was in New York City. I only reached Utica when I was caught and sent back home."

This crossing is not a particularly difficult one to cross.

BABIES AND CHILDREN

Should be fairly plump. They ought to put on fat as fast as they use it up; for fat is fuel, and the burning of it makes power and force. Thin children—even along to the age of eighteen or twenty—are in danger from consumption, and from other wasting complaints. The children who starve, and the young men and women who are consumed—why, the very idea of it is frightful. For such as they there is always what is called a "mighty famine" in the land. Food, though it may be, taken plentifully, does not nourish them. It makes no fat; it gives no strength. To prevent this, to cure this, to save the young ones at the mother's knees, and the bright boys and girls who are just looking at the world with hopeful and ambitious eyes, is the purpose of

FERROL TASTELESS

Its success is decided and settled. Thousands owe to it life and health. It is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. In building up pale, puny, emaciated children, particularly those troubled with Anaemia, Scrofula, Rickets, and bone and blood diseases, nothing equals it; its tonic qualities are of the highest order. Parents whose children are sick cannot resort to it a day too soon. A Medical Institution says: "We have used your preparation in treating children for Coughs, Colds and Inflammation; its application has never failed us in any case, even the most aggravated bordering on pneumonia. The children like it, they love the taste of it, and it builds up their bodies; many little children owe their lives to it." The more it is used the less will be the ravages of disease among the people from infancy to old age. Sold by all chemists everywhere.—Warne Drug Co.

Picton, Jan. 12.—An accident is reported from Port Milford, a settlement in the southern part of this county, where George Wattam and Charles Dainard, both aged about fifty, were engaged felling trees in the woods. Not returning last night for their supper their friends set out to look for them.

It is said she has written her husband, asking to be taken back, but Windling declined.

The Marquis de Villalobar, Spanish Minister to Washington, has been transferred to Lisbon.

Fire which broke out at 8.30 yesterday morning did $15,000 damage to the building and contents of the McDonald & Co. mattress factory of Winnipeg.

At London, Lorne Collier, a young man who just got out of jail for abusing horses, is now held for turning his aged adopted mother out of the house into the freezing cold early yesterday morning, when he went home drunk.

Dr. Fred A. Cook, erstwhile Arctic explorer, went away without paying his stenographer, according to Miss Rose Webber, who obtained an attachment yesterday against any available funds the doctor left behind. Miss Webber made affidavits that Dr. Cook owes her $80, and interest.

To Submit Case to Court-Martial.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—The case against Major de la Ronde, chief of police of Ottawa, charged with falsifying pay sheets of No. 5 Company, Army Service Corps, at the Quebec Tercentenary, was before the police magistrate yesterday morning and was postponed to allow of a stated case being submitted to the Court of Appeal on the question of jurisdiction. It was argued that, under the Militia Act, prosecution of militia officers must be initiated by the officer commanding the district, and also that the charges are required to be laid within six months. It was further contended that the alleged offence, having been committed in Quebec, the local court has no jurisdiction. The case will be adjourned from time to time pending the answer of the Court of Appeal to the questions to be submitted in the stated case.

Engineer Took Chance.

Erie, Pa., Jan. 12.—J. C. Butler, engineer of number 23, a fast westbound Lake Shore Railroad passenger train, was yesterday held responsible for the wreck at North East Pennsylvania last Friday, when two men were killed.

Butler, who is 63 years of age, and has been in the employment of the railroad for over forty years, told before the coroner's jury on the witness stand, with tears streaming down his cheek, that he "took a chance," ran past his signals knowing they were out of order owing to the blizzard, thinking the track ahead was clear.

So affected by the old man's statement was the jury that Foreman Cushman refused to sign the verdict.

Will Let Them Talk.

New York, Jan. 12.—The authorities will likely adopt the London plan in regard to granting "freedom of speech" in the parks to anarchists, suffragettes and any others with a grievance against Government and society.

It is claimed that the lack of police interference does no harm to the community and lessens the effectiveness of the arguments of the disconnected. London, dispite the fact that it harors thousands of firebrand tendencies, is never the scene of the outrages which occur in cities where repression is the rule.

Kingston Canadian Club.

Kingston, Jan. 12.—H. W. Richardson is president of the Canadian Club organized here, with 150 members. The other officers are: Hon. president, Hon. Wm. Harty; vice-president, Prof. C. D. Skelton, Cornelius Birmingham, W. S. Ellis; literary correspondent, Prof. J. M. Lanos; treasurer, A. J. Macdonell; secretary, Prof. MacPhail.

Bishop Deplores Costly Hats.

Kingston, Jan. 12.—Bishop Farthing of Montreal, in a missionary address here, suggested to increase givings; some men might do with one cigar less per day, while ladies might reduce the price of their hats. He had heard of women paying as high as $250 for a hat. This was wicked no matter whether the person is rich or not.

Roast For Guelph Police.

Guelph, Jan. 12.—Coroner McLean, reporting to the council the result of the inquiry into the Norrish block fire, censures Chief of Police Randall for not having promptly investigated the story that two men had been seen hurrying from the place, and says "any up-to-date police force" could easily solve the mystery.

Women

Cannot be Strong and Healthy Unless the Kidneys are Well.

Weak, lame or aching backs are the first sign of Kidney Trouble.

Under ordinary conditions they ought to be strong and ready to bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with a weak and aching back. Backaches come from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered that they get out of order.

Weak back is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you in the same way as they have cured thousands of others.

Miss Alberta B. Clarke, Stoney Creek, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with kidney trouble for several years; my back was weak, I had such terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night and tried everything without any benefit. Meantime a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got four boxes and they completely cured me. I now feel as well as I ever did and would advise everyone suffering from Kidney Disease to try them."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MR. STRATTON SPEAKS ON BUDGET DEBATE AT OTTAWA

Hansard Report of the Speech of the Representative of West Peterborough to the House of Commons---An Aggressive Policy of National Development is Advocated.

The following is the Hansard report of the speech delivered in the budget debate by Hon. J. R. Stratton, representative of West Peterborough on Thursday, December 17th:

I desire, Mr. Speaker, to join with others who have spoken on this side of the House in congratulating the Minister of Finance upon the splendid budget he has presented to the people of Canada. I believe that in the statement presented, if I may be allowed to use a general expression, honours are even; I believe that Canada is proud of her Finance Minister, and I believe that the Finance Minister should be proud of his national constituency. The condition of the country being as my hon. friend the Finance Minister has presented it, we are in the most flourishing and happy condition, a condition which has continued practically from the time this administration took office in 1896. I think my friends opposite are rather retroactive in the speeches they have been delivering during the present session; I believe that there has been a tendency on their part to discuss reminiscences, matters that were settled in the general election of 1908. And the worst sinner of them all was my hon. friend from North Toronto (Mr. Foster) the former Finance Minister of Canada. We have been told, for instance—and what individual is there of any consequence or importance in Canada who does not know?—that the Quebec bridge dropped in to the river. Who does not know that that was a matter of distressing loss of life and of serious financial loss to Canada as well? But do hon. members opposite think for a moment that the people of this country believe that the Government were responsible? Do the people believe that the government neglected any part of their duty in accepting the opinions of the engineers who were appointed by them to take charge of the work after most careful precautions to be assured of their reliability and responsibility? But, that the engineers made a mistake, that the bridge would not carry its own weight, this country is aware, and we here are aware. But I do think that has passed away and that there is no necessity of taking up the time of this House in discussing a matter that has been settled in the general election of not long ago.

There is a true test of this government, and that is its administration of the country's affairs. If we can judge by the results we have seen during the past thirteen years, there is no reason to complain of the advance that has been made in that time by 'this Canada of ours.' I desire for a moment or two, to present to the House a few facts to show the progress which has been made. The first essential to the development of the country is population. If we consider the facts, we shall find a decided advance in that direction. In 1896, Canada had a population of 5,086,061. Taking the figures of the ex-Finance Minister (Mr. Foster) given the other day, the population of Canada at the present time is 7,184,000, an increase in thirteen years of 2,097,945 as against an increase during the twenty-nine years when hon. gentlemen opposite had control of the destinies of Canada, of 1,714,067. And, if we accept the economic computation that each additional citizen is worth $1,000, we find that the wealth, the producing capital, of the country has been increased to the extent of over $2,000,000,000. Another criterion of the prosperity of the country is to be found in the business of our chartered banks. The stock in our banks in 1896 amounted to $62,496,183, and in 1909 to $97,436,424, an increase in thirteen years of $35,938,241, not taking into calculation the great increase in market value of the stock or the reserves created by each of the banks. During the last thirteen years of the model regime of hon. gentlemen opposite, from 1883 to 1896, there was only the paltry increase of $1,093,629. But as soon as the people of Canada had their eyes opened to the true condition of affairs and accepted the administration we now have in power things improved, and they have been going along since until we have the conditions represented by the budget presented by the Minister of Finance the other day. Still keeping my finger for a moment on the financial pulse, I find that the savings bank deposits have increased from $61,244,761 in 1896 to $89,384146 in 1909, a difference of practically $30,000,000. So you will see that there is money in the banks for all purposes yet. If we consider the total bank deposits, we find that in 1896 these amounted to $345,039,143, and in 1909 to $771,043,090, a difference of over $360,000,000 in the total bank deposits of this country, brought about by the efficient administration of affairs during this period.

M. Lalor. I would remind the hon. member (Mr. Stratton) that he has forgotten to tell us that the trees have grown also.

Mr. Stratton. We will come to that later on. Another way we have of showing the progress of our country is in the post office receipts. In 1896, the post office receipts of this country amounted to $2,964,014; in 1909, these had increased to $7,401,934. In 1896, hon. gentlemen opposite had a deficit on account of post office of $709,000. From 1896 to 1909, a period of thirteen years, there have been surpluses totalling $4,500,000, besides a vastly better service and postal rates cut by fifty per cent. So it will be seen that there has been activity, prosperity and increase in the business world of Canada.

The postal activity is another index of the advance in the business of the country. The number of money orders issued in 1896 and in 1909 and their value were as follows:

Year	Number.	Value.
1896	1,131,152	$13,081,861
1909	3,586,290	52,627,770

While the number of orders increased by three times their value increased four times.

Another index of national progress is the increase of the railway mileage. The figures of railway mileage in Canada are:

1896	16,270 miles
1909	25,000 miles

In the Liberal 13 years, 10,000 miles of railway were constructed, and in the 13 years of Conservative administration, 6,000 miles.

Another method of gauging our national progress is to examine the figures of our mineral development. The mineral production of Canada has been:

1896	$22,474,256
1908	86,462,723

In these four or five instances that I have given you in order to be brief, I think I have shown that Canada has been making great progress and advancement. I desire, however, to give the hon. gentlemen opposite credit for one feature in which they excelled, that was for the number of commercial failures that took place in Canada during their regime. The number of commercial failures and the amounts involved were:

Year.	Number of Failures.	Amount Involved.
1896	2,118	$17,000,000
1908	1,649	15,000,000

As our friends in the House well know 1908, was a year of extreme financial difficulty. If you take the year previous, 1907, the failures in Canada were only 1,278, of a very much less value. We know what stringency there was in 1908 and the extreme condition that prevailed in that period, and there is no doubt that many of these failures would not have taken place if the general financial conditions had been different. In the thirteen years of Liberal administration the commercial failures have decreased year by year, while during the Conservative regime they increased year by year until in 1896 they were the largest in the history of Canada.

Another means of showing that our country is not going behind, is not increasing its expenditure beyond what it can bear, is by comparison with other countries similarly situated. According to the statements of the Minister of Finance and the hon. member for North Toronto (Mr. Foster) the public debt of Canada amounted to $324,000,000 or $325,000,000 in round numbers; our population amounted to 7,184,000 so that the public debt amounted to $45.33 per head. In Australia we find that they have a debt of $1,200,000,000 and a population under 4,000,000. They have no canals to construct, but it is fair to state that they have built and own their own railways. But we have a railway commission, one of the greatest legal reforms that ever took place in Canada. We have recently added to the jurisdiction of that commission, the telegraphs and telephones, and although we do not own the railways, telegraphs and telephones, I think we are in a better position by placing them under the control of the Railway Commission and if the hon. member for South York (Mr. W. F. Maclean) still thinks that our policy is not sufficiently advanced to meet his views, I think he will agree that the advancement made in this direction has been one of the greatest acts that this parliament has accomplished since confederation and that the people are reaping the advantage of having their claims and difficulties righted immediately on application to the Railway Commission, in a business-like and common sense way. It is satisfactory and effective legislation and the people are enjoying the advantage of it. In Australia, as I said before, they have $1,200,000,000 of debt with a population under 4,000,000 or over $300 per head. Take little New Zealand with their million people and their £9,000,0000 of revenue and their per capita debt of over $300 with their $300,000,000 indebtedness. That colony is offering Dreadnoughts as a man would offer a cigar to a friend. They seem to have, to use a common expression, 'money to burn' and they are offering Dreadnoughts to an empire that is able to turn out Dreadnoughts as fast as our friend Eddy in Hull would turn out bundles of laths or bundles of shingles. I do not desire to discuss that aspect of the case at present, but I desire to call the attention of the House to the fact that although Canada is increasing its indebtedness we have absolute value for the money expended, and our per capita debt is nothing like so great as that of any other country similarly situated. Another great and favourable advance that has been made in Canada is in the revenue as it was explained by the minister in his budget speech the other day. The revenue in 1896 amounted to about $37,000,000, and it has increased until I suppose I might say in round figures it is $100,000,000. The Visit Toronto First and Then Buffalo But are Detained by the Authorities and Will be Brought Home---Explosion of Gas Causes Much Damage---M. J. Butler Receives a Splendid Appointment---Other Late News Despatches.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Three Lindsay school girls, Marion Workman, Wilhemina Gledennan and Helen Myrtle Baldwin, all aged about thirteen or fourteen, anxious to see the world, left their home town yesterday afternoon and came to Toronto. Not finding this city as interesting as they had imagined they went on to Buffalo. Meanwhile the father of the Baldwin girl had come to Toronto in search of them, and by means of telegraph had Buffalo authorities detain them until they could be brought home.

The loss will be several thousand dollars.

DEFENDANT WON CASE

His Honour Judge Roger Gave Judgment in the Famous "Pig" Trial on Monday —Case Created Much Excitement.

MUST GIVE UP PIG

His Honour Judge Roger gave judgment at Millbrook on Monday in the case of George Berry, versus Albert Atcheson, in favour of the defendant, whereby the plaintiff, Berry, must deliver up the sow and also the little pigs born subsequent to the action, to Mr. Atcheson. The question of costs was reserved to be dealt with later. The defendant's counter claim was dismissed without costs. Mr. Robert Ruddy, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. L. Goodwill for the defendant.

In September last, Mr. Atcheson lost his sow. After some weeks he learned that there were two pigs on the property of Mr. O'Brien, and upon investigation found that one of them was his. He took it home, where it was recognized by the family. A few days later the pig was claimed by Mr. Berry, who demanded it to be given up. Upon refusal he brought an action of replevin, thus leaving it for court to determine as to who was the owner. The case was neard at great length, occupying the whole sittings of the court, and in view of the contradictory evidence as to identity, judgment was reserved for the purpose of allowing the judge to inspect the pig which was done later at Fraserville, and judgment given as above.

MR. ROBT. McWHINNIE RETIRING FROM BUSINESS

Offers His Entire $17,000 Stock of Boots and Shoes at Clearing Prices—The Shoe Sale of the New Year.

Those in need of boots, shoes, rubbers, felt goods, slippers, or other article of footwear have a rare chance just now to fill their needs at extra reduced prices. Mr. Robert McWhinnie, who has been identified with the shoe trade of Peterborough for the past 32 years, has announced a Retiring-From-Business sale, which is now in its first week. The high-class character of Mr. McWhinnie's stock of footwear has been well-known for years, and his methods of business, always straightforward and free from criticism. Buyers are, therefore, safeguarded against the introduction of questionable ways during the clearance sale. Every day of this sale will afford rare opportunities for the economic citizen who realizes the big savings it means. The fact that leather is dearer and going still higher, makes this perhaps the greatest shoe opportunity that Peterborough has known. The extra special prices quoted in Mr. McWhinnie's advertisement in another column are but a small sample of the general reductions all over the store, and serve to show how genuine the sale is.

GET COAL BY THE BAG

Instances of Families Who Do Not Buy Fuel in Larger Quantities— Dealers and the Workmen Meet With Occasional Cases.

MONEY IS SCARCE

Buying a solitary bag of coal suggests home conditions that cannot be very comfortable and must of necessity demand a stinting along other lines of the household's wants. Yet instances of this kind are not few, although the general public may not know of cases. The fuel dealers and the men who drive the teams have many experiences on this sadder side of life in delivering fuel to families who must get every calori from each piece of coal or stick of wood. The more observant citizen sometimes notices a wood sleigh carrying a half or quarter of a cord of slabs and with almost a certainty he surmises that it is going to some needy family who can make only small purchases. An Examiner reporter in talking with a driver about the matter learned that the situation was graver than the average citizen was any idea of. He would not give any details or names, stating that he did not think it fair to the people. He had seen worse winters, he said, but if there were persons who felt charitably inclined it would be an easy matter to render such assistance to families, some of whom were really in want and others were sailing close to the line.

OFFICERS INSTALLED ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Meeting of Court Chemong I. O. F.— Banquet Following With Addresses.

The annual installation of officers of Court Chemong, No. 530, ndependend Order of Foresters will be held to-morrow (Thursday) evening, at 8 o'clock in the S. O. E. Hall, Hunter St.

Morgan, M.A., of Toronto, who is a talented elocutionist and singer. A banquet will be held during the evening, to which the members and their wives are invited.

A CARD OF THANKS

The Temperance and Moral Reform League at a meeting last night wished to thank all those who so kindly gave the services of their vehicles on election day and assisted in polling the large vote for Local Option. Also to all those who arranged for refreshments and in every other way did what they could for the success of the Local Option Clause. 1diw

WOMAN WORKED 35 YEARS AS A MAN AMONG ROUGH LUMBER "JACKS"

Homeless and Poor, Desiring to Remain Upright She Went Into Lumber Camp as a Cook---Her Secret Was Never Discovered Until a Few Days Ago---Now Old and Feeble---Was Sent to Jail Where Identity Became Known.

Examiner Special.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—"I coudn't get any work because I was a woman, I didn't want to starve, and I did want to keep straight. That is why I put on men's clothing and worked as a cook in the Maurice lumber camps for the past thirty-five years."

Such was the story told to Governor Vallee by Miss Adeline Dubois on Monday.

A feeble old man had been picked up on Chaboillez Square by Detective Pigeon the night before, and had been sentenced in the Recorder's Court to eight days for vagrancy more as protection than anything else. He had given his name as William Dubois.

Arrived at the jail, Governor Vallee looked him over, and, struck with the signs of weakness in the man's beardless face, told the guards to give him a bath and a suit of clean clothes and take him to the hospital.

But the old man objected strenuously to being put in the men's jail.

"I cant' go there," he cried, "I'm a woman."

A Touching Story.

A doctor was summoned, for the prisoners sometimes get some queer notions in their heads, and he verified this statement.

Her story, as told to the mazed Governor, was a touching one. Born in Three Rivers 65 years ago, she had been left an orphan at an early age At first she had succeeded in supporting herself by acting as general servant and cook in different houses in Three Rivers; but there came a time when she was 28 years old, when she could find no work. Her mistress had died, the home had broken up, and she was left penniless.

"It was then that the idea of changing my sex occurred to me," she said. "I knew that a good male cook was always welcomed with open arms in the lumber camps, where there never yet was a woman cook, and I could cook, and could do it well. So I got a suit of mens' clothes, cut my hair off short, and applied for the position. I never was very good looking," said Miss Dubois with a sigh, "so the deception was not so hard as it might seem.

Secret Was Safe.

"Well, that was the beginning. And I have lived in the St. Maurice camps ever since among about the roughest lot of men that ever existed. But the secret of my sex was never discovered; and my life, on the whole, was fairly happy. Only lately I became too old, and could no longer get work. So I came to Montreal to try and find something, and now——"

Governor Vallee communicated with the nuns at Fullum Street Jail, and the good sisters gladly took in the man-woman.

Although there is a law which provides heavy penalties for the act of masquerading in attire belonging to the other sex, it is pretty certain that nothing will be done in this case, as the woman took to mens' clothing from necessity, and with an innocent intention.

An Exceptional Cast Is Supporting Viola Allen

Yesterday's Montreal papers speak very enthusiastically of "The White Sister," which opened at the new Princess Theatre for a week's engagement on Monday night. In referring to the excellent cast the Montreal Herald says:

Messrs. Liebler & Co. in their program announcement of the late Marion Crawford's play "The White Sister," observe that it is presented by an "exceptional cast." The phrase is exactly appropriate. In these days when the terms "New York Cast," "All Star Cast," "Incomparable Cast" and so on, are used indiscriminately to cover any aggregation of actors whose names are known beyond their native town, but who have not learned the first rudiments of enunciation or stage bearing, a cast whose every utterance and a pleasure to listen to is indeed an "exceptional cast." Not in the past decade has any American Company appearing in Montreal rendered the opening and expository act of a complicated and difficult play with such unalloyed pleasure to the audience as did Miss Allen and her supporters at the Princess last night. There was none of that agonized expectancy of waiting through a half hour of vague incompetence for the arrival of the real actors. Indeed, the play went just as well whether the leaders were on or off.

Gifts To St. Vincent De Paul Society Acknowledged

The Sisters of St. Vincent's Orphanage, London St., tender their sincere thanks to the kind friends whose generosity made Christmas so pleasant for the little ones under their care.

The Orphanage is as yet a hidden treasure, little known to the public, but we trust that the charity of its first benefactors will encourage others to follow their good example, and aid the Sisters in the work they have undertaken for God's little ones.

The following is a list of the gifts received:

A Friend, sleighs for the children.
Mrs. Merrill, oranges.
Mr. D. O'Connell, chocolates
A Friend, fifty dollars.
Mr. Ahern, candies.

STOMACH DISTRESS IS ENDED FOREVER

Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Gas or Indigestion Vanish in Five Minutes.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis, or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 2½-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fulness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

LICENSE REDUCTION GHOST STORY.

In the Toronto Globe and the Toronto World to-day appears an article in which Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, and head of the License Department strongly repudiates the action of a local newspaper and its personal inspiration in making unwarranted and unauthorized statements in regard to the attitude of Hon. Mr. Hanna and the Government in regard to license reduction in Peterborough. Both articles are to the same effect, that in the Conservative journal, the World, being however, the stronger. Under the heading, "Minister Incensed," The World says:

Hon. W. J. Hanna is much incensed over an item which appeared in the Peterborough Review, recently, and which has been extesively copied, in which a member of the Ontario Government is quoted as saying that where the local option vote had been as large as in Peterborough and Brantford, it would be necessary for the authorities to cut down the licenses by one-half.

"This statement," declared Mr. Hanna, "is entirely without foundation. Under the act, neither the government nor the department have any power to enforce their views under the circumstances, if views they had, and what is more, the government has carefully abstained from dictating to local authorities under such circumstances as these. If these local municipalities wish a reduction of licenses, the electors may give effect to their views through their municipal council."

Hon. Mr. Hanna must feel very indignant at being so misleadingly mis-quoted; but he need not be surprised if he knew the source of the misquotation as well as we do in Peterborough. The false statement attributed to Mr. Hanna came from the same impeccable and distinguished authority, which, on the eve of the last Dominion election, in October, 1908, declared that IT was responsible for procuring an immense contract for the Canadian General Electric Company, which, as a matter of fact, it did not get. To make capital with the electors by claiming credit that was not deserved and asserting as fact what was not fact, was quite in line with the tactics employed in seeking to gain popularity and avour with a moral reform organization by posing as the influence that led a minister of the crown to make a declaration he did not make, in respect to a policy which was not his policy, nor that of his government, and withal, contrary to the statute. Anybody, that knew anything about such matters, knew that the Review was wrong in its gleefully displayed statement to the effect that the Government would force municipalities in the position of Brantford and Peterborough to cut down the number if licenses. The policy and practice under the late Government were and no doubt the policy and practice of the present government, and as the statute requires, are—to place the responsibility of dealing with local licenses upon the local license commissioners, to give them a free hand and to hold them responsible for their action. In spite of what was said and implied by the Review, we have the authority of the Provincial Secretary for stating that neither he nor the Government will attempt to coerce either municipalities or the license commissioners. He that runs may read.

MR. STRATTON SPEAKS ON BUDGET DEBATE

tangible results of this improvement are seen in a score of ways. One of the great advantages flowing from the rearrangement of the affairs of this country has been the great fostering of the agricultural industry, the spread of agricultural knowledge from end to end of Canada, the improved marketing facilities that have been provided to enable the farmer to get his products to market more easily, rapidly, satisfactorily, and cheaply. Another industry that has received great assistance from parliament has been the iron and steel industry of the whole country. We have had an expansion of trade, we have had to provide public buildings and public conveniences for the people, we have had to strengthen our domestic defence.

We have improvement in our postal facilities, in the cheapening of the rates and we have improvement in inter-imperial communication between Canada and England. In a word, with the increased revenue we have been laying the foundation for the future progress of this country, a progress which was referred to by a speaker on this side of the house before we adjourned for dinner. It may be accounted a small thing, as he pointed out, that the trade of this country in 1896 amounted to $230,000,000, while last year it amounted to the enormous figure of $650,780,000, an average for the past five years of $540,000,000; and for the year 1909 it is $571,-769,000, equivalent to $100 per head on an estimated population of 6,500,-000. If the strings had not been loosened, if there had not been an easing of the conditions that prevailed in 1896, we would not have been able to bring about the expansion of trade we have enjoyed during the past few years. We have now in round figures an annual income of about $100,-000,000. The revenue comes, I suppose about two-thirds of it, from customs, and I am satisfied that the expenditure of that income has been made for the general advantage of all the people of Canada, and it corresponds with the commercial activity and the commercial interests of the country. If we did not have this prosperity, if we were not able to supply our luxuries or necessities, I am sure the Customs Department would not have the revenue they have to-day. But with the change of conditions that has taken place since 1896, with the added material means afforded us to supply our necessities and wants, we are able as citizens of Canada, not by drawing blood, as a speaker intimated the other day, from the people of Canada, but we have been able to satisfy our necessities and luxuries while contributing to the revenues of the country the way I have mentioned. So we have, during the last few years, reached the highest revenue in the history of Canada. I say we are to be congratulated upon the extremely satisfactory conditions that the Minister of Finance announced the other day, and I am sure that if the British Chancellor of the Exchequer had been as well able to bridge the gap between income and outgo, between what they have to buy and what they have to spend the Lords would not have sent the ship of state out on the stormy sea, they would have congratulated themselves on the successful position of affairs, they would have approved of the budget, and there would not have been that trouble which the member for South York (Mr. Maclean) complained of this evening. We welcome the increased revenue, because there are certain requirements of Canada, certain needs, that have to be met in order that we may pursue the career of national development upon which we have entered. If we are to realize the prediction of the right hon. the Prime Minister when he said that the twentieth century belonged to Canada, we have some things to do, we must do what is required of us, we must see that we realize that prediction to the full. It may cost a good deal, but it is our opportunity, we have the facilities, we have the resources, and all it needs is that we should put our shoulders to the wheel in order to make the twentieth century the possession of Canada. I am sure the Prime Minister and his colleagues have never shrunk from doing their duty to Canada. I am sure that in the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific and other public works that I propose to point out, they have taken the full responsibility of their position, they have grasped the great responsibilities of this Dominion, and, as far as they are concerned, they are bound to procure the greatest possible advantage from the expenditures that are necessary to be made. I think that for a population of 6,000,000 or 6,500,-000 in Canada, we have accomplished a great deal, for instance by the expenditure of $100,000,000 upon railways and $100,000,000 upon canals. Canada has achieved a record that cannot be duplicated in the history of any country that I know of. Canada is laying the foundations of a great and prosperous nation. This country is in a far different condition from what it was a dozen years ago. At that time our revenue amounted to $36,000,000, and our annual expenditure to $37,-750,000. For my part I do not attach much importance to a deficit of $1,-750,000. But in these golden and hopeful days, in these days when money is rolling into the exchequer with such volume, Canadians will not be satisfied, the members of this House will not be satisfied, with conditions of this kind, because we have so much need of money, so much need of development, besides what we have undertaken and besides what we are endeavouring to complete. I have myself a good deal of sympathy for those who endeavoured at that time to make bricks without straw, and I am sure those hon. gentlemen now look with jealousy and envy upon the overflowing treasury of the Finance Minister at the present time. But hon. gentlemen complain of the extravagance of this government. Hon. gentlemen mistake the meaning of the word extravagance. They desire to show that wherever the government expends money it is extravagance. No matter for what purpose this government may appropriate money, it is extravagance. If it happens to be in a Liberal constituency it is a scandal, and the Conservative press cry out that the government are buying up the constituency.

Some hon. Members. Hear, hear.

Mr. Stratton. Yes.

An hon. Member. What about Kent county, New Brunswick?

Mr. Stratton. I don't know anything about Kent county, New Brunswick, but if an appropriation has been made for Kent county, it was made in the public interest, or it would not have been made. I have no doubt whatever that my hon. friend will have some difficulty in proving the insinuation he has made at the present time. If we receive a reasonable return for the money spent, if we are getting all the people expect from the expenditure, and if necessity requires that the government should appropriate a sum here and a sum there, if requirements have been more indicated in one constituency of this country than another, if it is necessary to get an appropriation for a public work or a public building, our hon. friends opposite say that it is done for the purpose of bribing the constituency. Yet my hon. friends will apply to the government of the day for grants for their constituencies and they will not find fault when the government makes the appropriation. But it is a scandal when money is appropriated for a constituency represented by a Liberal and we are charged with attempting to buy up a constituency according to the statement of hon. gentlemen on the other side of the House. They are speaking, and they continuously speak with reproach to the members of the government because of these expenditures. Well, where have they been able to show that any public expenditure has been undertaken that is not required in the best interests of the country? They have been unable to show that any public building has been constructed that has not been required for public purposes. They may say that the government are extravagant for the time being, but I can remind hon. gentlemen opposite that in the city which I have the honour to represent they erected a post office twenty years ago which is absolutely inadequate to the requirements of the business to-day. They not only built a post office, but they had some trouble over the site which they purchased, and they afterwards, to satisfy the urgent demands of rival members of the Conservative party with corner lots to sell, erected a custom house on another property which the government of the day were forced to purchase for the sake of peace in the family. No doubt, hon. gentlemen will say, although this is ancient history, that the government did right at that time in building beyond absolutely necessary present requirements. We have the advantage of the difficulties they created in their own party by not only having a custom house but a post office as well. I mention that to show that while it may look to-day as if the government are spending a larger sum than is necessary on the erection of public buildings. I hope that in twenty years from now there is no part of this fair Dominion that will not outlive any building that the government may erect for public purposes. I hope that the Minister of Public Works will go on in the way in the which he is going and erect buildings that will be in keeping with the advance of the country and that he will not be ashamed to look back twenty years from now upon what he has accomplished and that his judgment will not have been found at fault in having led him to erect buildings that had outlived their usefulness.

The hon. member for North Toronto (Mr. Foster), if I took his words correctly, said that this government had taken from the pockets of the people $922,000,000, and, after endeavouring to create a misleading impression by an insinuating statement before the people of the country, with one sweep of the hand, he asked: What have they to show for it? Let us take one instance alone. The expense of the Intercolonial railway, thirteen years ago, amounted to $4,000,000. To-day it amounts to about $10,000,000. That would account for $50,000,000 of expenditure alone. Yet, he asks: What have they done with the money? The money has been spent in the improvement of the rolling stock, in the extension and the renewal of the railway, in increasing wages to the employees and in betterments. I would ask if this country has not received full value for the $7,000,000 or $8,000,000 which has been expended upon immigration? Have we not received full value for the work which we have undertaken? I see it stated in a newspaper to-day that 'the farmer, not Fielding' has produced the good times. The man who produced the good times in this country was the man who, thirteen years ago, assumed the full responsibility of the inauguration of a thorough immigration policy. That policy has been of such advantage to Canada that the farmers who have gone to the west have been able to produce the wealth that was spoken of the other day, and it is the man who instituted that immigration policy, who gave to the people of other lands the information which it was absolutely essential to let them have, who distributed broadcast, I suppose upon the doorstep of every farm house in the western United States, pamphlets setting forth the advantages of Canada, to whom must be given the credit in large measure for the prosperity we are enjoying to-day. Farmers came from the United States two or three at a time, saw the great advantages of the west, and to-day we have them coming in hundreds, yes in thousands, taking up the lands in the western portion of Canada that have proved so valuable, and it is this immigration that has done so much for our country. We have, I repeat, spent $7,000,000 and $8,000,-000 in thirteen years. But hon. gentlemen opposite, when they were in power, only spent sufficient to show us that the money was wasted and that no good return came from it. It was, therefore, absolutely necessary to have money expended in a more effective way. The hon. member for North Toronto endeavoured to point out that the $922,000,000 had been expended improperly, or rather wasted. I have shown that $50,000,000 have been expended in connection with the Intercolonial railway. I have shown that $7,000,000 or $8,000,000 have been expended for immigration and that Canada is having the full benefit and advantages therefrom, and I have shown that hon. gentlemen opposite only spent about enough to be wasted in the time that they were in power. I would like to ask if he thinks the improvements that have been made in our waterways, in our lighthouses, and in our coast line, not including large expenditures for services of similar usefulness, that have cost large sums of money have not resulted in advantage to the country? Does he think that the expenditure upon the St. Lawrence channel, which has been made almost as safe for navigation as a small mill pond, is not of general advantage to Canada? Was he justified in making the insinuation that he did make? When we see the Montreal harbour, which has been made an ocean port, when we see Montreal rivalling New York as a grain port, when we see the greatest vessels afloat landing their cargoes in the harbour of Montreal, can my hon. friend or any one else say that the expenditure which has been made upon this harbour has not been for the general advantage of Canada, and for the improvement of our shipping facilities? Does he say that the money being spent on Toronto harbour —from $500,000 to $750,000—is wasted money? He referred the other evening to the St. Andrew's rapids. He would hardly make that speech in Winnipeg; at least I am told that he forgot to deliver it when he was in Winnipeg very recently, because we all know that the money that has been expended is of the greatest advantage to the people of Winnipeg and of the tributary district. He pointed to the premier of this country and told him that he was the custodian and president of the board and that the other members of his cabinet were his directors and jointly the custodians of the funds of the people. We know that he is the president of the council and that his colleagues are his directors, and we also know that they are prepared to take the full responsibility of the expenditures they have made. The advantages which the people of this country have derived are greater than the expenditures the government have made. Does my hon. friend say that the $500,-000 spent on the western gap of Toronto harbour was money thrown away? If he does, the hon. member for West Toronto will not agree with him. Will my hon. friend from Victoria (Mr. Hughes) say that the money spent on the Trent Valley canal has been wasted?

Mr. Hughes...Does the hon. member want an answer?

Mr. Stratton. Yes.

Mr. Hughes. I will say that this

UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

She called upon her lawyer and said to him: "Of course this visit will surprise you—I want a nice divorce." "Why, madam," cried the lawyer, "you're talking through your hat; your husband just adores you, and all the town knows that." "Of course I know he loves me," she answered, with a smile, "but that will cut no figure—divorces are in style. Decrees were won in triumph by friends of mine, of late, and every time I meet them I feel so out of date! I've just come from a party—the swellest of the town; I felt like some old woman who wear's a last year's gown; and all the ladies chattered of husbands in their string, decrees of separation, and all that sort of thing." "But, madam," said the lawyer, "what reasons can you give? For better, finer husbands than yours. I think, don't live." "What do I want with reasons?" she answered in a huff; "I want a separation, and that should be enough; I want the rare distinction a court of justice lends; I'm feeling too old-fashioned among my lady friends. I must have some good reason? I do not think you're nice; his name is William Henry—that surely will suffice.

government has been sorely negligent in not expending the full amount in proper time on that canal, The canal should have been completed long ago. And if the hon. gentleman (Mr. Stratton) would only join me in seeing that the money is expended on the Trent canal instead of on ditches like the Newmarket canal we would accomplish something.

Mr. Stratton. I can tell the hon. gentleman that in the last thirteen years in which the Liberal government has had control of the affairs of this country, they have expended more on the construction of the Trent Valley canal than the party which the hon member (Mr. Hughes) supports expended during the previous forty years. And as to the Newmarket canal I may tell the hon. member that we have not forgotten there was at one time such a thing as a Haggart ditch otherwise called the Tay canal, and I do not know that to-day I would swap the Newmarket canal for the Haggart ditch. Will the hon. member from St. John say that the money proposed to be expended on improving the harbour of St. John is an improper expenditure? Will the Conservative members who come from the west say that the money that is being expended at Fort William and Port Arthur in making these habours fit for the accommodation of the growing trade of the west is an expenditure in the wrong direction? Will these hon. gentlemen opposite say that the new piers in connection with the Quebec bridge should not be built? Will they say now that the Grand Trunk Pacific which has cost a great deal and is costing a great deal more should not be constructed? We knew when it was undertaken that it would cost a great deal of money, but we believed it was the right thing to do for we knew it would be necessary to provide transportation facilities for the vastly increasing products of the western country. Will hon. gentlemen opposite say that the subsidies to the different provinces of this Dominion, which have increased per year five million dollars, is money wasted? I do not think they will. I see by the papers that the premier of Quebec is consulting with the premier of Ontario to-day, and I would surmise that possibly one subject of their conference is that the provinces should ask more from the Dominion treasury. Will hon. gentlemen opposite say that the increased expenditure on the public service, the increased remuneration of employees, is not in the public interest? Will they say that the one and one-half million dollars expended on the militia in the days of the Conservative rule would be sufficient expenditure on the militia of Canada to-day? My hon. friend from Victoria (Mr. Hughes) knows the condition our military forces were in during the Conservative regime, and he knows that although our militia service is probably not perfect at present, that it is vastly superior to what it was then? And yet in view of all this the hon. member for North Toronto (Mr. Foster) rises and set all these things aside with one sweep of the hand and he asks: What has become of the $922,000,000 expended by the government in twelve and three-quarter years? If time permitted, it could be easily shown that it was well expended and easily justified; the insinuation involved was most unfair. Will any man on the other side of the House say that the Minister of Agriculture has made any bad expenditures in giving to the farmers of Canada the advantages which they now enjoy? Will they say that the Minister of Agriculture did wrong in spending money to provide transportation facilities for the products of the farmers, and for enlarging and improving their markets?

Now, I have not asked the Minister of Agriculture for anything, and I may tell him in advance that I do not want anything, and therefore hon. gentlemen will recognize that I am disinterested in any compliment I may pay him. I will take the liberty of telling the right hon. the Prime Minister that if all the ministers in his cabinet have presided over their departments as acceptably to the people as the Minister of Agriculture has presided over his; if they have displayed, as I am sure they have done, the same anxiety for the public welfare as the Minister of Agriculture has displayed for the welfare of the farmers of Canada, if they have conducted the affairs of the country in as progressive a spirit as the Minister of Agriculture has, then the right hon. gentlemen has been happy indeed in the choice of his confreres. And, if the government should see its way to increase the expenditure for the benefit of the farmers of Canada, I think I can safely say that we on this side of the House will give any proposal of that kind our warmest support. Now, let me point out that the fisheries of Canada last year gave a return of $25,451,986, and let me ask these gentlemen opposite if they can honestly complain of the money expended to stimulate that great industry? Will these gentlemen opposite say that the money that has been expended on immigration both by the former Minister of the Interior and the present minister is money that has not been well spent? Our friends from the west will tell us that fifteen years ago there were large areas of land as barren as the rocks of Muskoka, and which to-day are as productive as any soil in the world, and that as a result of the policy of this government. Will these gentlemen opposite say that the flower of the American farmers who are leaving their homes to the south of the line and flocking into this country are not welcome citizens of Canada. From 1903 to 1909, 220,603 immigrants came to Canada from the United States, and 700,391 came from all countries. In ten years, from 1898 to 1909, immigrants, cash and effects equivalent to over 200 millions of dollars have come to this country from foreign lands. Is that not a condition of affairs indicating the prosperity which the hon. member for North Toronto could not see about him? Does it not show that the $120,000 spent in 1896 on immigration by the government of that day was only sufficient to be ineffective, whereas in 1907-8, when an immigration policy that was a policy was adopted by the government, $1,074,697 was spent on immigration, and the results have justified the government in adopting an aggressive policy.

We on this side of the House are reproached, and perhaps properly so, for not contributing our fair share towards the defence of the empire, and to remove that reproach the Minister of Finance has placed in the estimates of this year a sum of $3,000,000. Will that be improper use of the public funds? I may again point out to my hon. friend from Victoria and Haliburton (Mr. Hughes) how the militia was starved in 1896. In that year there was spent on the militia a little over $1,136,000. They were not in a satisfactory condition. The annual drill was inefficient; the brigades throughout the country were in anything but a satisfied condition, but when this government came into power, they adopted a different mode of conducting the militia affairs of the country. They increased the expenditure year after year, until last year it amounted to six and half millions of dollars, and we have to-day a force perhaps as efficient as that of any colony or any country. Some time ago both sides of this House decided upon the beginning of a naval expenditure and upon assuming a share of the imperial burden. Last session a naval resolution was adopted unanimously by the House but some on the opposite side have deserted our ranks. Some of our ships have sprung a leak; some of them have been foundered on the rock of Dreadnoughts, others on the rock of cash contribution; and one noble barque has completely foundered in the deep water of no navy at all. There must be a divided opinion among the hon. gentlemen on the opposite side of the House with regard to how far they are prepared to go in a naval defence policy.

Mr. Nantel. On the other side, what is it?

Mr. Stratton. Yes, on the other side. They seem to be very much exercised about what the government policy will be on this matter. The Minister of Finance stated the other day that an appropriation would be made, and we are about to make a considerable expenditure in that direction. But we want our friends on the opposite side of the House, if possible, to have their minds made up to some course that will be loyal and patriotic to the empire, and if they do, we are satisfied that they will support the policy of the government when it is brought down.

Mr. Boyce. May I ask the hon. gentleman a question? He has asked this side of the House to support a policy on the naval question, of which he himself is in favour. Will he be kind enough to state to the House what that policy is, if he knows what it is?

Mr. Stratton. My hon. friend has before him the resolution of the House which was adopted unanimously last session, and for which he voted; and before he will be asked to vote on any question of policy, a Bill or resolution will be laid before the House by the government, and hon. members will then be asked to support or oppose that.

Mr. Boyce. May I ask my hon. friend to implement what he has just said by stating whether the policy he has been speaking of is contained in that resolution, or whether he refers to something further?

Mr. Stratton. The policy of the government will be presented at the proper time.

Mr. Boyce. And yet my hon. friend was in favour of it, although he does not know what it is.

Mr. Stratton. I said that the policy of the government when introduced would be such that I hoped hon. gentlemen opposite would have their minds settled and would be able to support it. I have never yet found the government of the day asking their supporters to vote blindly for anything.

An hon. MEMBER. They could not do it.

Mr. Stratton. No, it could not be done. We desire to have some of the money of this country expended in other directions. In the province of Ontario, if I may be allowed to refer to a personal matter, while I was a private member of the local legislature, I made an address on the budget in which I endeavoured to point out to the people of the province that we had a large territory yet undeveloped and unexplored of which the ordinary citizen of the country knew practically nothing, and I pressed upon the government the desirability of having a development and exploration policy. The government adopted my view, and in the following year, when I was a member of the government, I had the pleasure and privilege of helping to put into force what I had advocated as a private member of the House. We sent about ten exploration parties into what was then known as New Ontario. They returned in the course of a year and reported to the minister that they had discovered a clay belt of about 1,500,000 acres, that they had found pine timber of considerable extent, and great areas of spruce and poplar of immense value as pulp wood to the people of the province.

Then the question arose, how were we going to get into that country? It was decided by the government to build a railway. No one came forward with offers, to construct it, and the government of the province undertook the work. This was the first railway constructed by a provincial government in this Dominion, if my memory serves me correctly. In the construction of that railway, the object of which was to reach the clay belt and to bring into consumption the pulp wood of the north country, silver was found;—what is now known as Cobalt was one of the results of the building of that road. Since then, the people have had the advantage of about $20,000,000 taken from the mines of the Cobalt district. And my opinion is, Mr. Speaker, that if we spend a little more money in the development of our country, in the exploration of portions that have not yet been explored, we shall make other finds valuable as these in the province of Ontario. We have pulpwood in this province that is not now available, we have minerals still undiscovered. We know that the route of the Transcontinental is through the rear portion of Quebec and Ontario, and the reports of the Transcontinental commissioners show that there is a vast quantity of agricultural lands in that region. They tell us that the line from Moncton to Winnipeg is divided into three sections. Section C contains 5,800 square miles, or 3,712,000 acres; section D contains 10,100 square miles, or 6,464,000 acres; section E contains 3,000 square miles, or 1,920,000 acres, a total of 18,900 square miles, or about 12,096,000 acres. And of this sixty per cent. is of value as agricultural land. Passing down Sparks street in this city the other day, my attention was attracted by a photograph in a shop window. It was a photograph of a silver nugget of 2,100 pounds weight. It suggested the great wealth which has yet to be uncovered in this new territory of ours. I am hoping to see—and expecting every day to see—that, in the construction of the Transcontinental railway through Quebec there will be discovered mineral wealth equal to or greater than that we enjoy in the province of Ontario. I am hoping that the forest wealth, and mineral wealth to be made available will be such as to more than ever attract attention to our great resources. The area in the three sections mentioned from Moncton to Quebec is seven or eight times as large as Prince Edward Island. That is a territory of some importance to the people. And when we consider the great territory now being opened up west of Winnipeg by the Transcontinental, we find that over 200,000,000 acres will be made available for grain-growing. The hon. member for North Toronto stated the other day that in 1900 we had from the west 32,000,000 bushels of grain, in 1907 160,000,000, in 1908 230,000,000 and in 1909 the crop amounted to 313,000,000 bushels. The hon. gentleman endeavoured to point out that the farmer, not Fielding, had brought these good times. But I would like to ask the hon. member, were he in his seat, who put the farmer in a position to give to Fielding the revenue that gave to the government the opportunity to present the budget we are now discussing? The hon. gentleman says that the increase produced by the farmer is worth $50,000,000 and may be more, and he asks what particular praise and honour are due to the government for that? And I say, the honour is due to the government for their foresight in the administration of our affairs, for adopting a policy when they came into power that has brought about the conditions to-day. Praise and honour are due the government for the wise immigration policy they adopted. In 1895-6, we received from Dominion lands $276,326.14. But what did this government receive last year? In 1908-9, our receipts from Dominion lands were $2,175,214.31. In 1900, the product of the west under the government of that day was 82,069,000 bushels. I do not know what it was in 1896; we have no returns to show. But, as I have already said, the crop in 1909 was 313,000,000 bushels. Deduct from this the 82,000,000 bushels produced in 1900, and we find an increase in nine years of 231,000,000 bushels of grain. And if we are able to induce the same influx of population into the west as has been going on—and I hope and believe they will come in far more speedily—we shall be able to demonstrate that which we have said so often, that Canada is the granary of the empire. Hon. members opposite depreciate expenditures; they criticise every appropriation made by the government to carry on the affairs of the country. Well, my experience is that there are no angels in the management of worldly affairs, but I believe the government are doing all they possibly can. They are liable to make mistakes, and the mistakes liable to our common humanity. But, on the other hand, if there are any angels on the other side of the House, they have taken good care to disguise themselves, for I have not found them since I had the honour of knowing them at knowing the way in which the country was being conducted under their regime. There is a provision in the estimates of $3,000,000 to assist in the maintenance of the navy, but that is being proposed by the government. I am not in favour personally of contributing any sum of money by way of cash contribution to the imperial defences. I believe that is against Liberal policy and against Liberal principles. I am opposed to that for two reasons. I believe that no British people should provide money to be expended except under their own supervision, that there should be no taxation to be expended by other people. It violates a broad principle that actuates this government and the people of Canada, and I do not believe that the country would be at all satisfied if a contribution were made by this government to the imperial government for the purpose of building Dreadnoughts.

I attempted to show that we still have in this province great mineral wealth, and that in the development of these now unexplored regions, we will be able to show the people of the world that Canada is as rich in minerals and other valuable natural resources, as we are sometimes fond of stating. We do know that the Cobalt district is the richest district of its character in the world, and I hope that in the country yet undeveloped there will be opportunities for the uncovering of mineral rocks that have been moss covered and weather beaten for ages and that we will have more than one Cobalt district in this country.

Coming to the administration of our natural resources generally, I believe that we should adopt a policy that will give to our own country, all the development it is possible for it to have, that we should manufacture into the completed state all the iron and steel and pulp wood, and nickel that it is possible for us to do in this country. By quoting a figure or two, I will be able to show the House—and I am speaking only for myself and not at all discussing the question of any export duty—what amount of money we are permitting to leave our country by allowing our timber to be exported in the condition it now is. At the same time, I believe that that perhaps can be better regulated in another parliament than this. A cord of pulp wood, whether in the tree or on the wharf, is worth from $2 to $7 a cord. In low grade paper, it is worth from from $38 to $45 a ton, and when it is made into high grade paper it is worth $50 to $100 per ton. The quantity of pulp wood exported last year was 784,996 cords of a value of $4,356,391, or about $5.75 a cord. If that were made into paper at $50 per ton it would amount to $37,749,300 a difference of $33,000,000 in favour of having it manufactured into paper in this country. That would be a ninefold increase. If in the next 10 years we exported 1,000,000 cords at $5.75 that would be be $57,500,000. Taking the same quantity manufactured into paper at $100 per ton it would realize $570,000,000, a difference in favour of Canada of 513,500,000. That difference represents the gain between exporting raw products and manufacturing them to their completed condition—the employment of labour and industrial gain in the building operation of machinery.

If we take 1,000 feet board measure of pine lumber and have it cut, it would have a value of about $18 to $20 per thousand feet. The labour in that would represent about $7 or $8. Convert into paper, a similar quantity of pulp wood, its value would be about $31.50, the labour being about $12. The proportion of investment would be about $5 in a sawmill to $41 in a pulp mill, so that from the point of view of investment of capital, there is an advantage in favour of the pulp mill of aobut $36. This will demonstrate to the people of the country that if we adopted a policy of having our pulp wood manufactured into paper,—I do not say for the government to do it, that is not my intention or desire—we would benefit our national industries to an extent almost beyond computation. In allowing raw pulp wood to be exported to other countries we are sacrificing the great advantage it would be to Canada to have it manufactured here. If we allowed to be exported in the next ten years the proportionate quantity equal to the present export, we should only realize fifty-seven and a half million dollars, or $5,700,000 per year.

If we manufactured at home the same quantity of pulp wood into paper at the same value of $50 per ton, it would amount in round numbers to thirty-nine and three quarter millions of dollars. Deducting four million dollars, the value of the raw material, from the gross value of the manufactured article, we have thirty-four and a half million per year to represent the positive gain to Canada by this manufacture of her pulp wood. I desire further to impress on the House that our chief natural products, such as silver, nickel, iron and steel, steel being in my judgment a raw material, should, where it is at possible, be converted into the manufactured article within the borders of Canada. I desire to see the equipment of the defensive sea force or, if it is necessary, the offensive sea force, manufactured in this country if it is at all possible. We have in one portion of the province of Ontario today, the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company. That company has done and is doing a great deal, and with proper encouragement, might become a still more important industry. It can build slips for our inland waters and for our seas as well. The hon. member for South York, this afternoon, endeavoured to make, as he usually does in his newspaper, a scoop. He presented to the House a policy which I wish to discuss. It has been said that in the coal fields of the eastern of the eastern provinces we have the steel and the coal lying alongside of each other and I think it was Mr. Schwab, President of the United States steel Corporation, who said there was coal and iron lying alongside each other in Nova Scotia, sufficient to last 100 years. We have the same conditions on the Pacific as on the Atlantic, and we have similar conditions in the intermediate portions of Canada. I would like to see the government of the Dominion endeavour to have created in Canada a ship building industry that will give the people of Canada an opportunity of commencing to build their own fleet, their own navy on the soil of Canada.

As we have marked our great Transcontinental railway from the Atlantic to the Pacific with steel rails made in Canada, so I hope we shall have a navy with the same brand upon it, 'Made in Canada.' If this can be done, it would be a very satisfactory state of affairs. We see today a great Canadian combination of iron and steel capitalists, perhaps the greatest combination that Canada has ever seen, and yet I believe that combination is for the benefit of the people of this country as well as of those more immediately concerned. I hope that the government will call the attention of those great capatalists to the fact that it is possible to establish the nucleus of a ship building industry in this country that will give to our manufacturing establishments an impetus they never had before. The ship building industry of England was not created in a day; it was like Topsy, it 'jest growed,' it was like the British constitution, it was not created but it grew. I suppose that Great Britain, if it were necessary, could turn out all the Dreadnoughts that she requires. I am not one of those who fear the downfall of England. I am just as loyal a British subject as any other member of this House, and I have no fears of England's bulwarks falling to pieces, and I have no fears that this Dominion and the other colonies will not do the best they can, and will not go as far as the people of this country desire them to go, in assisting in naval and imperial defence. I am satisfied that when the policy of the government is made known, the country will find that the government has done all that it is their duty to do.

There is one other question I desire to touch upon, and that is the expenditure in connection with the Crow's Nest railway. If he will turn to the customs receipts, he will find that from the territory served by the Crow's Nest Pass railway the customs receipts have amounted to three times over the cost of that railway, as far as government aid was concerned. I believe this government has done the best they could for the country. Of course they are human, and like every one else they will make mistakes, but I believe they have done the best that could be done. This country is increasing its expenditure, but at the same time it is growing rapidly in wealth, and I think in the main all the expenditure has been justified. I do not know that, having in mind the relations and record of the government in the matter of expenditure of public money for public purposes, I could say anything more suitable in closing than to repeat the remarks made by Sir Charles Tupper at a political meeting in the city from which I come, when he said:

"Although this country is increasing its debt, it is being incurred in the erection of those triumphs of peace—in public works that will stand for ages as the monuments of an energetic people who laid the foundation of Canadian nationality amid the wilds of North America."

I am sure that this utterance of Sir Charles Tupper, made thirteen or fourteen years ago, was justified, and would apply with greatly intensified force to the conditions of to-day under the present administration. I think it is the very general belief throughout Canada that we have never had in the history of this country a government that endeavoured more faithfully to act fairly and squarely by all the provinces, by all the varied interests of this country, than the government which we on this side have the pleasure of supporting.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

Did it ever occur to you that good work is a duty you owe to yourself far more than you owe it to your employer?

Did you ever realize that whenever you do a piece of slipshod work you hurt yourself far more than the man you do it for

For you do, you know.

If you are like most people, you have, probably, some day, when you were tired or a bit off form, said to yourself or more likely subconsciously thought to yourself—

"I guess I won't do my work as usual to-day. I do pretty good work generally, and I don't think it will make any difference if I occasionally do a little that isn't quite so good. I'll 'get by' all right."

Yes, if you have any kind of a record to fall back upon, you probably will "get by."

But you'll suffer for it just the same.

For every time you do a piece of work and don't do it just as well as you possibly can, you weaken your ability to do it well the next time.

If the right word eludes me and, instead of insisting upon finding it before I go on with my work, I permit myself to be satisfied with a second-best word, I think I lose just so much of my ability to select the right word the next time.

And this is not true simply of artistic work, either, but of all work, humble or great.

Every time the girl behind the counter does not try her very best to impress upon the customer the desirability of the wares, and bring her to the buying point, I think that sales girl loses a little bit of her ability to deal with the next customer.

Every time anyone fails to deal with any problem that comes up to him in business, or dispatch any piece of work with all the skill he possesses I thoroughly believe that he loses a certain degree of that skill—an infinitesimally small degree each time, I admit, but accumulating tremendously in the course of time.

Skill and ability of all kinds are like the muscles of our bodies. They grow by being used to their full extent. Disuse atrophies them. To keep them at their best, they must be constantly employed to their full value.

"We gain the strength of the temptation we resist," someone has said.

I think we do, and in the same way, I think, we gain the power of the obstacle we overcome or the task we do to the best of our ability, and lose the power of the obstacle we give way before or the task we do only half as well as we could have done it.

MR. H. B. COLLIER WAS CHOSEN AS PRESIDENT

Annual Meeting of the Astronomical Society Was Held Last Night.

DR. MARSH'S ADDRESS

At the meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society last evening in the Collegiate the officers for the ensuing year were elected. Dr. Marsh, who has been the efficient president of the Society since its inception requested that he be allowed to retire in favour of the Vice-President, Mr. H. B. Collier. In accordance with this request Mr. Collier was thereupon elected to office of president with the following officers to form the Council or governing body; vice-president Mr. H. O. Fisk; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Marsh, and councilors T. A. S. Hay and D. E. Easson.

The reports of the various officials covering the work of the society during the past year gave evidence of a very satisfactory state of affairs. The lecture department showed that Peterborough has been favoured with the presence of a number of very eminent astronomers and that the result of their lectures has been most gratifying. While the attendance has been very fair indeed, some improvement can undoubtedly be made in this feature. Considering the literary importance of this city and the eminence of the lecturers that are being brought to the city by the society, the meetings should be crowded instead of just "fairly large attendance."

The membership is very gratifying indeed and includes many of the leading literary lights of the city along with its most influential citizens. The membership is increasing rapidly at present and bids fair to eclipse all former records.

Considering all things the society looks forward to a most prosperous year in its work and trusts that the members and citizens generally will take advantage of the opportunity offered to learn of this very interesting subject, Astronomy.

The lecture delivered last evening by Dr. Marsh on the subject of Stellar Evolution proved a most interesting one. The lecturer showed that while the history of man upon the earth has been so short that any great changes in the heavenly bodies would be unrecorded, yet we have abundant proof to-day that such changes are going on even now. Through the agency of the wonderful instruments we have to-day we are able to inspect these far-away objects and learn much about them. From the present conditions of nebulae and stars we see worlds in all stages of growth. The general plan is therefore apparent. And yet it is necessarily a theory only. The astronomer can go back only a limited space of time and say "since these things have apparently happened." The Bible does not pretend to give us an exact scientific historical record of the period preceding this, so there we are forced to stop.

The lecture was illustrated throughout with lantern views and thereby proved very entertaining as well as instructive.

FROM TOMBSTONE MAKER TO COMEDIAN

Walter A. Bohm, of the "Royal Chef" Company, which comes to the Grand next Saturday, matinee and evening, is a comedian in more ways than one. He is a comedian off the stage as well as on the stage. The writer met him, after the performance at the Garrick, Chicago, one evening, last season, and had quite a visit with the famous Chef. Mr. Bohm is not very talkative and it took considerable persuasion to have him even say "good morning." But as the time wore on the conversation grew to his heart, and with the persistence with which ginger ale, which, by the way, is his favourite beverage, was applied, he designed to say:

"You probably know that it is the custom with the old-time Hollanders to send their sons into the world to shift as best they can when they become a certain age. I was a long time making up my mind as to which trade to adopt, but finally compromised upon that of a granite cutter. In my day the only use for granite was for tombstones. Many is the epitaph I have cut. Many of these were so ludicrous that I soon had a collection that was really funny. "One day the Young Men's Society, of which I was a member, decided to give an entertainment, and to my lot fell the delivering of a monologue. My collection of epitaphs and German dialect stories made such a hit that I was soon in great demand and began to charge for my services, and, well here I am "Heinrich Lemphauser"—from tombstone maker to comedian."

Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL MEETING HELD LAST EVENING

Reports Read Were Most Encouraging---Year Has Been a Very Successful One---The Financial Report is Most Satisfactory.

The President's Message was as follows:

January 11, 1910.

We close the year 1909 with mingled feelings of satisfaction and disappointment.

Relying on the assurances we had in pledges from our citizens, we endeavoured to equip the Association with a competent staff of executive officers, which increased our salary account over $200 ,and added some new Gymnasium equipment at a cost of $200.

We also paid the balance on the bowling alleys, $304.89, and $120 on account of new steel lockers—making a total of over $800 paid out of current revenue over that of the preceding year.

We are deeply grateful to our many friends for their hearty and liberal response as subscribers, although we are obliged to close the year with about $400 unpaid pledges, and therefore find that instead of having a surplus our liability to the bank has increased $325, which is a matter of regret.

We are also disappointed that the membership has not increased as we had hoped. This is partly accounted for by the fact that owing to disappointment in making arrangements for our executive staff till late in the fall season, the plans for our work were delayed, and the new officers had not time to get acquainted with the members and the boys and young men outside of the membership before the class work commenced.

Our Physical Director and Boys' Secretary both having resigned last fall, the campaign for membership was again handicapped in the same way.

But now that our terms of engagement will commence in the spring instead of the fall, we trust that under the direction of these executive officers we will prosecute a vigorous and continuous membership campaign and a substantial increase in members will result.

We wish also to call your attention to the great necessity for repairs to the building, which needs painting during the coming season, and we trust the members and friends will provide means that the building may be kept in a good state of repair and made attractive.

We feel that much greater benefit would result if our young men and boys would take more interest in the educational classes which were arranged for, but could not be organized, for lack of sufficient patronage.

It is gratifying to note increased interest in Bible study, and especially in foreign mission work, as is indicated in the increased contributions, and we greatly desire to see our religious work a strong feature in our Association.

Personally, I wish to thank the Board for their sympathetic and hearty co-operation and support, and also the citizens for the kindly consideration we have received.

The press of our city have given us valuable assistance in publishing all matters which would likely promote the best interests of the Association.

We look forward with faith in the present year's work, believing as we do that we will have the blessing and guidance of an all-wise Providence in our efforts on behalf of our young men and boys.

STAFF

The work of the Association has been somewhat handicapped during the year by changes in the staff of employed officers. The Boys' Secretary, Mr. George T. Evans, who did much to improve the conditions in, and the organization of, the Boys' Department, left in July to return to school and better equip himself for Association work, and in September, Mr. S. N. Collings, the Physical Director, left to attend the Springfield Training School, there taking a special course to better fit himself for the work of the Physical Directorship.

It was early in October before the Association was able to secure the services of another Physical Director, Mr. H. A. McLaughlin, and not until near the end of the year that another man was found to specially relate himself to the work of the Boys' Department, in the person of Mr. John M. Laing.

These changes are inevitable at times, nevertheless they handicap the continuity and effectiveness of the work of the Association to a great extent.

MEMBERSHIP

Membership Committee reports at the end of the year following:

Full privilege members	169
Limited privilege members	93
Boy members	134
Total	396

Which is a net increase of 8 during the year.

In addition to these, 36 boys and 115 men, who have used the privileges during the year, have either removed or allowed their membership in the Association to lapse, and 9 of our members have transferred their membership elsewhere. Thus 376 different men and 170 boys, total 546, have used the privileges during the year, and came in direct contact with the Association.

No special effort at any time was made to increase the membership, it being the policy of the membership committee to work continuously at keeping up the membership, and a more carefully worked out policy, whereby a stated object each month is sought for, should be maintained during 1910, so that a gradual increase in membership will be assured

REPORT OF PROPERTY COMMITTEE

The Property Committee have charge of the care of the building and the purchasing of supplies and permanent equipment during the year.

In the spring it was decided to install new gymnasium equipment to the value of $200, and in the fall an opportunity wes presented of securing at a very advantageous figure, 100 steel lockers, which were placed in position in the dressing rooms.

The usual repairs were attended to as required, and an effort was made to keep building and equipment in first class condition.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has assisted this committee in the purchasing of ordinary supplies and in providing decoration for the windows.

One dormitory was cut off for the purpose of providing a class room, and the remaining eleven dormitories have contributed to the revenue of the Association to a considerable extent, even more than was estimated at the beginning of the year. At least 60 different men have occupied the dormitories during the year; while some of these men have been in the building the greater part of the year, and a few all through the year.

SOCIAL WORK

The spirit of sociability has permeated all the departments of the Association, and an endeavour has been made to make every member feel that he has ae personal responsibility in making the Association a real home for young men who are away from home, and a place of social intercourse for all members.

Special features have been introduced during the year, including the usual New Year's Day reception, in which the Ladies' Auxiliary were "at home" to members, subscribers and friends of the Association.

The ladies have also arranged for Strangers' Teas, which the societies in the various churches have taken their turn in providing. Three of these have been held, with a total attendance of 50; 22 strangers' tickets have been given, and two of those to whom these tickets were given have since become members of the Association.

The Social Committee, besides caring for the social events, have also been responsible for the decoration of the building at Christmas and New Year's time.

In October the members' banquet was held, at which the Howden and Eastwood trophies, and other prizes won during the summer ,were presented, and an outline of the season's work was given.

One entertainment was put on in the early part of the year by the Leaders' Corps, in the opera house, which, though not making any profit for the Association, offered the citizen's an evening's entertainment at popular prices.

The addition of a billiard table to the equipment, the gift of the Peterborough Club, towards the end of the year, proves an attraction to the members, and contributes to the social atmosphere of the building.

EDUCATIONAL WORK

In the early part of the year the Matriculation Class conducted by the Association, was continued, and out of six different men who enrolled, five continued through to the end of the term, and two of these wrote on the examination in July. While neither was successful in the examination, both who wrote got enough of their work off to enable them to go forward and complete it later. One of these is now in a mission field in the West. In the fall this Matriculation class was continued, and twelve different men enrolled at the beginning of the season. It seems, at the end of the year, that nine of them will continue the work up to examination time.

Other classes were arranged for, but owing to an insufficient number enrolling ,it was not practicable to conduct them.

The reading room has become a much more used department than ever before, owing to additional periodicals being placed there. There are now six daily, 15 weekly, and 22 monthly periodicals on file in the two reading rooms, at a cost of $100. Several of the members have subscribed to the periodicals when they come off the files thus reducing to a considerable extent the net cost of maintaining such a good selection of reading matter.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT

The report of the Physical Department shows the following classes conducted during the year:

Senior men, 63 sessions, total attendance 710, average 11.

Business men, 20 sessions, total attendance 190, average 7.

Improved boys, 96 sessions, total attendance 645, average 14.

Intermediate boys, 45 sessions, total attendance 468, average 10.

Junior school boys, 45 sessions, total attendance 693, average 20.

Senior leaders, 25 sessions, total atendance 210, average 4.

Business College students, 17 sessions, total attendance 170, average 10.

Totals—289 session ; total attendance 3,325; average 12.

In January the boys put on a gymnasium exhibition which attracted a good audience, and the proceeds were used to assist in paying for the additional magazines provided for the boys' reading room.

In February the basket ball schedules were played off, a bowling tournament was conducted, and a life-saving class carried on. Boxing classes were also held in the spring. In the early summer a football club, a baseball club, and a tennis club were organized. The baseball club played three games, when the league in which it was entered was disorganized. The football club played in the Midland League series, and the tennis club held a tournament amongst its 25 members, and also won the City Club Tournament. On the 24th of May a five mile handicap was conducted by the Association, in which several of the Association members were entered.

In September the Association conducted the meet at which the Howden and Eastwood trophies were competed for. The committee in charge of this meet also provided prizes for the several events.

In October and November, nine sessions of a swimming class were held with a total attendance of 38, and eight sessions of a boxing class with a total attendance of 38. A bowling tournament was conducted during November, in which 11 teams of 3 men each competed, and which occupied 5 evenings a week for the entire month. From October 1st to December 31st the total number in individual work in the Physical Department was 312.

During the summer the members of the Association did most of their outdoor work on the Nicholls' Oval. During the latter part of the fall and early winter a large number of those using the gymnasium spent their time in preparation for the gymnasium exhibition, which was put on in the form of a circus on the last night of the year. The total number taking part was 42.

The Leaders' Corps rendered service during the time the Association was without a Physical Director and during the Physical Director's inability to take charge of the classes, and have been faithful in attendance and service at other times.

A special contract with the Board of Education was made, whereby the boys attending the Collegiate Institute were to have the use of the Association gymnasium and the services of the Physical Director during a period of five months, beginning November 1st. The classes during November and December took 11 half-hour periods a week, and there were 23 sessions with a total attendance of 367, being an average of 26.

Special physical events in connection with the Boys' Department are referred to in the report of that Department.

RELIGIOUS WORK

Four different Bible classes conducted for men have held 27 sessions—total attendance 189.

Three men's meetings were held with a total attendance of 1300. As a result of these meetings, 65 men took a definite stand for the Christian life and many others manifested an interest in Christian service and Bible study. Out of these 65 who entered the Christian life, a number are known to have united with some church.

The outstanding feature of the religious work of the Association was the visit of Mr. C. R. Drum in the month of April, when he spent a week in conferences and men's meetings, including an opera house meeting. At that time meetings were conducted at noon in four of the factories of the city, and as an outcome of those meetings there was begun in the fall a series of noonday meetings one day a week in two of the shops. Other shops are open to the Association and other meetings will be conducted as soon as suitable men can be secured for that purpose. Mr. Drum again visited the Association in December, at which time an opera house meeting was conducted on Sunday afternoon.

Under the direction of the Religious Work Department ,a special committee has cared for the raising of funds to assist in the support of Mr. Farquhar, of Calcutta, India, who represents the North American Associations there, in his work among the students. The following statement shows the amount raised and expended on this account, and indicates an increase of $50 in the contribution over that of the preceding year.

In connection with the foreign work Mr. C. V. Hibbard of Japan addressed a meeting of men on a Sunday afternoon in April, and on the following evening he and Mr. T. B. Colton of the International Committee met fifty of he members at tea and presented to them the foreign work of the Association.

During the summer at the time of the tent meetings on the lot next the Customs House, the Association, at the request of those conducting the meetings took charge of the tent on four Sundays, holding afternoon and evening meetings. Members of the Association were used to conduct and address these meetings, and the attendance was good.

The religious work of the Boys' Department is dealt with in the report of that department.

Owing to lack of space it will be necessary to publish the balance of this report in to-morrow's paper.

CORNS CURED

In 48 hours. You can painlessly remove any corn, hard, soft or bleeding, by applying Putnam's Corn Extractor. It never fails, leaves no sear, pain or soreness. It is the safest, best and surest cure of all corn remedies and salves. Fifty years in use. Sold by all druggists.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

Daisy Did For Him.

Friends of a certain amateur gardener in Toronto are having a good laugh at his expense. Always looking for something new to try in his greenhouse, he studies every seed catalogue that comes his way. The title "Michaelmas Daisies" caught his eye, and the description following chained his fancy. He determined to raise those delicately petalled star-like purple blooms, and wrote forthwith for the seeds. He planted, tended, and cared for them and all went well with the little strangers. They sprouted up in profusion, and, when thinning out the bunch the enthusiast kindly remembered other friends who had a like botanical interest. Not a whit discomfited by the transplanting those given away also grew apace and all blossomed out about the same time.

Fancy the chagrin of the seed purchaser when it dawned upon him in his own greenhouse and was forced upon his attention in several others that his "Michaelmas Daisies" were nothing more or less than common, ordinary, wild asters.

Jollying Hon. Mr. Fisher.

Glen Campbell, M.P., caused the Dominion Minister of Agriculture an anxious moment the other day, but it was only a joke. Referring to a newspaper report which reiterated some criticism of Hon. Sydney Fisher's administration of his Department, he said the newspaper had not gone far enough. He would, therefore, make the deliberate charge "that there is no Department under the administration of the Government where, in certain seasons of the year, there is so much grafting as in his Department."

The Show at Esquimalt.

The naval officer at the coast has been instructed to turn Esquimalt over to the Canadian Government as soon as we are ready to take it over. At the rate the Parliament is arranging the naval estimates Esquimalt will be quite a lot older before we run the show there.—Calgary Herald.

Query.

Now that Great Britain has told Canada what it does want in the way of naval assistance, is Canada going to waste money in furnishing what Great Britain does not want, and what will be of no use either to the Mother Country or to Canada?—Ottawa Citizen.

Indian Reserves.

The long-standing dispute between the Provincial and Dominion Governments as to the reversion of the Indian reserves is in a fair way to be ing brought to an issue. The two Governments have agreed to submit a case to the Supreme Court of Canada, with the understanding that the loser is to appeal without delay to the Privy Council for a final decision. If, as is hoped, the final decision is in favor of the province, it would not be long thereafter until some of the reserves are opened to ...emption.—Grand Forks Gazette

EVERY MAN MUST DECIDE SOME DAY

Gipsy Hawkins Gave Inspiring Address at Park Street Baptist Church

Another inspiring address was delivered at the Park Street Baptist Church by Gipsy Hawkins. A large crowd gathered and the meeting was one of the best of the mission yet held. Taking his text from Matthew 2-1, he took up the several events leading up to the crucifixion of Christ and in graphic language brought the scenes before his audience.

The howling mob, the mock trial by the soldiers, the march through the city streets, the false swearing of perjurers, and the final release of Barabbas brought tears to many eyes and repentance to hearts, as was seen in the after meeting when Gipsy Hawkins made his tender appeal to those present to choose between Barabbas or Christ.

Every man and woman must some day answer Pilate's question. "What will I do with Jesus?"

It is a personal question. I must do something with Him.

But a more personal queston is, "What will Jesus do with me?"

But the crowd touched Pilate in his weak spot and he yielded.

A jelly-fish judge without backbone or principle.

The meeting will be held to-night at eight o'clock. Mr. Hawkins will take for his subject "Why Christ could not save Himself."

On Friday night he will tell his thrilling life story. Everybody welcome.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

THE BLUE MOUSE.

That famous rodent "The Blue MouseMouse," pad a visit to Peterborough last night and was greeted by one of the largest audiences of the season. The celebrated farce, one of the most talked-of plays of the decade, was splendidly received and made a most favourable impression upon the audience. Bright and breezy with situations that would make an Egyptian mummy laugh through his wraps the Clyde Fitch adaptation is certainly amusing to the limit.

Much has been said of the laxity of the farce, and it might be said with a good deal of truth of the production that it sometimes reaches the thin ice limit. But then, Mabel Barrison is such a skillful skater, histrionically speaking, that she glides over the thin portions with an ease and grace that makes the audience forget that she is in imminent danger of breaking through. As the unconventional, ungrammatical slangy, but winning, ex-Salome dancer Miss Barrison is delightful in her cleverness, and she makes the part lifelike and convincing. The assisting company was exceptionally clever. Harry Conr, in the part of the much loving "ever-spoony" railroad president sharing with Miss Barrison the honours of the evening.

Messrs. Turner & Sons are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in bringing such an attraction to Peterborough.

"The Royal Chef" pays a return visit to the Grand on Saturday in matinee and evening performances.

THE LINE-UPS FOR TO-NIGHT'S CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE GAMES

All Four Teams Will be Strong and the Games Look to be the Best of the Season--Will Start To-night at 7.30 o'clock.

To-night's City League games will commence sharp at 7.30 o'clock, instead of 8 o'clock, as usual, and the players as well as the fans are asked to bear that fact in mind, and be around early. There is a big programme for the City League patrons, and the management is anxious to get an early start and rush the bill-of-fare through without any delays whatever, hence the change in the hour. The fans will appreciate this and the indications are for the biggest crowd that ever attended the City League games.

A great sheet of ice is ready for the players and the prospects are for two hard-fought brilliant games, with the result in doubt until the last gong sounds. With the Edmonton team practice thrown in for good measure the crowd will have little chance to say that they are not getting their money's worth. The usual City League prices will prevail, 15c for adults and 10c for ladies and children. Good hockey and lots of it at all popular prices is the motto of the City League executive, and they have adhered to it pretty strictly ever since the League was inaugurated.

The West Ends and Keene clash in the first game, while the Strathconas and T. A. S. play the second.

The West Ends will line up as follows:
Goal—Halpin.
Point—Munro.
Cover—Seymour.
Rover—Crane.
Centre—Dobson.
Right Wing—Short.
Left Wing—Giroux.

Keene will have the following line-up:
Goal—H. Dinsdale.
Point—Dickson.
Cover—McDougall.
Rover—McCarthy.
Centre—Weir.
Right Wing—McIntyre.

The Strathconas line-up against the T. A. S. in the second game, will be:
Goal—Derocher.
Point—Denison.
Cover—Dusty.
Rover—Ray.
Centre—Burritt.
Right Wing—McMillan.
Left Wing—Weatherstone.

The T. A. S. will likely be represented by the following, although there may be a change made:
Goal—Giroux.
Point—M. Sabatino.
Cover—Quigley.
Rover—Coughlin.
Centre—T. Sabatino.
Right Wing—Morin.

TROUBLE IN ARRANGING THE INTERMEDIATE DATES

Some difficulty is being experienced in arranging the schedule in this group between Lindsay and Peterborough in the intermediate O. H. A. Secretary Glover of the Peterborough Club, and representatives of the Lindsay team, have been trying to arrange the matter over the telephone and so far have not been able to agree upon dates. Peterborough wished to open the season in Lindsay on either Friday of this week or Monday of next week. Manager Stoddard of the Lindsay team, however, states that Lindsay cannot possibly open the season before Friday of next week, and suggests the following schedule:

First game in Lindsay on Friday, Jan. 21st; second game, in Peterborough, Tuesday, Jan. 25; third game in Lindsay, Friday, Jan. 28; fourth game in Peterborough, Monday, Jan. 31st, or Tuesday, Feb. 1.

These dates will not suit Peterborough at all, as the home games are sandwiched in between the junior O. H. A. games on Monday night and the City League games on Wednesdays.

Another effort is being made to-day to have dates suitable to both teams.

Band at Street Railway Rink to-night.

BASEBALL GAME

The Bugle Band defeated the 24th battery in an interesting game in the Garrison Indoor Baseball League at the armouries last night by 3 7runs to 28. The game was well played and both teams distinguished themselves by classy fielding and heavy work with the willow. McWilliams was on the slab for the winners, with Sharpe doing the receiving, while Briggs and Guerin were the battery for the losers. The teams were as follows:

57th Bugle Band.—Sharp c., 5; Ray 3b., 3; Drysdale s.s., 6; McWilliams p., 6; Butcher 1b., 3; East s.s., 4; Kew 2b, 4; Thornton r.f., 2; Armstrong l.f., 4. Total 37 runs.

24th Field Battery.—Guerin c., 2; Biggs p., 4; Fitzpatrick 2b., 4; Mourd s.s., 5; Primeau 1b, 4; Miller r.f., 2; Barnett 3b., 3; Hay s.s., 2; Clancy l.f., 2. Total 28 runs.

This is a howl of merriment from start to finish. Arthur gets a love letter & a jilt mixed in wrong envelopes. You should see him trying to fix things after. One of the cleverest farces produced.

"A DAY IN A MILITARY CAMP"
A short and lively picture of military camp life that will surely be widely appreciated; showing a company of soldiers under heavy marching orders, on dress parade and at big gun drill.

"GAMBLING WITH DEATH"
In this thrilling picture from the period of the French Revolution, the Vitagraph Co. present a story of absorbing interest. It is most pathetic and full of intense situations. Do not fail to see "Gambling With Death."

TRIAL IS NEAR END

At Second Arraignment of Mrs. Martha Scott, Charged With Shooting Her Father-in-Law, Old Testimony Is Given by Prosecution — Defence May Try to Prove a New Phase of the Case.

London, Ont., Jan. 13.—For the second time Mrs. Martha Scott yesterday afternoon faced a jury, charged with the murder of her father-in-law, Harvey Scott, at Thorndale, on Sept. 13th last. The evidence for the crown was all presented before Chief Justice Meredith yesterday afternoon, and the defence called two or three witnesses. Mrs. Scott will take the stand in her own behalf to-day.

Twenty-seven rejections marked the choosing of the jury, which was finally constituted as follows: Cyrus F. Smith, Mosa; Jonathan Knapton, London Township; Adam Romilly, Ekrid; Frank Anderson, Westminster; Jos. Grant, Biddulph; David Beattie, North Dorchester; Isaac Homiker, Lobo; T. H. Andrew, Biddulph; Jos. J. Knapton, Parkhill; R. H. Collins, Lucan; Charles H. Ferguson, Lobo; Arch. Brownlee, North Dorchester.

No new evidence was presented by the crown. Joseph Vining, Mrs. Harvey Scott and others told of the tragedy, and of Mrs. Wesley Scott's remarks after the crime.

New evidence was added, however, by the defence. John Taylor and John McFarlane of Thorndale, who were on the coroner's jury which viewed the remains of Wesley Scott at the house, both testified that they saw bloodstains on the doorstep. It is expected that the defence will make use of this, arguing that old Harvey Scott was trying to force his way into Mrs. Wesley Scott's house when she shot him.

NAVAL DEFENCE BILL IS INTRODUCED IN COMMONS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Makes an Illuminating and Patriotic Address---Says in Introducing the Measure That Britain's Wars are Ours and We Must Stand or Fall by the Empire---Outline of Policy.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—Canada will not have a fleet unit, but she will have a larger fleet than was expected. This was the effect of the naval bill introduced in the Commons yesterday.

The Canadian fleet will muster eleven ships instead of seven, and the Canadian navy may, in an emergency, be placed at the disposal of the British Admiralty, but if this occurs during recess, Parliament must be summoned to give authority.

The Premier said that Canada would be involved in any war in which the British Empire might be engaged.

R. L. Borden declared for a fleet unit at once, or at least a Dreadnought, but he thought the better course would be to place the equivalent in cash at the disposal of the Admiralty, to be used for naval defence under prescribed conditions.

F. D. Monk opposed any naval proposal. He resented Mr. Borden's snub over the Lachine speech and thought he should have been consulted regarding the party policy.

Sir Wilfrid regretted Mr. Brodeur's absence through illness, but said he would introduce the bill himself, "with a view of not disappointing the House and expediting its business," the marine Minister hoping to be able to move the second reading next week, and then to go into the whole details of policy and administration.

"My object," said the Premier, "is simply to give the House the salient features, reserving for the second reading the more general discussion. The bill provides for the creation of a naval force, to consist of a permanent corps, of a reserve force and of volunteers, following the same pattern absolutely as the present organization of the militia forces.

"The bill, I may say, follows the Militia Act in many respects and does not materially depart from it, except in one feature, which I shall show presently. Under the Militia Act it is provided that the whole male population of Canada, from above 18 to the age of 60, is liable to military service. Should an emergency arise, the whole male population within these ages may be called upon for service. The first-class is composed of men from 18 to 30, the second-class from 30 to 45, and the last class from 45 to 60, and should the volunteer force in its different classes be not sufficient, there may be an enrollment or balloting under law.

"Nothing of that kind is to take place under the present bill. No man in this country, under Naval Service Act or any other, will be liable to military service on the sea. Every man enrolled for naval service in Canada will be enrolled only by voluntary engagement.

"These being the leading features of the bill, I come now to the question of what armament it is contemplated to have at this juncture. Representatives of the Canadian Government at the London conference took the ground that it would not be advisable for Canada to have all her fleet on the Pacific Ocean. Evidently the British Government was anxious to have a strong force on the Pacific. There are considerations, discussion of which I may reserve for a future occasion. At present, I am only outlining our policy. I think that everybody will agree that it would be very inadvisable that the whole of our force should be located on the Pacific.

"The question arose as to what should be the extent and character of the fleet to be created in the beginning. Two plans were proposed and discussed, one involving the expenditure of $2,000,000 a year, and the other

Several Cases Of Interest At Norwood Division Court

Judge Huycke Presided and Local Lawyers Were Present—Havelock Grocer's Suit for Bill re Small Pox Supplies—Other Cases on the Docket.

A BUSY SESSION

Examiner Special.

Norwood, Jan. 13.—Judge Huycke presided at Division Court held here yesterday. Among the cases on the docket was one in which Mr. Watson, a Havelock grocer, sued the township of Belmont for groceries delivered to smallpox patients during the outbreak in that part of the county during the past summer. The amount claimed was $39.00. The case was adjourned until the next court in order that the plaintiff could add the names of the parties who received the goods. They will be made defendants in the suit.

Another case was that in which a man named West, of Seymour township, owner of a portable saw mill, sued Mr. Andrew Matheson, of Havelock, for wages for sawing timber. The defence alleged that the work had been carelessly done and the balance of the wages was refused and a counter claim of negligence was preferred. Judge Huycke held that Mr. Matheson had accepted the completed work without sufficient protest and must pay the entire amount for the work.

Sager vs. Hubbell.

An interesting argument proved to be a feature of the case of C. E. Sager, a blacksmith of Norwood, who was plaintiff in a case against one Hubbell of Oak Lake, Belmont township, for services rendered in treating the defendant's horse. Several veterinary surgeons were called by Hubbell to prove that the treatment had been improper. Judge Huycke did not consider the evidence of the defence sufficient and gave judgment for the plaintiff. Sager is not a veterinary surgeon, but nevertheless treated a horse for two months. Considerable argument turned on the question as to whether Sager, not being a licensed veterinary surgeon, could collect the bill. His Honour having regard for the services rendered held that he could. Members of the bar present were Messrs. F. D. Kerr and G. N. Gordon, of Peterborough, G. A. Ghent, of Havelock and Mr. Colville, of Campbellford represented various parties.

The majority of the cases heard at Norwood yesterday involved residents of Havelock and substantiates the request for the establishing of a division court at the railway town. This was granted recently and in future, Havelock cases will be heard in its new court.

Gipsy Hawkins Spoke To Large Crowd At Park Street Church

The meeting at the Park St. church last night was a very memorable one. The evangelist took for his text the words, "He saved others, himself he cannot save." This was a confession regularly forced from the hearts of the enemies of Christ.

They could not deny the fact that Christ had saved others. They would have, if they could, but the circumstances were all against them, hence their confession that He saved others has a fuller meaning than it would have had, had it been spoken by the friends of Jesus. Christ saved men physically, but, thank God, his saving power was not confined to man's body, but He can also save the soul. Several illustrations taken from Gipsy Hawkins' many missions, proved to the larger audience that the statement was true. 'He saved others. Many present at the meeting testified to that. Christ is still able to save to the utmost, all who will come unto him by faith.

Gipsy Hawkins also stated that the Scotsman's religion was far ahead of the Canadian's, so far as real soul winning was concerned. Of course that is a question for debate. We Canadians are ne'er so bad.

Souls have been saved every night of the mission, and to-night is the last of the gospel services. Gipsy Hawkins will continue his talk upon the text, "He saved others, Himself he cannot save." There should be a larger crowd than ever to hear the closing gospel address of this eminent gospel evangelist. All are sorry that Gipsy Hawkins finds it impossible to stay longer. He will get a royal welcome back to our city should he ever be able to return for another mission, which we trust he will.

On Friday night Mr. Hawkins will give the story of his life, which eminent divines of England and Scotland have declared is second to none but his brother Gipsy-Gipsy Smith.

All will be made welcome, and should hear this address, and please do not forget to bring a thank offering for all the blessings you have received during the mission meeting to-night at 8 o'clock.

DROWNED IN BATH

Montreal Druggist Was Subject to Epileptic Fits.

Examiner Special.

Montreal, Jan. 13.—It will be with the deepest regret that a large circle of friends will learn of the sudden death of Mr. J. A. Nicolle, the well known druggist of 220 St. James St., which took place in a sad manner yesterday morning.

Mr. Nicolle for many years past has been subject to epileptic fits, from which he suffered severely. He was found dead in his bath, with his head beneath the water. Dr. Thompson, his physician, was immediately called in, but pronounced him dead. Whether Dr. Nicolle died from the fit, or whether he was drowned during his unconsciousness, will not be known till the body has been examined by Dr. McTaggart from the Morgue, but it is not believed that an inquest will be found necessary His body was discovered about a quarter to 10 this morning.

GAVE HER EVIDENCE

Mrs. Scott Was Heard on Her Own Behalf in London Case.

Special to The Examiner.

London, Ont., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Martha Scott, who gave evidence in her own behalf this morning on the charge of murdering her father-in-law, Harvey Scott, said that the old man had twice threatened her before she shot him. The reason that she killed him was because she believed he was about to murder her. The old man had a violent temper and she had put up with his abuse and threats for 12 years. The prisoner said her father-in-law had done "many nasty things" to her during that time.

"Peterborough Means Progress."

THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, 1910

PULL TOGETEHER.

In civic affairs, in civic progress, universal cooperation, involving the united activities of every class, of every member of the community, no matter what enterprise is shown in other directions, is the essential of success. The very word community carries this meaning. Another essential is the subordination of all ulterior aims and side issues, meaning the pursuit of only one ambition, the material, moral and intellectual upbuilding of the city.

If not to negelect of these essentials, to what are we to ascribe the non-success, to employ no more forcible term, of a great many otherwise laudable undertakings. We swung off the Canadian club with considerable success and with considerable promise of a future of usefulness. What is its condition to-day, and why is it in this condition? Its condition may be pretty well illustrated by comparison with other places. St. Thomas with a population of about 2,000 fewer than Peterborough, has a flourishing Canadian Club. Last Friday on the occasion of the address of Mr. J. W. Tyrell, the Arctic explorer, "exactly 110 persons sat down at the banquet" as reported in the St. Thomas' Journal, an indication that the Canadian Club of St. Thomas takes itself seriously and does not permit its aims to be diverted by side issues, and at the same time an example to the local club. This club was organized with one of the conditions that its deliberations, addresses and management were to be entirely removed from party politics. Has this condition been observed? If it has been disregarded, are we not to ascribe the condition of inactivity if not decadence of the local club to this cause? When we cease to pull together, when we permit the invasion of side issues, entirely irrelevant to the main object, we are sure to encounter more or less complete failure.

Is it not a fact that we are too parochial, too narrow in our vision; too much tinctured with the instincts of the ward politician? We get tremendously excited over some important question; then we suddenly switch off to some petty side issue, and pursue it with so much zeal that we lose sight of the main question and become involved in petty squabbles that have little relation to the main thing, or we let our zeal evaporate and seem to feel that we have done our duty when we adopt some commendable resolution, and let it go at that, without a serious attempt to give it effect. Not long ago the Board of Trade and some public spirited citizens had a meeting and declared in favour of the appointment of a publicity commissioner, in a most commendable spirit. Have any attempts been made to embody this spirit up to keep it to the fore?

In view of the manner in which this affair has been handled or rather let alone, is it any use to suggest the formation of, say, a forty thousand club, that is an organization such as they have in Brantford, and even in Port Hope, banded together to promote conditions that will give a population of 25,000 in five years of 40,000 in ten years, or something that way. If such a club were formed, it will come to nought unless the spirit behind it is backed up by work and united work—unless the determination it stands for is made something less ephemeral and farcical than the proverbial "New Year's resolution."

We get at newspaper offices many samples of publicity literature, like the artistic and effective "Turn Welandward" of the Board of Trade of that live town, and the latest, the red letter proclamation and appeal of the Edmonton Board of Trade. These have religiously been handed over as suggestions and as inspirations to our Board of Trade and City Fathers. We don't know how far a similar publication for Peterborough is under way, but there certainly has been no rash precipitancy of action in this direction. It would not take a live business man many days to prepare and publish a booklet or advertising document, intended to serve a particular object in connection with his business. Why should it require so much time for a City Council or Board of Trade?

If we would make progress by means of the efforts of our citizens, we must pull together, We must unite in sentiment and action for the accomplishment of one object, and make verything else take a second place; every side issue and every consideration that will interfere with the attainment of the main object. We must pull together.

CANADA'S GROWING TIME.

Nationally, commercially, industrially and agriculturally Canada has been regenerated in the past fifteen years. The achievement in these respects as briefly indicated below, since 1896, would be creditable, as the work of half a century instead of the brief space of a dozen years.

Before 1896 a revenue of $32,000,000 was high-water mark. In the current year, ending March 31 next, the revenue will be $100,000,000.

The total trade of the country has grown from $249,000,000 in 1896 to $750,000,000 in 1908 — an increase of more than threefold.

Scarcely less extensive has been the increase of savings bank deposits—a reliable gauge of a country's prosperity. These grew from $250,000,000 a decade ago to $731,806,000 in the year ended Oct. 31 last.

In 1896 the receipts of the postoffice department amounted to but $2,964,014; last year they totalled $7,401,624. Not only that, but instead of annual deficits before 1896, there have been surpluses amounting in the aggregate to $4,500,000 since then. Meanwhile, the rate of postage has been lowered, and immense sums have been expended on the improvement and extension of the postal service. In 1896 the money orders issued by Canadian postoffices numbered 1,131,152, of the value of $13,081,861; last year the number increased to 3,596,290, of the value of $52,627,770.

In 1896 Canada had but 16,270 miles of railway. At the close of last year there were 25,000 miles, and each succeeding year will see large additions to the total. The value of Canada's mineral production has grown from $22,474,256 in 1896 to $86,462,723 in 1908

In 1896, with a total trade of $249,000,000, there were 2,118 failures, involving $17,000,000, while in 1908-09, with a total trade of three-quarters of a billion dollars, there were only 1,640 failures, involving $15,000,000.

The revenue from Dominion lands has grown from $219,326 in 1896 to $3,500,000 in 1909.

In 1896, twelve years after the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Northwest was practically unsettled; since then two new provinces have been erected; thriving cities, towns and villages have grown up, and west of the great lakes there is a population of a million and a half.

Last year's field crops of Canada harvested from 30,085,556 acres had a value of $532,993,100, or over $100,000,000 more than last year's. The west alone last year produced 313,000,000 bushels of grain, as against 32,000,000 bushels in 1900. Instead of 58 cents per bushel for wheat, the price fifteen years ago, farmers to-day get one dollar, and there has been a corresponding increase in the price of other farm products.

Since 1896 special and capital expenditure to the amount of $22,000,000 has been poured into great development projects, such as the deepening of the St. Lawrence, the construction of the national transcontinental railway, and public works rendered necessary by the growth of the country; and yet the public debt per capita to-day is only $45.85, against $50.82 in 1896.

A CONDITION TO BE REMEDIED.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is a great enterprise; without brag, the greatest of its kind in the world. It has a revenue nearly equal to the total revenue of the Dominion of Canada. This revenue, contributed by the people of Canada, imposes obligations upon the railway. That these obligations are generally well met is evidenced by the continued patronage and prosperity the railway receives and enjoys. But in every great concern of this kind there are weak spots. One of these weak spots affects Peterborough and Peterborough people. On Tuesday morning a Peterborough gentleman went by C. P. R. to Toronto. The solitary passenger coach had seating for sixty-eight passengers. The car actually contained seventy-two passengers, and with their impedimenta, bags, overcoats, etc., the condition of congestion and even discomfort may be easily perceived. Since the opening of the New Year the parlour car has been taken off the Peterborough-Toronto run of the morning and evening train, if one passenger coach and a baggage car, half mail, half baggage, can be called a train. The people of Peterborough who are theoretically served by this train have very reasonable ground of complaint on the score of insufficient coach accommodation, and feel that the C. P. R. cannot too soon look into and remedy the situation, both in the interests of the travelling public of this city and in its own interests and those of its well justified reputation for efficiently serving the convenience of the public. The situation invites a recollection of the fact that there is another Peterborough-Toronto route for passengers, as well as freight traffic. Mr. Jas. O'Burne, who has responsibility in reference to general traffic, might profitably arrange an interview with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, and get the advantage of his opinion upon the situation referred to. It would take stronger language than one desires to use to express the sentiments of some of the discommoded travellers, who feel that the way the service is in at present it does not give the adequate value a first-class ticket calls for.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is to be feared, says the Mail and Empire, that we are not improving as a people. The criminal statistics show that while in 1899 there were 38,710 convictions in Canada, the number in 1908 reached 88,633. Here is an increase of 50,000 in round figures. There must be something wrong or the growth of crime would not be so considerable.

A British scientist claims to have located the site of the Garden of Eden, near Bagdad. Now for a chorus of protest from fifty newspapers in the Canadian west

A Costly Client.

Miss Bayley told me that Mr. Phipps the oculist, told a gentleman, who told her, the following anecdote of the late Duchess of Devonshire: Mr. Phipps was sent for to Chatsworth to operate upon the duchess' eye. He stayed there some time and at parting received from the duke a fee of £1,000. Just before he stepped into his carriage a message from the duchess brought him to her chamber. She hoped the duke had done what was handsome by Mr. Phipps. The gentleman protested:

"Yes, and more than handsome."

"It is an awful thing," continued her grace, "to ask, but really I am at this moment in immediate want of such a sum, and if you could, Mr. Phipps."

What could the oculist do? He produced his £1,000, took his leave and never heard of his money from that day to this.—From "Recollections of a Long Life," by Lord Broughton (John Cam Hobhouse).

NEW IDEA IN BRIDGES.

Handsome Trussed Concrete Bridge on the Etobicoke.

With the opening recently of the new bridge across the Etobicoke River connecting the counties of York and Peel at the Middle road, a new era in bridge-building in Canada began. For many months bridge-builders and engineering experts have been waiting to see whether the theories of the two young Canadian engineers, Frank Barber and Clarence R. Young, would stand the tests on the day of trial. Both men are well known in Toronto, Mr. Barber being engineer for the County of York, and Mr. Young a lecturer on engineering at the University of Toronto. Since entering into partnership they have advocated building bridges of reinforced concrete, the whole weight to be carried on trusses built of reinforced concrete. They claimed that the cost would be no greater than an all-steel construction, that it would carry a greater load, present a more beautiful architectural appearance, and outlast by many times the ordinary life of a steel bridge. The theories were plausible, but no council wished to be the first to experiment.

Recently when the County Councils of York and Peel decided to build a steel bridge across the Etobicoke Mr. Barber renewed his efforts to try out his theories, and the councils consented to jointly share the risk of an experiment. The contractor, Mr. O. L. Hicks, agreed to accept the contract at the price of the lowest tender for a steel bridge, and the work was begun in May.

Once a freshet came down the river, which at the bridge is eighty-two feet wide, and swept away a lot of staging and forms. Finally the metal work in the shape of nineteen tons of three-quarter inch steel rods and steel trusses was put in place and surrounded by wooden "forms." It took three months to get it ready. Then early in the grey dawn of a Monday morning a gang of men started to work mixing the concrete and filling the forms. They worked continuously from daybreak till after sunset each night for six nights. At night they slept on the ground beside their work. Very close to the hour of midnight on the Saturday night the last shovelful of concrete was thrown in, and the men celebrated the occasion in their own way. Their object in getting the wet mixture in quickly was to make the bridge one solid piece of concrete.

All of the usual tests have been applied, and an extra novel and unrehearsed one. A drove of cattle, 167 in all, came to the river to drink. These were driven on to the bridge. With the great strain of the huddled, struggling herd upon it the vibration of the bridge was scarcely perceptible.

The bridge has a span of over eighty feet. In appearance it is a piece of handsome and substantial masonry. It is ornamented by a shapely balustrade, which looks as perfect as cut stone. The cost of the structure was less than $4,000.

I went to a doctor, and he told me I had heart trouble and that my nerves were all unstrung. I took his medicine, as he ordered me to do, but it did me no good. I then started to take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and had only taken one box before I started to feel better, so I continued their use until I had taken several boxes, and I am now strong and well, and able to do my own work. When I commenced taking your pills I weighed 125 pounds, and now weigh 185 and have given birth to a lovely young daughter, which was a happy thing in the family. UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

CONCERNING HEATHEN

The heathen, in his blindness, bows down to wood and stone, and we, with lavish kindness, have sent him many a bone. From many an ancient river, from many a palmy plain, he calls us to deliver him from his deadly chain; we see the gifted preacher pass 'round the hat or cup, to help this blinded creature, and so we loosen up. And having eased the famine of heathen o'er the brine, we seek some private Mammon, and worship at its shrine. Like lover to the bridal, right swiftly do we wend, to some distorted idol that we believe a friend Here's worshipping the scholar, some theory of his own; the loud and blatant dollar has hosts before its throne; some dames are worship lending to poodles or to cats; and other ones are bending before imported hats. One man adores an auto, and one has knelt, forlorn, before the sacred grotto where dwells great Barleycorn. In many a modern office, on many a modern coast, true piety a scoff is, when Trade is uppermost.

NATURE TELLS YOU

As Many a Peterborough Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are sick, Nature tells you all about it.

The urine is nature's calendar.

Infrequent or too frequent action;

Any urinary trouble tells of kidney ills.

Booth's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

Peterborough people testify to this.

Mrs. T. DeRusia, of Mary and Bethune street, Peterborough, Ont., says, "I believe Booth's Kidney Pills a remedy of exceptional merit in quickly relieving backache caused from disordered kidneys. I frequently suffered with a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back. It would extend around my sides and into my shoulders. Headaches were frequent and often accompanied by spells of dizziness. Booth's Kidney Pills were recommended by a friend and I procured a box at Wm. Madill's Pharmacy. I soon found them to relieve me, I have had no trouble since and can credit this only to Booth's Kidney Pills."

Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie Ont., Sole Canadian Agents.

Marine Engineer Suicides.

Port Colborne, Jan. 13.—O. H. Phillips, 40 years of age, and chief engineer of the steamer Strathcona, shot himself in the temple yesterday.

He seems to have no friends, was unmarried, and a Welshman by birth, having been only two years in this country. For 12 years he sailed on ocean steamships.

New Job for Butler.

Montreal, Jan. 13.—M. J. Butler, C.M.G., Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals for the Dominion, and chairman of the Intercolonial Railway Commission, has been appointed to the important position of second vice-president and general manager of the Dominion Steel & Coal Co.

Mr. Butler's appointment was announced at a meeting of the directors yesterday.

"Please Vote Against Home Rule."

London, Jan. 13. A manifesto signed by eleven ex-moderators of the Irish Presbyterian Church was issued yesterday at Belfast, appealing to the British electors not to vote for any candidate who accepts home rule for Ireland as part of his program.

Farmer Found Dead.

Petrolea, Jan. 13.—The body of an Enniskillen farmer, James Gray, who lives on the sixth line east, was found dead in a stall in his barn yesterday morning.

Baptists Have Mission Deficit.

Toronto, Jan. 13.—Rev. Dr. Brown, secretary of the Baptist Foreign Mission Board, yesterday announced that a cut of $3,000 had been found necessary in the estimates for India. This was owing to a deficit in the fund of $6,885. There was a slight falling off in the total receipts owing to the legacies being but $1,500 compared with $6,500 in 1908. The contributions from the churches on Sunday schools had increased by $4,600. The total receipts were about $90,000.

HE FOUND THEM THE BEST OF ALL

What Rufus Harris Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

After Trying Five Doctors for His Kidney Disease He Found Relief in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Hurdville, Ont., Jan. 12.—(Special)—"After trying five doctors for Kidney Trouble, from which I had suffered for three years, I find that Dodd's Kidney Pills relieve me best of all. If I keep on feeling as I have since I began taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I shall be well pleased and I am hoping they will cure me."

So says Rufus Harris, well known in this village. "I had stiffness in the joints," he continues, "cramps in the muscles, backache and was heavy and sleepy after meals. I was depressed and low spirited, perspired freely, was often dizzy and always thirsty, but since taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I am feeling very good."

If you have any of the symptoms Mr. Harris tells of it is time for you to beware. They are the symptoms of Kidney Disease and may be the forerunners of Rheumatism, Dropsy, Lumbago, Heart Disease, or even the dread Bright's Disease itself. Take warning and guard against suffering or even death itself by putting the Kidneys in good working order with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Who's the Kind Gentleman.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—"When one of the highest officials in Canada, living at Ottawa, openly gives all the liquor one can drink, what can be expected of our young men?"

This was one of the questions asked of John Roberts, the English temperance lecturer, who is here for ten days, and who Tuesday night addressed a crowded meeting. His reply was "I do not know to whom this refers, but I think if any man in high position encourages drinking it is bound to have a demoralizing effect on young manhood."

Mr. Roberts said he had found that 90 per cent. of Canadian women abstain from intoxicating liquor, but that in England, while the men were getting better in this respect, the women were getting worse.

A MOST REMARKABLE CASE

My face was paralysed, I could not speak; five doctors failed to help me and I was in despair when hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I used this wonderful restorative treatment and became well and strong in every way. I would not go back to my former condition for all the gold in the country," writes Mr. Wm. J. Brennan, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont.

World's Biggest Convention Hall.

New York, Jan. 13.—A great convention hall, planned to be the largest of its kind in the world, will be a feature of the immense pier, extending 1,500 feet over beach and ocean, at Long Beach, Long Island, contracts for the construction of which were signed yesterday. More than half the structure will be devoted to the convention hall and amusement pavilion.

Suit Involves a Million.

The total claim is nearly $1,000,000.

Say I.C.R. Discriminates.

Montreal, Jan. 13.—The annual report of the transportation committee of the Board of Trade was presented yesterday and was an arraignment of the I.C.R. for freight rate discrimination against Montreal.

Interswitching, ordered by the board at Montreal, is refused by the railways, and the matter has been put into the hands of the Railway Board again.

Enquiry Into Winnipeg Man's Death.

Winnipeg, Jan. 13.—The coroner has ordered the body of Ambrose Brunt, a wealthy merchant of Oak Point, who died suddenly a few weeks ago, to be examined and the cause of his death fully investigated.

The body was buried without a doctor's certificate and privately.

Lit Match to Look For Gas Leak.

Windsor, Jan. 13.—While C. R. Tuson, florist on Ouiette avenue, was searching in his cellar for a leak in the natural gas pipe, he struck a light and blew the entire front of his fine store to atoms. The damage will amount to several thousands of dollars.

To Curb Awful Traffic.

Washington, Jan. 13.—By a viva voce vote the House yesterday passed the Bennet-Sabath "White Slave Bill." The measure makes it a crime, punishable by a fine of not more than $500, and imprisonment for not more than ten years, for any person to procure a ticket for any person to go from one state to another to engage in prostitution.

Railway Employe Takes Poison.

New Liskeard, Jan. 13.—Harvey Dawson, employed by the Transcontinental Railroad, as an engineer, committed suicide Tuesday night at Camp 13, Popular Rapids, by poison.

His chum, Webster McCurdy, is in jail at this place charged with passing forged checks.

Dawson had just recovered from a spree.

Fined Chauffeur One Cent.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Judge K. M. Landis, who fined the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana more than $29,000,000, let Rupert Jeffkins, a chauffeur off with a fine of one cent yesterday. Jeffkins pleaded guilty to sending an improper letter through the mail to a young woman who had jilted him.

Train Wreck, Many Hurt.

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 13.—A passenger train on the Vandalia Railroad, southbound, was wrecked three miles north of here. Many persons were hurt, none fatally. A truck under the tender of the locomotive broke and the coaches rolled down an embankment.

4,000 Fishermen Will Strike.

St. Malo, France, Jan. 13.—Four thousand members of the crews of 140 schooners, which fish annually on the Newfoundland banks, are at loggerheads with the masters and yesterday were preparing to strike. The situation is an ugly one.

Meat Prices Very High.

Denver, Col., Jan. 13.—Harold Swift of Swift & Co., in discussing the cost of living, said:

"Prices of meat are very high now, but there is every indication that they will be still higher. This is attributable to the high price of corn and the consequent scarcity of live stock.

"As long as the scarcity continues it is well to educate people to use the cheaper cuts of meat. Those cheaper cuts are just as good, and more wholesome if properly cooked."

Mr. Swift admitted that the retail dealer is making a large gross profit on meat.

Newfoundland Has Surplus.

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 13.—With revised figures, showing the colonial revenue for the half year ending December 31, to have increased $150,000 over the same period last year, it is officially estimated that the close of the fiscal year, June 30, will show a surplus of $250,000. The close of the colony's accounts last June showed a deficit of $150,000 for the year. The great increase in revenue is due chiefly to the exploitation of the interior lands and the extensive pulp manufacturing recently begun.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

Have you absolute repose of manner?

If you have you are one in a hundred.

Or maybe a thousand would be closer.

For it sometimes seems to me that repose of manner is a lost art with the girls of to-day.

"More repose of manner, Ruthie, more repose of manner," an old aunt of mine used to say to me when I was a nervous little girl and fidgeted from hassock to high back chair and back again in her stiff old parlour.

And although I had but a vague idea of what the words meant at the time, I used to make up my mind that it must be something very objectionable if Aunt Eliza urged it and that I would take care never to have it.

But I've changed my mind now.

I sat beside a girl in a car yesterday. She was a pretty girl, well dressed and refined looking. She was talking viciously to her companion in a voice that for a wonder was fairly well modulated. To judge from the fragments that floated my way she was saying rather interesting things.

She sat well, way back in the seat, erect, and with her feet squarely on the floor instead of crossed in the undignified fashion so many of the young girls of the present day affect.

Her appearance and manner might have been perfect but for one thing. She wore a tiny locket on a little gold chain and continually as she talked she twisted and twirled and tossed and played with the chain and its trinket. Never for an instant did the restless motion cease.

Just a mannerism?

Yes, but it showed she did not have that final charm that would have been a crown for all the rest—repose of manner.

The other day I turned instinctively to look after a girl who had passed me on the street. For a moment I hardly knew what it was that had attracted my attention and made me look after her, and then all at once I realized that the thing that made her distinctive in the crowd was simply and solely the fact that she was not hurrying.

She was moving easily and gracefully. I do not mean sauntering nor even walking extremely slowly; just not rushing. And from her calm movements, made so noticeable by the scramble of the crowd, it seemed to me as if I could almost see peace and repose radiating.

How many minutes do you suppose those who rushed by her gained over her by their hurried movements?

Five minutes in an hour, perhaps.

And how much nerve force do you think they lost?

Well, I don't know whether to measure nerve force by inches or pounds or volts or bushels, so I can't tell you exactly, but I'm pretty sure that it was entirely disproportionate to the time gained.

Now do not misunderstand me, and confuse repose of manner with languidness.

It is just as far from that as it is from fidgetiness and nervous haste.

The anaemic, listless girl who never moves quickly and is too lifeless to fidget, does not possess repose of manner.

Repose of manner is the result of perfect physical energy and vigorous health and mental liveliness and strong passions all in perfect harmony and under perfect control.

All the colours combined make white.

All the energies combined make balance from which comes the perfect repose of manner.

And now I'm wondering what Aunt Eliza would say if she knew that her small niece who used to fidget from hassock to highback chair and back again were actually writing on "repose of manner."

Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL MEETING HELD TUESDAY EVENING

Reports Read Were Most Encouraging---Year Has Been a Very Successful One---The Financial Report is Most Satisfactoay.

Boys' Department.

Under the direction of Mr. George T. Evans, in the early months of the year, the work of the Boys' Department was effective, but during the latter part of the year became somewhat handicapped, owing to the fact that from the middle of July, until after the middle of December the Association was without a member of its staff to give special attention to this department. However, several older boys had received enough training to take a great deal of responsibility, and in the fall a Boys' Cabinet was elected by the boys themselves, to be responsible for the work of the department. Under the supervision of Mr. Laing, the Boys' Department is being put into good working order.

The report of the boys' gymnasium classes is shown in that of the physical department, but the following special features may be noted here. During the month of May, several outings were held, which took the members out of doors, under the supervision of the officers of the Association. These outings included a relay race by ten of the boys, from Lakefield to Peterborough, no boy running a greater distance than one mile.

A boys' summer camp was planned and arranged for, but owing to an insufficient number of boys making application to attend, the camp was not conducted.

Visits from Mr. F. H. T. Ritchie, Canadian Boys' Secretary, have been made, and his presence has been a help in suggestion and inspiration.

Four of the boys, with the General Secretary, attended the Boys' Conference for one week during August at Lake Couchiching, and with the Physical Director, four others attended the Thanksgiving Conference at Toronto. In each case the expense was shared with the boys by the Association, and the instruction and enthusiasm provided by these Conferences proved well worth the expense. In order to meet their share of the expense, the boys arranged for an illustrated lecture by Mr. Tait, of Toronto West End Association, on the Olympic Games, and also sold picture postcards during the visit of the regiments of the city on May 24th.

The boys have had their own educational clubs and conducted their own social events. In addition to the members' banquet, in the spring, with an attendance of 105, there were held three other special social events with a total attendance of 75.

During the year, 78 different boys were enrolled in Bible study. There were 43 different Bible class sessions, with a total attendance of 270, which does not include five sessions of a training class, with a total attendance of 22, in which some of the older boys are taking up a study of "How to Teach," so that they may be better fitted for the teaching of Bible classes. Eight boys' meetings have been held, with a total attendance of 164, which were the means of bringing many boys to a point of decision whereby they entered the Christian life, or took a forward step.

After the organization of the Boys' Cabinet in the fall, the Cabinet decided that they would like to do something towards redecorating and refurnishing their department, so they planned during the Christmas holidays to take two days, for the purpose of raising $250 by contributions from their friends, and were successful in raising $185, which will be spent for the purpose mentioned.

The report of the Ladies' Auxiliary was read by the General Secretary, it being the report of their annual meeting, which was given in the press in October.

The constitution, as recommended by the Board of Directors, was adopted with Section 3 of Article 3 struck out, which provided that not more than one-third of the directors should be members of the same religious denomination, and that in the event of the election resulting in the choice of a greater number, the Board should decide who should remain.

The election of directors resulted in the following being appointed by the membership, out of a nomination of 24: J. J. Howden, J. H. Connel, J. E. Middleton, C. E. Sisson, V. Eastwood, P. A Kerr, A Macfarlane, J. J. Turner, T. F. Matthews, Judge Huycke, E. L. Goodwill.

Resolutions of thanks were tendered to the Ladies' Auxiliary for their efficient and hearty co-operation, to the Leaders' Corps for their faithful services, to the Provincial and International Committees for services rendered through their secretaries at various times during the year, and to the Press for their good offices in making public items of interest concerning the work during the year.

It was also decided on motion to print the Annual Report for distribution amongst the subscribers and members.

The directors will meet on Friday evening for the purpose of election of officers and appointment of committees.

Mention must be made in this annual report of the International and Provincial committees frim which this Association has received assistance and inspiration. The secretaries of these committees have visited the Association in the interests of the various departments of work. Mr. Colton of the Foreign Work Department, along with Mr. Hibbard, of Japan, spent a couple of days in the interest of that department of work.

Mr. Drum spent a week at one time and a Sunday at another, in connection with this Association's religious work, and Mr. Copeland and Mr. Hopkins of the Provincial Committee, have been in at times to confer and offer suggestions and advise in regard to various matters.

This Association co-operated with the Provincial Committee in the work at the militia camps by having in Kingston, during two weeks in June, the General Secretary and two members of the Association.

The Association was represented by the General Secretary at the annual convention held in November at Ottawa.

Printed Matter.

During the year at various times printed matter has been prepared and sent out, giving reports and advertising the work of the Association. These included "How we Spent Your Money," being the annual report for the year 1908; a prospectus of the Boys' Department; circulars announcing Boys' Camp an announcement of the Educational Work, and a four page folder calling attention to the various Bible classes.

In addition to this there have been letters, window cards and dodgers sent out announcing the various meetings and gatherings of the Association.

In connection with this foreign work Mr. C. V. Hibbard of Japan, addressed a meeting of men on a Sunday afternoon in April, and on the following evening, he and Mr. E. T. Colton, of the International Committee, met fifty of the members at tea and presented to them the foreign work of the association.

During the summer, at the time of the tent meetings, on the lot next the Customs House, the Association, at the request of those conducting the meetings, took charge of the tent, on four Sundays, holding afternoon and evening meetings. Members of the Association were used to conduct and address these meetings, and the attendance was good.

The religious work of the Boys' department is dealt with in the report of that department.

COLD ON THE LUNGS

This letter gives some idea of the confidence placed in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine by people who know by experience of its exceptional merit. Mrs. R. D. Turner, Broadview, N.W.T., writes:—"We have seven children and have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for them all when troubled with colds on the lungs. We buy four bottles at a time and always keep it in the house, believing there is nothing so good for coughs and colds."

PRESENTATION TO MR. AND MRS. KENT

Remembered by Number of Otonabee Friends—Are Coming to the City to Reside.

A very enjoyable time was spent on Monday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kent, in Otonabee ,when about fifty of their friends gathered for the purpose of spending a few social hours to make a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Kent, who are leaving Otonabee to come and reside in Peterborough.

During the evening an address was read to Mr. and Mrs. Kent by the pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. Wm. Johnston and a beautiful cabinet and writing desk were presented by Messrs. J. Lancashire and Jos. Manly. The address was as follows:

To Mr. and Mrs. A. Kent, Otonabee:

Dear Friends,—We, your neighbours and friends of the Zion congregation having learned with regret, that you are about to depart from amongst us, feel that we cannot allow you to do so, without expressing our feeling of high appreciation of the character you have maintained and the influence you have exerted in this neighbourhood during your many years of residence here.

You will, both be missed in the church, the services of which you have loved and loyally supported, and where brother Kent has for so long, faithfully discharged the duties and responsibilities of the offices of Steward and Treasurer of the Trustee Board and where his sacrificing devotion and zeal have been so cheerfully given to the work of the Sunday School in the position of Superintendent, which he has for so many years efficiently filled to the great advantage of the school. You will be missed in the neighbourhood, where a helping hand and encouraging word were always ready and freely given to those in need, and weher by your many acts of kindness and friendship you have won the respect and esteem of the entire community.

And now, allow us to present to you this cabinet writing desk, as a remembrance of your many friends here, and your sojourn amongst us, and with it we express for you the wish and prayer that your future days may be many and cloudless, and that we may all meet again in happy reunion in the better land, where partings never come.

Signed on behalf of Zion congregation—

Wm. Johnston, Pastor.
Mr. J. Lancashire,
E. W. Wood.
Jos. Manly,
Walter Dickson,

Otonabee, Jan. 10th, 1910.

Other speeches of regret at Mr. and Mrs. Kent's departure from Otonabee were made by a number of those present, to which a fitting reply was made by Mr. Kent on behalf of his wife and himself. Refreshments were served at the conclusion.

MISCALLED HAIR TONICS

Most Hair Preparations are Merely Scalp Irritants, of No Value.

Most hair preparations are merely scalp irritants, miscalled hair tonics. When hair is brittle, lustreless and begins to fall out, the dandruff germ is getting in its deadly work at the root, sapping the vitality. Since science discovered that dandruff is a germ disease there has been only one preparation put on the market that will actually destroy the dandruff germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It quickly reduces scalp fever, destroys the germ; and the falling hair stops, and hair grows luxuriantly. Ask your druggist for Herpicide. It allays itching instantly, and permits the hair to grow. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by Jury & McDermid, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One Dollar bottles guaranteed.

WARNING

Since its introduction into Canada the sales of Parisian Sage have been phenomenal. This success has led to many imitations similar in name. Look out for them; they are not the genuine. See that the girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. You can always get the genuine at Wm. Madill's.

Parisian Sage is the quickest acting and most efficient hair tonic in the world.

It is made to conform to Dr. Sangerbond's (of Paris) proven theory that dandruff, falling hair, baldness, and scalp itch are caused by germs.

Parisian Sage kills these dandruff germs and removes all trace of dandruff in two weeks, or money back; it stops falling hair and itching scalp and prevents baldness.

And remember that baldness is caused by landruff germs, those little hard working, persistent devils that day and night do nothing but dig into the roots of the hair and destroy its vitality.

Parisian Sage is a daintily perfumed hair dressing, not stick or greasy, and any woman who desires luxuriant and bewitching hair can get it in two weeks by using it. 50 cents a large bottle.

Does A Wife Aim To Dress Well To Please Her Husband?

Chicago, Jan. 13.—One lone man stood before 200 women yesterday afternoon and lectured on "Womens' Dress." When he had concluded he was besieged with questions and had an answer for each. The lecturer was Prof. William I. Thomas, of the University of Chicago, and his audience was composed of the members of the University Guild, an exclusive Evanston organization of which Mrs. James A. Patten is president.

"Do you think it is just accusation to say that women dress only to please men?" was one of the first queries put by a member of the audience.

"No," was the reply. "I regard it as a sort of feminine competitive game. It is the natural desire to excel in a thing in which they are vastly interested which causes a great deal of the extravagance."

"Really, don't you think that women spend a great deal more on clothes than they otherwise would merely to please their husbands?" asked an other

"No, I think very little dressing is done for the sake of husbands; it is chiefly for other women," was the discouraging answer.

"Why is it that while women's dress has certainly grown no less attractive within the last two centuries, the dress of men has become more and more ugly?"

Without a moment's hesitation the reply came:

"It is simply that in life where activity counts the most, utility in dress and little else is taken into consideration. One advantage which men's clothes have over that of women is that they last longer and do not cost as much.

The Officers Of Court Stanley Were Installed

The officers of the above court were duly installed last evening by District Chief Ranger, Bro. W. E. Milne, of Trenton, at a largely attended meeting of the members, the occasion being strongly marked by an air of prosperity, which the court has enjoyed at no time before in its history last year, being the most prosperous one it has enjoyed, a strong balance in the hands of its bankers, and all the members appeared to be unanimously affected with that spirit of cheerfulness which a good bank account has the effect of giving. Bro. W. J. Johnston read the auditors' report for the past six months, showing to the assembled members a good balance on the right side of over $1,400, and a membership of 178. After the reading of the Auditors' report, the ceremony of installation was proceeded with, by our visiting District Chief Ranger, Bro. Milne, the following officers taking their chairs for the next twelve months:

Chief Ranger—Bro. A. Brotherson.
Sub-Chief Ranger—C. Appleton.
Past Chief Ranger.—R. Goodenough.
Secretary—R. J. McWilliams.
Treasurer—Seth Adlum.
Senior Woodward—F. Pratt.
Junior Woodward—Chas. Joyes.
Sr. Beadle—Sam Whittaker.
Jr. Beadle—W. Murray.
Chaplain—D. Hamilton.
Doctors—Drs. Scott and Amys.
Trustees.—Bro. H. Hanwell, George Tremaine, W. Edwards,
Court Correspondent—Bro. H. Hanwell.

After the above officers were installed, District Chief Ranger Milne presented the Retiring Past C. R., Thos. Hendry, with a handsome P. C. R. jewel, to which the brother feelingly replied in able speech.

Various speeches were made by Bros. Johnston, Record, Brotherson, Appleton, Joyes, Pratt, Goodenough, Adlam, and McWilliams, all of which bore on the satisfactory and business-like way the court has in the past year been conducted. A number of the officers and members then repaired to Coleman Bros. restaurant, where a good repast was partaken of. The Dist. Chief Ranger was the guest of the members.

After the good things had been partaken of Bros. Pratt, Sturmer, Hendry and others favoured with songs and music. The Dist. Chief was more than surprised by the reception given him on his visit here, the affair ending up with singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

BURNS' BIRTHDAY AND MacGREGOR JANUARY 25th

The 151st anniversary of Burns, the immortal bard of Scotland, will be fittingly celebrated in the lecture-room of St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday evening, Jan. 25th, by a grand concert. Mr. Donald MacGregor, of Toronto, the leading baritone soloist of Canada, will be the vocalist of the evening. He has often been heard in Peterborough, where he gains increased popularity and wins greater success at every appearance. He is a most finished vocalist, with a magnificent voice, used with the methods of an artist. His singing always gives not only satisfaction, but arouses enthusiasm, and will make the coming concert a musical event worthy the occasion. He will be assisted by Miss Blanche Walter, an artistic entertainer as dainty and pretty in person as she is perfect in her art. The public and especially those who desire to enjoy a Burns' night fittingly celebrated, are urged to keep Tuesday night, Jan. 25th, free from any other engagement.

THE MARKET REPORT

Almost every day in the week the market presents a somewhat lively scene from the number of loads of wood, hay and straw offered for sale. The farmers claim that the roads were never in better shape and travelling is easy. This is one of the reasons for the unusually large business. The wood is from the mixed varieties to the best of hardwood and sells at from $5.50 to $6.50 a cord. There is a daily assembly of Peterborough men who wait patiently for what they call a bargain cord, pay over their five spot and then go home and enjoy the fun of cutting, splitting and piling it. The prices are reasonable and by exercising a certain amount of patience the citizens get away with their expected bargains and all their friends hear about it during the next week.

NAVAL DEFENCE BILL IS INTRODUCED IN COMMONS

$3,000,000. The first one would have consisted of seven ships; the second one of 11 ships, namely, four Bristol cruisers, one Boadicea cruiser and six torpedo destroyers. We have determined to accept the second proposition, that is to say, the larger one of 11 ships. This is the force which we intend to create and to start with.

"The number of guns is not yet determined upon, but the largest Indomitable carried eight guns. A Boadicea carries six guns. It is probable that the number of guns will be made eight. It has a crew of 391 men, of which 20 are officers."

"There is also an important provision to which I at once call the attention of the House, that while the naval force is to be under the control of the Canadian Government, and more directly under the control of and administration of the Department of Marine, yet in the case of emergency, the governor-in-council may place at the disposal of His Majesty for general service in the royal navy, the navy service, or any part thereof, and any ships or vessels of the naval service and any officers or men serving on these vessels.

"These, Mr. Speaker, are the leading features of the bill. Of course, the matter can be very largely elaborated, but I do not think that any elaboration would make it more intelligible than what I have now stated.

"The total cost of these 11 ships will be, according to British figures, a little more than $11,000,000. According to Canadian prices, supposing the ships were to be built in Canada, we would have to add at least 55 per cent. to the cost just given.

"I may say that it is our intention to start at the earliest possible moment with the construction of this fleet, and, if possible, to have the construction done in Canada.

"I now beg to move the first reading."

R. L. Borden began by a reference to the control of the Canadian navy. The Premier had stated, "if we do have a navy, it will go to no war unless the Parliament of Canada chooses to send it there."

"What does that declaration mean?" asked the Opposition leader. "Has Canada ceased to be a part of the British Empire? Can the rest of the Empire be at war with some great naval power and Canada at peace? If a foreign warship attacked and sunk one of our cruisers, the whole power of the British navy would be at our command."

Turning to the Commons' resolution of last March, he was glad to see that criticisms were not along party lines. He advocated the establishment of a defence committee, representative of empire. This would give the dominions a necessary voice in the control of war.

It had been urged that the creation of a Canadian naval force would be attended with corruption and extravagance. The remedy was with the people themselves, and he believed that the creation of a navy would arouse public conscience in this regard.

He noted that the Admiralty experts had recommended the establishment of a fleet unit by such of the dominions as could undertake it.

"The proposals of the Government," said Mr. Borden, "are too much for carrying on experiments in the organization of a Canadian naval service, and they are too little for immediate and effective aid. It seems to me they will be attended with a very good waste of money with no immediat effective result."

"We have," he said in concluding, "the resources and, I trust, the patriotism, to provide a fleet unit, or, at lease, a Dreadnought, without one moment's unnecessary delay. Or, in my opinion, this would be the better course—we can place the equivalent in cash at the disposal of the Admiralty, to be used for naval defence, under such conditions as we may prescribe."

Clarence Jameson of Digby advocated a reference of the whole question to the people. He suggested a plebiscite.

Government's Denial.

Lisbon, Jan. 13.—The Government yesterday denied that a conspiracy against the life of King Manuel had been discovered.

THREE MONTHS FOR FIGHTING ON CAR

St. Catharines, Jan. 13.—Richard Hudson of Welland, who got into a fight on a radial car with some hockey players returning from the city, was sent to jail for three months without the option of a fine by Magistrate Burgar of Welland. The radial company laid the charge and the magistrate said to Hudson: "I think I should make it six months. This might have been another Bradley case. You were drunk, as you admit, and didn't know what you were doing."

REGULATES KIDNEYS AND ENDS BACKACHE

Makes Your Out-of-Order Kidneys Act Fine and Bladder Misery Vanish.

No man or woman here whose kidneys are out of order, or who suffers from backache or bladder misery, can afford to leave Pape's Diuretic untried.

After taking several doses, all pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, nervousness, headache, sleeplessness, inflamed or swollen eyelids, dizziness, tired or worn-out feeling, and other symptoms of clogged, sluggish kidneys simply vanish.

Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, discoloured water and all bladder misery ends.

The moment you suspect the slightest kidney or bladder disorder, or feel rheumatism pains, don't continue to be miserable or worried, but get a fifty cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic from your druggist and start taking as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which is so harmless or will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

This unusual preparation goes direct to the cause of trouble, distributing its cleansing, healing and vitalizing influence directly upon the organs and glands affected and completes the cure before you realize it.

A few days' treatment of Pape's Diuretic means clean, healthy, active kidneys, bladder and urinary organs—and you feel fine.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Accept only Pape's Diuretic—fifty-cent treatment—from any drug store—anywhere in the world.

New York, Jan. 13.—Mrs. Charles Morse, opened an office in the financial district yesterday whence she will conduct a double campaign, first, to procure the pardon of her husband, serving a fifteen-year sentence in the federal prison at Atlanta; second, to rebuild as far as possible the shattered fortune. The office is a modest, two-roomed affair, furnished with articles from the Morse home.

Mrs. Morse began yesterday putting in circulation blank petitions asking President Taft for Morse's pardon.

Suffered to Save Crippled Friend.

London, Ont., Jan. 13.—Wm. Hogan, the G.T.R. fitter injured at Forest, when natural gas in a well in which he was working exploded, is in a very critical condition. Hogan's clothes were in a blaze, but in order that he might save Sam Brush, a one-armed man, who was unable to escape, he jumped into the flames. He left them burn until the crippled man was safe. Frost got into Hogan's wrists and burns.

RESULT OF FREE TRADE

Liberals Are Not Flying Against the Example of Other Nations, But Taking a Warning From Them—Decrease of Unemployment Very Marked in Last Little While—Suffragettes Keep Up Fight.

London, Jan. 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At Ipswich, Premier Asquith replied to Mr. Balfour's Aberdeen speech. He said the Liberals were not flying against the example of other nations, but taking a warning by their sad experiences. Taxes once imposed would continuously rise. The moment they consented to a "scientific tariff" they would introduce a demoralizing influence on the localities and the industries. With respect to socialism let them look to Germany. Where would they find socialism to the fullest sense so firmly entrenched and so well equipped? He deliberately gave the opinion that unemployment was more rife in protected countries than in our own here. There was a highly gratifying decrease of unemployment and in London there had been a decrease of 8,000 a year. He accepted Mr. Balfour's challenge, and argued that free trade had increased our productive capacity beyond all record. He pointed to the vastly larger amount available for investment, and said it was was foolish to suppose that capital sent abroad was diverted from industry at home. There was a vastly larger amount of capital in the country than last year.

Bonar Law, at Dulwich, expounded the preference, and declared that bread would never be greatly increased in price through tariff reform, because political power was in the hands of townsmen, not agriculturists, who would not consent to high duties. Mr. Law says one great hope of increased expansion in British exports is within the Empire. Canada was going to do an immense trade in manufactured goods with somebody. It rested with the electors whether she would do it with Britain or competitors.

Mr. Lyttleton, at Wolverhampton, also maintained the duties on foreign wheat would be insufficient to raise the price of bread long.

Mr. Stockport said if the Unionists returned and found the navy deficient, they would take the country into their confidence, and if necessary to make sacrifices in order to secure the country's safety they would not hesitate to ask the country to make them.

A big scheme of unemployment insurance will be the work of the new Liberal Government, if returned to power. Winston Churchill outlined the scheme in a speech at Glasgow last night, where he addressed two huge meetings.

Mr. Churchill announced that the details of the scheme had already been worked out by the Board of Trade, and said that if the people granted the money, the House of Commons would pass a compulsory unemployment insurance bill, which would deal with the affairs of upwards of 2,250,000 adult workers, skilled and unskilled alike.

If the result of the polling made it necessary, said Mrs. Pankhurst, Nottingham women would continue to fight. It was very likely some would be called upon to die for the cause, either in prison or before they got there.

Australians, through Mr. R. B. Wise, sometimes acting Premier of New South Wales, sent Mr. Balfour a similar cable to that from Toronto, respecting Mr. Jebbs' candidature. Mr. Balfour has formally acknowledged the Toronto message.

A. F. Wickson New President.

Toronto, Jan. 13.—At the convention of the Ontario Association of Architects, the following gentlemen were elected members for the council of 1910-1911 and 1912: A. F. Nicholson, St. Catharines; Prof. C. A. C. Wright, Toronto, and Jules F. Wigman, Toronto. Following this election the new council appointed their new executive as follows: President, A. Frank Wickson; first vice-president, Prof. C. H. C. Wright; second vice-president, Henry Sproatt, and treasurer, G. Hellwell.

Means Dearer Shoes.

New York, Jan. 13.—High cost of meat reduces consumption and increases the cost of hides and leather, and hence of shoes, to the consumer, according to President John H. Hanan of the National Association of Boot and Shoe Manufacturers, in his report yesterday to the annual convention.

RHEUMATISM

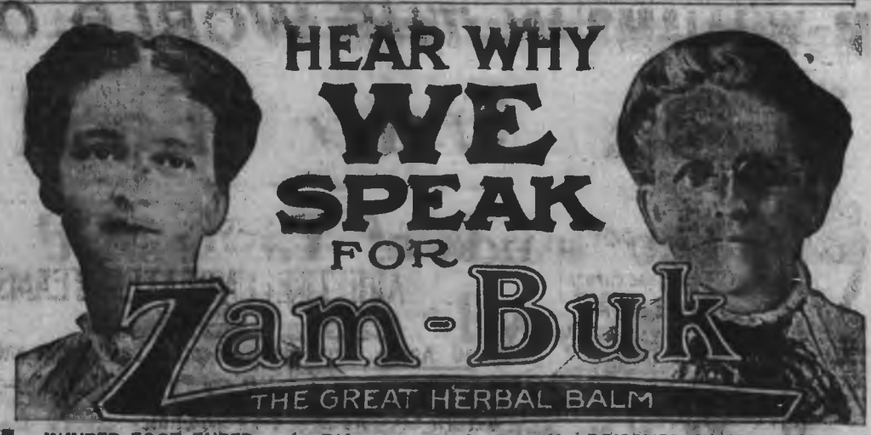
Is caused by the evil influence of poisoned blood, Uric Acid, and other impurities. Nothing so completely dispels these poisons as Ferrozone. It makes new blood, imparts vitality and vigor, enabling the system to throw off every trace of Rheumatism. For a Sure Cure try

FERROZONE

A case showing how Ferrozone acts is illustrated by the following from Mrs. H. Wright, of Enfield, N.S.:

"Six months ago I experienced a serious illness. It commenced with splitting headaches, dull pains through my chest and shoulders. I found it hard to get satisfying sleep—would roll and toss, and in the morning felt tired all over. Then I grew nervous, lost flesh, got pale, and had heavy dark circles under my eyes. My strength got so low I couldn't do housework. I was worried and unable to eat, and feared I would not get well. Ferrozone braced me up in a few weeks. It seemed to supply wonderful strength. I gained in flesh, looked better, and was able to sleep. In all I took twelve boxes of Ferrozone, and my cure was complete."

If Ferrozone doesn't help you and give satisfaction nothing ever will; your druggist sells it for 50 cents. Better try Ferrozone.



INJURED FOOT CURED.

"I speak for Zam-Buk because it cured me of a terribly bad foot," says Mrs. Alice Berryman of 190 John St. North, Hamilton. She adds: "The injury was caused by a wagon wheel, and the sore was on my right foot. It became very inflamed and swollen and so painful that I fainted away. In spite of treatment, the wound got no better and the foot became more and more swollen until it was several times its usual size. The flesh was terribly bruised and blackened and it was quite impossible for me to walk. My husband's mother at last brought me a box of Zam-Buk. This was applied to the foot and it was surprising how soon I found relief from the severe pain. A further supply of Zam-Buk was obtained and I persevered in using this balm alone. In a couple of days the swelling had gone down considerably, the discoloration was less distinct and the pain was banished. In four days I could go about as usual: the bruised and injured foot had been thoroughly cured by the timely use of Zam-Buk."

Did you ever ask yourself: "How is it that Zam-Buk is so popular?" It is because it is superior and different to other salves. Contrast them! Most salves are nine-tenths animal oil or fat. Zam-Buk hasn't a trace of animal fat in it. Most salves contain mineral coloring matter. Zam-Buk is absolutely without! Many salves contain poisonous astringents. Zam-Buk doesn't.

Zam-Buk is actually more powerfully antiseptic than crude carbolic acid. Yet it stops instead of causing pain and smarting when put on a wound.

It heals more quickly than any known substance, abscesses, ulcers, eczema, blood-poisoning, cuts, scalp sores, chaps and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1c stamp for trial box.

POISONED FINGER HEALED.

Mrs. Frank St. Denis of 905 Thompson St., Winnipeg, speaks for Zam-Buk because it cured her of a poisoned finger, which had caused her days of agony. Here her experience. She says:

"One morning, while washing, I felt a slight pain in the end of my finger. This gradually got more acute until by the evening of the next day the end of the finger had become swollen and hard and so blue I became alarmed.

"The pain from it was almost too much to bear. It made me turn quite sick! Poultices of first one kind and then another were applied, but seemed to give me no relief. My daughter-in-law, who had had some previous experience with Zam-Buk obtained a box for me. I anointed the sore place liberally with this balm, and in a few hours, the throbbing aching pains were subdued."

Further applications of Zam-Buk gave me more ease, so that I could get a little sleep. In a few days the nail came off, but after that Zam-Buk seemed to reduce the inflammation quickly. I continued its use until in the end it had brought about a complete cure.

STRATHCONAS AND WEST ENDS ARE THE UNBEATEN TEAMS

T. A. S. and Keene Were Badly Beaten Last Night and Neither Had a Look In After the First Few Minutes---A Record Crowd Saw the Two Games.

The West Ends and Strathconas still remain the undefeated teams in the City League race. The Oldhamites last night took the Keene team into camp by a score of 10-3, while the Strathconas went them one goal better and beat Jack Deannard's T. A. S. team by 11 goals to 3. Neither of the winning teams had much difficulty in annexing the big end of the score, and the games were not as close and hard-fought as they were on the opening night.

The Edmonton Stanley Cup team, which was to have practised during the games, did not arrive, much to the disappointment of the crowd, which numbered close to 1,200 people. The management of the City League are naturally very sorry at this apparent breach of faith with the public, but, of course, were not to blame for the non-appearance of Fred Whitcroft and Company. Whitcroft telegraphed on Monday from Calgary, asking that his team be allowed to practise here on Wednesday night, between 8 and 9 o'clock. A telegram was sent in reply granting his request, and the Edmonton team was confidently expected. They were looked for on the local C. P. R. train, but evidently missed connections at some point along the line, as they did not reach Toronto until this morning. However, as the usual City League price was charged, and the usual programme given there could be little complaint from the crowd.

West Ends had little difficulty in beating Keene. The villagers presented a very different front from the line-up which gave the Strathconas such a hard chase last week. Smith, the best man on the forward line, is back at R. M. C., and McIntyre and Vince McCarthy were unable to play, owing to illness. The substitutes failed to come up to the standard, and it was merely a workout under wraps for the West Ends, who had they taken good advantage of their opportunities, should have had at least a dozen more goals. Wild shooting when in close kept their score from going into record figures, as there was practically no opposition from the Keene team, with the exception of a couple of players.

It was not good hockey except in isolated spots. In fact Referee Bill Rose's official report to the City League characterized the exhibition as "punk" hockey. West Ends were all over the weakened Keene aggregation, but at that did not get working as they should have under the circumstances, and the exhibition was uninteresting to say the least. The three men off the Keene forward line were sadly missed and the team could not hold out the Westerners. Crane's great shooting from all angles was responsible for most of the goals. It was a brand of hockey that fortunately is not common in the City League. There was a whole lot of tripping and slashing that was totally uncalled for, and the West Ends were by long odds the worst offenders in this respect. It was inexcusable and unnecessary, as Keene were always a badly beaten team. Referee Rose had his hands full, and there were some things done behind his back, too, that might have increased the penalty list. McDougall seemed to be the principal target for the assaults of the West Ends, although just why was hard to see, as the ex-Eureka man has always shown himself a sportsman like player. Every time he came down the ice with the rubber he was chopped over the hands and feet or tripped, and he handed it back with body-checks every time he had the opportunity. It was difficult to judge the motive of the West Ends in maltreating a team that was at their mercy and the crowd did not seem to relish the exhibition.

The West Ends showed their best form of the season and had they paid strict attention to the business of scoring goals and less to McDougall would have had two score counters. With the exception of McDougall and Weir the visitors never checked back and as their defence was weak there was nothing to stop the raids of the West Enders, who, at times, showed clever combination. Crane was the star of the team and the best man on the ice. He was always on the job and his shooting was deadly. He netted no less than eight of the West Ends goals and was always camped around the front waiting for an opportunity to score. Len Dobson gave him great support, passing and rushing nicely, while Short and Giroux, on the wings, were in and around, and all over their checks.

Seymour, at cover, played a splendid defence game, but he marred his work by a lot of slashing, which resulted in three trips to the fence.

McDougall and Weir were the best for Keene, in fact the only men who worked consistently. The former who was moved up to rover last night, was always working, despite the slashes handed out to him, and his checking was mainly responsible for the score being kept as low as it was. Weir helped a lot by his checking back, but the rest of the team were bad, very bad. Dickson came to life in the last fifteen minutes, and worked in a couple of good rushes, but that about let him out.

The teams were:

Keene—Goal, H. Dinsdale; point, Dickson; cover, Lewis; rover, McDougall; centre, Weir; right wing, Gillott; left wing, S. Dinsdale.

The game started slowly with the players bunched and team work conspicuous by its absence. Seymour dumped Dinsdale against the boards, and was relegated from the scene of action. Gillott, a moment after drew upon him the ire of the referee by tripping and he, too, sought the shelter of the timer's box. West Ends were first to score, Crane taking a pass from Dobson, and scoring from close in, in ten minutes.

West Ends, 1; Keene, 0.

Lewis broke a skate and retired. Dobson going off with him. Weir slashed Crane and was penalized. Short madt it 2-0 for West Ends by a nice rush and shot in 3 minutes.

Crane was sent away for tripping McDougall and the teams were playing five a side, but there was no damage done, while the offenders were off. Crane banged in another for the West Ends on a neat shot.—West Ends 3, Keene 0.

McDougall got two minutes for tripping Crane; Dobson and Lewis came back at this stage. McDougall signalized his return from durance vile by a pretty rush, which fooled the West Ends defence, but Halpin pulled off a spectacular stop. Crane boosted West Ends stock by beating Dinsdale by a long shot.

Keene broke into the scoring column at this stage, Weir and Dinsdale uniting in a rush that culminated in a goal, followng a neat shot from Weir's stick.—West Ends 4, Keene 1.

Crane started the scoring in the second half on a pass from Short in two minutes, and in thirty seconds after scored again after a pretty piece of combination with Dobson. Seymour tripped McDougall and was sent away, and Giroux followed him for mixing it up. Hardly were these two back when Dobson took a punch at Dinsdale, and he, too, was banished. Then Crane got his for slashing. Finally, after nine minutes playing, Dobson went down the wing and scored on a pretty shot. West Ends 7, Keene 1.

West Ends got the next in five minutes. Crane once more doing the trick. Keene suddenly came to life at this stage and ran in two goals. Weir annexed the first, following a rush by Dickson and Lewis got the second on a combined rush with the same player.

Seymour drew another penalty just before Crane ended the scoring with another score.

SECOND GAME.

The second game was just as easy for the Strathconas as the first had been for the West Ends. The Abstainers managed to stave off the rushes of the Commissioners in pretty good style in the first half, and scored two goals themselves, but after half time were never in the hunt, being simply smothered up by the red and white team, who showed a fine turn of speed in the last thirty minutes. The game was refreshing in its cleanness after the first exhibition. The Strathconas had but two penalties and the T. A. S. four, and all were for minor offences. The T. A. S. had no combination and were not fast enough to hold the Commissioners, although the Abstainers put up a stubborn defence and never let up. They scored the first goal, and although the Straths swarmed their nets, and poured in shots on Giroux, they could not seem to find the weak spot for a long period, and at half time, although the winners had had the better of the playing they were only in front four goals to 2, and it looked like a close argument. The Straths, however, started the fireworks early in the second half, and although their first goal was followed by one by the T. A. S., there was nothing to it from then on, the Commissioners running in half a dozen counters, while the Abstainers failed to get another shot at Derocher. During the last fifteen minutes, the play was never away from T. A. S. territory, and only for a splendid exhibition of goal keeping by Giroux the score would have been a big one. The Abstainers failed to check back and the Straths were allowed to sweep down on the green and white defences without any interference. The result was that they carried the rubber right in on Giroux and the latter was worked over time.

The Strath defence had an easy time especially Derocher and Denison. Dusty was up on the forward line practically the whole of the second half, and showed his old-time form his rushes being a feature, while he checked effectively. Burritt once more distinguished himself by his sharp shooting, bagging no less than seven of the Straths' goals. He was always in front of the nets and although he was closely watched by the T. A. S. defence, found a hole behind Giroux time after time. The Straths line played fine combination, going down together and passing unselfishly.

Heffernan, of the Quakers, was a new man on the Abstainers, and more than made good at cover point. He checked beautifully and rushed well. The other T. A. S. star was Giroux, whose work was uniformly good all through the game, and in the first half especially brilliant. He stopped shot after shot with the red and white team in on top of him.

The teams were as follows:

T. A. S. (3)—Goal, Giroux; point, M. Sabatino; cover, Heffernan; rover, Quigley; centre, T. Sabatino; right wing, Morin; left wing, McNicholl.

Straths rushed from the start and had half a dozen shots on Giroux in the first few minutes, but he picked them nicely and clearly. Tony Sabatino was penalised for slashing, but nothing happened while he was off. Then his brother went the same way and before he got back Tony broke the ice for T. A. S. by scoring on a neat shot, following some loose play around the Straths' goal. — T. A. S., 1; Straths, 0.

It took the Straths five minutes to even things up, although they had several chances, which Giroux spoiled. Then Burritt took a pass from the wing at the nets' mouth and scored.—Straths, 1; T. A. S., 1.

The Commissioners went out in front thirty seconds after. Burritt passed to Weatherstone at the face-off and after a nice rush the wing man returned to Burritt, who beat Giroux from close in.—Straths, 2; T. A. S., 1.

Two minutes afterwards Weatherstone, Burritt and McMillan went down together on a combine rush. Burritt's shot was blocked, but Weatherstone slammed the rubber through before Giroux could clear. Straths, 3, T.A.S. 1.

Dusty broke away for a nice rush and passed to Burritt when close in and again the midget centre scored. Straths 4, T.A.S. 1.

Dusty served two sentences in succession, the only Strathcona man to be penalised. Straths lost a couple of openings and then McNicholl scored for T.A.S., bringing the rubber around behind the nets and catching the defence asleep. Straths 5, T.A.S. 2.

The Commissioners opened the second half at top speed. In less than two minutes Burritt and Weatherstone rushed together, Burritt tipping the rubber behind Giroux. Straths 5, T.A.S. 2.

T. A. S. came back with their last counter at this stage, Morin beating Derocher on a shot following a scrimmage. Straths 5, T.A.S. 3

The Straths broke loose again. McMillan started a rush, passed to Burritt, who handed it to Ray, and the nets bulged. Straths 6, T.A.S. 3.

The next came on another similar play. Weatherstone broke away down the wing, passed to Dusty, who carried it around Heffernan and passed to Burritt, who beat Giroux from a foot out. Straths 8, T.A.S. 3.

Dusty got the next on a lone handed dash through the defence and a pretty shot from outside Sabatino. Straths 9, T.A.S. 3.

Burritt repeated on a rush from centre, carrying the rubber around the defence and tallying by himself. Straths 10, T.A.S. 3.

Burritt got the last counter. Dennison rushed down the side and flipped the rubber across to the centre man, who had nothing to do but score. Straths 11,T.A.S. 3.

The summary—

1 T.A.S., T. Sabatino 10 mins.
2 Strathconas, Burritt 5 mins.

PROTECTS YOU FROM COLDS

As the only way to reach catarrh is by inhaling medicated air, it follows that the healing balsams of Catarrhozone can't fail to cure. It is a purely vegetable antiseptic—soothes and heals wherever it goes.

The germ-killing vapor is inhaled at the mouth and instantly spreads through all the breathing organs. Every case of bronchitis and catarrh is rooted out, and such health and strength is imparted that these troubles never again return.

Catarrhozone has cured thousands, and here is quoted the experience of Mrs. James A. Tweedle, of Jay Bridge, Maine, who sent for sixteen outfits of Catarrhozone for friends in her locality. This lady gives very full particulars why she did so. Her daughter, fourteen years old, had doctored for catarrh, obtaining no benefit, tried lots of other remedies, but all failed—recommended by a neighbor to try Catarrhozone. Instead of despairing, as she had good reason for doing, obtained Catarrhozone and before it was done, as she states, she was completely cured. No wonder she recommends it. Child had dropping in the throat, hawking, spitting; father thought she was going into consumption; could not sleep at night, and adds: "I only wish anyone suffering from catarrh to give it a fair trial."

Just Breathe "Catarrhozone" and You're Insured Against Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essences of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh and colds. Large size, guaranteed, $1; medium size, 50c; small trial size, 25c. All dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

The curling season up to the present has been particularly good, and there is every prospect that it will continue to attract the local lovers of the game.

SCHEDULE FOR THE GROUP HAS BEEN ARRANGED

The schedule for this group of the intermediate O. H. A. district was finally agreed upon to-day. Lindsay and Peterborough will play a double schedule, games to count. The first game will be played in Lindsay on Friday, Jan. 21.

The following schedule was agreed upon:

Lndsay at Peterborough, Friday, Jan. 28.

Peterborough at Lndsay, Monday, Jan. 31.

Lndsay at Peterborough, Friday, Feb. 4.

WILL NOT BE HERE TO-NIGHT EDMONTON CANNOT COME

A number of people to-day are complaining over the fact that the Edmonton team failed to put in an appearance at the Brock St. rink to practise after having been advertised to do so. The non-appearance of the Edmonton team of course, is not the fault of the City League, but a number of people seem to think that the whole thing was a fake and that the Edmonton team had no intention of coming to Peterborough. Of course, that report is entirely untrue. It was the Western team that asked to be given an opporunity to work out here, and the City League acceded to their request. They were delayed at St. Paul and Chicago and did not reach Toronto until this morning.

To-day the iCty League made an effort to have the team come here to-night. The League had made arrangements to hire the rink and intended to throw the practice open to the public who were disappointed last night. However this afternoon Fred Whitcroft wired the President as follows:

Team cannot come to Peterobrough to-night. Miller and myself will arrive at 5.30 this afternoon."

Troubled Every Winter With Severe Colds.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup Cured Her

Mrs. W. J. Hammond, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I beg to say that I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my youngest girl who was troubled every winter with bronchitis and very severe colds. At night she would keep us all awake with her coughing until I tried your Syrup, which gave her instant relief. After the first bottle was finished I got more, and always kept a bottle in her room at night. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is certainly a wonderful thing in a case like the above mentioned and no one can praise it too highly. I have taken every opportunity to recommend it to all my friends and relatives."

There is nothing to equal "Dr. Wood's" for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Asthma, Hoarseness, Sore Throat Pain or Tightness in the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

It prevents Pneumonia and Consumption.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Reason Edmonton Team Failed to Practise Here Last Evening.

The following telegram from Fred Whitcroft of the Edmonton team received by the Examiner this afternoon is self explanation:

THE POSTOFFICE IS APPRECIATED

Mr. Jas. McMartin's General Store is Source of Convenience to People of District.

Although McMartinville has not yet been granted a daily mail service, the post office in this settlement has proved to be a great boon to the community The general store, post office and telephone station, established by Mr. Jas. McMartin, from which the settlement derives its name, has proved to be a source of great comfort and convenience to the people residing in that section of Otonabee. This business could not have been established by a more deserving citizen than Mr. McMartin, whose ancestors have lived in the community for several generations back, and whose names have stood for honesty, integrity and straightforward dealings. Mr. McMartin is, therefore, deserving of the confidence that is reposed in him, and by his attention to the interests of his patrons has succeeded in building up a substantial business. The convenience of the post office and the telephone station, and the fact that the Examiner can be obtained each evening at Mr. McMartin's store, naturally constitutes McMartinville a centre of no mean importance.

However, the success of the McMartinville store is not alone due to the efforts and personality of Mr. James McMartin. He has been ably assisted by his good wife, whose obliging manner and attention towards the customers of the store, is well known to the residents of McMartinville and vicinity.

Mr. McMartin desires to express to his customers his appreciation of their patronage during the year 1909, and to assure them of attention and courteous treatment during the ensuing year.

Peterborough People Interested in Galt Law Case.

APSLEY HAS NOT YET GIVEN UP HOPE OF SECURING RAILWAY

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—The Peterborough Distributing Agency and semi-monthly circulars, advertising city merchants and prices seem to compare favourably with T. Eatons and R. Simpson, of Toronto, but the difficulty lies in getting to your city. A ride on wheels or sleighs of 30, 40 or sometimes 50 miles unless in very favourable weather, is rather a serious consideration when it may take from 3 to 5 days to make the trip, besides the expense, whereas it only requires a postal note and stamp to send money to Toronto and between $10,000 and $12,000 goes to that city annually from the back country of East Peterborough, the three townships of Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos and that is within the mark. Now, the greater part, if not all that amount, would be left in Peterborough if we had railway communication and more than that, the four or five stores here each deal in flour and feed, which is all brought from Lakefield, Lindsay, Warsaw and Deseronto. None from your city. With the power that can be developed at Burleigh Falls an electric road could be run from your city to Apsley and am sure you would be benefitted and is there not enterprise and push enough among your citizens to form a company and build one.

Both governments would, I am sure, give a subsidy. There is plenty of good land available here yet and no better place for raising cattle; water and pasture abundant in summer and seldom a scarcity of winter feed, no blizzard or destructive storms, fuel in plenty and millions of feet of good hardwood lumber that, if there were a railroad here could be shipped out as portable steam mills would get busy.

There are also numberless lakes, most of them contain fish—bass and salmon. There is no doubt that if a road was once in operation there would be traffic enough to make it a paying investment. Or are we to wait until the last pine, hemlock, cedar and other floatable timber is taken out and the hardwood left to be wiped out by forest fires. Hoping that in the near future we may hear the bell of the electric car or whistle of the steam car. I might say that prospectors are making some good finds in the northern part of Anstruther and there is a prospect of a short line from Tory Hill into that section.

Yours, etc.,

APSLEY.

THE AUSTRIAN NAVY.

A Possible Menace to England in the Near Future.

Because Austria has not been a sea power in the past is no sign that she is not going to be one in the future. You are not aware that within two years Austria will have available thirteen of the most powerful battleships in the world. Do you appreciate that these thirteen battleships will be at the service of Germany, and do you appreciate what such an Austrian fleet can do in the Mediterranean with no force to hold it in check? It would have Malta, Cyprus and Egypt at its mercy.

Austria would not find the slightest difficulty in dispatching an expeditionary force to any of these points, and once in control of Egypt and dominating the Suez canal she could dispatch her smaller ships to attack commerce, proceeding by the Cape route to India.

Thus it is clear that in case of war a powerful British fleet must be stationed in the Mediterranean unless the British people are prepared to see their commerce destroyed, their communications with the east interrupted, their fortresses in the Mediterranean one by one attacked and captured and staggering blows struck in every quarter against their empire. With a navy which will certainly be the most efficient in the Mediterranean in the near future, Austria may entertain daring ambitions.—Everybody's Magazine.

Dormice Immune to Snake Bite.

Three animals have long been known to be immune to the bites of snakes—the pig, the porcupine and the mongoose. According to M. G. Billard, naturalist of Clermont-Ferrand, France, the common or garden dormouse must be added to this list. This little animal does not hesitate to fight a viper and kill the reptile. Of course it would be helpless if attacked by a big rattlesnake, for this would swallow him at one gulp. M. Billard injected four milligrams of dried viper poison into a dormouse with absolutely no effect. Half an hour after the injection the dormouse was nibbling an apple as if nothing had happened. The dormouse weights only two ounces, and the amount of venom he received was enough to kill eleven pounds of such animals as rabbits and guinea pigs.

Imperishable Pavement.

A new paving material devised by a French engineer consists of the iron shavings from lathes and similar machines, which are mixed with cement, making a combination which is almost indestructible. In making paving blocks according to this process a mold is filled with these iron shavings and the interstices filled with cement grout sufficiently fluid to penetrate the entire mass. The blocks thus formed are said to possess great strength and resistance to abrasion and also (what seems less credible) elasticity under blows or jarring. Tests made of such blocks are said to have shown a resistance to compression of about 150,000 pounds a square inch and at a tensile strength four times that of neat cement.—Chicago Journal.

Conducting Without Baton.

M. Wasclil Safonoff, who has been conducting the Newcastle music festival, is a Russian and famous in both hemispheres as a conductor. Finding himself without his baton on one occasion, he used his hands and was so satisfied with the result that since then he has never reverted to the use of the customary stick. "Where there is no baton," he once remarked, "the players cannot be lazy, they must watch your fingers so carefully. In a few years there will be no batons." Certainly M. Safonoff, who has often conducted in London, gets wonderful results from an orchestra, but no other conductor in the first rank has yet followed his example in abandoning the baton.—London News.

French Convicts.

Convicts who are sent to the French penal colony in French Guiana are punished in exactly inverse ratio to their crimes. The murderers and the most dangerous convicts are sent to the island of Salvation, where they lead lazy and healthy lives, but the men convicted of lesser offenses work and die in a terrible climate on the coast. In the settlement of St. Jean de Maroni the mortality is from 40 to 50 per cent. The average life of a convict is two years.

FIRE IN TORONTO SCHOOL TO-DAY CAUSED A PANIC

Fifteen Children and Two Teachers Had to Jump From Windows to Escape---Severe Storm Raging at London, Ontario---Mrs. Pearce Reported Missing Has Turned Up---Another Cobalt Raid.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 14.—Fire in the St. Clair Avenue school in the western part of the city this morning caused great excitement in the neighbourhood and a panic among mothers whose children were in the building. Fifteen children and two teachers, Miss Stansbury and Miss Sloan, had their escape cut off by the burning stairs and had to jump from windows. Three children were injured, but none seriously.

SENT UP FOR TRIAL.

St. Catharines, Jan. 14.—As the outcome of the fight on a street car at Merriton on New Year's Day, in which George Bulman lost his life, Police Magistrate Campbell this morning committed Wm. Bradley for trial at the Spring Assizes, on a charge of murder.

HAS TURNED UP.

Belleville, Jan. 14. — Mrs. George Pearce, who has been advertised all over Ontario as missing, was in the city last night and had an interview with the Chief of Police. She stated that she had been in Trenton all the time and had been in communication with her parents, who live in California.

SEVERE STORM.

London, Jan. 14.—The most severe storm of the winter is raging for the past 24 hours and not a stret car line is in operation. There are no trains moving on either the M. C. R. or Pere Marquette, between here and St. Thomas. A sleighing party of 30 young people of All Saints' Church, which started out last evening, has not been heard from and it is supposed they are being cared for at some farm house.

ANOTHER RAID.

Cobalt, Jan. 14.—Provincial Inspector Caldbeck and License Inspector Blackhall made another big clean-up of "blind pigs" early this morning, arresting fourteen alleged keepers. One man, James Charron, was this morning sentenced to four months in Jail; another was fined $200. The remainder of the alleged offenders appear this afternoon.

MRS. SCOTT ACQUITTED JURY OUT TWO HOURS

London, Jan. 14—Mrs. Martha Scott, charged with the murder of her father-in-law, Harvey Scott, was acquitted by the jury at 6 o'clock last night. They were out exactly two hours, and a crowded court room patiently waited their return.

Mrs. Scott immediately after acquittal was surrounded by friends, and through the crowd came John McFarlane, reeve of Nissouri, who, without more ceremony than a handshake, pressed a purse into her hands.

"We took this up at the time of the Thorndale fair," he said, "and we want you to take it, just to show that our feelings are all right."

The West Nissouri woman, bewildered almost to the point of speechlessness, was taken to a little restaurant on the market square, to have her first meal in freedom in more than four months. She was accompanied by her husband and little daughter, Clare.

"Tell the people that I am thankful for their sympathy and help," she said to a reporter, "I have never felt that I committed a crime. I fired the shot that killed Harvey Scott to save my life."

The taking of evidence came to a conclusion shortly after two o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Meredith, for the defence, made an hour's appeal to the sympathy of the jury. Mr. Reade asked for a conviction on the evidence. Sir William Meredith said he did not think the evidence warranted a verdict of murder, but it must be manslaughter or acquittal.

"The jury has taken a merciful view of the case," his lordship said in discharging the prisoner. "You have had an extremely narrow escape. I hope it will be a lesson to you, and that the verdict of the jury will not encourage people to keep firearms in their homes and use them to take life, as you have taken life. No doubt you suffered persecution at the hands of Harvey Scott.

"The jury has taken the merciful view coming to the conclusion that there was provocation or danger that warranted the extreme act of shooting the father of your husband."

On Sept. 13 last, Harvey Scott, an aged man, was shot and killed by Mrs. Scott, who claimed that he frequently came to the house to abuse her, and that she was in terror of him.

On a previous trial the jury disagreed.

Arm Broken By Falling Tree Set by Lumberman And May Have To Be Re-broken Here

Larry Kelly Tells of a Series of Accidents Which Nearly Cost Him His Life—Heavy Waggon Passed Over His Body—More Recent Injuries in Lumber Camp—Cheerful Through All His Troubles.

IN ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL

A story with a hard-luck tinge was related yesterday afternoon by Larry Kelly, who said he had just arrived in the city from the vicinity of North Bay, where he met with a serious accident while working with a lumber camp, and as a result of improper medical treatment a broken bone had not been properly set, and would likely require rebreaking and resetting. The story as heard by an Examiner reporter, covers a number of months, and in spite of the setbacks this man has received he started for St. Joseph's Hospital quite happy in the fact that he was at last about to receive proper treatment, and would be enabled to get back to work again when fully recovered.

In the first place, according to his story, he was working near Indian River, with a farmer during the summer, and one day was driving a team with a load of shingles. The horses became frightened at something, and in some way he was pulled down over the whiffle tree. He clung to his position as long as he could, and finally had to let go. Both front and hind wheels on one side passed over his body, above the hips, and the crushing he received may be imagined, when it is stated that the stem of his watch, which was in the special pocket of his trousers, was forced through the back of the case.

Went to North Woods.

He was a steady and industrious man and resumed work when he recovered from this experience, and was some time later offered a position in a lumber camp near North Bay. Although he had a fairly good position, the inducements held out to him were far too bright to let pass, and to the back woods he went. He states that on arriving at his destination he was out of work for a number of weeks. Not long ago, while engaged in cutting down a tree it fell on him in some way, with the result that his left arm was broken, and the axe he had been using rebounded striking him in the face. His upper lip was split on the right side, and with these double injuries he was at the mercy of whom he terms a "handy man," and many miles from a good doctor. However, skilful, or unskilled, the treatment he received, he decided to come to Peterborough which has been his home for the past seven years, to make sure that his arm was properly set. The accident occurred three weeks ago. The wound on his lip was healed, but instead of being joined together the split is just as when received, and will, in all probability always be in that condition. It appears as if it had not been sewn together, and was simply allowed to heal without being pulled together.

Happy Through All.

Mr. Kelly was somewhat downhearted yesterday, when he arrived in the city. It is said that he has saved his money, but his injuries had wiped away his little pile, excepting five dollars. He wanted to receive good treatment, and did not know what course to pursue. He went to a local barber shop, of which he had always been a regular patron, and stated his troubles. The proprietor, after a little thought, wrote a letter to Dr. McPherson, and directed him to the latter's office. It was arranged that Kelly should go to St. Joseph's Hospital, where, under chloroform, his arm could be examined to-day. He left his belongings with the barber and seemed quite happy when he returned to announce that he was going to the hospital. What pleased him most was the fact that his arm would be properly set, even if it had to be rebroken, and he would be able in the course of a few months to start to work again.

Mr. Kelly stated that the "handy man" of the camp began to set the broken bone without administering chloroform, but he was unable to bear the pain. Listening to the recital of the more recent accident one was struck with the man's cheerfulness, in spite of his misfortunes during the past six months. The possibility of further "repairs" to his arm did not seem to weigh upon him. Instead he greeted his walk to the hospital almost with delight, as he said he would at any rate receive proper attention.

CANADA'S AREA AND RESOURCES.

The hostile or indifferent attitude of the Conservative opposition in parliament towards great national undertakings shows an ignorance or ignoring of the vast extent and resources of Canada. A similar attitude on the part of the people indicates a similar failure to appreciate the real conditions. It therefore seems that too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the importance of reminding the public what Canada means territorially and what the extent and variety of its resources are.

How many people realize the greatness of the country of which they form a part? It may not be amiss to give a few particulars of this great Dominion.

Canada is larger than the United States by about 178,000 square miles, and has a popultion of only one-twelfth the latter country.

Canada is as large as thirty United Kingdoms of Great Britain, and equal in size to eighteen Geramnys.

Canada is almost as large as Europe, and twice the size of British India, eighteen times the size of France twenty times the size of Spain, and thirty three times the size of Italy.

Canada is one-third the area of the British Empire, and a half of this area is not yet surveyed into Provinces.

Only one-quarter of this vast area is occupied, and less than one-eighth is under cultivation.

Canada contains approximately 3,729,665 square miles—more than one-third of this territory is at present unexplored.

The unsurveyed districts of MacKenzie, Ungava and Franklin are larger than China.

The distance from Halifax to Vancouver is greater than from London, England, to Halifax.

Canada extends over 48 degrees of latitude—a distance equal to that from Rome to the North Pole.

Canada has the most extensive fisheries in the world, including 12,780 miles of sea coast line, and innumerable lakes and streams.

The value of Canada's fishing from 1868 to dte is placed at 680 millions of dollars

Central Canada's summer temperature is warmer than that of England. On the prairies of Canada, England's highest average of sunshine is Canada's lowest.

Canada has a greater railwy mileage than Australia and New Zealand, or Italy and Spain combined, more than all the South American countries.

Canada has more than one-half the fresh water area of the globe.

Canada has 6,000 miles of waterways from the St. Lawrence to the MacKenzie, with only 150 miles of a land break.

Canada has a waterway of 1,381 miles—from mouth of the St. Lawrence to the head of Lake Superior.

The St. Lawrence system is 740 miles long, and has 4,000 miles of connected navigable waters — $150,000,000 has been expended on this route.

Canada is 43 years old, dating from Confederation, 151 years old dating from British conquest of 1759, and 375 years old dating from Cartier's first visit in 1535.

Canada has produced over 895 millions of dollars in minerals in the past 25 years.

Canada has over 100,000 square miles of coal bearing lands.

Canada stands first among the nations in transporting facilities in proportion to her population.

Canada's railway mileage per head of population is greater than that of any other country.

Canada has the largest pulp wood areas in the world.

The long sunlight of the Far North grows wheat that makes whiter flour and better bread than any other wheat in the world.

Canada ranks third among the commercial nations. Her total trade this year, $750,000,000. Total revenue, $100,000,000, highest in history.

Conservative estimates place the quantity of land suitable for agriculture in the Western provinces at 200,000,000 acres and of this about 10,000,000 acres are under cultivation. The land tributary to the Transcontinental Railway is not included in these figures. The very building of the Transcontinental has given a value to land, the property of the Dominion, far in excess of any cost the railway will be to the people.

The forests of Canada are enormous. The absurd and utterly erroneous views spread by the opponents of the Government that the timber has been dissipated should be ignored. Those to whom timber has been leased must pay royalty to the Government if they cut the timber. If they don't cut it, it remains. There are known at present 175,000 square miles of merchantable timber unsold, besides 600,000 square miles of spruce, which can be cut every thirty years, for it reproduces itself in that time.

Canada is rapidly bening populated Great demands are made upon the Government for public works. Works of a permanent character which will benefit the people for all time. This is the time to lay the foundations of a great Empire. What is done now will have a far-reaching effect in tht future. Trade can be influenced into channels now which will become permanent, and in the growing and builkling process one eterprise will bear a relation to another.

In years to come when conditions become settled, when communities have grown up, when great commercial centres have been selected, when industrial sites have been decided upon with regard to transportation facilities, harbour accommodation and marine conveniences, it will be too late for Canada to inaugurate anything likely to attract commerce, and very improbable, that vested interests and old established industries can be disturbed. The time to act is now.

Canada is rich enough to engage capital for great public enterprises and add it to the public debt. Canada is rich enough to pay a fair rate of interest and a small sinking fund should be our contribution to the debt raised for these purposes. There is no reason why the people of this generation should pay the expense of providing for future generations all the public conveniences which it appears wise to arrange for at this time.

What should be inculcated in Canadians is an abiding faith in the future. Any man who has travelled over and through Canada and knows something of her immense distances, her undeveloped resources, regards the public debt as small in proportion to the vast assets and natural wealth of the country. It would not be an impossible task for a business man with financial relations in London, to take a slice of the land brought into the market by the building of the National Transcontinental and pay off the public debt.

To speak for Canada, act for Canada, think for Canada, requires a man who can speak, act and think imperially. A man who cannot grasp large enterprises, understand big figures, entertain broad views, should not express opinions on Canada.

Canada is infinitely greater than many of the men who presume to places in the Government. To Mr. Foster, whose ideas of economy were satisfied when he reduced the salaries of the charwoman in the House of Comomns and accepted a pension for himself of $3,500 a year, Canada is a closed book, he cannot beyond the cover.

There are many men among the Opposition who have no faith in themselves, and, therefore no faith in the country. To these men the paltry debt of Canada seems to be colossal. They are so unequal to the task of Government, and have such a weak conception of Canada's greatness, that they are appalled.

Canada could sell land enough today sufficient to repay the public debt and never miss it. Land that had no value whatever when this Government came into power, and land that has received a value by reason of the policy of the present Government.

A country such as Canada, with a public debt of $45.86 per capita, as against $49.09 per capita in 1891, is a circumstances to provoke comment by men who know the values dormant in the Dominion. This is the time to do things, and a substantial addition to the public debt for national purposes should alarm no one, as it would conduce to the general prosperity.

The public debt is so small compared to our national assets, and money expended now for public purposes should be made the subject of commendation rather than rebuke. Men of little faith are not wanted in Canada, they are not useful citizens, and will be of no assistance in solving the problems of the present or the future The city of New York spends more money in a year than the expenditure of the Dominion of Canada. Canada, with its great national wealth and progressive Government, need not fear the future.

'ROUND THE STORES

"January Sales" are having a great innings just now. The business situation in Peterborough at the opening of 1910 shows that so general was the increase in the volume of trade during the second half of 1909 that nearly all traces of financial disturbance have been obliterated.

Bright prospects seem to be presented by the advent of the year 1910. Almost before the eye becomes accustomed to the new numerals, promises of increased industrial development are in the air; and our merchants and manufacturers speak in hopeful strains of a buoyancy in business which turns attention away from the past to the expansion of their respective investments.

During the next few months, perhaps, there may be little more done than a planning for business. But it is a good time for carrying out attractions and improvements in the premises and equipment, and the progressive man will improve the "slack" time by getting ideas that he may utilize later on.

Live young business men like Mr. W. E. Lech, the furrier, of 366 George street, are using every legitimate effort to clear the balance of their high-grade stock during January. Even if one does not need to buy any more furs until next year, it would seem as if the re-marked prices should tempt an investment for future needs. All lines of fur skins, such as coon, muskrat, mink, Persian lamb, have advanced within the past two months, some say over fifty per cent. Ladies who may be promising themselves a new fur jacket or a new fur-lined coat, especially, will be taking time by the forelock by watching Mr. W. E. Lech's fur offerings during this month.

The Golden Lion's bargain festival for January possesses several strong features. Its "White Sale" is bringing many ladies to the store, and helping sales to go briskly. Ladies can purchase dainty lingerie, white blouses, and other white goods at price concessions that prove economy to shoppers. Fancy lawn blouses which possess the advanced cyle for spring are retailing as low as $1.00 and $1.50. These are fair indications of the other values that prevail plentifully at Fair's, just now.

Messrs H. Le Brun & Co. have big value in men's clothing for the buyer who has the ready cash. If men who need a winter suit or overcoat for which they planned to pay $15 or $17, will inspect LeBrun's stock, they will find a bonafide discount of twenty per cent. off former prices. That means a saving of from $3 to $3.50 on the garment.

The January Cut Price Sale now going on at Richard Hall & Son's looks almost as if they might be giving goods away at this big, busy dry goods store. Following the winding up of the firm's recent remarkable fire sale, the incomparable January prices ruling are indications of a decisive, clean sweep of all remoining goods. The values are as unique as the manner in which they are presented. The store is undergoing a thorough overhauling in order to remove all traces of the smoke or other damage caused by this fire. And while painters and paper-hangers are busy on their work, shoppers are saving much money on things that are needful during the entire year. For instance:

Scotch and Canadian tweeds, suitable for toboggan suits, dressing gowns, suits and coats for women and children. Full 56 inches wide, all pure wool, worth per yard up to $2.50, are ticketed at only 69c. New chambrays and ginghams, spring patterns, at 7 1-2c. per yard. Axminster, Wilton, Brussels and Tapestry rugs in room sizes, with price marks that should move them quickly. Stock taking follows this January sale, after which the firm will get down to regular business.

Straight into the pockets of shrewd buyers goes fully twenty cents of each dollar spent this week at Mr. T. C. Elliott's ibg, growing Beehive, 392 George St.. There can be no questioning the fact that January reductions here are real and actual. Whatever the ladies need, whether in coats, mantles, suits, skirts, blouses underskirts, hosiery, underwear or gloves,—many a parcel is being snapped up at actually one-half former prices, and many others at one-quarter off. The new departments reached by the new elevator are brimful of interest to shoppers every day. Especially is this so in the tempting "half-price" department, where nothing is sold for more than one-half its actual value.

After a heavy holiday trade Messrs. F. S. Schneider & Co., the jewellers, keep attracting buyers by their countless money-saving offerings in watches, clocks, jewelry and fancy goods. The exhilarating enthusiasm which characterized their holiday trade still bears fruit. That January prices worth coming for should continue to attract buyers, is not to be wondered at. Results since the beginning of the month have been most satisfactory, and will likely continue to be, if the values continue such as they have been.

One of the fancy sales, which has had a "lion's share" of the ladies' attention, is that of Mr. Harry Adams', "The Store for Women." This sale sprang into popularity from the start. The dependable character of the stock has had much to do with popularizing the sale. Although in some cases broken lines are only left after a good season's activity, all the coats, skirts and other ready to wear garments left are of an interesting class, because the buying was right in the first place and the styles right. Every department of "The Store for Women" is involved in this sacrifice sale—nothing is reserved, because the clearance is required for store improvements which must follow.

MARVELLOUS HEALING POWERS

The most severe test to which a healing ointment is ever put is the cure of eczema. So successful has Dr. Chase's Ointment proven in the cure of torturing itching eczema that many people refer to its effects as magical and marvellous. After the first few applications it positively stops the dreadful itching and then gradually and naturally heals up the sores.

Had Weak Back.

Would Often Lie in Bed for Days Scarcely Able to Turn Herself.

Weak back comes from the kidneys, and when the kidneys are out of order the whole system becomes deranged. Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble do not know of the suffering and misery which those afflicted undergo.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles.

They begin by helping the kidneys to flush of all the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages and carrying away the uric acid, the chief cause of rheumatism, from the blood.

Mrs. Arch, Schnare Black Point, N.B., writes:—"For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

UNCLE WALT--THE POET PHILOSOPHER

THE STRICKEN TOILER

He laboured on the railway track; his task would break a horse's back; he tugged at things that weighed a ton, and all the time the summer sun, blazed down and cooked him where he toiled, and still he worked, though fried and broiled. I grieved for this poor section man, who drank warm water from a can, and ate rye bread and greenish cheese, and had big blisters on his knees. "Ods fish!" quoth I, "when day is dead, methinks you straightway go to bed, too labour-worn to have a sigh, as wounded soldiers go to die." "That's where you're off," the toiler said; "I'm in no rush to go tobed; you must be talking in a trance —to-night I'm going to a dance!" "Gadzooks!" thought I, "and eke ods blood! My tears have streamed, a briny flood, because of all the cares and woes the horny-handed toiler knows! And it would seem, from what I learn, that he has fun, and some to burn. Gadzooks again! It seemeth plain that weeping in this world is vain!"

THE HOME PHYSICIAN

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cure Most of the Family's Ills.

This Little Boy is Mother's Stand-by.

Perhaps if the children, and the "grown-ups" too, always ate exactly the right quantities of exactly the right things, at just the proper times, and in every other way obeyed the rules of health, there would be no sickness in the family, and no need of medicine.

But they never have and probably never will, so in every family there are sure to be more or less frequent attacks of sick headache, biliousness, indigestion, constipation, and kidney and liver troubles, and occasionally some one is "sick in bed".

It is worth a good deal to the mother, then, to have on hand that perfectly safe and reliable remedy for these ills — Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

They invigorate those organs which cleanse the body of waste and impurities, regulating the bowels, stimulating the kidneys and opening the pores of the skin.

Thus Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cure the common ailments and keep the family healthy. This they have been doing for over half a century in every part of the world.

NIGHT EDITOR OF PITTSBURG POST

Mr. R. F. Choate, Formerly of The Examiner, Receives Another Promotion.

It is always pleasing to note the sucess of young men in the outside world who have laid the foundation for it in Peterborough. One of these is Mr. R. F. Choate, son of Mr. A. F. Choate, of Warsaw, who is in the newspaper business, and who began his newspaper career on the Examiner. Until the first of the year he had been the telegraph editor on the Pittsburg Post, Pittsburg, Pa., U. S. A., when he was given the position of night editor on that paper, a responsibility which, when the prominence of the Pittsburg Post among the newspapers of the United States is taken into consideration, is one of more than ordinary importance.

Mr. Choate's rapid rise in the daily newspaper arena has been a credit both to himself and to the "fourth estate," and his many Peterborough City and county friends will be pleased to hear of this recent recognition of his ability.

"THE ROYAL CHEF" PLEASED LONDONERS

Speaking of the appearance of "The Royal Chef" in London Wednesday evening the Free Press says:

"The Royal Chef" held forth at the Grand last night, and for over two hours handed out a dish that was palatable, and administered in doses that pleased a good sized audience.

The play, in spite of age, is as popular as ever. The music is tuneful and well sung by an evenly balanced and well dressed chorus. The cast was up to the standard, and several old faces being seen.

Walter A. Bohme, as the chef, was the principal fun maker, and was as eccentric as ever. Miss Wilson carried off the honours among the feminine members of the cast. She is winsome and winning, and captured the audience from her first entrance. The chorus was snappy and well-trained, while the scenery and electrical effects were up to the standard.

A pleasing feature of the performance was the singing of "Oh Canada," the new national anthem. The anthem is delightful and was well sung.

MR. GLADSTONE MAIN TO FORT FRANCES

Was Banquetted by Galt Collegiate Institute Boys Before Departing.

The G. C. I. Rugby team and supporters last evening gave a farewell banquet to Mr. Gladstone Main, who is leaving for Fort Frances. During the season Mr. Main coached the students' team and the boys could not let him go away without expressing their regret and their appreciation of his services. The banquet was held at Palmer's restaurant and after all had done justice to the good things a toast list was given and the event broke up at an early hour this morning.—Galt Reformer.

Mr. Main was a few years ago, on the staff of the local branch of the Ontario Bank.

The Story Of "The White Sister" Is A Most Interesting One

Viola Allan and her fine company of players, under the management of Messrs. Liebler & Co., who are now making a professional tour of several of the largest cities of Canada, will visit this city on Thursday, Jan. 20, presenting the late F. Marion Crawford's play, "The White Sister," at "The Grand." It is the story of a young woman whose betrothed, an officer of the Italian Army, goes to fight in Africa. News comes of a battle, and the officer's name is among the list of killed. The young woman takes the vows of a Dominican Nun and lives the life of beautiful sacrifice. It transpires the officer was not slain, but has been taken prisoner, and after a lapse of a few years, returns to claim the fulfilment of his betrothal. The old love has endured in both. It is then that the tremendous struggle comes between the nun and soldier. For a time the White Sister is all but overwhelmed by the mighty conflict in her soul between her temporal vows and her spiritual vows, but by her strong religious faith and the aid of the good Monsignore, she emerges triumphantly.

"The White Sister" is a play of remarkable dignity and intensity, and its four acts are laid in Rome, which furnishes excellent material for an artistic scenic production. Mr. Crawford, the author, said a short time before his death that the idea of the drama was related to him by a priest in an obscure parish in Italy, as having happened in real life.

Some of the distinguished players associated with Miss Allen in the performance of "The White Sister" are James O'Neill, William Farnum, Minna Gale, Richie Ling, Joseph Whiting and Fanny Addison Pitt, and Bell Chippendale Warner, forming the only all-star cast of the present season.

Three successful engagements of "The White Sister" have been played in New York City the present season by the Viola Allen Company. Last week the present Canadian tour was opened in Montreal.

The newly elected officers were duly installed by Past District Master Bro. Robert Campbell.

WAS INTOXICATED WHILE ON DUTY

Engineer Said to Have Been the Victim of the Bottle Habit of Drinking.

Mr. M. McGlade, C.P.R. locomotive engineer of town, pleads dguilty on Friday last before the Police Magistrate of Perth, to being intoxicated while on duty in charge of a frieght train. Mr. E. G. Malloch, K.C., Crown Attorney, prosecuted and Mr. Angus McMurchy, who appeared for the C.P.R. Co., stated the facts of the case at the request of the Crown, but did not press for severe punishment. Mr. C. J. Foy appeared for the accused, and pleaded for a lenient sentence.

The Magistrate referred to the serious nature of the offence, and imposed a fine of $100.00 and costs or six months' imprisonment.

The maximum penalty under section 413 of the railway act. is $400 fine or five years' imprisonment, or both.—Havelock Standard.

The case of this engineer illustrates the danger of the bottle habit of drinking. A C.P.R. official in referring to it stated that McGlade had always been temperate and only took an occasional drink and went to a hotel for it. Since local option came into force in Havelock the bars were closed. It is stated that McGlade bought the goods by the bottle and at the time of his arrest had six bottles of whiskey in his bag. From the same authority it was learned that the engineer was dismissed from the service of the C.P.R. and it is asserted tha this downfall was the result of the changed conditions.

W. A. B. ASKS ABOUT POLL TAX

The following item in the legal column of the Toronto Mail will be of interest to all ratepayers especially young men liable to poll tax:

W. A. B., Peterborough.—Ques.—Can a person who is a visitor to a town be compelled to pay the statute labour tax? (2) Will an emigrant have to pay the tax during the first year of his residence in Ontario? (3) If a person does not pay the tax can he be arrested and fined?

Ans.—Every male inhabitant of a town, city, or village, of the age of twenty-one years and under sixty, who is not assessed upon the assessment roll for real estate can be taxed $1 yearly as a statute labour tax. It does not matter whether the party is a permanent resident or not. Every person living in the province should pay something towards the maintenance of the roads and sidewalks which he uses. (2) Emigrants should pay the tax as well as other people. (3) There is a municipal by-law governing the matter and there is some provision in the by-law empowering the Magistrate to enforce it. If you make enquiries of the city clerk you will find that the by-law authorizes the magistrate or justices of the peace to enforce payment of the tax.

GAS, INDIGESTION AND HEARTBURN GO

Makes Your Out-of-Order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach, or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odours. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent. case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

Did you ever get in front of a mirror with a real strong light and see every one of your imperfections so plainly that it made you fairly sick at heart, and think to yourself, "Now, that's what I look like to other people."

If you have, cheer up.

For it isn't so at all.

As a matter of fact, when you look at yourself in a mirror you see an entirely different personage from the one your friends see.

In the first place your expression when you are self consciously scrutinizing yourself in a mirror is quite different from what it is under ordinary conditions. I have noticed myself that people when they look in the mirror produce a peculiar set of wrinkles in their foreheads, and beauty doctors tell me that too much self-scrutinizing does a great deal of harm in this way.

In the second place you are looking for wrinkles and pores and lines and pallor and you see them, whereas your friends are looking at YOU and they see YOU.

And in the third place I am told that many mirrors distort to a surprising degree, and thus make imperfections more painfully evident.

Perhaps there are some among my readers who do not need this reassurance, who are always entirely content with the image their mirrors give back to them.

But I am writing for the AVERAGE WOMAN (and when I can conveniently arrange it, for the average man too, of course) and I think that most of her once in a while looks in the mirror and wonders, as I heard a foolish little girl the other day,

"How can anyone like me when I am so homely."

And it is for her that I write the reassurance. And I want to add another one to it.

I think it is often the same way with the mirror of self analysis.

Perhaps with most of us our casual glances at our mental and moral equipment is fairly satisfactory.

And then comes a day when somehow or other we happen to get a good strong light on the mirror of our self analysis, and all the little meannesses and selfishness stand out in ugly prominence and we cannot see how anyone can possibly love us and how we happen to be so much worse than other people.

But cheer up. We aren't.

I once heard the great evangelist, Dr. Wilbur Chapman, the man whom hundreds of men and women look up to as one of the best men living, tell how mean and little and ineffectual he often seemed to himself when he was in a self-analyzing mood.

But don't we know ourselves better than other people possibly can? They don't know the inwardness of us, but we don't know the outwardness of ourselves.

On the whole I think the mirror of self analysis is no more truthful than the real mirror that hangs on your wall.

So cheer up the next time you think you are the least desirable of all mortals.

Cheer up "For it may not be true."

Slowly Recovers His Memory After A Blank Of 21 Years

Archibald McLean Was Hurt in Railway Wreck and Forgot His Past—Interesting Story of How He Was Returned to His Family—Recognized by His Sister.

ACCOUNT OF THE AFFAIR

Toronto, Jan. 14.—There is a man in the city to-day whose memory is just emerging from beneath a cloud which has obscured it for 21 years. As returning consciousness allows his mental faculties to pick up the scattered threads of the past, the fingers of his brain are weaving strands to bridge the gap between the long ago and the present. A part of his mind has been dormant; it is slowly waking to a new lease of life.

Dropped From Family's Sight.

In 1888 his mother wrote to him at Fort William telling him of the death of his father. To her surprise no answer came, and from that time Archibald McLean dropped out of the sight of his family as completely as though he had been swallowed alive. Years passed; the other members of the family married and moved away, and with the progress of time the name of the missing man became only a memory.

Two weeks ago his sister, the wife of the Rev. Daniel Scott, Pense, Sask., was walking down a street in Regina when she noticed a sign, "Archibald McLean, painter." Instantly there rose in her mind's eye the face of the long-lost brother and she entered the shop. A strangely young man with grey hair came to meet her. As she looked at him with half affectionate curiosity this new person began to fuse gradually with the brother who had disappeared thirty years ago. She began to question him, but was disappointed by the vagueness of the answers which she received.

Injured in Train Wreck.

In 1888 McLean was injured in a train wreck near Fort William, in which several people lost their lives. After recovering from his injuries and a severe attack of typhoid fever he left the hospital and was horrified to find that his mind was a perfect blank. A piece of bone pressing in upon the brain cavity had bruised some of the sensitive cells so that they refused to perform their important office. He remembered only his name and that he was a painter by trade. His education had taken wings and he found himself unable to read or write. After taking a course at a night school he overcame this handicap.

From Fort William he drifted west and visited many places, hoping that the lost faculty would be restored by accidentally running into familiar scenes. Finally, he settled in Regina, and went into the business of painting and decorating with such success that he built up a trade of his own, and was also employed by the Government. His hands remembered, although his brain forgot.

Dim Recollections.

Mrs. Scott, after skilfully referring to some of the more outstanding events of his earlier life, found that he remembered something about the location of his father's house in Perth and the name of one man. Encouraged by this clue she wrote to the other members of the family: Mrs. G. G. Publow, Kingston; Mrs. J. M. McKinnon, Toronto; Mr. Walter McLean, Toronto; and Mr. Robert McLean, Perth. After some correspondence it was decided that the lost brother had been found.

His mother is 84 years of age, and, strange to say, has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Scott, only four miles from Regina. As a result of a lingering illness the aged woman has been in a semi-conscious condition for early three years. The son was taken out to his mother's bedside, and in a moment he recognized her. But this time the mother's memory failed and she looked at him as though he were a stranger. After a number of visits, however, on a day when she was especially bright, she suddenly knew him and called him by name.

Memory Coming Back.

Since his arrival among his relatives memory is slowly returning to Archibald McLean and every day he wakens to another piece of a new world. But a great part of the past is still a haze and the doctors want to keep it so, at least, for the present. They have forbidden him to visit his old home in Perth lest the rush of returning recollections prove too much for his health. To-day he is leaving the home of his niece, Mrs. H. L. Shepherd, 75 Bismarck avenue, Toronto, and is going to Kingston to visit his sister, Mrs. Publow.

The long silence in Mr. McLean's life was lightened by the usual gleam of romance, and he married in due course. His wife and two children are overjoyed to find his memory returning. Although he is 56 years of age he looks much younger. His hair, which in his youth, was black, and curly, has become straight and very grey, forming a peculiar contrast with his youthful face.

BUDGET TALK IS RESUMED

Dull Day Is Spent by the Legislators on the Continuation of the Debate on Mr. Fielding's Financial Report —Negotiations on the Waterways Treaty Still Going on, Says Premier —Schell, Chisholm, and Low Speak.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Yesterday's sittings of the House of Commons was extremely dull. The budget debate was resumed and gave a few more members an opportunity to get their views into Hansard. A mere handful of members were in the House.

R. L. Borden asked if any progress had been made with the waterways treaty. The Premier said secret negotiations were still going on.

Mr. Borden enquired of reported difficulties regarding ratification of the French treaty. Mr. Fielding said he assumed the treaty would be ratified in due course.

Mr. Borden asked if there was any truth in a speech by Sir William White, in England, describing as deplorable the way in which the navy yards at Halifax and Esquimalt are kept. Sir Frederick Borden said he would enquire.

Resuming the budget debate, Malcolm S. Schell (South Oxford) dwelt upon the value to Canada in a monetary sense of immigration from the States and Europe. He claimed that there had been a reduction in the tariff by the addition to the free list which he estimated at $7,168,279 in 12 years, showing that the policy of the Government was more in the direction of free trade than was their predecessors. The more rapid development of the home market than the export trade was a proof of national growth.

Dr. Chisholm (East Huron) condemned the bookkeeping methods of the Government, whereby deficits were made to appear as surpluses.

Other speakers were T. A. Low (South Renfrew) and J. A. Sexsmith (East Peterboro).

BABIES AND CHILDREN

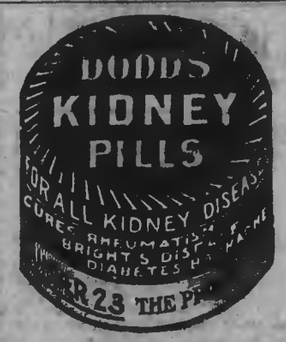
Should be fairly plump. They ought to put on fat as fast as they use it up; for fat is fuel, and the burning of it makes power and force. Thin children—even along to the age of eighteen or twenty—are in danger from consumption, and from other wasting complaints. The children who starve, and the young men and women who are consumed—why, the very idea of it is frightful. For such as they there is always what is called a "mighty famine" in the land. Food, though it may be, taken plentifully, does not nourish them. It makes no fat; it gives no strength. To prevent this, to cure this, to save the young ones at the mother's knees, and the bright boys and girls who are just looking at the world with hopeful and ambitious eyes, is the purpose of

FERROL TASTELESS

Its success is decided and settled. Thousands owe to it life and health. It is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. In building up pale, puny, emaciated children, particularly those troubled with Anaemia, Scrofula, Rickets, and bone and blood diseases, nothing equals it; its tonic qualities are of the highest order. Parents whose children are sick cannot resort to it a day too soon. A Medical Institution says: "We have used your preparation in treating children for Coughs, Colds and Inflammation; its application has never failed us in any case, even the most aggravated bordering on pneumonia. The children like it, they love the taste of it, and it builds up their bodies; many little children owe their lives to it." The more it is used the less will be the ravages of disease among the people from infancy to old age. Sold by all chemists everywhere.—Warne Drug Co.

Willed Paper His Photo.

Montreal, Jan. 14.—N. Witenburg of Winnipeg, committed suicide with carbolic acid in his room at the Queen's Hotel Wednesday night, his body being found yesterday afternoon. Letters stated that he had a wife and two children in Winnipeg and that he had committed suicide for certain reasons. He also asked that a Winnipeg paper be notified and given a copy of his photograph. Nothing was said about notifying his wife.



SHIP IS WRECKED.

Thirty Persons Drowned In Pacific Coast Disaster.

Marshfield, Ore, Jan. 14.—Harry Kentzell, first assistant engineer, is the sole survivor of the wreck of the iron steamer Czarina, which Wednesday drove on the north spit of the Goose Bay Bar, with a loss of thirty lives.

A tremendous sea smashed over the ship and Kentzell and his companions were washed from their places in the rigging. Kentzell was swept toward land time and again, but always was carried back out to sea by shifting currents. Finally he got hold of a piece of timber and was slowly drifted shoreward.

When dawn broke yesterday six forms in the rigging of the only remaining mast were to be seen, and hope was entertained for their rescue. The gale of Wednesday did not abate, however. At last one of the six men dropped into the sea. A little later the watchers on shore saw through the glasses the last three men, as if by agreement, shed their heavier clothing and spring into the boiling waters.

The Czarina left Marshfield Wednesday in the face of a storm, for San Francisco. Suddenly a series of big seas struck the vessel, putting her about, but she continued to fight her way on toward the open sea. Then, apparently, the rudder broke. The vessel appeared to stop. Soon after a sea struck her and she began to drift rapidly toward the ugly north spit, which she struck.

Western Ontario Dairymen.

St. Thomas, Jan. 14.—The Western Ontario Dairymen's 43rd annual convention was ended last night.

In announcing the judging results, Robert Johnson of Woodstock, stated that nowhere on the continent was the quality so fine all the way through.

I. F. Steinhoff, another judge, said this was the first exhibit he had been proud of. In the afternoon, Prof. Dean of the O. A. C., and J. A. Ruddick, crossed swords, the former holding that dairying was not profitable, but that its importance was constantly increasing. Secretary Hearn reported 73 creameries in operation, with 32,292 patrons, or 2,852 more than last year.

Officers were elected as follows: President, J. H. Scott, Exeter; first vice-president, W. Waddell, Kirwood; second vice-president, D. A. Dempsey, Stratford; third vice-president, S. R. Wallace, Burgessville; directors, J. N. Paget, Canboro; W. S. Stocks, Britton; J. B. Smith, Alton; Geo. McKenzie, Ingersoll; G. E. Facey, Harrittsville; J. J. Parsons, Jarvis; J. A. Nelles, London; J. C. Hegler, Ingersoll; I. W. Steinhoff, Stratford, and R. Johnston, Woodstock.

A Pastor In Warm Water.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Trouble seems to be looming up at Erskine Presbyterian Church, whose pastor, Rev. C. W. Nicol, has not long left Sherbrooke, Que. As a protest against certain statements made at the annual meeting of Erskine church by the minister, Rev. C. W. Nicol, and his alleged unfairness in the conduct of the meeting at which he was chairman, certain members of the congregation of the church have signified their intention of making an appeal to the presbytery of Ottawa at its next session in March.

Rev. C. W. Nicol asked that the congregation support the motion of the presbytery to grant him six months' leave of absence. This was agreed to.

Work of Mounted Policemen.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—The Northwest Mounted Police annual report states that on Sept. 30 last the strength stood 51 officers, 600 non-coms. and constables, and 558 horses, a gain of two constables.

Commissioner Perry points out that villages, railway stations and isolated settlements are increasing so rapidly that the strength of the force would have to be doubled to meet all the demands made upon it.

During eleven months of 1908-9 5,849 cases were entered, as against 6,377 during the previous twelve months. Excessive drinking was directly responsible for 1,561 convictions; 13,386 prisoners were taken into custody during the year.

Prevented a Tragedy.

Barnia, Jan. 14. Prompt action by two young men, Charles Hoskins and Wm. Bartlett, saved three children from being burned to death and the residence of David Kerr from destruction Wednesday night.

LAST FROM CHAMBERLAIN

The Aged Imperialist Says That Britain Is Losing In the Industrial Race and Must Put Up Her Tariff Walls to Catch Up—If Colonial Ties Were Broken Britain Would Drop to Fifth Rate Place.

London, Jan. 14.—From his Birmingham retreat on the very eve of the elections, Joseph Chamberlain has made a final effort to rally his countrymen in favor of his cherished policy, colonial preference.

The invalid statesman, who is unable to write and was obliged to dictate his statement to a secretary, has issued a manifesto addressed to the electors of the whole country. In it he reiterates the warnings which he has so often given to them of the gravity of the commercial situation.

"I address you," says Mr. Chamberlain, "as Britons, as patriots, and I tell you that it is not well with British industry."

Pointing out that Great Britain is loosing in the international race by her persistence in free trade, he continues:

"This is a critical and creative time. You cannot play fast and loose with your destiny. You have an opportunity. You will never have it again. Victories in politics are like victories in war. They are won by enthusiasm, lost by timidity. A mistake in imperial policy is irretrievable."

Continuing at some length in a similar strain, he warns the nation that if the ties of sympathy binding the country to the children who are soon to become great nations across the seas, should be weakened or destroyed, England would sink to a fifth rate nation, existing on suffrance.

"We will not have it," he declares. "Let us provide against it; the remedy is at hand."

Explaining that the remedy is colonial preference, Mr. Chamberlain concludes: "By a commercial union we can pave the way for federation. I see constantly before me as a practical object of aspiration that federation of free nations which will enable us to prolong in the ages yet to come all the glorious traditions of the British race. Never yet in our history has the great democracy been unpatriotic, and we know that the fruition of our hopes is certain."

This manifesto is hailed by the Unionist papers as a trumpet call to the country.

Premier Asquith, at Bradford, making reference to Mr. Balfour's last speech concerning tariff reform, said: "The oracle has spoken. What is its message? Not Delphi or Dodona in the palmiest days of Sacerdotal ambiguity ever gave forth a more uncertain sound."

Mr. Asquith contended that the Opposition leader had definitely committed himself to a moderate duty on food.

Chancellor Lloyd-George, Winston Spencer Churchill, John Burns and other Government leaders, are still campaigning with unabated energy. Both sides are equally confident.

The Unionist whip last night predicts a gain of twenty seats for the Unionists on Saturday's polling alone.

The first four members of the new Parliament will be returned Friday by a no-opposition election. They are Joseph Chamberlain, for Birmingham West; Lord Hugh Cecil and Sir Wm. Ransom, for Oxford University, and John Waller Mills, for Durham. All are Unionists.

Lamphere Confessed.

St. Louis, Jan. 14.—Ray Lamphere, who died recently in the Indiana Penitentiary at Michigan City, while serving a term for setting fire to the home of Mrs. Bella Gunness, near Laporte, Ind., left a confession that he had assisted the arch-murderess in disposing of the bodies of three men.

Mrs. Gunness' method of killing her victims, Lamphere said, was first to chloroform them as they slept and then, if the drug did not itself kill, to cut off the heads with an axe.

Strangled by Burglars.

Millbrook, N.Y., Jan. 14.—Sarah Breymer, a nurse in the employment of Mr. and Mrs. Barnes Compton, was strangled to death by burglars yesterday in her bed in the Compton mansion here. The house was robbed of a quantity of silverware. Mr. and Mrs. Compton were in New York City. Servants in another part of the house were awakened by the burglars, but were unable to offer any opposition.

Boy Prevents a Train Wreck.

Laporte, Ind., Jan 14.—Carl Waschter, 13 years old, yesterday stopped a Baltimore & Ohio train within ten feet of a burning bridge, west of Wellsboro, Ind., by signalling the engineer with a red handkerchief. Passengers in the four crowded coaches made up a purse of $100 for Waschter.

Black Hand In Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 14.—F. D. Shallow, publisher of The Monitor of Commerce of this city, has received a Black Hand letter demanding payment of $500 at a place designated. Failure to comply carries with it a threat of murder for him or some member of his family.

Boston Y.M.C.A. Burned.

Boston, Jan. 14.—The Boston Y. M. C.A. building in Boyl and M streets, was destroyed by fire yesterday. When erected in 1893 it was the finest in America, with fine gymnasium, law library and chemical laboratory. Loss $300,000.

Agreement Signed.

Port Arthur, Jan. 14.—The agreement between the City of Port Arthur and the Hydro-Electric Commission was signed last night by Mayor Mathews and the city clerk.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE LATEST NEWS OF SPORT — TOLD IN BRIEF FORM

"EDMONTON HAS A GOOD CHANCE TO LIFT CUP"

—FRED WHITCROFT

Fred Whitcroft and Walter Miller, the Peterborough members of the Edmonton Stanley Cup team, arrived in the city on the 5.30 G.T.R. train yesterday afternoon and visited their relatives in Peterborough last night. Both are looking fit and well and speak very optimistically of the chances of the club to lift the coveted silverware.

"We have the greatest forward line in the country," Whitcroft remarked to the Examiner, "and our goal keeper is a star. Ross and Field the defence men, are above the average and altogether I think we have a grand chance. Our line plays unselfish combination and is always working."

Speaking of the failure of the Edmonton team to reach Peterborough in time to practise on Wednesday night the ex-Peterborough star said: "We are very sorry to have disappointed our local friends, but it simply could not be helped as we lost many hours owing to bad train connections. Instead of getting into Toronto at 3.30 o'clock on Wednesday as we expected to do, we did not reach there until 9.30 yesterday morning. The reason why we wanted to come to Peterborough was because we figured out that the Mutual St. rinks, Toronto, would be so much occupied with games and practices that we would not get an opportunity to work out there. I therefore wired to Peterborough to secure a practice on Wednesday night and we confidently expected to be here on time."

The Edmonton team, contrary to the other clubs that go after the cup these days, are not being paid for their services. They are under no salary at all. Edmonton contributed $1500 to pay the expenses of the trip and send the team east and so confident are the players of carrying off the cup that they have refused as high as $2000 for the season to play with other clubs. "Whitty" will spend a day or two in Peterborough before going down to Ottawa. He will practise to-night at Brock St. rink with the intermediate O.H.A. team.

FRED WHITCROFT,

Ex-Peterborough Star and Rover of the Edmonton Hockey Club. "Whitty" will practise with the Peterborough Intermediates to-morrow night.

LAKEFIELD LEAGUE MAKES GOOD START

Teams Entered From all the Hamlets in the North Countryside.

A meeting was held in the Lakefield skating rink on Wednesday evening for the purpose of forming a town hockey league. A large number of those interested were present, and the meeting was a most enthusiastic one, and the indications are that the league will have a very successful season. The following officers were elected:

Patrons and patronesses—Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Duck and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Labelle.

President—Chas. Gray.
Vice-President—R. Murduff.
Secretary—Thos. Isbister.
Treasurer—W. W. Leonard.
Manager—Dr. Gibson.

A $35.00 silver cup has been donated by the citizens of the village. The teams to be represented in the league will be the Firemen, Cavendish, Canoe Factory, Junior, and Buckhorn, Bobcaygeon, Bridgenorth, Warsaw and Young's Point will have teams in the league. The games will be played every Wednesday evening, two games being run off each night, and they will likely commence next week. A great deal of interest is being taken in the league, and some good sport will be witnessed at the rink this winter.

Constipation.

No one need expect to be healthy if the bowels are allowed to become clogged up. A free motion of the bowels daily should be the rule with everyone who aspires to perfect health.

Costiveness or constipation clogs the bowels, chokes up the natural outlet of impure matter, and retains in the system the poisonous effete waste products of [illegible], causing bad blood, dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, foul humors, pimples, boils, blotches, piles, etc. Burdock Blood Bitters was built up an unrivalled reputation as a cure for constipation and all the diseases which arise from it.

Mrs. Burns Woodcock, Nashwaak Bridge, N.B., writes: "For over two years my wife was troubled with constipation. She tried several physicians, but could get no relief, but after taking three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters she was completely cured and is to-day in good health. My wife and I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters."

PRESENTATION TO DEPARTING MEMBER

Miss Electa Strong Remembered by Choir of St. Luke's Church.

The choir of St. Luke's Church was pleasantly entertained last evening at the home of Miss Cora Pakenham, Aberdeen Ave. A very enjoyable time was spent with cards and music. During the evening a presentation was made to Miss Electa Strong, a member of the choir, who left to-day for Toronto, where she intends to reside in the future. On behalf of the choir, in a few well-chosen remarks, expressing regret at Miss Strong's departure, Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., presented the young lady with handsome prayer and hymn books in a case. Miss Strong made a fitting reply, expressing her appreciation of the choir's kindness.

At the conclusion dainty refreshments were served and a very happy time was brought to a close by a vote of thanks passed to Miss Pakenham for her kind hospitality.

MEMBERS ENTERTAINED

On Thursday evening Mr. E. Elcome, the teacher of the Bible class of Murray St. Sunday school, entertained the members of the class at his home on Harvey St. A most enjoyable evening of festivity and business occupied the attention of the members until a late hour when all departed with praises of the host and hostess upon their lips and a determination in every heart to make the New Year more successful than ever.

One feature for the year is unique. The class will serve tea each Sunday evening in the schoolroom, thus enabling those who live at a distance to remain for the Sunday evening service and also giving the newcomers an opportunity to become acquainted.

The report showed a good average attendance for the past year and a balance in the treasury, after worthy gifts had been made for benevolent purposes.

The officers elected are as follows:
Teacher—E. Elcome.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. A. Wray.
Chairman of Lookout committee—J. Riddle.
Reception committee—B. Matthews, W. Pillsworth, Mrs. K. P. Ellis
Refreshment committee—Mrs. Elis, Mrs Elcome, Mrs. Brewett,
Music committee—Mrs. G. E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt.

Coal Strike Ends.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 14.—It now looks as if the bitter struggle between the Dominion Coal Co. and the United Mine Workers is at an end.

Your correspondent was informed last night that President Plummer intends to recognize all the miners, irrespective of what organization they belong to, and that the strikers are willing to go back to the pits.

The soldiers who have been in the colliery districts since early in July are to return to Halifax next week.

The strike has cost the company and strikers hundreds of thousands of dollars. Recognition of the United Mine Workers of America, as against the Provincial Workmen's Association, was the big issue.

Young Woman Confesses.

Brockville, Jan. 14.—At Newboro, a small village forty miles from here, Mary Mulford, was arrested yesterday in connection with the finding of the body of a newly-born infant near the Ontario Hotel, where she worked.

It is reported that she has confessed that the baby was thrown from the window of her bedroom to the street, where it was found unmarked in a snowbank.

Dynamite Failed to Explode.

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 14.—Twenty-four sticks of dynamite were found Wednesday night in the doorway of John Shaffet's store in Struthers, where two dynamiting outrages have occurred in a few months. The caps had exploded, but the dynamite was frozen and failed to go off. Strike-breakers have been living above the store.

Port Colborne Grain Elevator.

Welland, Jan. 14.—The report on the million-dollar Government elevator at Port Colborne shows that from Sept. 28 to the season's close 250,000 bushels of grain were received for export, 970,000 bushels for Montreal and 780,000 for consumption at nearby points. About 250,000 bushels are still in the elevator.

Mrs. Auld Wilson Dead.

Winnipeg, Jan. 14.—The death occurred yesterday morning of Mrs. Mary Shaw Auld Wilson, aged 71 years, wife of John E. Wilson. For over 20 years she was a resident of Galt, Ont., and the Muskoka Lakes and also lived for three years in Toronto.

Ottawa, Jan. 14. According to a return tabled yesterday, at the request of F. D. Monk, the total expenditure so far incurred in connection with the naval defence program is $5,470, including $2,524 for salaries and $1,715 for traveling expenses. Four experts and technical officers have so far been engaged, being Rear-Admiral Charles Kingsmill $3,150, Commander J. D. D. Stewart, technical adviser, $3,500; Lt. S. M. T. Stephens, gunnery expert, $2,500; Staff Paymaster P. J. Ling, adviser on matters connected with stores, $2,500. The last three officers have been loaned to Canada by the royal navy for two years.

Stormy at Sea.

Plymouth, Eng., Jan. 14.—Captains of steamships arriving from the westward report the severest weather during the past week that has been experienced in a trans-Atlantic voyage for a long time.

The Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, which arrived yesterday from New York, bore pronounced evidence of the struggle. Wednesday a veritable mountain of water swept the upper promenade deck, tore away the port rail and knocked down twenty passengers.

Perjury Charge Fails.

St. Catharines, Jan. 14.—The charge of perjury against Howard Lowery, of St. David's, in connection with the taking of the oath at the recent elections in Niagara township, came before the justice of the peace, Aikens, at Niagara-on-the-Lake yesterday afternoon. Lowrey testified that he was a little hard of hearing and did not understand all that was said to him. The charge was dismissed.

Middlemen Making the Money.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 14.—That the middleman is becoming a millionaire and the farmer a bankrupt was the general opinion of up-state producers of milk, who testified yesterday, under examination by Special Deputy-Attorney-General Coleman, regarding the alleged milk dealers' combine and the high price of milk.

German Tailors In Bad Fix.

Winnipeg, Jan. 14.—Six young German tailors from Toronto have asked the provincial immigration office to send them back to Ontario. They say they were brought here and then were refused work. They are without funds.

New Montreal Paper.

Montreal, Jan. 14.—G. Langlois, M.P.P. for St. Louis, and till quite recently the managing director of La Canada, has returned to his first love, the old Rouge party, a representative of that school of thought being now ready for publication in this city on Saturday next, in fact "Le Pays" will make its bow to the public, as the mouth piece of the old party of Doute Dorion, and also of the Licensed Victuallers' Association, to oppose the Gartier early closing bylaw.

This paper was to have been started a year ago, when relations between Mr. Langlois and a section of the Liberal party were strained, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Lomer Gouin and others patched up a truce.

There was another rupture on the eve of the St. James' bye-election, when Sir Wilfrid came down and sent for Sir Lomer and Mr. Langlois, and the three had it out in frank fashion. The result was that Langlois and his helpers probably won the election for Ald. Robilliard The Cote, funeral, however, came as a last straw.

Le Pays will be conducted on old Liberal lines. Le Pays was the Liberal organ here which gave way to La Patrie, founded by the late H. Beaugrand.

Accused of Arson.

Morden, Man Jan. 14.—Magistrate McCorquodale is conducting the preliminary hearing of Isadore Nickel, charged with setting fire to the residence of William Jocklin on New Year's night. The evidence shows the prisoner had taken a sleighload of goods from the house, clothes, plateware, trinkets, etc., all neatly packed in a trunk and bundles, which, it is alleged, he could not have done in the short time after the fire broke out before the house was destroyed.

New Brunswick's Horticulturist.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 14.—A. G. Turney of Simcoe, Ont., has been appointed provincial horticulturist for New Brunswick. He is at present employed by the Ontario Government and comes here next month. This is a new office created by the Hazen Government in the interest of farmers.

Orangemen Enter Protest.

AT JACKSON PARK

Y. M. C. A. Boys' Class Will Spend the Evening There.

On Friday night the Employed Boys' Class are to meet at the Y.M. C.A. at 7.30 p.m., and from there the crowd will take the car for Jackson Park, to spend the evening and to have their class in how to enjoy life instead of how to use gymnasium apparatus They are all out for a good time and want every fellow that has attended the class to be Johnnie on the spot. The physical director, who is a Southern boy, will be there too, and if the others don't enjoy it, we all know he will, for if it is new to him as in the south there is nothing of that sort for a fellow to enjoy himself with. However, when the summer times comes around he will show us some good speed swiming and some fancy diving, as he has won many contests in the events mentioned. Be sure and be on hand at 7.30 p.m. The gymnasium classes are increasing in number and they can't come too swift for the physical director, as he is one who would rather be in the gymnasium than eat.

MEETING OF CREDITORS

A meeting of the creditors of Jos. Grey was held this afternoon in the office of Mr. R. Ruddy, K.C. A statement of his assets was presented, showing $7,500, and the liabilities will likely exceed $8,000. Mr. Henry Rush was appointed permanent asignee, and Wm. Barstone, O. A. Langley, of Lakefield, and E. A. Peck were appointed inspectors. No proposition of settlement has been made by the insolvent.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

L. D. Taylor, editor of The World, was yesterday elected mayor of Vancouver by a large majority.

The statement was made last night at Montreal that David Pottinger might succeed J. Butler as Deputy Minister and chairman of the I. C. R. commission.

Mayor Hopewell of Ottawa will investigate the truth of affidavits secured by an Italian workman to support his charges that some minor civic officials levy a toll from laborers they hire. The Italian says he paid $15 to get a city job for a relative.

Pearson After Rock Island.

New York, Jan. 14.—Powerful foreign interests, headed by Dr. F. S. Pearson, a London banker, owner of Mexican properties, with strong Montreal and other Canadian connections, recently has acquired in the open market large blocks of Rock Island common and preferred stocks. The exact amount is not disclosed, but probably represent about one-fifth of the whole

Some time ago Dr. Pearson attracted the attention of Wall street by organising a $40,000,000 syndicate which took over extensive Mexican properties owned by Col. Wm. C. Greene, and also the uncompleted Chihuahua and Pacific Railroad Co. This railroad, it is said, the Pearson interests will extend not only to the Pacific, but northward to El Paso, Texas, where it would fit in with the Rock Island.

Official announcement was made yesterday of the resignation of Richard A. Jackson as president and director of the Rock Island Co. and of the election of Robert S. Walker, formerly assistaant general counsel, as his successor.

Auto Fire Engine for Detroit.

Detroit, Jan. 14.—Detroit is to have an 800 gallon a minute auto fire engine of 90 horse power propulsion and that will also carry 1,200 feat of 2 1-2-inch hose and eight men. It can run at a mile a minute. An auto hose wagon will also be bought.

The auto engine will make a separate hose tender unnecessary, and will do away with five horses and two drivers.

Fire Commissioner Moran predicts that the time is fast coming when there will be no horses in the department, and Commissioner Moore intimates that if only auto apparatus were used there would be an annual saving of nearly $200,000 in wages alone.

A high pressure system is again being advocated.

CURED WHEN DOCTORS FAILED

Mr. Felix Villeneuve, Clarence Creek, Ont. writes: "I was a great sufferer from kidney disease, inflammation of the bowels and liver troubles, and doctors could not help me much. Could not sleep, water contained sediment, had frequent desire to urinate and often passed blood. Had dreadful headaches, one side almost para lysed and was deaf in one ear for eight years. Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills cured me and I am very grateful. I want to thank you.

WILL ASK FOR LESS LICENSES

In response to the requests of a large number of prominent business men the Moral Reform League will present a request to the City Council on Monday night next to reduce the present number of licenses. There are now 21 taverns and 4 shops under license, and the request to the Council will be that these be reduced to 8 taverns and two shops. This decision has been arrived at after a very thorough enquiry into the hotel accommodation equipment in the city, and the gathering of the opinions of all classes of citizens. The consensus of opinion was that the number thus stated will more than meet the requirements of a city of this size. The representation to be made to the Council will be made up principally of men who are interested in license reduction.

ATTACKED BY DOG

Henry Hill, Jackson Avenue, Victim of Vicious Assault.

To be unexpectedly assaulted and bitten by a large dog is not a pleasant experience, and it is no wonder that Mr. Henry Hill, 50 Jackson Ave., to whom it happened the other evening, is indignant. Mr. Hill called at the Examiner Office this afternoon to enter a complaint. He stated that he was walking along Dalhousie street, near Stewart street, at six o'clock on Wednesday night, when a dog attached to a sleigh, on which were two girls, of eleven or twelve years of age, came along the sidewalk, and before Mr. Hill could realise that he was in any danger, sprang at him and caught him by the knee, tearing his clothes and inflicting a painful wound. Not satisfied with that the savage animal made another attack and tore a large piece out of Mr. Hill's overcoat before being driven off. Mr. Hill has not learned of the owner of the dog, but informed the Examiner that he would turn the matter over to the police unless the owner comes forward.

LIVING UNDER HIGH PRESSURE

The Experiences of a Newspaper Man in a Caisson.

A newspaper man recently spent some time inside the famous compressed air "boiler" (or air-lock,) in which Dr. Leonard Hill and his assistant at the London Hospital have been experimenting with the effects of high air pressure on the human system. The following communication was sent to his paper from the "boiler."

"I rest on a narrow but comfortable mattress, inside an iron construction which reminds me of a section of a "Tube" railway tunnel. Outside, a gas engine is chugging away, while the oval man-hole through which I have just wriggled is being clamped and screwed up with a dungeon like clangour of iron. Above my head is a small electric light and on my right a telephone. It has been arranged that the air pressure shall be raised to about 2 1-3 atmospheres, or 35 lbs. pressure to the square inch (including the 15 lbs. which we endure every moment of our lives.)

"Almost immediately after the manhole is sealed, the ears begin to "sing" unpleasantly. Telephoned instructions are given to "hold my nose and blow hard," and the trouble vanishes, though as the pressure increases, this has to be repeated occasionally.

"Denser and denser grows the air without any apparent results until I answer a telephone "call" from the outer world. My voice has changed beyond recognition. It has a nasal phonograph-like quality which is positively startling, for with the increased density the resonating properties of the air cavities in the head have altered. Attempts to whistle a high note are a failure, and whispering an impossibility. In this pressure champagne is as flat as pond water, the gas being unable to release itself from the liquid.

"I am now in the course of being reduced. Air is escaping through a small outlet near the head of the boiler, but were it allowed to escape instantaneously the nitrogen which has entered my system in minute bulk under compression would expand into bubbles in my arteries or veins, which on reaching the heart would cause death.

"These bubbles have evidently loomed largely in the thoughts of some of the human occupants of the boiler, for amid algebraic problems and Greek and Latin quotations written on the walls around me stands the Shakespearean phrase, 'Like a hell-broth and bubble.' 'Shall I bubble?' seems to have been the irrepressible thought of some of the experimenters.

"Dr. Leonard Hill and his assistant are not conducting these experiments from idle curiosity. They have established a most valuable and definite fact with the London Hospital apparatus, which was provided by Messrs. Siebe, German & Co., Ltd., the well known firm of submarine engineers. Divers, and caisson workers have hitherto been 'reduced' from high to normal air pressures in consecutive stages, with a long wait between each. Dr. Hill's work has now established the facts at pressure my be reduced suddenly to about 20 lbs. per square inch (the point at which the system yields its absorbed nitrogen in bubbles), and a long pause here allows the lungs to throw off the poison without the fatal 'bubbling.'

"A second and equally valuable point Dr. Hill claims to have proved is that carbonic acid gas is not the cause of caisson disease. Much money was wasted he thinks when the Rotherbithe Tunnel was being built, in erecting a costly ventilating plant to get rid or carbonic acid gas, and, in arranging for special medical attendance. It is nitrogen absorbed under pressure which causes the trouble, and at the pressure the Rotherbithe workers were using (18 lb. to the square inch) bubbles of nitrogen do not form."

CANADIANS SORRY FOR GOING TO CUBA

Trapped by Shameful Misrepresentations They are Now Left Destitute and Hopeless.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Numbers of Canadians, dazzled by dreams of sudden wealth as portrayed in the advertising matter issued by land companies and others interested in Cuba, have learned to their sorrow that far off hills are not always as green as painted. Through advices received from Canadian Government officials now in Cuba, it is learned that the Canadian colony of Ocean Beach during last fall was visited by three different hurricanes which destroyed practically everything. The Canadian settlers are spoken of as sober and industrious people, who have been trapped by shameful misrepresentations into a hopeless proposition.

Many are applying to the British minister and to agents of Canadian lines of steamers for assistance in order to get back to Canada. One party who visited this settlement writes: "I cannot imagine a picture more desolate than is that colony, nor a situation any more hopeless." One of the settlers writes: "The trouble is we are unable to speak the Spanish language and while we are willing to work at anything, we are without work and broke."

Any Canadian considering investments in Cuba would be wise to make a thorough investigation of conditions before investing his capital or taking up his home there.

BARRIE BROKEN IN HEALTH AND SPIRIT

Author of "Peter Pan" Has Noticeably Declined Since His Divorce.

J. M. Barrie's health is giving his friends serious concern, says the London correspondent of the New York "Times." He was never a robust man but latterly he has been looking sadly worn and aged. A few evenings ago he was dining alone in the grill room of the Savoy hotel, sitting at a table in the middle of the room. His appearance attracted general attention, and even persons unaware of his identity made remarks about his looks and attitude as suggestive of a man completely broken down in health and spirit.

Since his divorce suit Mr. Barrie has been about London much less than formerly, and the acquaintances who happen to meet him are shocked by the change.

Barrie's only solace nowadays is found in the company of children, of whom he was always very fond. He delights to gather a number of them and take them to the theatre, and their laughter heartens him to smile again. One night this week he had a party of youngsters at the Duke of York's theatre, where his own "Peter Pan" is being played. Charles Frohman's manager, James Matthews, sent a box of chocolates to Barrie's young friends, and the next day the dramatist acknowledged the courtesy in a characteristic note, in which, speaking on behalf of his youthful charges, he dwelt on the excellence of the chocolates, of which they were good judges.

FOSTER'S WEATHER FORECAST

Washington, D.C., Jan. 15.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 14 to 18, warm wave 13 to 17, cool wave 16 to 20. This is the important disturbance of the month. High temperatures were predicted to be followed by a severe cold wave and winter storms of more than usual severity.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 20, cross Pacific slope by close of 21; great central valleys 22 to 24, north-eastern states and eastern provinces 25. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 20, great central valleys 22, north-eastern states and eastern provinces 24. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 23, great central valleys 25, eastern provinces and north-eastern states 27.

A cold wave will precede this disturbance and another cold wave follow it, causing the month to average colder than usual after 20. Last two weeks of January will get more than usual amount of precipitation and considerable more than the two preceding weeks.

From Jan. 15 to 22 will bring weather to be avoided as much as possible. During that week all kinds of weather may be expected from thaw to freeze from calm to dangerous storms, from clear and beautiful to cold rains and blizzards. Make your arrangements for indoor work during that week or be where you can go to shelter on short notice.

Not far from 16 will be the turning point of temperatures. After having gone gradually up from first part of month it will gradually go downward to last part. Of course I do not mean a steady rise and a steady fall. Temperatures usually fluctuate while progressing upward or downward. They move in short waves averaging about three days formed on longer waves averaging about six days and these periods form on still longer periods covering six weeks to three months. The guide dates I give are for meridian 90 and the reader must count later for east of that line and earlier for west of it where I do not specifically locate the weather features.

The Comet.

This 1910 visitor will soon be the cynosure of all star gazers, and will occupy the big headlines of the press. Apparently the comet and earth are now going in the same direction but as the earth bears to the right and the comet to the left the sun will come in between and for a time the comet will be entirely lost to sight.

Halley's comet is an eccentric in that it is not governed by the common laws or ordinary usage of orderly heavenly bodies. The comet moves around the sun in the opposite direction to the movement of the earth and other planets.

In March the earth and the comet after having passed around the sun in opposite directions, will turn toward each other and will begin an interesting period among the comet watchers.

BABIES AND CHILDREN

Should be fairly plump. They ought to put on fat as fast as they use it up; for fat is fuel, and the burning of it makes power and force. Thin children—even along to the age of eighteen or twenty—are in danger from consumption, and from other wasting complaints. The children who starve, and the young men and women who are consumed—why, the very idea of it is frightful. For such as they there is always what is called a "mighty famine" in the land. Food, though it may be, taken plentifully, does not nourish them. It makes no fat; it gives no strength. To prevent this, to cure this, to save the young ones at the mother's knees, and the bright boys and girls who are just looking at the world with hopeful and ambitious eyes, is the purpose of

FERROL TASTELESS

Its success is decided and settled. Thousands owe to it life and health. It is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. In building up pale, puny, emaciated children, particularly those troubled with Anaemia, Scrofula, Rickets, and bone and blood diseases, nothing equals it; its tonic qualities are of the highest order. Parents whose children are sick cannot resort to it a day too soon. A Medical Institution says: "We have used your preparation in treating children for Coughs, Colds and Inflammation; its application has never failed us in any case, even the most aggravated bordering on pneumonia. The children like it, they love the taste of it, and it builds up their bodies; many little children owe their lives to it." The more it is used the less will be the ravages of disease among the people from infancy to old age. Sold by all chemists everywhere.—Warne Drug Co.

NO ACCOMMODATION

Difficulty In Securing Room for a Number of Race Horses.

The promoters of the Peterborough ice races encountered somewhat of a snag yesterday owing to lack of stable accommodation for a number of outside horses that the owners are anxious to send here. Six of the horses which raced at Lindsay Thursady and Friday and which are due ofr the big Ottawa meet week after next, were to come here and the owners sent a representative here to arrange stable room. A canvass of the hotels yesterday revealed the fact that owing to the regular trade there is not sufficient stall accommodation for the storage of the horses next week and unless arrangements can be made with private individuals the fast ones may give Peterborough the go-by.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle.

ANXIOUS to secure his plunder, and conscious that the levies of France were far superior in number to his own force, the Prince redoubled his attempts to escape; but his horses were exhausted and his starving men were hardly to be kept in order. A few more days would unfit them for battle. Therefore, when he found near the village of Mauperpuis a position in which a small force might have a chance to hold its own, he gave up the attempt to outmarch his pursuers, and he turned at bay, like a hunted boar, all tusks and eyes of flame.

Whilst these high events had been in progress, Nigel with Black Simon and four other men-at-arms from Bordeaux, was hastening northward to join the army. As far as Bergerac they were in a friendly land, but thence onward they rode over a blackened landscape with many a roofless house, its two bare gable-ends sticking upward—a "Knolles miter" as it was afterward called when Sir Robert worked his stern will upon the country. For three days they rode northward, seeing many small parties of French in all directions, but too eager to reach the army to ease their march in the search of adventures.

Then at last after passing Lusignan they began to come in touch with English foragers, mounted bowmen for the most part, who were endeavoring to collect supplies either for the army or for themselves. From them Nigel learned that the Prince, with Chandos ever at his side, was hastening south and might be met within a short day's march. As he still advanced these English stragglers became more and more numerous, until at last he overtook a considerable column of archers moving in the same direction as his own party. These were men whose horses had failed them and who had therefore been left behind on the advance, but were now hastening to be in time for the impending battle. A crowd of peasant girls accompanied them upon their march, and a whole train of laden mules were led beside them.

Nigel and his little troop of men-at-arms were riding past the archers when Black Simon with a sudden exclamation touched his leader upon the arm.

"See yonder, fair sir," he cried with gleaming eyes, "there where the wastrel walks with the great fardel upon his back! Who is he who marches behind him?"

Nigel looked, and was aware of a stunted peasant who bore upon his rounded back an enormous bundle very much larger than himself. Behind him walked a burly broad-shouldered archer, whose stained jerkin and battered headpiece gave token of long and hard service. His bow was slung over his shoulder, and his arms were round the waists of two buxom Frenchwomen, who tripped along beside him with much laughter and many saucy answers flung back over their shoulders to a score of admirers behind them.

"Aylward!" cried Nigel, spurring forward.

The archer turned his bronzed face, stared for an instant with wild eyes, and then, dropping his two ladies, who were instantly carried off by his comrades, he rushed to seize the hand which his young master held down to him. "Now, by my hilt, Squire Nigel, this is the fairest sight of my lifetime!" he cried. "And you, old leather-face! Nay, Simon, I would put my arms round your dried herring of a body, if I could but reach you. Here is Pommers too, and I read in his eye that he knows me well and is as ready to put his teeth into me as when he stood in my father's stall."

It was like a whiff of the heather-perfumed breezes of Hankley to see his homely face once more. Nigel laughed with sheer joy as he looked at him.

"It was an ill day when the King's service called you from my side," said he, "and by Saint Paul! I am right glad to set eyes upon you once more! I see well that you are in no wise altered, but the same Aylward that I have ever known. But who is this varlet with the great bundle who waits upon your movements?"

"It is no less than a feather-bed, fair sir, which he bears upon his back, for I would fain bring it to Tilford, and yet it is overlarge for me when I take my place with my fellows in the ranks. But indeed this war has been a most excellent one, and I have already sent half a wagonload of my gear back to Bordeaux to await my homecoming. Yet I have my fears when I think of all the rascal footarchers who are waiting there, for some folk have no grace or honesty in their souls, and cannot keep their hands from that which belongs to another. But if I may throw my leg over yonder spare horse I will come on with you, fair sir, for indeed it would be joy to my heart to know that I was riding under your banner once again."

So Aylward, having given instructions to the bearer of his feather-bed, rode away in spite of shrill protests from his French companions, who speedily consoled themselves with those of his comrades who seemed to have most to give. Nigel's party was soon clear of the column of archers and riding hard in the direction of the Prince's army. They passed by a narrow and winding track, through the great wood of Nouaille, and found before them a marshy valley down which ran a sluggish stream. Along its farther bank hundreds of horses were being watered, and beyond was a dense block of wagons. Through these the comrades passed, and then topped a small mound from which the whole strange scene lay spread before them.

Down the valley the slow stream meandered with marshy meadows on either side. A mile or two lower a huge drove of horses were to be seen assembled upon the bank. They were the steeds of the French cavalry, and the blue haze of a hundred fires showed where King John's men were camping. In front of the mound upon which they stood the English line was drawn, but there were few fires, for indeed, save their horses, there was little for them to cook. Their right rested upon the river, and their array stretched across a mile of ground until the left was in touch with a tangled forest which guarded it from flank attack. In front was a long thick hedge and much broken ground, with a single deeply rutted country road cutting through it in the middle. Under the hedge and along the whole front of the position lay swarms of archers upon the grass, the greater number slumbering peacefully with sprawling limbs in the warm rays of the September sun. Behind were the quarters of the various knights, and from end to end flew the banners and pennons marked with the devices of the chivalry of England and Guienne.

With a glow in his heart Nigel saw those badges of famous captains and leaders and knew that now at last he also might show his coat-armor in such noble company. There was the flag of Jean Grailly, the Captal de Buch, five silver shells on a black cross, which marked the presence of the most famous soldier of Gascony, while beside it waved the red lion of the noble Knight of Hainault, Sir Eustace d'Ambreticourt. These two coats Nigel knew; as did every warrior in Europe, but a dense grove of pennoned lances surrounded them, bearing charges which were strange to him, from which he understood that these belonged to the Guienne division of the army. Farther down the line the famous English ensigns floated on the wind, the scarlet and gold of Warwick, the silver star of Oxford, the golden cross of Suffolk, the blue and gold of Willoughby, and the gold-fretted scarlet of Audley. In the very centre of them all was one which caused all others to pass from his mind, for close to the royal banner of England, crossed with the label of the Prince, there waved the war-worn flag with the red wedge upon the golden field which marked the quarters of the noble Chandos.

At the sight Nigel set spurs to his horse, and a few minutes later had reached the spot. Chandos, gaunt from hunger and want of sleep, but with the old fire lurking in his eye, was standing by the Prince's tent, gazing down at what could be seen of the French array, and heavy with thought. Nigel sprang from his horse and was within touch of his master when the silken hanging of the royal tent was torn violently aside and Edward rushed out.

He was without his armor and clad in a sober suit of black, but the high dignity of his bearing and the imperious anger which flushed his face proclaimed the leader and the Prince. At his heels was a little white-haired ecclesiastic in a flowing gown of scarlet sendal, expostulating and arguing in a torrent of words.

"Not another word, my Lord Cardinal," cried the angry prince. "I have listened to you overlong, and by God's dignity! that which you say is neither good nor fair in my ears. Hark you, John, I would have your counsel. What think you is the message which my Lord Cardinal of Perigord has carried from the King of France? He says that of his clemency he will let my army pass back to Bordeaux if we will restore to him all that we have taken, remit all ransoms, and surrender my own person with that of a hundred nobles of England and Guienne to be held as prisoners. What think you, John?"

Chandos smiled. "Things are not done in that fashion," said he.

"But my Lord Chandos," cried the Cardinal, "I have made it clear to the Prince that indeed it is a scandal to all Christendom and a cause of mocking to the heathen, that two great sons of the Church should turn their swords thus upon each other."

"Then bid the King of France keep clear of us," said the Prince.

"Fair son, you are aware that you are in the heart of his country and that it standeth not aright that he should suffer you to go forth as you come. You have but a small army, three thousand bowmen and five thousand men-at-arms at the most, who seem in evil case for want of food and rest. The King has thirty thousand men at his back, of which twenty thousand are expert men-at-arms. It is fitting therefore that you make such terms as you may, lest worse befall."

"Give my greetings to the King of France and tell him that England will never pay ransom for me. But it seems to me, my Lord Cardinal, that you have our numbers and condition very ready upon your tongue, and I would fain know how the eye of a Churchman can read a line of battle so easily. I have seen that these knights of your household have walked freely to and fro within our camp, and I much fear that when I welcomed you as envoys I have in truth given my protection to spies. How say you, my Lord Cardinal?"

"Fair Prince, I know not how you can find it in your heart or conscience to say such evil words."

"There is this red-bearded nephew of thine, Robert de Duras. See where he stands yonder, counting and prying. Hark hither, young sir! I have been saying to your uncle the Cardinal that it is in my mind that you and your comrades have carried news of our dispositions to the French King. How say you?"

The knight turned pale and sank his eyes. "My lord," he murmured, "it may be that I have answered some questions."

"And how will such answers accord with your honor, seeing that we have trusted you since you came in the train of the Cardinal?"

"My lord, it is true that I am in the train of the Cardinal, and yet I am liege man of King John and a knight of France, so I pray you to assuage your wrath against me."

The Prince ground his teeth and his piercing eyes blazed upon the youth. "By my father's soul! I can scarce forbear to strike you to the earth! But this I promise you, that if you show that sign of the Red Griffin in the field and if you be taken alive in to-morrow's battle, your head shall most assuredly be shorn from your shoulders."

"Fair son, indeed you speak wildly," cried the Cardinal. "I pledge you my word that neither my nephew Robert nor any of my train will take part in the battle. And now I leave you, sire, and may God assoil your soul, for indeed in all this world no men stand in greater peril than you and those who are around you, and I rede you that you spend the night in such ghostly exercises as may best prepare you for that which may befall." So saying the Cardinal bowed, and with his household walking behind him set off for the spot where they had left their horses, whence they rode to the neighboring Abbey.

The angry Prince turned upon his heel and entered his tent once more, whilst Chandos, glancing round, held out a warm welcoming hand to Nigel.

"I have heard much of your noble deeds," said he. "Already your name rises as a squire errant. I stood no higher, nor so high, at your age."

Nigel flushed with pride and pleasure. "Indeed, my dear lord, it is very little that I have done. But now that I am back at your side I hope that in truth I shall learn to bear myself in worthy fashion, for where else should I win honor if it be not under your banner."

"Truly, Nigel, you have come at a very good time for advancement. I cannot see how we can leave this spot without a great battle which will live in men's minds forever. In all our fights in France I cannot call to mind any in which they have been so strong or we so weak as now, so that there will be the more honor to be gained. But I doubt not that we shall give them much trouble ere they drive us out from amidst these hedges. Have you seen the French?"

"Nay, fair sir, I have but this moment arrived."

"I was about to ride forth myself to coast their army and observe their countenance, so come with me ere the night fall, and we shall see what we can of their order and dispositions."

There was a truce betwixt the two forces for the day, on account of the ill-advised and useless interposition of the Cardinal of Perigord. Hence when Chandos and Nigel had pushed their horses through the long lodes which fronted the position they found that many small parties of the knights of either army were riding up and down on the plain outside. The greater number of these groups were French, since it was very necessary for them to know as much as possible of the English defences; and many of their scouts had ridden up to within a hundred yards of the hedge, where they were sternly ordered back by the pickets of archers on guard.

Through these scattered knots of horsemen Chandos rode, and as many of them were old antagonists it was "Ha, John" on the one side, and "Ha, Raoul!" "Ha, Nicholas!" "Ha, Guichard!" upon the other, as they brushed past them. Only one cavalier greeted them amiss, a large, red-faced man, the Lord Clermont, who by some strange chance bore upon his surcoat a blue virgin standing amid golden sunbeams, which was the very device which Chandos had donned for the day. The fiery Frenchman dashed across their path and drew his steed back on to its haunches.

"How long is it, my Lord Chandos," said he hotly, "since you have taken it upon yourself to wear my arms?"

Chandos smiled. "It is surely you who have mine," said he, "since this surcoat was worked for me by the good nuns of Windsor a long year ago."

"If it were not for the truce," said Clermont, "I would soon show you that you have no right to wear it."

"Look for it then in the battle to-morrow, and I also will look for yours," Chandos answered. "There we can very honorably settle the matter."

But the Frenchman was choleric and hard to appease. "You English can invent nothing," said he, "and you take for your own whatever you see handsome belonging to others." So, grumbling and fuming, he rode upon his way, while Chandos, laughing gayly, spurred onward across the plain.

The immediate front of the English line was shrouded with scattered trees and bushes which hid the enemy; but when they had cleared these a fair view of the great French army lay before them. In the centre of the huge camp was a long and high pavilion of red silk, with the silver lilies of the King at one end of it, and the golden oriflamme, the battle-flag of old France, at the other. Like the reeds of a pool from side to side the broad array, and dwindling away as far as their eyes could see, were the banners and pennons of high barons and famous knights, but above them all flew the ducal standards which showed that the feudal muster of all the warlike province of France was in the field before them.

With a kindling eye Chandos looked across at the proud ensigns of Normandy, or Burgundy, of Auvergne, of Champagne, of Vermandois, and of Berry, flaunting and gleaming in the rays of the sinking sun. Riding slowly down the line he marked with attentive gaze the camp of the crossbowmen, the muster of the German mercenaries, the numbers of the foot-soldiers, the arms of every proud vassal or vavasor which might give some guide as to the power of each division. From wing to wing and round the flanks he went, keeping ever within crossbow-shot of the army, and then at last having noted all things in his mind he turned his horse's head and rode slowly back, heavy with thought, to the English lines.

CHAPTER XXV.

The morning of Sunday, the nineteenth of September, in the year of our Lord 1356, was cold and fine. A haze which rose from the marshy valley of Muisson covered both camps and set the starving Englishmen shivering, but it cleared slowly away as the sun rose. In the red silken pavilion of the French King—the same which had been viewed by Nigel and Chandos the evening before—a solemn mass was held by the Bishop of Chalons, who prayed for those who were about to die, with little thought in his mind that his own last hour was so near at hand. Then, when communion had been taken by the King and his four young sons the altar was cleared away, and a great red-covered table placed lengthwise down the tent, round which John might assemble his council and determine how best he should proceed. With the silken roof, rich tapestries of Arras round the walls and Eastern rugs beneath the feet, his palace could furnish no fairer chamber.

Recommended As An Ideal Remedy

W. S. BOND, Esq.

Lloydtown, Ont., March 19th, 1909.

"For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, brought on by stomach disorders, constipation and biliousness. I had tried many remedies with only indifferent success, until "Fruit-a-tives" came to my notice. Being a general storekeeper, I was selling a good many "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers and, remarking how pleased they were with the results obtained from using "Fruit-a-tives," I decided to try them and, I might say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and to-day I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers as 'An ideal remedy.'

"I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or lift one foot over the other. A good treatment of "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of these pains and banished the Sciatica and Lumbago so that to-day I am as well as ever and can lift anything necessary."

Is Your Flour, Madam, Milled by Water-Power

When we called last August at the Keewatin mills, we reminded the Local Manager of that moth-eaten story—

About the mill owner who boasted that though his mill was the dirtiest in five counties his flour was clean.

The Manager laughed heartily, but shook his head most decidedly.

"My only regret," he said, "is that we're in such an out of the way place here. If we could only get more visitors, it would be the best advertisement FIVE ROSES could have."

"You don't hear so much about water-power mills these days", he continued as we watched the men putting in new stop logs, "maybe because they are so few. It certainly gives us a big advantage."

"In fuel economy?" we asked offhand.

"In cleanliness above all" he quickly added. You see how light, and airy, and free from dirt this plant is. The absence of a smoky chimney and steam power plant helps a lot."

* * * *

The first impression one has of the FIVE ROSES premises is of immense size and spotless brightness and cleanliness.

The ventilation system is really wonderful. The sunlight penetrates everywhere both on account of the large number of double-sized windows and the peculiar construction of the plant.

Sunlight, you know, is the fatal foe of germs and bacilli.

When our guide regretfully declined a good Havana cigar which we had saved all the way from Winnipeg, we almost fainted.

It was only then we saw the placards on the walls—"Positively no smoking in the building."

* * * *

Then the millers all uniformed in white, the spotless machinery with the metal parts polished like piano keys, the floors glistening like a ball-room.

We do honestly believe the FIVE ROSES mills are the most sanitary and hygienic in all America—and we have seen a few.

When you have been through the mills, Madam, you cannot but say to yourself—"FIVE ROSES flour must be pure, and nutritious, and wholesome."

And you are right.

ODD ELECTION SIGNS.

The Signs Are Jo., Washington, the Elections Elsewhere.

"Of course we don't have any elections of our own," said a man from Washington, "but we have election intimations, if I may call them that, which can't be duplicated anywhere else in the country.

"You see, when we Washingtonians want to vote we've got to do it somewhere else, and as most of us have a lingering fondness for the franchise we are pretty likely to hang on to a residence somewhere outside the District.

"We especially like to do it because it makes us feel as if we had some sort of weapon to flourish before the observing eyes of the politicians who may have something to say about our holding on our jobs, and when the time comes to go home to vote we visibly swell with importance.

"Naturally a national election is the one that catches us all at once, and it is then that the intimations I spoke of do most abound. The papers are full of advertisements of loans for election expenses. Department clerks can be accommodated with sums covering their railway fare, new clothes for the trip and a substantial margin over and above necessary items. The interest is a bit high, but a clerk who is pining to go back home to splurge a bit is willing to mortgage his resources for the pleasure.

"These offers of loans fill columns of the daily papers. Alongside of them are other advertisements, all turning on the one theme, the election. 'Buy yourself a new suit to go home and vote in!' The grammar is a bit off, but the prices are asserted to be all right.

"In the shop windows there are dozens of election placards: 'Just the hat to wear when you go home to vote.' 'Specials in suit cases for the election.' 'Take a souvenir hatpin to your best girl when you go home to vote.' 'Swell suit for the election, only $1 a week.' and in a shoe store window, 'Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching—home to vote; wear —'s shoes and you won't get sore feet!'

"The railways offer special rates to voters, and so it goes. You won't find anything like it in any other town."—New York Sun.

EASILY MANAGED.

The Clever Scheme Evolved by the Clock Winder.

The contract for keeping the church and town hall clocks in order was given to a new man. Unfortunately from the start he experienced a difficulty in getting the clocks to strike at the same time. At last the district council requested an interview with the watchmaker.

"You are not so successful with the clocks as your predecessor," he was told. "It is very misleading to have one clock striking three or four minutes after the other. Before you took them in hand we could hardly tell the two were striking. Surely you are as competent?"

"Every workman has his own methods, gentlemen," replied the watchmaker, "and mine ain't the same as H.'s were."

"I'm decidedly of the opinion that it would be for the general good if they were," remarked one of the councilors.

"Very well, sir, in future they shall be," came the reply. "I happened to write to him last week about the trouble I had with the clocks, and—but perhaps," he added as he produced a letter and handed it to the chairman, "you'd like to see what he said."

"Dear sir," ran the letter—"about them clocks. When you get to know what a cantankerous lot of busybodies the council consists of you'll do the same as I did for fifteen years—forget to wind up the striker of the town hall clock, and the blooming jackanaps won't be able to tell that both clocks ain't striking together!"—London Tit-Bits.

Curious Laws in India.

Some of the old laws of Nepal, India, were curious. Killing cows ranked with murder as a capital offense, for instance. Every girl at birth was married with great ceremony to a betel fruit, which was then cast into a sacred stream. As the fate of the fruit was uncertain, the girl was supposed never to become a widow. To obtain divorce from a husband a wife had only to place a betel nut under his pillow and depart. In Nepal the day is considered to begin when it is light enough to count the tiles on the roof or distinguish the hairs on a man's hand against the sky.

Highwayman Fired Two Shots.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 10.—Charles Perry, driver of a laundry wagon, was Saturday night accosted by an armed highwayman on Third avenue, Grandview, an east end suburb. Perry was walking toward the wagon when the hold-up man appeared. Disregarding the command to give up his money, Perry leaped into his wagon, whipped his horses and escaped. The highwayman fired two shots after him.

Charles Rumming, aged 70, was killed in a runaway at Nanaimo.

Report of the Proceedings of the Annual Meeting of Shareholders

The forty-third annual meeting of the Shareholders of The Canadian Bank of Commerce was held in the banking house to-day at 12 o'clock.

The President, Mr. B. E. Walker, having taken the chair, Mr. A. St. L. Trigge was appointed to act as Secretary, and Messrs. Edward Cronyn and A. J. Glassebrook were appointed scrutineers.

The President called upon the Secretary to read the Annual Report of the Directors, as follows:—

The assets of the Bank have all been carefully re-valued in accordance with our customary practice, and all bad and doubtful debts have been amply provided for.

Your Directors deeply regret that they have to record the loss by death during the past year of two of their number, Mr. H. D. Warren, who died in March, and Mr. Matthew Leggat, who died only a few days ago. To fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Warren's death, your Directors have elected the Hon. J. M. Gibson, K. C., LL.D., Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

For the purpose of making some provision for the widows and orphans or other dependents of officers of the Bank, your Directors propose to submit for your consideration a resolution authorising the establishment of the necessary fund.

During the year the following branches have been opened: In Ontario—Elk Lake, Gowganda, College and Dovercourt (Toronto), Gerrard and Pape (Toronto); in Manitoba—Virden; in Saskatchewan—Broderick, Elfros, Hawarden, Herbert, Milestone, Shellbrook, Wilcox and Yorkton; in Alberta—East Calgary, South Calgary, Carmangay, Olds, Provost, Strathmore and Warner; and in British Columbia—Nakusp. The branches at De Lorimer, Que., and Van Ness and Eddy (San Francisco) have been closed. A branch has been opened at Milk River, Alta., since the close of the Bank's year.

The usual thorough inspection of the branches and agencies of the Bank in Canada, the United States and Great Britain, and of the various departments of the Head Office has been made during the year.

Your Directors desire again to record their appreciation of the efficiency and zeal with which the officers of the Bank continue to perform their respective duties.

B. E. WALKER,
President.

Toronto, 11th January, 1910.

ALEXANDER LAIRD,
General Manager.

In moving the adoption of the Report, the President requested the General Manager to address the shareholders:

General Manager's Address.

As has been foreshadowed by the easy position of the money market during the greater part of the year under review—the outcome of a general disposition to continue the liquidation of old obligations and of a lack of desire to engage in new undertakings, which resulted in a large accumulation of funds at important centres—the profits of the Bank show a decrease of $116,636.92, as compared with the figures of the previous year. They are, however, somewhat in excess of 15 per cent. on the paid-up capital, and we believe that you will not consider this an unsatisfactory showing. Had it not been for the quickening in general trade which occurred during the last three months of the year, and which was no doubt accelerated by the bountiful harvest reaped in the Western Provinces the decrease would inevitably have been much larger. The surplus of funds not needed for the ordinary commercial requirements of the country, and the large amounts which came to us through the sale of securities abroad, were temporarily loaned in New York; and as rates ruled low for a long period, the resulting profit was not entirely satisfactory; but the results of the policy we have pursued in regard to holding a considerable amount in reserve on quick call even at low rates, have again justified the wisdom of such a course.

The year has been one of gradual recovery in trade, accompanied by a general appreciation of values, and we have been fortunate in this respect in recovering from assets in connection with which appropriations had previously been made the sum of $250,000. This sum added to the ordinary earnings of the year has enabled us, after meeting the usual dividend and providing for the annual contribution to the Pension Fund, to write $419,801.72 off Bank Premises Account, and to carry forward $722,-139.02 in Profit and Loss Account.

This autumn we have for the first time made use of the provisions of the Bank Act amendment of 1908, which empowers the banks during the grain-moving season to issue circulating notes in excess of their paid-up capital to the extent of 15 per cent. of the total of paid-up capital and surplus combined. At the close of our year the Bank's circulation stood at $10,827,415, an increase of more than $686,000 over the figures of the previous balance sheet. The highest amount of the excess circulation of this Bank during the past two months has been $994,000. The wisdom of this provision for additional circulation has been signally demonstrated by the ease with which the necessary circulating medium has been provided for the movement of last year's abundant harvest, and we had no hesitation in exercising our right to take advantage of this provision, although it entailed a loss which might have been avoided by withholding our own circulation and paying out sundry notes of other banks. It is clear that unless arrangements are shortly made for additional circulation by increase of capital, a situation may arise in which a struggle to reduce the amount outstanding at the end of January to within the limit of paid-up capital will become inevitable, and if this becomes at all general, it is not likely to be accomplished without considerable disturbance to business.

The increase in deposits during the year amounted to $25,449,183, the largest annual increase in the history of the Bank, and an amount exceeding the total of its deposits only eleven years ago. An important part of this sum, however, consists of deposits known to be temporary, this class of deposits having probably reached a higher level than ever before. Concurrently with this large increase of deposits our loans have increased $21,600,089, and we have nearly $10,-000,000 in excess of the figures of last year employed at call or short notice. We also hold $6,366,571 more cash than a year ago, but this increase is only in proportion to the addition to our liabilities.

At the annual meeting of shareholders in January, 1907, we explained at some length the policy which was being pursued by your directors in the matter of investments in bank premises, and we then reported that a subsidiary company had been formed under the name of the Dominion Realty Company, Limited, to construct and own our smaller buildings, the funds required by this Company over and above the amounts received from the sale of its bond issues being supplied by the Bank's subscriptions to its capital stock, such subscriptions in every year being less than the total amount written off Bank Premises Account. As we have been called upon since the date mentioned to make large expenditures upon the Bank's new buildings at Montreal and Vancouver, besides considerably increasing our investment in the Realty Company on account of smaller holdings, a revised statement of our total investment in connection with bank premises as at 30th November last will be of interest to the shareholders:

The lands and buildings owned by the Bank, (carefully appraised and full allowances made for depreciation of buildings) are valued at	$3,178,000
The Bank's holding in the Dominion Realty Company, although the cost thereof has been entirely written off the Bank's books, represents a cash investment of	1,091,000
(The rentals of the buildings built by the Realty Company will in 15 years discharge the respective bonds).
Safes and fixtures (depreciation liberally allowed for) are valued at	560,000
Total	$4,834,000

From this statement it will be noted that our investments on Bank Premises Account are now shown in the balance sheet at only 41 per cent. of their value, namely, at $2,000,000. We shall shortly have to undertake another large expenditure in connection with the erection of a larger building at Winnipeg, and the increase of branches incidental to the growth of the country will for some years necessitate our making considerable outlays of a similar kind on premises. With the completion of our Winnipeg office, however, our large individual expenditures will be almost at an end, and thereafter your Directors propose that the Bank's investments in Premises Account shall be carried at a figure not exceeding 50 per cent. of their value.

In view of the remarkable prosperity with which this Bank has been favored during the past few years, we must reckon with the question as to what our duty is to those who have entrusted us with the investment of a large capital. During what may be called the formative period of the Bank we have asked the shareholders to accept a reasonable dividend while we endeavored to lay the foundations of a safe and permanent business. In the management of our Bank we have had a two-fold purpose: first, the permanence and continuity of a service to the country which must bear some relation to our duty, and second, the successful administration of your property, looking to its earning power now and in the future. With these purposes in view we have had the courage to adopt the policy of erecting a large number of branch buildings, for the time being taxing your profits. It cannot in justice be said that what we have done has exceeded our requirements, or that we could safely have delayed this important work. Our reports indicate what we have accomplished, and we believe that candid consideration will bring a conviction that we pursued the proper course. While there may be some who think we should have been satisfied with a more moderate expenditure, to have done less would have shown us recreant to our trust. The results are seen in our splendid equipment of buildings from ocean to ocean, certainly creditable to our institution.

Nevertheless, we should not forget that you have been exceptionally patient with us in the working out of our plans, and we think the time has now come when the increment from your investment should be larger. It is our purpose to recommend during the coming year an increase of dividend to nine per cent. per annum, with the earnest expectation that our prosperity will before long justify a further increase.

We are not ignorant of the fact that our success would not be possible but for the active, intelligent and loyal support of our staff, and we have always had the heartiest co-operation of your Directors in every proposal for the well-being of the service. We cannot hope to perpetuate our business without giving the greatest consideration to those who carry the heavy burdens of management, and while there is a grateful acknowledgment of past recognition, a desire has been expressed for the establishment of a Widows' and Orphans' Fund in connection with the regular Pension Scheme, which will do much to cement the pleasant relations so long a distinguishing feature in our Bank.

There are, no doubt, many difficult problems to face in the immediate future, but we have every reason to look forward with the greatest confidence. At the moment all evidences point to a continuation of prosperity, so far as this country is concerned, and we believe the political unrest and financial uncertainty in other lands will be so adjusted that, while we cannot avoid feeling their influence in our affairs, we are not likely to experience any permanent disadvantage.

The President then spoke in part as follows:—

President's Address.
